Yesterday morning the engines at the new Parliament Buildings were set going again, creaking cranes lifted huge stone blocks into position and the sounds of industry echoed over the vast extent of the foundations. In the contractors' offices at the east end of the foundation Mr. Robert Carroll, one of the late Lionel Yorke's sureties, was found. He said that a new firm had taken over the contract, the firm of Carroll, Gaylord & Vick. Mr. J. Gaylord is the Government inspector at the Parliament Buildings. He has had experience in that class of work, having been inspector of public works on public buildings in England. He will now be superintendent of construction. Mr. J. B. Vick was the late Mr. Yorke's foreman at the Esplanade stoneyard. Mr. Vick is superintendent of the stone cutting department. Mr. Carroll will provide supplies and do the financing. The contract will be completed at the figure it was originally taken at. The whole difficulty in the settlement of the contract was between the new firm and the Yorke estate. The matter is now, however, definitely settled and as Mr. Carroll has given $35,000 extra security the Government has no fear that the contract will not be carried through. Mr. Carroll says that every effort will be made to have the west wing and the centre of the building ready for the wall plates by the end of the year.

Manager Hill of the Industrial Exhibition Association figured in the new role for him of a peanut auctioneer yesterday afternoon. Up to last year the privilege of selling peanuts on the Exhibition Grounds during the fair had been given to one man, John Abate, for $65. The other Italians in the business began to kick, and this year it was determined to sell the privilege by auction. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon many Italians assembled in the rooms of the association in Church-street ready to try for the coveted monopoly. Manager Hill did the auction business, starting with $50. This speedily ran up to $225, at which figure it was knocked down to John Abate.

The Ontario Grand Lodge of True Blues commenced its annual session yesterday at Shaftesbury Hall. Grand Master Bunting, Lindsay, presided. Deputy Grand Master Diamond, Belleville, was in the vice chair and Rev. E. B. Sibbald in the Grand Chaplain's chair. There were 113 delegates present. The reports of the Grand Master, Grand Secretary and Grand Treasurer were presented and referred to committees. Grand Master Bunting's address expressed satisfaction at the presence for the first time of representatives of lady True Blues and 16 new warrants were issued during the past year. The necessity for a revision of the constitution was referred to and the traitorous conduct of the two members who gave away the secret work of the order. The agitation for unrestricted reciprocity, commercial union or annexation was condemned, as was also the passing of the Jesuits' Estates Bill with those members of the Dominion Parliament, particularly of the Orange order, who voted against disallowance. Mr. W. R. Meredith was complimented on his stand against French in the public schools. The present Grand Lodge officers were also commended for the manner in which they had fulfilled their duties. In the report of Grand Secretary Worrel the progress of the order was ascribed to the efficiency of the various grand and district officers and to the aid given by The Orange Sentinel. The report of Grand Treasurer B. A. Newman contained the statement of the financial position of the order, showing it to be good. The Grand Treasurer also discussed the Jesuit question at considerable length.

HALIFAX, May 15.—A 2-months-old infant was found on the road in the suburbs of the city early yesterday morning, having been abandoned by its parents. It was wrapped in a soldier's blanket. It appeared quite comfortable.

Lockeport was visited by a terrific thunder and lightning storm yesterday morning. Two houses were struck by lightning—Captain Colin McKay's and Dean Lloyd's. The former was considerably damaged, the electric fluid passing down the chimney, shattering it and then going out the end of the house, tearing off boards, shingles, etc. Lloyd's house was almost wrecked, windows were broken, floors torn up, roof lifted and partly stripped of boards. The shingles were broken into matchwood and scattered over the fields. Mrs. Lloyd was in bed when the chimney fell into the room, covering the floor and bed with bricks but not injuring her in the least.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY. MAY 15, 1889.

WHAT THE AGITATOR SAID.

MR. WIMAN complains that the associated press report of his evidence before the Senate Committee on railways misrepresented what he said. If there was no other public record of his utterances before the committee, we would probably have to accept his corrections, even though feeling a doubt as to their correctness. But the New York papers had reporters at the sessions of the committee, and it is a singular thing that their reports all agree with the report sent out by the associated press and published in the Canadian papers. The New York Herald reports him as saying:—

"Within five years Canada would have commercial union with the United States, and that would precede and must precede political union."

Mr. Wiman was even more explict than that, as the same journal again reports:—

"Commercial union, according to Mr. Wiman, was the only right road to annexation."

It will be remembered that in his speech at Ottawa Mr. Wiman intimated his belief that a secret vote would show a majority in Canada in favor of annexation. He was met with shouts of dissent, but he evidently still believes that his annexation propaganda in this country has had effect. The World's report of his evidence contains the following:—

"Although there is a strong and secret growth in favor of annexation, he said, it will take at least five Parliaments of five years each to vote Canada into the United States. Coercion will never bring it; commercial union might hasten it very much."

The report of the Sun substantially agrees with that of the other Democratic papers. It reports Mr. Wiman as saying:—

"Retaliation won't help it (annexation) any, but if the line of custom houses could be lifted from across the country and put around it, change would be hastened."

Again the Sun represents him as saying:

"If it (Canada) did not become a part of the States, it would be a republic in less than twenty-five years. It inevitably would separate from England."

The Republican paper, the Tribune, says of his evidence:—

"He gave a glowing account of the future of Canada, which would not long remain subject to England."

The independent Times thus reports a portion of what he said:—

"Commercial union would remove all obstacles now in sight. He thought it would take five Parliaments, each with a life of five years, before Canada would be brought to the point of annexation. By the extinction of border custom houses Canada would become immensely populous, its people become tinctured with American ideas, and if it remained independent it would, ultimately, be as a republic."

In the face of these reports Mr. Wiman asks too much when he would have us believe that be said the opposite of what all the papers of all shades of political opinion report him as saying. And this is the man from whom the Liberal party obtained its policy of commercial union or continental free trade. He is the one who was chiefly instrumental in stirring up the agitation in favor of forming a commercial combination with the United States. In his earlier speeches he disclaimed any desire for annexation, but even in Canada he has since endeavored to persuade his audience that they should foreswear their allegience, give up their nationality and adopt the starred and streaked flag of the republic—notably in his speech last year at Huntsville.

So far as the opinions expressed by Mr. Wiman are concerned, we believe there is a large element of truth in his view that commercial union would lead to annexation. Such a union would certainly prove unsatisfactory and become galling, and to escape it a quarrel with the United States, or a political union with that country, would follow. The agitators now tell us we should adopt commercial union in order to settle the fisheries dispute and other questions. They would then tell us to adopt political union to avoid the troubles that would arise under commercial union. But the eyes of Canadians are open, and they see nothing enticing in either union.

MR. T. D. CRAIG, M.P.P. for East Durham, impelled by considerations of health and business, has decided leave Port Hope and to remove to California. He will therefore resign his seat in the Legislature. Mr. Craig has been a useful legislator, and his resignation will be a loss to the Conservative party and the Province, while his removal will be a loss to Port Hope.

THE Mowat Government does not seem to be so sure now that the English language is the standard in all the public schools of the Province and has appointed a commission to enquire into the condition of the schools in Prescott, Russell and Essex counties. It is said that the scope of the commission will be to find out the progress made in the teaching of the English language in these districts, the qualifications of the teachers, and to suggest any scheme by which the standard of the schools can be raised to a higher grade of efficiency if it be found that such a scheme is necessary. One member of the commission is to be an officer of the department.

PITTSBURG'S CRUSOE.

A CASTAWAY WHO SPENT FOUR YEARS WITH A RACE OF GIANTS.

Dan McIntyre Is the Only Survivor of a Vessel Wrecked on a Coral Reef—He Spends Four and a Half Years on an Island and Is Royally Treated.

Mr. Dan F. A. McIntyre has had some remarkable experiences on the seas. He has spent a good part of his days whaling in the Arctic ocean and hunting the sperm whale in the South Pacific seas. Mr. McIntyre's ship was once wrecked on a coral reef, and he was the only man of the crew who was saved. His companions were washed up on the rocky beach of the Marquesas Islands and killed. Mr. McIntyre still bears an ugly scar over his right eye that he received during the storm, and, when he came to his senses, he found himself lying on the rocky shore with a group of natives bending over him. Here he remained for four and a half years, the only white man on the island, when he was picked up by a French man-of-war. Relating his experience, he said:

"The Marquesas group on which I found myself consists of sixteen islands, twelve of which are inhabited. The greatest distance between any of them is about forty miles. The natives, away back in those times, passed from one island to the other in big canoes and small sail boats. During certain seasons of the year the Pacific was stormy; but the natives were well acquainted with the weather, and knew when to venture. The islands are located in latitude 9 degs. south of the equator.

"The people belong to the Malay class, having dark, straight hair and swarthy complexions. Like the Fiji Islanders, they are very tall and muscular, plenty of them measuring seven feet in height. I never, before or since, saw such powerful fellows. They are rather bright men, and live, like the Samoans, on the fruits of the islands, that grow in abundance without much cultivation. Wild hogs and sea fowls were the only game to be hunted; in fact, there were no other animals on the islands. The natives spent most of their time in taking life easy, occasionally hunting and fishing.

THE KING'S PET.

"My life for four and one-half years among these people was pleasant, taking it altogether. The first six months I could scarcely endure it. If I had been imprisoned in a cell I could not have led a more miserable existence. Day after day I climbed the highest mountains, and sat for hours scanning the horizon, looking for a sail; but none appeared. The people were friendly, and tried to console me in their uncouth way. I appreciated their kindness, and, after a while, learned enough of their language to be able to converse with them.

"Life then became less unbearable, and I prepared myself to wait for a vessel to come along. The king of the island made me a namesake of his, and I lived with him for the first year. When I found I would have to stay for some time, I built a house, and, to amuse myself, I was in the habit of going into the forest and pulling up young orange and lemon trees to plant about my home.

"The king tattooed his name on my leg, which made me a privileged character, and equal to one of his relatives. If I broke any of their laws I was not punished, and the king would not allow any of his people to insult me or treat me rudely. In this respect I must say that I was greatly admired by all the natives. They have a vast deal of respect for a white man, and many of them envied my white skin.

"The natives on the different islands were hostile to each other, and most of the time were at war. The king would never allow me to mix up in any of their fights. He held me in too sacred a light. Once I was captured by a neighboring tribe. They knew by the tattoo on my leg that I belonged to their enemy, and they decided to tattoo me all over. They started on my lower limbs; but the pain was so great that I could scarcely stand it. It seems some French missionaries had visited the island forty years before, and failing to Christianize the natives they left. One of the old men had learned from them to talk a little French, and in that language I begged him to go to my king and inform him of my plight. This he did, when my master made peace with his enemies and I was released. If they had disfigured my face I don't believe I should ever have come back to America.

"When the French ship came along I boarded it, and went with them to the Island Obatite, where a number of Europeans live. There I remained for two years before I returned to San Francisco. The French man-of-war was making soundings and surveys for the purpose of locating a naval station. Since then I have learned that they established a coaling station on the island where I spent four and a half years of my life."

THE BAMBOO PIPE LINE.

Mr. McIntyre's story of how he astonished the natives with an engineering feat on the Marquesas Island, where he was so long a castaway, is very good. They had, from time immemorial, been in the habit of carrying all their drinking water from springs away on an eminence in the back ground of the principal settlement. In that tropical clime this was quite a task, yet they could conceive of no way to improve upon it.

First convincing the king that he had a much better plan, McIntyre was granted the necessary assistance, and succeeded in constructing a sort of bamboo pipe line from the springs to the settlement, so that the natives thereafter got their drinking water without any labor whatever. It was a great scientific triumph to their notion.

When Mr. McIntyre came back to Pittsburg he found it so greatly changed that the old familiar city was new to him. Finally, however, by diligent inquiry, he located his brother, a liquor dealer, in the eastern part of the city. One day he went out, ordered a glass of beer at his brother's bar, and, without making himself known, engaged in conversation with the gentleman.

"You had a brother Dan?" said he.

"Yes," was the reply; "but he was drowned in the Pacific Ocean—went down with his ship—a good many years ago."

"But," was the rejoinder of the returned Dan, "I met a fellow, not so very long ago, either, who claimed he had recently seen your brother Dan, and that Dan had a great story of how he had lived, a castaway for years, with savages on an island."

"Impossible! He's dead—poor Dan!"

"But do you think you'd know Dan if you saw him?"

"Yes, indeed! Add twenty years more to each of our lives and I'm sure I'd still be able to recognize my brother Dan, if I could only see him alive again, in any part of the world or under any circumstances."

"But years have already passed, and Dan has changed a good deal since you saw him."

"He might have changed—if he'd lived—but I'd know him anyhow; sure as you're born."

"Well, then, John, I am Dan McIntyre, your brother, and I'm not drowned. Here I am; look at me closely and you'll see!"

Recognition really followed very soon; and the liquor dealer became a counter jumper and embraced the brother, seemingly returned from an oceanic grave to life.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Then and Now

Said a philosophical man the other day, "fifteen years ago I started housekeeping; income $400. I seemed comfortable enough and the wife and I got along and lived well. Now I use up an income of $1,200 per year, and hang it, beyond the fact that I've a coal stove its seems to me I'm no better equipped than when I started in." This citizen overlooks one important fact that while the furniture he commenced married life with is probably worn out years ago that he has replaced it with new at Belleghem's at so low a cut that he has not missed the money. The furniture that is sold to day at Belleghem's is so much superior to that sold years ago and there's so much to get for the money that its not surprising that setting up housekeeping is becoming the rule. One would think that it was an understood thing between Belleghem and the clergy to boom weddings with the idea of ultimate profit. Such is not the case but good value draws customers every time to Belleghem's.

Harper's Ireland Illustrated.

On Tuesday evening Mr. Roberts Harper gave his illustrated lecture on Ireland to a fair sized audience in the Opera House. The views are from photographs and represented with fidelity and clearness the points of the different localities. Accompanying the illustrations the lecturer gave brief comment, pointing at the historical associations. Starting at Queenstown, in the south, the imaginary tour proceeded around the coast and across country. The old and new alike received attention, while the pictures of ruined castles, abbeys and monuments were objects of much interest. Portraits of C. S. Parnell, W. E. Gladstone, Wm. O'Brien, and of the chief characters of the Parnell-Times trial were looked at with interest. For the benefit of the little folk a number of comic views were shown which elicited roars of laughter. The progress of the entertainment was delayed by an unfortunate scene, the local collector of Customs proceeding to seize the instrument for an alleged evasion of the duty. After some altercation the matter was arranged by Mr. Harper paying, under protest, the amount claimed.

THE LADY ORATOR.

Mrs. Col. Dowdie Speaks of the "Four Little Things."

For the past two weeks Col. and Mrs. Dowdie have been holding special meetings in connection with the Salvation Army. They are both speakers, but Mrs. Dowdie especially is very fluent and interesting, and can hold the attention of her audience every time. Last night after the usual open air meeting on the market square Mrs. Dowdie was to deliver an address in the temple on "The Four Little Things of the Bible." The crowd which followed the hallelujah drum and the singing throng of Salvationists to the temple on Simcoe-st. was not large, but the size of the audience, it is a noted fact, seldom or never dampens the enthusiasm or lessens the noise in an Army meeting. The singing was accompanied by a band of musicians comprising a big drummist, two violinists and a violincellolist, and although harmony did not always attend their efforts to make music, still the singing was earnest and enthusiastic and therefore the purpose sought was accomplished.

THE ADDRESS.

After the opening songs and prayers, and Capt. Hinde had made the announcements, Mrs. Col. Dowdie rose and addressed the audience on "The Four Little Things of the Bible." She based her remarks on four verses of Proverbs:—

"There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceedingly wise. The ants are a people not strong, yet they prepare their meat in summer. The conies are but a feeble folk, yet make they their houses in the rocks. The locusts have no king, yet go they forth all of them by bands. The spider taketh hold with her hands and is in King's palaces."—Proverbs xxx; 24-28.

Mrs. Dowdie said in these verses they had four of the little things in creation which each taught them great lessons. It seemed to her the first lesson taught was to the unconverted and the second to the Christians. The first little thing she spoke of was the ant, and after referring to its industry and wisdom in gathering up in the summer against the rainy day of winter, she pointed out that the lesson taught the unconverted that, like the ants, they should be wise and take advantage of their opportunities and close with God's offers of salvation. It behoved them to be ready should the death angel come suddenly, and to see that they had laid up in Heaven that which would last in the eternal life. There was also a great lesson to the Christians, and that was to work for God, while they had the opportunity. The Colonel's wife said there was something for them each and every one to do, and although she could not point them to their special work, still there was a work, and while they had the opportunity and talents they should step in and God would show the something they could do for Him. The second little thing which she spoke of was the conie. She explained the appearance of a conie which she said was not a rabbit as many supposed but more like a rat. Its characteristic was its timidity and she said it was said to be one of the four wise thing because it took advantage of the means of escape God had provided for it and when danger approached ran and hid itself in the clift of the rocks. From this they were taught the lesson that if they felt that the eagle of the darker regions was swooping down on them or if they had never sought the Saviour's love they should fly to the clift of the rock Christ Jesus. Hiding in creeds, forms, ceremonies or churches would never avail, but they should cling to the Rock and as long as they did this the devil would be powerless to move them. The third little wise thing was the locust. The characteristic of the locusts was that they always went in bands. Singly they were of no significance, but when they went in bands or clouds they were terrible and destroyed everything where they settled. The lesson taught by the locust, she told them, was unity. This was what was wanted to-day in the world, for, she said, nothing was ever accomplished without unity. It was the lack of this that defeated the Scott Act and it was the lack of it that caused them to fail in any good work. The last of the four little things was the spider, which she said was perhaps the most humble, and hated and displsed of all creatures, but in spite of all the housemaids and new brooms it lived. She had often thought the spider would make a good emblem for the Army, for when they got in a place it was hard to get them out and where they had been most persecuted there they had the best and truest soldiers in the world. She closed by pointing from lessons taught them by the spider—patience, perseverence, faith, and that they should lay hold with their hands.

Col. and Mrs. Dowdie farewell on Thursday night when a hallelujah gathering of all the officers of the district will take place.

Theatre Men in Council.

The opera house managers of Ontario met yesterday afternoon in the Grand Opera House, Toronto. The leading opera houses throughout Ontario were represented, Mr. T. E. Bradburn being present from Peterborough. The Empire says:—"They all came to the conclusion that better arrangements had to be made for securing attractions for the coming season, and it was decided that O. B. Sheppard have charge of the booking of the companies of each opera house, and Mr. N. A. Morkill was appointed to represent Mr. Sheppard in New York for this purpose. It is considered that by these arrangements only first-class shows will be presented, and the theatre-going public may look for nothing but first-class entertainments during next season." As a result of this Peterborough will now have all the leading attractions booked here next season.

Personal.

Mr. Z. Gallagher, student at law with Messrs. Hall & Hayes, leaves for Toronto this week and will enter the office of Fullerton, Cook & Wallace, Barristers, etc.

Mr. Anthony Murty, who has for some time past been in Utica, N. Y., returned home yesterday. Mr. Murty may decide to remain here permanently.

To-days Empire says:—Mr. Fred. W. Craig, formerly of Peterborough, arrived in Toronto yesterday after an absence of eight years in California. Mr. Craig is secretary to the president of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company. He is a brother of Mr. A. B. Craig, the well-known chief clerk at the Rossin." He is also a brother of Mr. John Craig, of the firm of Craig & Mooney.

The Berlin News says:—"While in Peterborough the other day we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Brodie, the new proprietor of the Hespeler woolen and cotton factory. He is apparently a man with any amount of 'git' about him and will no doubt prove a large acquisition to the Waterloo County manufacturing force. He has purchased and refitted with all the latest improvements the old Hespeler homestead. He moved his family this week. We trust his stay in Hespeler will be long and prosperous."

Preparing for the Meet.

Take the average canoeist and he can go out on rivers and lakes of the back country and enjoy the vicissitudes of the life as they come. It's what he expects. When he deliberately goes off for a two weeks stay at the A. C. A. Meet that's an entirely different state of affairs. He likes a certain amount of comfort and generally is thoughtful enough to provide in advance. That is precisely what the officers and executive committee of the General Meet are now doing and on Friday of this week a jovial party will run down by rail to Gananoque and from that point make their way across to Sugar Island, the site of the camps. Among those who will go are Commodore H. C. Rogers, Secretary G. W. Hatton and Mr. E. B. Edwards from town and Messrs Macgadar, Button, Hopkins and Edwards of Lindsay. The Meet will be the most important one of the year, as the Eastern and Northern divisions of the A. C. A. will, combined, furnish a large quota, while from the other divisions many will attend. Among the details to be decided by the committee is the selection of a site for the ladies camps, jocularly referred to as "Squaw Point." The position of the "Headquarters" is also to be located and the official flag staff planted whereon the pennon of the A. C. A. will be hitched. As some means of reaching the island other than by canoe is desirable arrangements will be made for a steamboat service. A large meet is expected and thorough arrangements will be made to provide for the comfort of all.

A Slight Blaze at the Oriental.

An incipient blaze occurred at the Oriental last evening, which however was extinguished before any damage was done. The fire occurred in one of the sheds and was caused by some hot ashes which had been emptied into a barrel and ignited the wood.

An Untimely Illness.

Capt. Brennan looks sad and depressed, and no wonder! for "Cleopatra,"his favorite trotting possy cat, is off her feed and will require the utmost care and attention if she is to be in shape for the Menagerie Race at the 57th Batt. sports on the 24th. It will be a sad blow to the Capt. if anything should happen to his favorite.

A Great Mistake

is made very often by merchants advertising goods at very low figures and when the public call to price the goods they are much higher than the prices their advertisement calls for, or they are just out of the goods. Now, it is altogether different with W. J. Morrow. When you see his advertisement you can rely on procuring the goods at the price stated, just so long as he can get the goods, but of course when we are out you must make an allowance. We have another consignment of beautiful 3 lb. tin Peaches at 15 cents per tin. 3 lb tin Tomatoes, 3 for 25 cents. W. J. Morrow, 340 George-st.

Methodist Divines in Session.

Sherey, town; A. C. Wilson, Ashburnham; Wm. Burns, Millbrook; Benjamin Greatrix, Cavan; A. L. Adams, South Cavan; D. McCamus, South Monaghan; Francis Johnston, Lakefield; Cons. H. Coon, Lakefield; John Power, Warsaw; D. Williams, South Monvers; Ed. Cragg, Hiawatha; Samuel Ferguson, Hall's Bridge. Rev. Mr. Greatrix was elected secretary and Rev. Mr. Adam assistant secretary. The morning session was taken up with routine business and this afternoon the examination for the ministry was proceeded with. The lay delegates will not arrive here until to-morrow.

Encourage the Ladies.

The ladies of St. Paul's Church intend holding a sale of useful and fancy articles in the school room of the church to-morrow afternoon and evening, and the display, which will be varied, beautiful and extensive, will embrace articles of all descriptions and for all purposes, expensive and cheap, large and small, useful and ornamental, plain and fancy, and will be well worth inspection if out of nothing but mere curiosity and love of the beautiful. The entire collection has been contributed by the ladies of the congregation who have so willingly and generously given their labor, time and money and who should have their laudable enterprise and praise-worthy efforts crowned with success. The work which will be exhibited speaks volumes for the skill of the ladies with the needle and their ingenuity and originality in designing. The reputation of the ladies of St. Paul's as entertainers is established and all who attend to-morrow afternoon or evening may rest assured that he will receive a cordial welcome and enjoy a pleasant time.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

Annual Meeting and Officers Elected—The Empire Produce Company.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held yesterday afternoon in the Old Music Hall. President J. Drummond occupied the chair, and Secretary Galvin was also in his accustomed place. There was a fair attendance of representatives of factories. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read, a motion was made that Mr. Stark, a gentleman from Toronto who represented the Empire Produce Company, who was present, be allowed to address the meeting. The motion carried.

THE EMPIRE PRODUCE COMPANY.

MR. STARK then proceeded to explain the objects of the company he represented at considerable length and pointed out to those present the prospects which his company offered a farmer of getting better prices for goods which be shipped to the English market or to the Toronto market. He said the company was a combination of several interests, including the fruit interest, the cheese interest, the butter interest, etc., with a view by combined operation to establish in the English market a Canadian house, whose goods could be placed with cash buyers for simply a reasonable margin as commission. The question, he said, had been raised that the company was a speculative one, but he pointed out that it got its charter on the condition that it made no purchases on its own account, but simply acted as a medium between the producer and the consumer. He dwelt on the advantages which he held would be reaped by the farmer or cheese men who shipped by consignment, as this company would have a man who was in touch with all the English buyers and would be able to get the best prices for their cheese. The commission charged would depend on the patronage of the district, although it would not be more than four per cent.

MR. MICHAEL SANDERSON was called upon for his views of the scheme but he had none to offer, further than he believed everything was as represented, but the farmers had been duped so often that they would be slow to give any company their confidence.

OPPOSED TO CONSIGNING.

MR. WM. CLUXTON was next called upon to give the Board some advice on the question after his long experience in the commercial world. Mr. Cluxton referred to the Graingar's Association's short career and disastrous end and was decidedly opposed to consigning, which, he said, was always and would always be attended with disastrous results. He would not advise them to consign through any person or any company, not even himself, for he believed there was only the one result to the producer—ruin. He said the buyers who bought at the Board did so on the speculation that cheese would rise, and they ran all the risk, but when shipping by consignment the producer had to run all the risk and the company none at all.

Considerable discussion took place between Mr. Stark and Mr. Cluxton relative to the English markets and consumer's charges, after which Mr. W. J. Galvin expressed himself in favor of the company. He said the buyers all told the same story, that they were losing money, and he thought it would do away with a good deal of trouble and annoyance if the producers had a direct way of sending their goods to the proper market and no man should lose money by the handling of these goods. He believed this company afford this channel. He had been a member of the Board since its inception and it had done a great deal of good to the trade, but it was not what it should be. Many days last season they came there and twenty-six factories had been boarded, but no business was done, and he believed that the Empire Produce Company would remedy this by giving them an access to the English market. His factory had decided to allow this company to handle their cheese and he would therefore have to do his business through it for this season.

MR. THOMAS JOHNSTON was not opposed to the company, but there were several objections. It would break up the Board, the farmers would be a little shy until a British connection had been established, and there would be delay in getting returns.

MR. STARK explained that there was only two things he wanted the Board to do. First, he wanted the rules so drawn that members of the Board should be at liberty to consign their cheese if they so desired, and secondly, that he be given an opportunity to address the patrons of the different factories.

The PRESIDENT said he did not think the rules would prevent any member consigning if he boarded his cheese and failed to sell.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

After some further discussion the matter was dropped and the election of officers was proceeded with and resulted as follows:—

PRESIDENT.—J. Drummond, of Keene factory (re-elected.)

VICE-PRESIDENT.—W. J. Middleton, of Lily Lake.

TREASURER.—Samuel Edwards, of Warminster factory.

SECRETARY.—Warran Taylor, Warminster factory.

Mr. Drummond had to be pressed very hard to again accept the Presidency of the Board, as he said it affected his factory with the buyers.

MR. GALVIN then made a few remarks upon retiring from the Board, saying that he wished the Board success and hoped the members and buyers would do their parts faithfully. He said the buyers had done considerable flunkeying last season and so had some of the salesmen.

MR. EDWARDS with a few complimentary and flattering words in regard to his services as secretary, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Galvin, which was carried with applause and duly acknowledged.

MR. W. H. WRIGHTON was re-appointed Inspector of cheese for this district and the secretary was ordered to have fifty copies of the rules and by-laws of the Board printed and distributed amongst the salesmen and buyers.

The rules of the Board, which remain practically the same as last year, were then read and adopted clause by clause.

The hour of Board meetings for the season was fixed for twelve o'clock noon.

Mr. Johnston brought up the question of milk inspection, but the meeting adjourned without any consideration being given the subject.

A Customs Seizure.

Considerable comment has been made on the streets in regard to the seizure by the local Customs office here on Thursday evening, while the performance was in progress, of the apparatus used by Mr. Roberts Harper, in giving his illustrated lecture on Ireland. Mr. Harper, he informs us, previous to leaving Boston, wrote the Customs authorities at Montreal, asking that the necessary papers should be made out, to pass the articles across the line with as little delay as possible. On arriving at Montreal on Monday evening the articles were inspected and passed through, the statement being made to Mr. Harper by the collector at that port that the apparatus would be free of duty. On this understanding it was forwarded to Peterborough and only reached here less than three hours previous to the performance. Mr. Harper had only just began his lecture when the collector made the seizure of the apparatus, acting on instructions wired from Montreal that the articles had been examined hastily, to facilitate their being forwarded, but that the cylinders and gas contained in the cylinders was dutiable. The collector came to the Opera House some time before the performance began, but only made his application for the money and seizure of the instrument after Mr. Harper had taken the platform and while that gentleman was unaware of the state of affairs. The struggle with the operator excited the audience and several ladies were somewhat alarmed. A number of friends interfered, and Mr. Harper, learning that the amount of duty claimed was $40.00, at once paid the money under protest. It is probable that the amount will be returned to Mr. Harper less the sum representing the duty on cylinders and gas.

A MIDNIGHT ENCOUNTER.

A Cobourg Man is Charged with Assault—Struck in Self-Defence.

A young man whose appearance differed greatly from that of the majority of unfortunates who grace the prisoner's bench with their person, stood up this morning at the Police Court to answer to a charge of assault. The young man was attired in the height of fashion, wearing a short spring overcoat which was buttoned up tightly, a pair of light spring trousers of approved style, pair of shoes of the latest make and held in his hand a glistening silk tile. In fact his general appearance was that of a gentleman and so much out of keeping with his surroundings that naturally the crowd which filled the court room gazed upon him with more than ordinary interest. His name was Hugo Dennis, of Cobourg, where he is very well connected and is agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Company. In answer to the charge of having assaulted Wm. Johnston, of Harwood, on the night of the 14th of May, he said that he admitted having struck the man but did so in self-defence. This was equivalent to pleading not guilty, and as Johnston, the complainant, was unable to appear the case was enlarged for one week and the prisoner was allowed to go on giving his own recognizance to appear for trial.

IN SELF-DEFENCE.

Stretched out on the hard bench in one of the cells below was the man Johnston whom Dennis was charged with having assaulted, and a deplorable and hard sight did he present. His face was covered with blood and bruises, and his hair was matted with blood from a couple of hard gashes in the head. The man despite his injuries was apparently sleeping, and an odor of whiskey pervaded his cell. The particulars of the affair out of which the man came in such a condition are not very definite, but if Dennis' story be correct then the more serious aspect of the case is removed. It appears that Mr. Dennis came here on his private boat the Glenora, which was tied up at the C. P. R. wharf last night. He was up town and, he says, when be returned about twelve o'clock he found Johnston and another man by the name of Graham in possession of the boat. He ordered them off when Johnston attacked him and then the encounter took place in which Johnston received his injuries. Dennis says that when the men attacked him he struck Johnston on the side of the head and knocked him over against a wood pile which accounts for the horrible gash in the back of his head. The police heard of the row and Constable McGinty went down and brought both parties to the cells. Mr. Dennis was, however, bailed out, but Johnston remained in all night and Dr. Yelland was called in to attend to his injuries and took several stitches in his cut. Johnston, it seems, does or has worked on Mr. Dennis' boat and is from the neighborhood of Harwood. He was taken to the hospital this morning.

George Graham, a witness of the affair, was bound over in $200 to appear on Wednesday next to give evidence at the trial.

The Scott Act Cases.

There was a packed Court room this morning to hear the Scott Act cases which were to come before the Magistrate. Inspector Cochrane was present in the Court room. The informations were laid for selling liquor between the 11th and 13th of May, and the four hotel men who were so charged were Messrs. J. E. McIntyre, F. J. Daly, E. Brown and J. Carew. Mr. W. A. Stratton appeared for the accused. Mr. McIntyre's case was called first and he pleaded guilty to a breach of the Canada Temperance Act and not guilty to a breach of the Crook's Act. The other defendants all pleaded in a similar manner and Mr. Stratton raised the question as to which was in force, the Canada Temperance Act or the Crook's Act. The Magistrate allowed the question, and the cases stand over for judgment. Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the prosecution.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

The Daily Review.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1889.

Taken for a Burglar.

"I prithee, bide a wee," she cries,
The love-light glowing in her eyes,
"Stay yet awhile; the evening's shank
Is barely reached! Stay, darling Frank!
The night is young! That envious bird
Whose startling cry but now you heard,
Was but a rooster in the lurch,
Who squawked while tumbling from his perch!"

He staid: the night rolled on her way, the east grew rosy red,
And Grim, the dog, impatiently moaned in the dim woodshed;
The rooster crew and crowed, and then at last the young man fled.
Slow to her chamber climbed the maid, and heavy-lidded sleep
Had barely come, when lo! the dawn into the room 'gan peep,
And her mother rose and lit the fire, and then began to sweep!

"Now bush ye, boun ye, lazy maid,"
At nine that patient mother said.
"Here is a sight to glad your eyes
And fill your soul with sweet surprise:
Out in the woodshed, near the dog,
Your Frank's sawed ninety feet of log
Since daybreak, and your pa and Grim
Have just found out it was him!"
—Omaha Herald.

HIS OWN PROPERTY.

"For green leaf and blossoms, and fine sunny weather,
And singing, and loving, all come back together!
For green leaf and blos—' Oh!"

The "Oh!" was in quite a different key and did not seem to harmonize with the rest of the song. Ellie Fairfax was equally surprised and disgusted to find that she had an unexpected auditor—a young man who stood in the middle of the path with an amused smile on his face that was quickly supplanted by a decorously grave expression as he saw that he had attracted her attention.

"I beg your pardon," he said lifting his hat, "but I have completely lost myself in these woods. Can you tell me if there is any possible way of getting out of them?"

He was rather a good-looking young man, dark and slight, with a spruce, neat air that exasperated Ellie, who was instantly conscious of having come primrosing with the boys in her oldest clothes.

Nevertheless she was a person of dignity and decision, as behooves the only and older sister of a large family of boys, so she drew herself up and answered severely:

"I suppose you are aware that these woods are private property, and that you are trespassing?"

"Really, I am extremely sorry if I have trespassed on your property," said the stranger.

His air of extreme regret somewhat mollified Ellie, who answered in a less forbidding manner.

"Oh, it is not ours, but we have leave to come here while the owner is abroad."

Therewith she emerged slowly from the clinging bushes, and arrived on the path a little disheveled, being more intent on preserving her primroses than her raiment.

"I am afraid I can't direct you, for you would not only lose your way," she said. "But we are just going home, and can take you as far as the gate, if you like."

He accepted the offer with alacrity, and Ellie, turning from him, made the woods ring with shouts of "Boys! Boys!" that brought her brothers scurrying out of the underwood like rabbits in all directions.

"This gentleman has lost himself in the woods, and I undertook to show him the way out," she said to the eldest boy, Bob, as he came up.

"The owner must be very good-natured to let you plunder his woods like this," the stranger remarked.

"Mr. Hayes has nothing to do with it," returned Bob promptly. "When he comes back I expect we shall be turned out, so we are making a new fernery and getting roots for the garden as fast as we can."

The young man's amused laugh made Ellie feel a little guilty.

"I don't think we do any harm really," she said. "And this is our first spring in the country, so that we cannot help going mad over the flowers and accumulating them wholesale."

The stranger assured her that he was certain that they were doing no harm, and entered warmly into the plans for the new fernery.

"We part here, I suppose," she said, facing round as they entered the meadow beyond the woods. "That path to the left leads to the village. But I should recommend you not to trespass here again or you may get hopelessly lost."

"I will take care in the future. I am much obliged to you," said the young man gravely.

But he stood watching with a look half amused, half admiring, as Ellie moved onward, a tall, lithe, young figure amid her bodyguard of boys.

"What a jolly chap! I wonder if he lives near here?" said Jim, as he slipped a grubby paw into his sister's arm.

"Yes, he does; so I asked him to come and help us with the fernery and he said he would," said Bob.

"Oh, Bob! You didn't!" cried Ellie.

"Yes, I did. I expect he is one of the Taylors from High Cliff, and Mrs. Morrison said they meant to call," said Bob, unabashed.

Ellie was completely overcome. One of Lady Laura Taylor's sons and she was absolutely not fit to be seen!

It was, perhaps, as a readjustment of the balance that she arrayed herself in her new covert coat and most becoming hat to go down to the vicarage that afternoon. As she walked into the drawing-room with her head held very high Mrs. Morrison thought once more what a very distinguished looking girl Miss Fairfax was.

They were very busy over Sunday-school reports when the maid opened the door and announced, "Mr. Hayes." Ellie looked up. She was curious to see the absentee owner of Woodleigh court, particularly as his arrival was so unexpected. What was her horror to see the stranger of the morning calmly advancing with the self-same amused smile on his face! The memory of her stern rebuke of trespass dashed across her, and she wished herself under the floor.

"Bernard, my dear boy!" cried Mrs. Morrison, holding out both hands. "This is a pleasant surprise."

"I came earlier than I was expected, after my usual habit, you see," he said.

"How delightful of you! Let me introduce you to Miss Fairfax.

Ellie bowed stiffly. Mr. Hayes was equal to the occasion. "I think we met this morning," he said, holding out his hand affably; but the twinkle in his eye was an insult to Ellie's feelings.

"I am afraid I behaved very badly this morning, but I was so charmed by your defense of my interests that I hadn't the heart to undeceive you."

"I am afraid I behaved very badly; I am sure I must have been very rude," she said apologetically. "And there is nothing so irritating as to detect oneself in such a silly blunder," and she looked up laughing, though she could not restrain a faint blush at the memory of her unlucky speech.

"It was all my fault," he said eagerly. He was really quite handsome when those dark eyes lit up. "It was quite too foolish of me! I hope you will continue to wander and steal in the woods to show that you bear no malice; and may I come and help Bob with his fernery?"

"Oh, certainly, if it won't bore you to death. I am sure my mother will be very happy to see you," said Ellie, smiling.

"Who is Miss Fairfax? It is quite a new name to me," he asked of the vicaress when Ellie had taken her departure.

"Mrs. Fairfax is an officer's widow who has taken the Lawn. Ellie is a nice girl, but her brothers are rather overpowering. I advise you to beware of them," said wily old Mrs. Morrison.

Of course he did not take her advice; quite the contrary. He called at the Lawn next day and toiled the greater part of the afternoon over rock and fern roots, to the great delight of the boys.

One fine morning it occurred to Bernard that it would be an excellent thing if he were to give a large garden party as a return for the hospitality lavished on him by the neighborhood. Of course the plan must be discussed at the vicarage, and so he took his hat and went off to see what would be said to it.

Half way down the quaint village street he met Ellie. She was not alone. By her side loitered a young man with a fair bushy beard, whose air and gait spoke unmistakably the sailor. She had a dejected look, and Bernard's practiced glance noticed at once that she was dressed in a careless, negligent way, as though her appearance was beneath consideration.

CONMEE & M'LENNAN V. C.P.R.

The Trial Begun at Cobourg Before Chief Justice Armour.

COBOURG, May 14.—The trial of the celebrated railway suit of Conmee & McLennan and the Canadian Pacific Railway began in the Court House here at 12 o'clock to-day before Chief Justice Armour, who is holding a special sitting of the court for this purpose. The town is full of lawyers and railway men. The C.P.R. is represented by Hon. Edward Blake, Q.C., Hon. S. H. Blake, Q.C., and Hon. R. M. Wells and Conmee & McLennan by D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C., Donald MacMaster, Q.C., and Wallace Nesbitt.

Mr. McCarthy opened by a clear statement of the case and explained the different stages the action has gone through during the past four years. The litigation arose out of the construction of part of the railway in 1883 along the north shore of Lake Superior, the amounts involved are in excess of $560,000 and each party claims the other is indebted to them.

The first witness examined on behalf of Conmee & McLennan was John Ross of Montreal, formerly manager of construction for the company at Port Arthur. He stated he had let the contract and had full authority to bind the C. P. R. Mr. Ross himself is now suing the company for whom he is not now working. The cross-examination, conducted by Mr. S.H. Blake, was in progress at 6 o'clock when the court adourned and is very searching, Mr. Ross being considered an important witness.

There are fifty or sixty people engaged in the trial at the Arlington, among whom are ex-Judge Clark of Montreal, Dr. Bell of Ottawa, W. Dawson, C.E. of Montreal, Henry McLeod, C.E. of Ottawa, James Conmee, M.L.A., John D. McLennan, Dugald MacMurchy, J. F. Armour, and a number more are expected to-morrow.

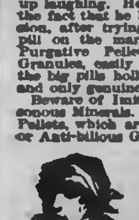
Murdered for Money.

PIERRE, Dak., May 15.—The body of W. G. Duncan, who left Cheyenne Agency two weeks ago with Arthur Redmond for Fort Pierre with a herd of horses, was found by Indians near Cheyenne Agency yesterday. From marks on the body it is suspected Duncan was murdered. He had a large sum of money on his person when he left the agency.

JENKS' DREAM.

Jenks had a queer dream the other night. He thought he saw a prize-fighters' ring, and in the middle of it stood a doughty little champion who met and deliberately knocked over, one by one, a score or more of big, burly-looking fellows, as they advanced to the attack. Giants as they were in size, the valiant pigmy proved more than a match for them. It was all so funny that Jenks woke up laughing. He accounts for the dream by the fact that he had just come to the conclusion, after trying nearly every big, drastic pill on the market, that Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or tiny Sugar-coated Granules, easily "knock out" and beat all the big pills hollow! They are the original and only genuine Little Liver Pills.

Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Minerals. Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pellets, which are Little Sugar-coated Pills, or Anti-bilious Granules. One a Dose.



SICK HEADACHE,

Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. They are gently laxative, or strongly cathartic, according to size of dose. Smallest, Cheapest, Easiest to take. 25 cents a vial, by druggists.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette

THE TORONTO BUDGET.

ONTARIO GRAND LODGE OF TRUE BLUES IN SESSION.

The Officers Elected—A Bank Cashier in Demand—Threatened Big Suit—The Trouble at Bruce Mines Settled.

TORONTO, May 16.—Grand Master Bunting presided yesterday morning when the Ontario Grand Lodge of True Blues resumed business. J. P. Diamond occupied the deputy chair. A long discussion took place on the resolution notice of which was given on Tuesday, indorsing the action of the Citizens' Committee in regard to the Jesuit Estates Act and the members who voted for it. The committee to which the above resolution was referred recommended its adoption with the additional clause that steps be taken to expel the Jesuit Society from this country. As amended the motion was carried unanimously. After two hours discussion this resolution moved by Rev. A. W. Sibbald passed: "That we hereby express our continued confidence in The Orange Sentinel as a true advocate of our Protestant principles, rights and liberties. We further regret that there has been a misunderstanding relating to its recent position on the part of some of our Protestant brethren." Mr. Sibbald moved: "That we earnestly consider it necessary that some steps be taken to bring about the union of all junior Protestant societies, believing that such a union would conduce to the advancement of our cause, and that the grand officers of this society be a committee to confer with other societies." The resolution was adopted. In the afternoon these officers were elected:

Grand Master—Robert Newman, Toronto.
Deputy Grand Master—J. G. Diamond, Belleville.
Grand Chaplain—Rev. J. A. Whaley, Belleville.
Grand Secretary—N. Ingram, Bowmanville.
Grand Treasurer—R. Bunting, Lindsay.
Director of Ceremonies—J. Jamieson, Peterboro.
Grand Lecturer—Bro. R. Donnelly, St. Catharines.
Second Grand Lecturer—C. T. Rosevere.
Grand Inside Tyler—Bell, Lindsay.
Grand Outside Tyler—J. Jackson, Hamilton.

The election of the other officers was deferred until to-day. A resolution was carried that the Grand Lodge present Brother R. Bunting with a gold jewel. In the evening the delegates were banqueted at Shaftesbury Hall.

It is said that Mr. Duncan Coulson, Cashier of the Bank of Toronto, who receives a salary of $15,000 a year, has already or will soon be offered the cashiership of the Bank of Montreal at a salary of $20,000; that if he decides to accept the Toronto will offer him $30,000 to remain with them; and that then the Montreal people will raise the offer to $40,000 or $50,000 as they want him to do the heavy work in the place of General Manager W. S. Buchanan, who is not in the best of health.

The Federal Bank, which lost $500,000 by the Commercial Loan and Stock Company, proposes to sue Mr. Samuel Nordheimer, late president of the bank and now a director, to recover the amount. The Commercial Loan and Stock Company, of which Mr. Nordheimer was a shareholder, was formed to advance money on stock, especially the stock of the Federal, and the money loaned was supplied by the bank, the company being only a thin disguise to evade the law which forbids banks advancing money on their own stocks for speculative purposes.

Provincial Detective Green returned from Thessalon, Ont., yesterday. He has had charge of the government force of officers sent to the Bruce Mines to maintain order among the rioting lumbermen there. The contractors engaged by Timothy Nester & Co. of Michigan, the owners of large limits near Bruce Mines, skipped out six weeks ago, leaving the men who were working for them their creditors to the amount of $11,000. The men became furious, made threats of violence and refused to let the company tow their logs down the river on the spring drive. The company offered the men a reasonable settlement, amounting to 75 cents on the dollar. They offered to make the men a present of $2500, and a surplus of 25 cents a standard on 50,000 logs after the expense of taking the logs down the river, which should have been met by the contractors, was deducted. The company held back certain portions of the money due the contractors as a guarantee that the work would be done. This amount they proposed to devote towards paying the men, together with their donation of $2500. The men, however, refused to accept the proposal, and wild times ensued for a while. Finally, largely owing to the tact and good judgment of Mr. Green, a settlement was come to between the company and the men. The men will get a smaller percentage of the wages than at first offered, but will be continued in the employ of the company.

Mrs. Rosebach, wife of Luke Rosebach, residing at No. 15 Mission-avenue, died on Tuesday under such circumstances that Coroner Duncan has issued a warrant for an inquest to be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the hotel at Gerrard and Tresaley-streets. The woman was taken ill on Monday, and shortly before her death Dr. McPhedran of College-avenue was called in, and it was on his report and subsequent post mortem examination that the Coroner has taken action. It is supposed that death was the result of an unlawful operation, but so far as can be learned the woman is alone responsible. One of the witnesses will be a Mrs. Armstrong, who was with deceased up to her death. The dead woman leaves a family of three children, the youngest of whom is 6 years old.

FOLKS OF HIGH DEGREE.

LABOUCHERE GOSSIP ABOUT KINGS AND QUEENS.

The Irish Leaders Take Kindly to the Suggested Appointment of the Prince of Wales as Viceroy.

LONDON, May 15.—The recovery of the King of the Netherlands has been a great surprise to his subjects. More than half the well-to-do families of the country had made ready their mourning and immense quantities of black cloth had been purchased for hanging the churches and other public edifices directly the King had expired. But now that His Majesty has undergone a species of mental and physical resurrection, all these funeral trappings are useless and their purchasers are almost as much depressed as they would have been had the worst occurred.

The Duchess of Marlboro was the first lady of the ordinary circle to be presented at the last drawing room. This was owing to the fact that her mother-in-law, the dowager duchess, who accompanied and presented her, possesses the high privilege of the entree for life. In consequence thereof, two duchesses were able to enter by the entrance reserved for the ambassadors, to escape the crowding of the salons, and to get to the Queen immediately after the diplomatic corps had been received.

I hear that the Queen is very far from pleased at the prospect of having to defray all the expenses of the Shah's visit to London, which will amount to at least $125,000, as he intends to stay for nearly a month. The Marquis of Salisbury has been sounded as to whether it will not be possible to make the country pay at least the greater portion of the cost, inasmuch as the Shah is a state guest. The Shah, who will be accompanied by a suite of 65 persons, will occupy the Belgian rooms at Buckingham Palace, which are one of the best suites.

The German Emperor will be present at the Goodwood races at least on two days.

The indefatigable Princess Clementine of Orleans has been endeavoring to arrange for a marriage between her youngest and favorite son, Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, and the Princess Helene d'Orleans, the second daughter of the Compte de Paris.

A German merchant discovered during the recent fair at Nijni Novgorod that as far as the turquoises offered for sale by Persian traders there are concerned, these stones are nearly all false. These rogues have been imposing paste upon their customers for the last six or seven years. It is estimated that out of about 100,000 turquoises which have been sold during that period not more than 16,000 have been genuine stones. The imitation is described as marvelously clever. One mode of selling turquoises at Nijni Novgorod is curious. On the payment of a fixed sum the person is allowed to plunge his hand into a bagful of them, and to become the possessor of a handful.

My Paris correspondent writes: "At Mme. Marchesi's annual concert for the benefit of divers charities at Montmartre on Saturday at the Hotel Continental, the impresario had an embarras de richesse. Mme. Stoddart and Mme. Elliott sang charmingly together, but the success of the evening was Mme. Eames' sympathetic rendering of Pleurez mes Yeux, and the brilliant singing of the Printemps Nouveau. The last named song was encored twice." HENRY LABOUCHERE.

The Appointment Would be Popular.

LONDON, May 15.—It is said that the Prince of Wales has intimated that he would not be averse to residing in Dublin for half the time, and that this hint has been widely circulated as evidence that His Royal Highness will be the next Viceroy of Ireland. All the Irish leaders who have as yet publicly expressed their opinion on the subject avow their belief that the Prince of Wales would exercise his power with more fairness and generosity toward the Irish peasantry than any man who has yet served or is likely to be asked by the Tories to serve in the capacity of Viceroy, and his acceptance of the office, even for the brief period mentioned, would give general satisfaction.

The League and Crime.

LONDON, May 15.—Father Egan testified before the Parnell Commission to-day that the leading men of Loughrea belonged to the branch League. No serious crime had been committed from the time of the formation of the Loughrea branch until it was suppressed except the murder of Policeman Lynton. This crime had been condemned at a meeting of the League and witness had denounced it from the altar of his church.

The Welsh Dis-Establishment Bill.

LONDON, May 15.—In the House of Commons last evening Mr. Dillwyn's motion in favor of the dis-establishment of the Church in Wales was rejected by a vote of 284 to 231. Most of the Unionists voted with the majority. Mr. Chamberlain voted with the minority. Mr. Gladstone and Lord Hartington were absent.

A Ritualist Defeat.

LONDON, May 15.—An important decision has been rendered by the Archbishop of Canterbury in the case of the Bishop of Lincoln, who is under prosecution for ritualistic practices. The Bishop's friends, and indeed all ritualists, claim that the law of Henry VIII., snapping the last link which bound the Established Church to Rome, deprived the archbishops of the power which they exercised over all ecclesiastical dignitaries within their supervision, and they attest that no legislation has since restored that control or assigned it a certain residence in any Church Court. The Archbishop, however, has adopted the contention of the Low Church party in the Communion, and asserted his right to dispose of Dr. King's case as he sees fit. It is believed by some that Parliament will yet have to settle, by unambiguous legislation, the uncertainty as to what constitutes a final Court of Appeal in matters affecting the Established Church. There is only one thing certain at this stage of the proceedings, and that is that the fight will be long, bitter and costly.

Able but an Atheist.

LONDON, May 15.—Herr Gnauth, a prominent councillor of Giessen, Germany, and widely known as a leading atheist, has been elected mayor of that city. The religious element have made a great outcry against his taking his seat, and it is doubtful whether the Government will confirm his election. He was elected by his fellow-councillors without a dissentient vote and solely upon the ground of his administrative fitness.

Insulted the Crown Prince.

LONDON, May 15.—A potter at Gross Lichterfeld has been sentenced to a month's imprisonment at hard labor for insulting Crown Prince William, aged 7 years. The young prince, accompanied by his nurse and one of his brothers, was passing the potteries in a carriage when the potter, standing by the roadside, applied an insulting epithet to him.

Fierce Fighting in Sumatra.

LONDON, May 15.—War is reported to have broken out again between the Dutch and Malays in Sumatra. Immense numbers of natives attacked the port of Atcheen, but were repulsed with the loss of 160 killed. The garrison lost five men killed and 20 wounded. Reinforcements have been sent.

Perrin to Get Off Easy.

PARIS, May 15.—The case of Perrin, who fired a shot at President Carnot, has been sent back to the Police Tribunal. A light sentence will probably be imposed.

Brigands Hanged at Sofia.

SOFIA, May 15.—Five brigands were hanged in the court yard of the prison here to-day. They were led separately to the scaffold and were hanged in succession. Each was enveloped in a bag passed over the head and reaching to the waist. Their struggles were prolonged several minutes. A mob broke the cordon surrounding the jail and the gendarmes had great difficulty in keeping them from the scaffold.

A Judge for 60 Years.

VIENNA, May 15.—Judge Von Schwerling, President of the Supreme Court of Austria, completed his sixtieth year in office to-day. Emperor Francis Joseph, accompanied by a large number of high officials, waited upon the judge in person and tendered congratulations.

DISTRESS RESULTS.

Suffering in Westphalia Owing to the Coal Miners' Strike.

BERLIN, May 15.—Distress is beginning to be felt in the coal districts in consequence of the strike of the men. A committee has appealed for funds and a number of Westphalia newspapers have opened subscription lists. The number of strikers and their dependents is estimated at 160,000. Hundreds of miners have resumed work under the protection of troops and many other strikes are wavering.

The employers in the Witten district have offered to increase wages without altering the hours of labor, and the offer may possibly be accepted. The strikers' committee has issued placards urging strikers to maintain peace. Placards have been posted in many places warning peaceful citizens to remain in-doors after sunset. A number of placards have also been posted urging the strikers to commit violence. These latter are attributed by some to the masters, by other to the socialists, and by still others to women opposed to the strike.

Ordering Coal from England.

LONDON, May 15.—There were 120 cargoes of coal ordered in England to-day for Germany.

Belleville Budget.

BELLEVILLE, May 16.—The Board of Education passed their estimates Tuesday night. The sum required for public schools is $12,210 and for high schools $3410.

Mr. Charles Bunt of Detroit has been examining iron deposits in North Hastings, with a view to establishing smelting works here.

The Imperial Federation League met Tuesday night and elected these officers: President, W. R. Northrup; First Vice-President, A. R. Dougall; Second Vice-President, Rev. S Daw; Treasurer, Walter Alford; Secretary, J. F. Wills. Executive Committee—Rev. D. F. Bogart, Thos. Wills, R. Elliott, D. F. Rutledge, W. R. Carmichael, Thos. Wilkes, Wm. Johnston.

Both Will Recover.

DETROIT, May 16.—Philip H. Hartsell and Wm. J. Smith, who had an encounter on Grand River-avenue Tuesday evening and shot each other, will probably both recover. Hartsell fired four shots all taking effect in his father-in-law's body. One bullet struck Smith on the forehead, going through the rim of his hat and lodging in the scalp. One grazed his head, one passed through the fleshy part of his right upper arm and the fourth grazed the under part of the same arm. Smith discharged five balls only one of which hit Hartsell. The bullet entered his right breast and narrowly escaped the lung. Smith was arraigned yesterday charged with attempted murder, pleaded not guilty and had his examination set for May 24. Ex-Alderman Henderson furnished $1000 bail for his appearance. Justice Miner issued a warrant against Hartsell who was also charged with murder. Hartsell is feeling better. He is still in his room under surveillance.

The Flour Output.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 15.—The Northwestern Miller says: Although fifteen mills ran to a greater or less extent last week the aggregate production of flour for the week was only 94,070 barrels against 86,290 barrels the previous week and 170,200 barrels for the corresponding week in 1888. Fifteen mills are in operation again to-day and indications point to quite a gain in the output for the week. Most of the mills got some orders ahead last week and though the demand is lighter now they are grinding stronger to fill them. Nearly 50,000 barrels of flour, mostly patents, were withdrawn from store at Duluth during last week, leaving 156,000 in store there Saturday. Considerable held in store here is also being shipped. The direct exports of flour for the week were 35,000 barrels against 40,500 barrels the preceding week.

A Michigan Sensation.

MARSHALL, Mich., May 16.—This city has a romance. A colored barber has brought home from Canada as his wife a handsome German girl and the couple are as much objects of curiosity as a two-headed girl ever was. Walter H. Clark is the barber's name. A few days ago he left town with a big sign on his window to the effect that he had gone away temporarily to give other barbers a chance to do some work. Yesterday he reached here from Essex Centre with his bride. Clark is 28 years old and speaks some German while his wife is 20 and speaks a good deal of German. She is a member of the Christian Church and has always borne an excellent character but the people came near mobbing her and her dusky choice before they got out of Canada.

Injured by Carelessness.

ISHPEMING, Mich., May 16.—By an explosion of dynamite at Oscola mine early yesterday morning four miners were terribly injured. Jas. Rosetti had his skull fractured, John Turk right arm blown off and otherwise mangled, Antoine Fuaritzk left arm partly torn off and balance crushed. The fourth man is not dangerously though painfully wounded. The first two may die. Turk is married and has a large family. The accident occurred through the carelessness of the men injured.

The Shah Gorgeously Received in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 15.—The Shah of Persia, who is now journeying from Teheran to St. Petersburg, is meeting with a grand reception in Russia. In Erivan the streets through which he passed were lined with troops, and at several points there were triumphal arches bearing the inscription "To the Shah's sacred person." The entire town was brilliantly illuminated at night.

240 Saloons Cut Off in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—The License Court finished its work to-day. In the city complete licenses are granted for 1200 saloons. Last year 1343 licenses were granted and in 1887, before the new law went into effect, there were 5773 saloons in the city.

Damages for Slaughtered Miners.

NEVADA, Mo., May 16.—Damage suits aggregating $260,000 have been filed against Keith and Kerry by the friends and relatives of the 20 miners who were killed by an explosion in the company's mines March 29, 1888.

THE ATLANTIC FAST STEAMSHIP SERVICE.

An Important Case Before the Supreme Court—Proposed Conference of Ontario Municipal Authorities.

OTTAWA, May 15.—Mayor Clarke, City Solicitor Biggar, City Engineer Sankey and Ald. Boustead of Toronto arrived here this morning on civic business. They intended to interview Sir Hector Langevin, but the Minister of Public Works is in Quebec. They had an interview with the Deputy Minister, however, to ascertain the exact position of the city in respect of the Canadian Pacific's claim of the Esplanade from Yonge to Simcoe-streets. Some delay has been made in issuing the patents for the water slips, and the delegation also inquired into this matter.

In the Supreme Court to-day the case of the Exchange Bank vs. Frances E. Gilman came up for consideration. Mr. McMaster appeared for the bank and Mr. Gilman in his own behalf. This appeal involves a very important point raised by plea to the merits in the lower court. It is this, "Can a plaintiff during the trial of a cause withdraw a portion of his demand with the leave of the court, proceed to judgment for the balance, reserving his right to institute a suit for the portion withdrawn?" In the Superior Court Mr. Justice Torrance decided the questions in the affirmative and gave judgment in favor of plaintiff for $41,627, but the Court of Queen's Bench decided the question in the negative and reversed the decision of Judge Torrance without any reference to the grounds of action, hence the appeal in the present instance.

Dr. Ferguson, M.P., Welland, arrived here this morning on departmental business.

Hon. C. H. Tupper and Mrs. Tupper are in Montreal to-day seeing Sir Charles off for England.

Mr. Griffin, Librarian, and Mr. Horan of the Justice Department also sailed by the same boat, the Parisian.

Major Erratt has issued a circular letter to the mayors of all towns and cities and the reeves and wardens of all counties and municipal corporations in Ontario, stating that despite the numerous petitions presented to the Provincial Parliament during the past session no action was taken nor will likely be taken on the subject of the abolition of municipal tax exemption, and suggesting a conference of representatives from the various municipalities to be held in Toronto towards the latter end of June or July.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster, speaking to a reporter to-day in reference to the statement recently cabled from England that the Andersons were experiencing difficulty in raising capital for the Atlantic fast steamship service, said: "I have not heard anything which would lead me to suppose there is any foundation in fact for the report. So far as I know the Andersons are progressing fairly in their negotiations and hope to be able in a little while to definitely announce the formation of a company."

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT.

Exile Wins the Brooklyn Handicap in Fast Time—Ball Games Yesterday.

GRAVESEND, L. I., May 15.—The gates of the Brooklyn Jockey Club were thrown open to the public to-day and 15,000 people surged through them, all bent upon seeing one race and that was the Brooklyn Handicap. It was the first day of the spring meeting and the big handicap was the attraction. Ever since the weights appeared last February Hanover has been fancied for this event and yesterday he was the public's favorite. The others had no lack of supporters. However it was hardly thought that Exile was good enough, though Billy Lakeland declared that his horse had a great chance and would be benefited by the heavy going. He proved equal to the task, and his race was even better than the record, considering the "going" and that Exile was the last horse away. It was certainly a great performance. The weather was fine though the track was somewhat damp.

After the third race there was a rush to the betting ring. Men clamored like mad and fought like wild animals for a chance to stake their money on their favorites. The odds offered by the "bookies" were inadequate, but had there been four times the number of bookmakers all would have been rushed to accommodate the tremendous number of betters. Results:

Mutuals paid $63.30.

Betting—3 to 5 against Hanover, Prince Royal and Terra Cotta, 5 to 1 Exile, 6 to 1 Elkwood, 8 to 1 Juggler, 10 to 1 Richmond.

The race—After a long delay at the post caused by Exile and Prince Royal the flag fell with Juggler in front, followed by Terra Cotta, Elkwood, Richmond, Prince Royal, Hanover and Exile in the order named, the latter getting much the worst of the start. Nearing the stand Hanover joined Juggler and the two ran lapped to the turn, with Prince Royal leading the others, of which Richmond was last. Rounding the club house bend Juggler again took command and showed the way into the back stretch, a neck in front of Hanover. Juggler increased his lead and the others closed on Hanover, who fell back beaten. At the far turn Exile showed in front and led into the stretch half a length in front of Prince Royal, who was two lengths in front of Juggler, with Hanover fourth. Then began the struggle that set the blood of every spectator chasing through their veins. Garrison rode Prince Royal like a demon, but in vain, he couldn't overhaul Exile, who in the last furlong drew away and won by two lengths. Prince Royal beat Terra Cotta a dozen lengths for the place, Elkwood, Juggler, Hanover and Richmond finishing in the order named. The fraction time was as follows: Quarter, 25; half, 50; five furlongs, 1.03; three-quarters, 1.16; seven furlongs, 1.30; mile, 1.43½; 1¼ miles, 2.07½.

Fifth race—Purse [illegible] 3-year-olds; ¾ mile. Recluse, 1[illegible], won by two lengths; John Atwood, 113, 2; St. James, 118, 3. Time [illegible].

LAKEFIELD LOCALS.

Prospecting for Granite—The Fleet of Steamers—A Public Holiday—Village Council.

Correspondence of the Review.

GRANITE.—Messrs. John Fraser and Thomas Murray, of Toronto, were in our village looking after granite. They procured several specimens, some from Mr. M. Lynch's farm, which they think, if it can be freighted to Toronto cheap enough, will have a large demand in that city. Mr. Wade, of Lakefield, was showing the gentlemen around.

RUNAWAY.—Mr. David Miller's team ran away from Pettit's hotel attached to a waggon with a hay rack on it. They made things pretty lively for a short time, demolishing the waggon and rack.

VILLAGE BUILDINGS.—Mr. Peter Baptie, contractor, has commenced work on the new town and fire hall and is bound to have it completed by the 15th Sept., 1889.

AT THE WHARF.—It looks as though business was going to be lively this summer for Stoney Lake by the display of steamers. First was the steamer Cruiser, which has received a new coat of paint, both outside and in, and looks as trim and neat as when new, in fact better, as she is painted with prettier colors than last season. It is quite evident that Manager Henderson intends leaving no stone unturned in making everything pleasant and comfortable for his many passengers he anticipates for the coming season. Capt. Charlie Grylls is at the helm as usual, smiling and obliging as ever, and Engineer Grylls is in his old place ready to answer to the call of the bell instantly, and sometimes sooner. Second, the Mary Ellen, of Young's Point; she has Capt. Scollard at the helm and everything is in apple-pie order. Third, the Dawn, of Buckhorn, with Capt. Eden at the helm. 4th Messrs. Strickland's steam yacht Undine, with Mr. Geo. Postlethwaite in his usual place. This tiddy craft has been made to bloom and blush as the rose with its new spring coat, and Geo. P. knows how to make her go. 5th, Mr. C. Wynn's steam yacht Irene. Capt. Millage is again in his old place. This boat has also been made to look like new. 6th, the steamer Empire. Your correspondent has not learned who her captain for 1889 is. Lakefield is blessed with quite a fleet of steamers.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. John Hull is building a new fence around his park.... Mr. J. C. Sherin is also building a new fence around his residence, and has also sodded his lawn.

A PUBLIC HOLIDAY.—The new steam fire engine here on approval from the Waterous Co., Brantford, is to be tested on Friday, 17th inst. Reeve Casement, at the request of the citizens, proclaimed a public holiday.

TOWN AGENTS.—Mr. A. L. Davis, Mr. Lee, of Lee & Thompson, and Mr. Turner, tent maker, have been appointed ticket agents for the steamer Cruiser.

APSLEY AFFAIRS.

Destructive Bush Fires—A Football Club Organized.

Correspondence of the Review.

FOOTBALL.—The Apsley football club was organized on Monday evening. A large number of names are on the membership roll and good fun is expected. The officers are:—

PRESIDENT,—G. K. Mark.
VICE PRESIDENT,—J. Elmhirst.
CAPTAIN.—H. Anderson.
SEC-TREAS.,—J. J. Welsh.
CURATOR,—W. York.
COMMITTEE.—Jno. Blunt, Alex. McKay, Chas. Webster.

Mr. C. Webster has given the club an excellent ball and the "kickers" are in this case the grateful party.

BUILDING.—Mr. T. G. Eastland has commenced operations in removing part of his former residence to make way for a capacious and handsome store, etc., which will be completed in as short a time, as a large force of men can do the work.

BUSH FIRES.—Bush fires are raging in many places north and west of us. The origin of these destructive fires is difficult to trace, but there is no doubt that settlers are blameable for some of them. The present is no time to burn off beaver meadows.

Woodstock Notes.

WOODSTOCK, May 15.—The Town Council here last evening after a long discussion fixed the fee for liquor licenses at $270. The shop licenses were fixed at $200 and the number 4.

Messrs. Farrell & Pascoe shipped yesterday a carload of heavy horses for Pennsylvania. The average weight of the 14 was 1500 lbs.

Chief of Police Smith has tendered his resignation. The matter is under consideration.

Evangelists Crossley and Hunter closed a series of services, which have lasted for about five weeks, in the Methodist Church here last night. The church was densely packed and hundreds turned away. About 200 have professed conversion. The evangelists go to Exeter.

A Victory For the Antis.

COBOURG, May 15.—At the annual meeting of the Alumni Association of the Victoria University, these officers were elected: President, H. McMullen, M.A., Picton; first vice-president, Dr. Downey, St. Catharines; second vice-president, N. Gordon Bigelow, Toronto; secretary-treasurer, John Rayden, B.A., Cobourg. Wm. Kerr, Q.C., was re-elected vice-chancellor and Messrs. H. Hough and C. A. Master, M.A., of Toronto were chosen for the vacant seats in the senate. They are anti-federationists.

A Saloonkeeper's Crime.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 15.—John Shroder, a grocer and saloonkeeper, this morning walked up behind his wife as she was standing with their 2 months-old infant in her arms and cut her throat from ear to ear with a razor, killing her. The baby was seriously injured by the mother falling upon it. Shroder then walked across the street to a vacant lot, where he cut his own throat and died in a few minutes. He was suffering from an insane freak and imagined his family would come to want, though he was in comfortable circumstances.

ARRIVED—Another cargo of 40 chests of Superb Japan Tea at M. R. Kidd's.

Why will you cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief? Price 10c. 50c. and $1. J. C. Wells & Co., proprietors, Le Roy, N. Y.

AFTER BUFFALO CALVES.

BABY STEALING ON THE PLAINS AN EXCITING BUSINESS.

Domestic Cows Corralled to Nurture the Wild Young Ones—A Sample Hunt and What It Netted—What Maternal Affection Will Dare and Do.

Until within the last five years it was not strange or uncommon for buffalo cows and calves to be found herded with the wild cattle of the ranges, and the spring round ups always reported more or less sport for the daring and reckless "cow punchers" with buffalo calves. Western men have at last, however, begun to realize, with more than a little regret, that the large droves of buffaloes roaming at will over the trackless plains of the territories formed sights that are forever to be lost, and to realize also that the shameful slaughter of these picturesque brutes has been a waste of gold. The fact that the domesticated buffalo and the cross breeds are both very valuable and easily herded is just now giving a new zest to the sport of buffalo hunting, and the dangers of the chase are increased ten fold by the fact that the object now is not to kill, but to capture.

To make prisoners of the young or to bring upon one's self the fierce avenging fury of a buffalo cow, by throwing a rope over her calf, requires the utmost self possession as well as that peculiar daredevil familiarity with saddle and horse which are found so fully developed in the range riders of the western plains. The hunt is profitless if the calves are injured, and the preparations for the care of the captives are not only minute, but necessarily expensive. Domestic cows are provided as wet nurses, and a constant watchfulness is observed over these compulsory foster mothers until they have overcome a not unnatural repugnance to their new charges. The calves, however, when captured and placed in a corral with their nurses, display no excessive modesty in foraging for milk, and their impetuous raids upon the new commissary are extremely amusing.

An important element in the buffalo hunting of today is the fact that the females give birth to their young very early in the spring, and the hunt must be accomplished before the beginning of the spring round up of cattle, or the calves become too strong to capture alive.

A SPECIMEN RAID.

In February two four horse teams, with heavy wagons behind them, pulled slowly out of the town of Rawlins, Wy. T. In the first wagon, and in charge of the expedition, was a gentleman known as "the colonel," whose weather beaten and genial face was aglow with the pleasures of anticipation and whose wagon was packed with comfortable bedding, "grub," cooking utensils, and last, but not least, a varied assortment, consisting of sour mash, Martel cigars, tobacco, pipes, rifles, etc. Beside him sat John, rotund, smiling and evidently content with the world as it is.

The rear wagon contained 2,000 pounds of baled hay and a quantity of rope to be used for lariats, and was manned by a notable John, who, the colonel swore, could transform a jack rabbit into a pullet, or if the very worst should befall them, could broil the harness leather so that it would be as good as a tenderloin.

Three days' traveling carried the party to the northern boundary of the Red desert, where were waiting the hunters—Wright, Chapman and Gomez, a Mexican vaquero. Each hunter had a "string" of eight horses. Twenty-five dollars was the stipulated price of each calf which should be caught uninjured and bound by the feet. At 4 o'clock on the following morning breakfast was announced, and at its finish all hands but the cook saddled their horses and "hit the trail," driving the extra saddle horses before them.

After quietly riding for an hour Gomez called attention to a buffalo trail, and followed it at some distance in advance of the others, carefully watching ahead. The trail lead through sage brush, over the plains, across innumerable draws, until Gomez reached the summit of a low range of hills, when he suddenly wheeled his horse and returned to the party. Instantly all was excitement; the game was in sight. One enormous bull, four cows and three calves were browsing, unsuspicious of danger, about half a mile away from the party. Fresh horses were roped and saddled, and the hunters separated to surround the herd with as little noise as possible. At a signal from Wright, given when each of the hunters had crept as close as possible, the three horses made a dash forward. With a snort of fear the bull threw up his head, and seeing Wright rushing upon him he wheeled in blind terror and plunged headlong towards Chapman, whose horse reared and fell backward. As Chapman swung himself out of the saddle unhurt the terrified brute went past him like a cyclone.

FIGHTING FOR THEIR YOUNG.

Meanwhile Gomez had thrown his rope over a calf, and was in the act of getting out of his saddle to tie the calf's legs when the mother came dashing through the sage brush with a savage bellowing for her young. As the infuriated brute rushed toward him, Gomez dropped his rope and swung his horse around, and the cow, finding both Gomez and Wright galloping toward her from the rear, fled, panic stricken, and her calf was secured. By this time the others of the herd were a mile away with Chapman flying after them. Another calf was run down and tied before its mother had sufficiently recovered from her fright to notice its absence. The three hunters then put their horses to a gallop to run down the remaining calf. A half hour's hard riding brought them up to the band again, but this time under vastly different choleric conditions.

The cows that had lost their calves were furious, and the one whose calf was still with her was disposed to fight savagely. The calf was exhausted by the run and the cows were decidedly vicious. So, giving their horses a breathing space, the three hunters separated again, coming upon the band from different points. As they approached cautiously, intending if possible to stampede the herd and rope the calf as it fell behind, one of the infuriated cows made a sidelong dash, and in a twinkling Wright's long legs were in the air and his horse lay kicking in the sage brush, while the cow was plunging away down the plain with the speed of an unlimited express. Chapman threw his rope on the calf, and as it bellowed, its mother turned upon Chapman, who was forced to drop the rope to avoid a collision which would have been certain death.

Finding her calf free the cow fled and was run away from the calf by Chapman and Gomez, while Wright, who had picked himself up and got into his saddle again, followed, overtaking the calf, and throwing another rope over it secured the last of the three. One of the wagons was brought up and the calves loaded into it. Saddle horses were again changed and the party moved the camp about twelve miles to a corral, where domestic cows were held awaiting their new charges.

The following day was spent in a fruitless search for other buffaloes, but on the third day two other calves were captured, making in all five captives as the result of a ten days' hunt.—New York Herald.

A Blaze at Forest.

FOREST, May 15.—A fire broke out at 8 o'clock this evening in the frame building occupied by R. Stirrett as a general store, caused by the explosion of a lamp in the upper story. The flames were confined pretty much to the upper flat. The building is owned by Mr. Wm. Stonehouse and is insured in the Gore District, Montreal. The stock, part of which was saved, is insured in the Gore District for $3000, Ontario Mutual $4000, Royal Canadian $1000.

Ferry-boat Collision.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—The ferryboat Peerless plying between here and Gloucester, N.J., collided with the Philadelphia and Reading ferryboat J. S. Schultz to-day, badly injuring five young women passengers on the Schultz and carrying away a portion of the ladies' cabin. Flora Jackson and Annie Quinby are badly injured and will probably die.

Visited by the G.M.

INGERSOLL, May 15.—Queen Victoria Lodge C.O.O.F., M.U., Ingersoll, was paid a fraternal visit by G.M. Bro. Henry Richards, who made a brilliant address on the inauguration of the great Manchester Unity, together with the rapidity of the growth of this society in the Dominion during the last year. Mr. Curnley was initiated. A proposition was also laid on the table.

More Breweries Anglicised.

NEWARK, N.J., May 15.—Two more breweries here have been added to the English syndicate—the ale brewery of D. M. Lyon & Son, and the beer brewery of Franz Kustner. Six hundred thousand dollars was offered for the Balantine Company's brewery, but it was refused. A brewery in Jersey City, Hopwell's in New York and two in Ohio are said to be in the combine.

Robbed by Footpads.

MONTREAL, May 15.—While Miss Leona Fontainbleau, a member of T. J. Farron's Help Company, now playing at the Theatre Royal, was returning from the theatre last night she was knocked down in Craig-street and robbed of a small hand valise containing a gold watch, chain and other trinkets, presents from her mother.

A Smuggler's Schooner Seized.

QUEBEC, May 15.—The customs authorities seized at St. Thomas a small schooner on a charge of smuggling liquor. The vessel has been brought here and placed in charge of the guardians. A quantity of spirits were found on board concealed under a lot of shingles.

We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. An Entertainment in an Hotel Yard.

Prof. Martyn, the humorist, who attempted to give an entertainment on the market square last night but gave it up in disgust because his audience failed to contribute when the hat was passed around, gave an entertainment last night in the yard of the City hotel. Men will not as a rule drop anything into a hat which is being passed around by some unknown character, but let the same individual get into a hall or any place where he can charge and entrance fee and the same men who would not give before are the first to pay their money to get on the inside. The crowd which paid their ten cents and passed through the gang way was to see the professor humorize numbered about forty or fifty, but the entertainment given was not so bad by any means. Martyn is a man whose powers of imitation and impersonation are exceedingly good and his control of the muscles of his face was remarkable. He sang, recited and gave all kinds of imitations and amused his audience.

A QUIET WEDDING

Performed Here that is Causing Excitement in Port Hope.

On the 24th of August last a couple came quietly to Peterborough from Port Hope and were married by the Rev. S. J. Shorey. It being a somewhat unusual occurrence, a REVIEW reporter believed it worthy of being noticed and made enquiries of Mr. Shorey regarding the marriage. The rev. gentleman, however, said that he had married a couple, but that the groom had requested him not to send a notice of it to the papers and to give no information to the papers, and as he had promised not to do so he could say nothing. This aroused curiosity, as it looked as if there might be something behind, and the names of the party having been ascertained the telephone wire between here and Port Hope was used, but with small results, and the following paragraph was published:—

"A QUIET WEDDING.—A couple were married here last night by a Methodist clergyman, who had the ceremony performed in a quiet manner. They were Mr. Johnston, of Toronto, whose calling was given as that of a student, and Miss Adelaide Maybee, of Port Hope. They proceeded to the parsonage, having procured the license, and were made one in the presence of the minister's family only and departed as quietly as they came."

It seems the suspicion that there was something unusual about the marriage was correct. Last Friday the following notice appeared in the Port Hope Guide:—

"TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

"A report is going the rounds of the town to the effect that I am married. I wish to give an emphatic denial to this statement and take this means of doing so.

"Yours truly,
"May 16th, 1889. "J. H. JOHNSTON."

According to the Guide Mr. Johnston was paying marked attention to another young lady of Port Hope, and Mr. Jarvis Maybee had taken steps to verify the proofs of the marriage. On the day upon which Mr. Johnston's denial was published Mr. Maybee had obtained the following certificate from Mr. Shorey, which is published in the Guide of yesterday:—

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 10th, 1889.

To Whom it may Concern:

This is to say that on the 24th of August, 1888, at my residence in Peterborough I married, in the presence of two witnesses, John Johnston, of Toronto, and Miss Adelaide Maybee, of Port Hope, and to the best of my knowledge and belief the enclosed photographs taken by Mr. E. T. Hamly, of Port Hope, and marked by me A and B, are the photographs of the said John Johnston and Adelaide Maybee, respectively.

(Signed), S. J. SHOREY,
Methodist Minister,
Peterborough.

P.S.—I further say that the marriage certificate shown me to-day and which bears my signature as officiating minister, and the signatures of Eliza R. Shorey and Martha Moon as witnesses, is genuine, and is the certificate issued by me on the said 24th of August, 1888. S. J. S.

The Guide was also shown two letters Mr. Johnston had written to Mr. Maybee, and it uses strong language in reference to his conduct in writing them as well as in regard to his denial of the marriage performed here.

Fire Works on the 24th.

The Fire Brigade and band have arranged for a grand fire works exhibition on the night of the 24th May. Palmer's Sons of Rochester will supply the combustibles. The programme so far decided, provides that the band will leave the hall on Simcoe st. at 7.30 p.m. and march to the P.A.A.A. grounds in Ashburnham. There the Brigade will take charge of the fire works, fences, gates and tickets. The admission is only 15c., or two for a quarter. The display will be a good one and worth everybody's patronage. 1d115

On the Diamond.

The Secretary of the P. A. A. baseball club has received a letter from the Varsity baseball club, of Toronto, asking if that club could be given a date here on the 22nd of May. They ask a cash guarantee of $45. They go to Kingston to play on the 24th. A picked nine might be found which could play with them, but they play a pretty game of ball and it would be a good exhibition.

The Athletics and P. A. A. A. nines were to play a practice game on the Association grounds this morning.

The Campbellford club will play a match here on the 24th with the P. A. A. A. nine.

The Campbellford Herald says:—"The baseball club has gone into vigorous training to make a good showing with other teams. They expect to play their first match with the Peterborough nine in that town on the 24th inst. The team is as strong as it was last year, and good playing may be expected from it."

Sports in the Sixties.

Rumors from the edges of the south ward say that numbers of athletic young men are practicing for the 24th May sports on the P.A.A.A. grounds. Probably a greasy pole climb will be one of the events on the programme. With a view of forestalling any inventive genius the fact is recalled of a 24th May sports away back in the sixties. Same grounds, thundering hot day. Greasy pole fairly glistening with a coat of wagon grease. Failure of all competitors to get up. Along comes a strapping fellow in an undershirt and pair of thin trousers. Takes hold of the pole and to the surprise of the crowd after an effort or two shines up to the top. Something suspicious in his walk led to an investigating committee interviewing him in the shed. He had inserted a piece of the wire covering of a carding machine roller on the inside of the legs of his trousers and so gained his grip. As a reward for his inventive genius the prize was paid, but the committee won't stand anything of the kind on the 24th.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

INSPECTOR HODGSON GIVES A SATISFACTORY REPORT.

The Complaints Against the Collegiate Institute Management—Mr. Long Questions the Inspector and Receives Satisfactory Answers—The Collegiate Institute Building.

A special meeting of the the Board of Education was held yesterday afternoon in the Board room, for the purpose of hearing what Inspector Hodgson, who had been here here on an official visit for two days, had to say in regard to the Collegiate Institute. The meeting was of a rather informal character. Chairman Stevenson presided and there were present Messrs. Dumble, Denne, Kendry, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Boucher, Wrighton, McWilliams and English.

THE INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

Inspector HODGSON simply made a verbal report. He said that he had seen the gymnasium that had been built, and, proportionately, the building was well adapted to the school, although it still required some further equipments called for in the regulations which would probably cost about fifty or seventy dollars. As to the equipment of the Institute itself it was up to the regulation requirements. If they got a new building they should have a room for science, and if they remained in the present building they should have tables put in the room that was used by the science class for experiments.

Mr. WRIGHTON asked the inspector if his chief objection was not to the narrowness of the halls.

Mr. HODGSON said that was one of the weaknesses of the building and he also condemned the circular staircase in the building. Mr. Hodgson said it seemed to him from what he had heard that the impression had arisen that when he was here before he was trying to bully the Board into erecting a new building, but he was not. If they could fit up the present building to meet the requirements he would be satisfied. "As regards the staff and management," asked Mr. Hodgson, "do you wish me to express an opinion?"

The CHAIRMAN said they did.

Mr. HODGSON—"Well, I consider the school is run in a satisfactory manner indeed, as satisfactory as possible under the present arrangements." He then went on to speak of a couple of suggestions he had made to Mr. Long in regard to the teaching of writing in the school hereafter, and in reference to the Euclid classes.

EUCLID IN THE SCHOOLS.

In regard to the teaching of Euclid in the third form, the inspector said it was not done because in the third form there were a large number of pupils who were preparing for the third class certificate and Euclid not being an examination subject would be an unnecessary subject. But he said that there was no reason, if the Board so desired, why Euclid should not be taught in the third form.

Mr. DUMBLE said they did desire and he thought it should be taught, as pupils were often kept back by the fact that, being unable to take the subject up in the third form, they remained in the class where it was taught. He said these certificate examinations were a nuisance, and what they wanted was not for the county pupils to get an education at the expense of the town boys, but they preferred that the town boys be given a good education and he thought Euclid should be taught in the third form.

Mr. LONG said he had again and again allowed pupils from the third form who so desired to take up Euclid.

Dr. BOUCHER enquired of the inspector if special courses were not allowed.

The inspector said to have special courses simply meant that the school would be flooded with those who wanted a little French or some special subject.

THE COMPLAINTS AGAINST THE INSTITUTE.

Here Mr. Long rose and asked the permission of the Chairman a few questions in reference to the Institute. The permission was granted.

Mr. LONG's first question was:—"Mr. Hodgson, will you explain to the Board what your opinion of the order and discipline of the Institute is?"

Mr. DUMBLE—We know enough about it now.

Mr. HODGSON—It was satisfactory.

Mr. LONG—Did you find the pupils inclined to be unruly and boistrous?

Mr. HODGSON—I think the manners of the pupils of this school are exceptionally good.

Mr. LONG—In physical exercises, for which we have an hour and half a week how do you find them?

Mr. HODGSON—Of course you are compelled to put these on your list, and as regards drill and calesthenics I find them perfectly satisfactory.

Mr. LONG—Did you find the maps and books correct?

Mr. HODGSON—I did not examine the maps, but the books and apparatus were in good order.

Mr. LONG—Do you find the pupils getting up their work?

Mr. HODGSON—They are getting up their work as far as I can tell.

Mr. LONG—Was my teaching satisfactory?

Mr. HODGSON—Perfectly, I am surprised that you ask such a question.

Mr. LONG—There have been complaints made and I ask these questions form a personal motive.

WHY THE QUESTIONS WERE ASKED.

Mr. DUMBLE, addressing the Inspector, said that Mr. Long asked these questions because there had been complaints ventilated in the Board of the Institute management. He was glad to hear such good reports, but, he said, it had been charged for a long time that the school was disjointed and undisciplined and it had been said that boys played cards, brought liquor into the grounds and that sort of thing. Upon his (the Inspector's) coming here perhaps everything looked rosy to him, but a committee had been appoint to investigate the grievances complained of and that was the reason these questions had been asked. No doubt much of the confusion was due the fact of having five hundred common school pupils on the grounds.

Mr. HODGSON—I was going to say that.

Mr. DUMBLE said strong complaints had been made of the teaching of English. Unfortunately they as a board were not in a position to go into the schools and form a correct judgment.

Mr. LONG—There is a Supervision Committee and you are on it.

Mr. DUMBLE said nevertheless the members of the Board had been away from school for thirty or more years and at all event had not the time to visit the schools frequently. It was felt, he said, that the school was not giving good results, and an inspector, he had been told, had stated elsewhere that the Peterborough Institute was "going to the d——l."

Mr. HODGSON—What kind of an inspector said that?

Mr. DUMBLE—A High School Inspector.

Mr. HODGSON—I don't believe it. I never said it and I don't believe my colleague would say it.

Mr. LONG said he had made the statement in writing, and would stand by it, that the order inside the Institute was and always had been as nearly perfect as possible, and ministers, Mr. Dumble and others who had visited the school must know that. Two persons had stopped him on the street before the complaints had been made and had remarked on the quietness they had observed in the Institute. As to the result of the work they had passed nineteen last year, which was a larger number than ever before during his five years and he was told for ten years past. He said the fee of $2 50 per month kept the county pupils from attending the school, which should be considered.

Mr. HODGSON said he considered nineteen a very good number. As regarded English, he said Mr. Earle taught it and taught it well. Mr. Earle, he said, can teach if he wishes to, and he had found his class satisfactory. The county pupils, the Inspector said, were as a rule better material for the Institute than the town or city ones.

THE INSTITUTE BUILDING.

Mr. DUMBLE then referred to the matter of making the proposed alterations in the Collegiate Institute. He said if they spent their money improving the building, the common school would want more rent and they now had to pay $750 a year, which was a good deal to expend on such a building annually, and he believed it would be better to build another building.

Mr. HODGSON said that was a matter for the Board to settle themselves, but there was little doubt in any person's mind but that a separate building was infinitely better than the present accommodation.

The CHAIRMAN said Mr. Edwards, the Town Solicitor, had said that possibly it would be illegal to submit the Institute by-law a second time to the people this year, in which case he thought they had better make the proposed improvements in the present building so they could be finished before the vacation was over.

Mr. DUMBLE asked the Inspector what he thought of the Smead-Dowd system.

Mr. HODGSON said it was the most splendid system of heating and ventilation he had ever seen.

After a little further informal discussion the Board thanked the Inspector for his report and adjourned.

DISTRICT METHODIST MEETING.

Examination of Candidates for the Ministry—The Lay Delegates Present.

The afternoon session of the Methodist District which opened in the Charlotte-st. church yesterday morning, was occupied in the theological examination of candidates for the ministry. There were three gentlemen presented themselves, Messrs. Chas. H. Coon, W. D. Harrison and E. A. Their examination was satisfactory and they will be recommended to the Conference to be received as probationers.

Mr. Ready has the sympathy of the entire neighborhood in his bereavement. I may also state that his oldest boy William is now under the doctor's care in Peterborough. It is thought he is in decline."

A Match Arranged.

The Riversides have finally arranged a lacrosse match for the 24th, the Torontos having accepted terms and agreed to come here to play on that day. The Riversides have been practicing hard of late, and their opponents being an exceptionally strong team, a good game may be expected. The game will be played at the Riverside Park in the afternoon, and there will probably be a good turnout to see the champions play their first match of the season.

In her Dramatic

Hastings Bridge.

The Star says that remarkable progress has been made in the erection of the new Grand Junction railway bridge, which is being put up by Mr. W. H. Law. Three spans are completed, and the workmen are engaged on the last stretch, which comprises the double swing, and on Sunday next the track men will shift the rails of the main line, at the approaches, to conform to the new line. The first train is expected to cross the bridge on Monday. An artist was around the vicinity last Monday, taking photographic views.

A Fearful Blow.

A man named John Armstrong met with accident, by which he received a severe wound, in Ashburnham this forenoon. He was assisting to dig a well on Mr. Carlisle's property, and was working a windlass for drawing up the earth. He had drawn the bucket to the top when his foot slipped, and the crank came around and struck him a fearful blow on the head, cutting a gash several inches long from the forehead back. The bucket went down the well with crash, and the man in the bottom narrowly escaped being crushed. Armstrong was driven to town and his injury was dressed by Dr. Goldsmith.

Recitals.

Legal.

In the Empire's report of the legal proceedings at Toronto on Tuesday the following appears:—"Kelly v. O'Sullivan.—Judgment delivered in mortgage action tried at the last Peterborough assizes. The learned judge found that there was no agreement between the defendant (mortgagor) and John O'Sullivan (mortgagee), that the latter should discharge the mortgage if the former provided for the maintenance of their mother. He also found that a certain receipt produced by the defendant purporting to be for $1,500 was in fact a receipt for $11, for interest paid. Judgment to be entered for plaintiff for $1,480, with interest at 8 per cent. from April 28th, 1889, and possession of the land after six months from April 28th. Defendant to pay full costs. O'Meara (Peterborough) for plaintiff. Colville (Campbellford) for the defendant."

FATAL FIRE AT QUEBEC.

MAJOR SHORT AND SARGEANT WALLECK, OF B. BATTERY, KILLED.

The Houses Burned Counted by the Hundred—Heavy Losses—The Sargeant's Body Found Horribly Mangled—A Thousand People Homeless—Still Burning.

By Telegraph to the Review.

QUEBEC, May 16.—Early this morning fire broke out in a vacant building in St. Sauveur, a suberb of the the city, owned by Mrs. McCann, and quickly assumed large dimensions. The alarm caused and the entire population of St. Sauveur was soon on the spot. The flames spread with great rapidity and it was evident that the village fire brigade was quite unable to cope with the emergency. Volunteers worked hard, but lack of organization and properly water supply told fearfully against their efforts.

Mayor Langelier, of Quebec, when informed of the conflagration, immediately ordered out the city brigade and in a short time they were on the scene. The brigade was considerably crippled, owing to want of water, but their two engines, after short delay succeeded in throwing good streams upon flames. "B" Battery of artillery was called out to aid the firemen and workers in fighting the flames, and by seven o'clock the fire was under control, having burned itself out. While the military were preparing to blow up some houses to check the fire from spreading, a took place in one of the houses, killing Major Short and Sergant Walleck of "B" Battery. Both were buried in the ruins. Up to this hour (9 o'clock) the body of Major Short has not been recovered. That of Sergt. Walleck was found near the door, dreadfully mangled. It is impossible to closely estimate the loss, but as the houses burned are it will no doubt reach if not exceed $100,000. Most of insurance companies doing business here are interested.

STILL BURNING.

QUEBEC, May 16, 2.30 p.m.—The fire in St. Sauveur, although checked on city side, is still burning furiously towards the north-west and no hopes are entertained of stopping it until open country is reached. Already about four hundred buildings have been destroyed the greater part of which were small wooden tenements. Over a thousand people are rendered homeless, many of whom are camped out in the fields, while the remainder have found shelter with friends in the city.

THE MAJOR'S BODY FOUND.

Major Short's body was found shortly after nine o'clock, minus a leg and arm, which were found some distance from the trunk. The insurance on the burned buildings is comparatively small.

The people of Peterborough and vicinity are all aware of the business change which took place in the CITY CLOTHING STORE on the first day of February last. The new firm beg leave to make their first bow to the public through the columns of the REVIEW, and to request a careful perusal of the following Spring and Summer circular:—

The City Clothing Store

The members of which the new firm is composed will form a still stronger "combine," by which the CITY CLOTHING STORE will be even better prepared to procure for its customers a continuation of those superior inducements in the future for which it has been noted in the past.

THURSDAY, MAY 16, 1889.

HIS OWN PROPERTY.

She looked across the road, and smiled and nodded at him, and half hesitated, as though expecting him to come over and join her. He merely bowed and hurried on to the vicarage.

Mrs. Morrison was tying up carnations in the garden, and he joined her there.

"Have you seen Miss Fairfax this morning?" he asked.

"Yes, I saw her go by just now."

"Who is that with her?"

Mrs. Morrison was silent for a moment; then she said quietly: "The man she is engaged to."

"How do you know she is engaged?" cried Bernard fiercely.

"Strangely enough, I heard it in the train yesterday. It seems to be a secret, but I wish I had known it before."

Mrs. Morrison went on tying up her flowers.

"I couldn't have believed it of her!" she said at last.

"I don't believe it. There is some mistake."

"I am afraid not. There were two ladies in my carriage yesterday who saw him get out here. One said, 'Why, there is George Langley!' and the other answered, 'Oh, that is Ellie Fairfax's fiance. How very odd! When is that coming off?' and then I was obliged to get out myself, so I heard no more. But I am afraid that it must be true."

There was no reply; she looked up anxiously after a moment's pause and the haggard face and gloomy eyes that met her gaze went to her heart.

"My dear boy!" she said, her affectionate tone full of sympathy.

"I wouldn't mind so much," said Bernard, hoarsely, "if she did not look so miserable."

Yes, that was where the sting lay. If she had seemed happy he could have blamed himself for his own folly in ever hoping to win her. But she looked so wretched whenever he met her with her new companion that he could not trust himself to approach the subject.

If Mrs. Morrison were right it must be a foolish youthful engagement now repented of, and if she were to own as much to him he did not know what he might be tempted to say or suggest. His own safety lay in avoiding her, while he yet cherished a faint hope that there might be some mistake. So, for two whole days he absented himself from the Lawn—a marked proceeding on his part, indeed.

Sunday was wet and stormy. In the evening the wind and rain were so unusual for the time of year that he had half a mind to stay at home. But Ellie never missed evening service, and a jealous desire to know if she would give it up for her lover drove him to church again.

From his lonely seat of state in the chancel he would watch the young couple in their distant pew. There they sat side by side apparently content. He watched them all through the service and when he saw the sailor deliberately shut his hymn-book in order to share hers it was confirmation of his worst fears.

Service over he joined the stream of people that issued slowly from the church. Ellie lingered in the porch being wrapped securely from the storm by her lover.

"That's all right, Nell," he said cheerfully. "Now take my arm and hang on tight; we shall do well enough together under one umbrella."

"Nell!" Then he had his own name for her. That destroyed the last vestige of hope and Bernard Hayes sought his way slowly home.

To-morrow he would leave Woodleigh. He could not stay to see Ellie look like that any longer. Her white, sad face seemed to haunt him; he would go away and forget it.

He went up to London and sought the forgetfulness that refused to come. He prepared to go abroad, but before beginning the journey it was necessary to visit Woodleigh to arrange certain business affairs.

It was a lovely day, several weeks after his sudden departure, that found him again at home. His business was quickly dispatched and he found as he set out for the station that he had plenty of time. His way led through the woods where Ellie had so sternly rebuked him, and which he had since learned to know well, under her guidance. His thoughts were full of her as he loitered under the arching boughs, and as he turned the corner of a long green ride he came face to face with Ella herself.

She looked worn and changed. Poor child! she had suffered much in the last two weeks. It had been a terrible blow to her to see Bernard depart in that sudden, mysterious manner, and the efforts to preserve an air of indifference had been too much for her.

Walking wearily along in the July sunshine she felt that the brightness of the day around her did but mock her heavy heart. And then suddenly, without any warning, the day took an added glory and the birds sung a new melody, for Bernard stood before her.

She could not help the glad surprise that shone swiftly in her eyes nor the smile that lit up her whole face.

"I did not know that you were here," she said in excuse.

"I am only down for a few hours," he said. "I am starting for Norway in a day or two."

"Oh, indeed!"

Bernard was desperate; he must know the truth at all costs.

"I am glad to see you before I go; I wished to congratulate you," he said abruptly.

"To congratulate me! On what?"

"On your engagement to Mr. Langley."

Ellie turned on him imperiously; a sudden flash of instinct told her all.

"Who told you that I was engaged to George Langley?" she demanded.

"Mrs. Morrison," and he detailed the remark she had overheard.

"If she had listened to the end of that conversation she would have heard the answer. 'Never!'" cried Ellie indignantly.

"Then you are not engaged to him?" cried Bernard eagerly.

"No, nor never shall be. He is my cousin, and we have been like brother and sister all our lives."

"Ellie, my darling, what a fool I have been! Can you ever forgive me?"

Her hands were held in his, his eyes were looking into hers. On the very spot where they first met Ellie looked up slyly, blushing, and whispered: "Yes."

"I never should have thought that you would have believed such a thing," she said.

"I must have been mad," he answered. "But I could not mistrust what seemed the evidence of my own eyes."

"I thought you knew all about George," she said. "He is an orphan, and his home was always with us. He was at home on leave, and had only three days to say good-by in."

"But you looked so miserable; how could I tell that you were only parting with a cousin?"

"He has been a brother to me all my life. Poor George! He is so tender hearted, too, and could not bear leaving us. Besides——"

"Besides what?" he asked as she paused.

"Besides, you never came near us for three days and I could not think what was the matter," owned Ellie softly.

"I thought I had no right to come near you."

"I think you have been very unlucky," she said smiling, "or very much ill-used. This is the second time you have been warned off of your own property!"

AMBITIOUS CITY NEWS.

The Junction Cut Inquest Resumed—The P. M. G.'s Competitors.

HAMILTON, May 15.—The inquest into the circumstances of the late accident on the Grand Trunk Railway was resumed at 3 o'clock this afternoon at No. 3 police station. The coroner and jury are about tired out, and it is altogether likely that the investigation will soon be brought to a close.

Several agencies are being formed here to compete with the post office in delivering city letters and parcels. One agency has offered the Masonic lodges of the city to deliver their notices at 75 cents per hundred. Another has two deliveries a day for letters and charges only 1 cent each.

The Hamilton Fertilizing and Casing Company were charged at the Police Court this morning with maintaining a nuisance at their premises. Considerable evidence was given as to the unpleasant odor which arises from their factory and the case was adjourned for a week.

The summer carnival will be held August 19-23. The city council has granted $1750 towards the fund.

Rev. Mr. Crawford of Trinity Church, Brockville, has accepted a call from the Church of Ascension here and will come to Hamilton about the end of June.

Meeting of the Conference of the Methodist Church.

VICTORIA, May 15.—The British Columbia Conference of the Methodist Church began its third session at 9 o'clock this morning in the Pandora-street Church in this city, Rev. Dr. Carman, General Superintendent, in the chair. The transfers to and from the conference having been reported and recorded, the voting for president and secretary was proceeded with, which resulted in the election of Rev. Joseph Hall for president and Rev. C. Bryant for secretary, the election being decided by the first ballot in both cases.

A HORSE WHO CAN TALK!

Everybody has heard of a "horse laugh," but who has ever seen an equine gifted with the power of speech? Such an animal would be pronounced a miracle; but so would the telegraph and the telephone a hundred years ago. Why, even very recently a cure for consumption, which is universally acknowledged to be scrofula affecting the lungs, would have been looked upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it, if taken in time and given a fair trial. This world-renowned remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have failed. Thousands gratefully testify to this. It is the most potent tonic, or strength restorer, alterative, or blood-cleanser and nutritive, or flesh-builder, known to medical science. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh in the Head, and all Lingering Coughs, it is an unequaled remedy. In derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels, as Indigestion, or Dyspepsia, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Chronic Diarrhea, and kindred ailments, it is a sovereign remedy.

GUARANTEED. "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine of its class, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will benefit or cure in every case of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

FRIDAY, MAY 17 1889.

FIRE-SWEPT ST. SAUVEUR.

THE LOSSES AGGREGATE OVER HALF A MILLION.

Some of the Insurance Companies Hard Hit—Sergt. Wallack Still Alive but His Injuries Probably Fatal.

QUEBEC, May 16.

The fire raged until nearly noon and about 500 buildings were burnt, mostly small wooden tenements. Over 1000 persons were forced to camp out in the fields, the remainder finding shelter with friends in the city.

The Dominion Government having been appealed to has placed the new armory and old court house at the disposal of the homeless. Premier Mercier and several other gentlemen visited the scene this morning and supplied the poorer people with food. The Local Government will hold a meeting to decide upon measures for the relief of the sufferers.

The total loss is estimated at $600,000. Insurances are as follows:

Queen	$ 2,500	Lancashire	$2000
Guardian	12,500	Hartford	2000
British America	5,000	Scottish Union	5000
London & Lan..	6,000	Citizens	2000
Agricultural (Watertown)	35,500	L. & L. & G.	3400
N. B. & Mer.	12,000	Quebec	6000
Western	6,000	Imperial	4500
Glasgow & L.	20,000

Major Short of "B" Battery was killed and Sergt. Wallack fatally injured by a premature explosion while blowing up a house in attempting to stay the progress of the flames. Major Short's body is charred beyond recognition. The remains will be taken to Kingston for burial.

[Major C. J. Short was one of the best known officers of the permanent corps in the Dominion. He was a thorough soldier and in the Northwest rebellion commanded the detachment from "B" Battery attached to the Battleford column under Col. Otter, and commanded the artillery in the attack on Pound-Maker at Cut Knife, where he served the Gatling gun himself. He was an ideal artillery officer, and on his way back to Battleford did his best to cheer the wounded. Afterwards he was a regular visitor at the hospital, and many a dainty morsel prepared for the wounded came from Major Short's own quarters.]

OTHER FIRES.

Mills and a Residence at Lucknow Burnt—No Insurance.

LUCKNOW, May 16.—Last night the mills owned by R. McCarroll and rented by Mitchell Bros. were burned with all the machinery. Alex. McKay's residence near the mill was also consumed, the inmates escaping with little more than their clothing. Estimated loss about $5000, no insurance.

A Blaze at St. Kitts.

ST. CATHARINES, May 16.—The residence of James Grogan, Maple-street, was burned on Wednesday evening. Two adjoining houses were slightly damaged. Loss about $1000. Mr. Grogan's mother, who was in feeble health, narrowly escaped being burned.

A Store Burnt at North Pelham.

NORTH PELHAM, May 16.—W. H. Garrold's general store was burned Tuesday night. Nothing was saved, as the fire had obtained complete control of the premises. Insurance on the building and contents, $1200. Cause of the fire is at present unknown.

Belleville Briefs.

BELLEVILLE, May 16.—Five hundred men are at work on the railway between Tamworth and Tweed.

Rev. A. M. Pope has been asked by the official board to remain as pastor of the Holloway-street Methodist Church.

Alwilda Simmonds, aged 10, was drowned at Tweed last night. The child's parents live in that village.

L. O. L. No. 1356, Rossmore, has passed resolutions condemning those Protestant members who voted against Col. O'Brien's motion on the Jesuit bill.

A boy named Thomas Hyland, aged 8, yesterday stole a watch and chain belonging to Miss McCaffrey, a teacher in the Central School, of which he is a pupil, whilst she was absent from the department for a few minutes. The Chief of Police forced the young thief to confess and recovered the articles from the place in which they had been hidden. The Police Magistrate did not punish the boy because of his tender years but admonished him in severe terms.

The Dairymen's Board of Trade was reorganized to-day with these officers: President, Wm. McLaren; First Vice, James McComb; Second Vice, M. Robinson; Secretary-Treasurer, B. C. McCargar. Offerings—779 boxes, sales at 9½ to 9¾, bulk at the latter figures.

Why Waldrup Was Killed.

LITCHFIELD, Ill., May 16.—On April 1, 1888, Samuel Waldrup was shot while standing in his doorway. He was a prominent citizen, and the murder caused great excitement. Every clue was followed, but the murderer was never arrested. Yesterday Taylor Waldrup, a brother of the victim, received a letter from a relative in St. Louis, saying that he was the murderer. The writer says he killed Samuel Waldrup for an unnatural offense. Five hundred dollars has been offered for the arrest of the assassin.

Democratic Victory in Montana.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 16.—A Helena special to The Pioneer-Press says that the Republicans concede the control of the Montana constitutional convention to the Democrats by from 3 to 5 majority. The Herald (Republican) figures the convention at 38 Democrats, 33 Republicans, 1 Labor and 1 Independent.

After Michigan Breweries.

GRAND RAPIDS, May 16.—An English syndicate is negotiating for the purchase of seven breweries here and one in Muskegon. The prices given will aggregate $700,000. Those now in the business will retain a one-third interest.

1,000 Ladies wanted—to test the quality of those fine New Teas at M. R. KIDD'S.

PERPETUAL PENSIONERS.

MR. GOSCHEN'S COMMUTATION PROPOSAL SUSTAINED.

Ten Irish M. P.'s Now in Jail and are in Good Health—Dublin's Fight Over a Leper—The Labor Troubles.

LONDON, May 16.—In the House of Commons this evening Mr. Bradlaugh's motion opposing the Government proposal to commute perpetual pensions was rejected, 264 to 205. Mr. Bradlaugh urged the abolition of pensions having an unworthy origin, like those of the Dukes of Grafton and Richmond. Mr. Hanbury (Conservative) in seconding the motion insisted that a distinction ought to be drawn between pensions arising from public service and those due to private dishonor. It was monstrous that the families of Nelson and Nell Gwynne should receive the same treatment. The effect of the division is to enable all perpetual pensioners to commute at 27 years' purchase.

All Enjoying Good Health.

LONDON, May 16.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, stated that ten Irish members of the House are now in prison for offences under the Crimes Act. He said they are all enjoying good health.

Dillon's Progress in Australia.

LONDON, May 16.—Mr. Dillon telegraphs from Australia that immense meetings have been held at Ballarat under the auspices of the Irish deputation, and that grand donations to the Irish fund have been received.

A Fight Over a Leper.

LONDON, May 16.—The Health Committee of Dublin is conducting a stubborn fight with the Government authorities over the case of a patient afflicted with leprosy. The leper, who was formerly a soldier, is in the last stages of the disease at Hardwick Hospital. The committee is desirous of securing his removal to Netley Hospital or to Canada, but the authorities object to his being taken to either place and there the matter stands.

Aristocratic Gamblers.

LONDON, May 16.—The action of the police in the matter of club arrests in London has stirred the usually apathetic clergy into activity. A committee of the Lower House of the Canterbury Convocation has submitted an exhaustive report on the evils of gambling, accompanied by a profusion of suggestions, the adoption of which would tend to the ultimate suppression of the vicious practice. Chief among these suggestions is one showing what great strides could be made toward the happy result aimed at if the nobility would take sufficient interest in the welfare of their inferiors in rank to set the needed example. This suggestion is amusing, in view of the circumstance leading to the raids on the Adelphi and Field clubs on Sunday morning.

The eldest son of one of the Cabinet Ministers recently confessed to his father that he had been in the habit of gambling at his club, the result of his ventures being that besides losing all his ready cash, fellow-members of the club held his notes for the aggregate sum of £20,000. These notes had become due and the young man besought his father to pay them in order to save his honor. The parent yielded to his son's entreaties and paid the notes. He then took the matter in hand on his own account and ordered the police to suppress the games at the clubs his son had indicated as the ones in which he had lost his money. The result was that many of the young man's friends were arrested, and they are naturally very bitter in their characterization of the callow nobleman's conduct.

Canadian Cattle in England.

LONDON, May 16.—The Canadian cattle season is opening well. The Lake Nepigon's cargo of 300 head met ready sale. Not a single beast was lost on the voyage. The Lake Superior with 690 head is expected in a few days. An idea prevails that prices here will be much higher than last season, but The Canadian Gazette refers to the enormous imports of frozen mutton and beef, and warns Dominion exporters to avoid a speculative rush on stock for space.

The Paris Exhibition.

LONDON, May 16.—The Lord Mayor's visit to Paris is a great success. In the forced absence of Lord Lytton the Lord Mayor of London has been accepted by the French as the envoy-extraordinary of the English people. President Carnot, Tirard and others treated him with the greatest respect. I traveled with him from Paris and he told me he fears disturbances in France after the exhibition closes. He found the French feeling very sore about the national "boycott" of the exhibition. He will probably return later in full state. The exhibition will not be fully open till June. Mr. Edison promises to be one of the lions of the exhibition.

The Other Side Heard.

BERLIN, May 16.—Emperor William to-day received a deputation of Westphalian mineowners, who presented their side of the mining troubles.

A Settlement Hoped For.

BERLIN, May 16.—Hundreds of striking miners at Essen have been sworn in as special officers at their own request. At Dortmund hundreds of strikers resumed work to-day without opposition. Negotiations between the employers and employes have been begun and the probabilities are that a settlement of the differences will soon be reached.

Exploded by Lightning.

BERLIN, May 16.—The powder magazine of the fortress of Konigstein, Saxony, was to-day struck by lightning, which caused an explosion. The magazine contained thousands of shells. The sentry on duty escaped. Windows in houses in adjacent villages were shattered.

The New Comptoir d'Escompte.

PARIS, May 16.—The capital of the new Comptoir d'Escompte, which is 40,000,000 francs, has been subscribed thrice, chiefly by shareholders in the old concern.

Purely Private.

VIENNA, May 16.—In the Reichsrath to-day Premier Von Taafe stated that the recent Catholic Congress was purely private and it would not affect the friendly relations between Austria and Italy.

Women Preachers.

YORK, Pa., May 17.—In the United Brethren Conference the plan of licensing the women to preach was adopted. It was resolved that no minister shall preach more than three consecutive years at one point without the consent of the conference. The seceders, presided over by Bishop Wright, agreed to elect four bishops to send greetings to the Wesleyan Conference and to call a congress of Christian churches in the fall. At a meeting of visiting ministers and laymen resolutions were adopted protesting against the action of the seceders and declaring that they ought to be enjoined from using the name of the denomination.

Mr. Gladstone Declines.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The following reply from Mr. Wm. E. Gladstone has been received by a newspaper syndicate in this city to an offer by the syndicate to pay that distinguished gentleman $25,000 for twenty-five articles on subjects of current interest:

"At my age the stock of brain power does not wax but wanes, and public calls upon my time leave me only a decreasing residue to dispose of. All idea of a series of efforts is, therefore, I have finally decided, wholly beyond my power to entertain."

Attempt to Wreck a Train.

GREENFIELD, Mass., May 16.—An attempt was made last night to wreck passenger train No. 26 on the Fitchburg Railroad bound west, a short distance beyond Shelburne Falls, by placing ties and sleepers on the track. If the obstructions had not been discovered a terrible smash-up, attended with loss of life, must have resulted.

THE GALT HOLINESS CASE.

Considered by the Synod—The Defendants' Appeal Dismissed.

BOWMANVILLE, May 16.—At the meeting of the Presbyterian Synod yesterday afternoon the Galt holiness case was taken up. The parties in the case were called to the bar and the papers read, the latter taking up much time, as the literature of the case has become voluminous.

Mr. J. K. Cranston spoke in support of the appeal from the decision of the Presbytery of Guelph, and was followed by Mr. J. D. Cranston. Both speeches repudiated the imputation of holding and teaching absolute and perfect holiness.

Rev. Dr. Middlemiss, in defence of the action taken by the session of Knox Church, Galt, and the Presbytery of Guelph, said that the agitation of this question in Knox Church is fraught with danger if not disaster. Dr. Middlemiss gave an account of the successive steps taken in dealing with the appellants by the session of Knox Church, Galt. He further said sin being in man and putting forth its power is not of God. The fullest provision is made for its destruction, but God does not bestow all at once what He might bestow. He could, if He pleased, ordain that man should be sinless on his conversion, or take him to heaven, But he does not. It is not the question can He, but does He impart such grace, that man can live without sin. This Church has always held that God has not promised to extinguish the evil principle in the heart in this life, but has left that to the end of time with each individual. But the appellants hold that God does this and that they enjoy entire freedom from sin, which is a direct denial of the standards of the Church. We all believe that all who are born of God do not commit sin, that is, live under the dominion of sin. The appellants fail to distinguish between the inhabitation of sin and the dominion of sin—that is one of their chief errors. Dr. Middlemiss, in summing up, said: First, they hold and insist on disseminating views contrary to the standards that men can live without sin. Second, that these views are dangerous, inasmuch that a man thinks he is sinless when he is not so. Third, that they have had all rights accorded them and have been dealt with in all kindness. He concluded by indicating the undesirable practical results that are likely to flow from the ideas of the appellants.

Dr. Torrance addressed the Synod in defence of the action taken by the Presbytery of Guelph. He showed from the sixth and other sections of the Confession of Faith that the views of the appellants were contrary to the doctrines of the subordinate standards of the Presbyterian Church. He concluded by referring to the teaching of Scripture on the nature of sin, with which the opinions of the appellants are at variance, and asked that the Synod dismiss the appeal and reaffirm the decision of the Presbytery of Guelph.

Rev. Alexander Jackson spoke in answer to the appeal on behalf of the Session of Knox Church.

Messrs. J. K. and J. D. Cranston briefly replied, and questions were put by several members of the court.

The appeal was finally dismissed and the action of the Guelph Presbytery sustained. The appellants gave notice that they will appeal to the General Assembly.

SMITH AND HIS WIFE.

She Objects Because He Lives With Another Woman.

HAMILTON, May 16.—A rather distressing case came up at the Police Court this morning. Mrs. Smith charged her husband, John Smith, with assault. Just before the case was called Mrs. Smith went into a fit and was carried out of court. It is alleged that Smith left his wife and went to live with the Ketcham woman, who acted as his housekeeper. The assault is not very serious, but the cause of it worried Mrs. Smith considerably. She naturally objected to her husband having another woman keep house for him. There was a marked difference in the appearance of the women. Poor Mrs. Smith was dressed very shabbily, while Miss Ketcham wore an elegant dress and looked quite respectable. Smith himself was well dressed. His wife and family live on Concession-street, but since he has taken up with the other woman they have been neglected. He wanted the magistrate to issue a summons against his wife for throwing boiling water on him. Miss Ketcham laid a charge against Mrs. Smith for calling her indecent names. The cases will be heard to-morrow morning.

His Excellency the Governor-General and the vice-regal party are expected to leave for the Metapedia in a few days, where he will remain during the summer months.

The civic board of works has decided that the present system of taxation under the local improvement bylaw for drainage is unsatisfactory, and has recommended to the city council that, in order to more equalize the rates of taxation, the Ontario Legislature be asked to grant the city power to increase the rate of taxation for these purposes.

Sir Leonard Tilley is expected here to-night. He intends going to the Pacific Coast, the first time that he has ever visited British Columbia.

AN ALLEGED BIGAMIST.

Jeremiah Power Duggan Jailed for Having Two Wives.

HAMILTON, May 16.—This morning Detective Campbell went to St. Catharines after Jeremiah Power Duggan, who was arrested there on a charge of bigamy. Duggan is a plasterer and has been living at St. Catharines for some time. In 1874 he was a resident of Dunnville, where he was married to Miss Hannah Clark by Rev. Henry Hughes, a Methodist minister. Jeremiah endured his first wife until the latter part of December, 1885, when he deserted her and made love to Miss Mary Bradt of Waterdown. He made good progress in his love-making and obtained Miss Bradt's consent to a hasty marriage. They were united on Jan. 1, 1886, by Rev. C. O. Johnston. Duggan soon got tired of his second wife and deserted her. He has got himself into a boat now, as both the injured women are after his scalp. They are united against him.

Drowning Accident at St. Annes.

OTTAWA, May 16.—News has just been received of a drowning accident which occurred at St. Annes the day before yesterday, whereby two young men from Hull named Gervais and Pelletier lost their lives while loading a barge. At the place where the barge was anchored there was a strong current and from some cause the barge lurched a little, precipitating Pelletier into the water. His partner plunged in to his rescue, but both were swept away and drowned in view of their fellow workmen. The two unfortunate men had only been married about a year and were brothers-in-law.

TOPICS FROM TORONTO.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT WYCKLIFFE COLLEGE.

The True Blues' Session Finished—A New College for Boys—The Rosebauch Inquest Opened.

TORONTO, May 17.—The corporation of Trinity University met yesterday and adopted the report of the special committee appointed to prepare a scheme for raising a fund for the enlargement and improvement of the college buildings and for other purposes together with a circular embodying an appeal for a sum of $70,000 for these objects. Subscriptions to the amount of $6000 have already been promised.

Coroner Duncan opened an inquest into the cause of the death of Mrs. Rosebauch, 15 Mission-avenue, at the Willard Hotel, corner of Teraulay and Gerrard, yesterday morning. A jury was empannelled and after viewing the body an adjournment was made till Monday to allow the detectives who have charge of the case to bring forward testimony. The coroner explained the nature of the case to the jurymen. It is understood that the death of Mrs. Rosebauch was occasioned by an attempt to procure abortion. Her husband, who attended the inquest, was much agitated over the tragic affair which has left in his hands the sole care of three small children.

The annual session of the Ontario Grand Lodge of True Blues was finished yesterday. Brother Newman, Grand Master, presided. These officers were elected: Brother Merritt, Associate Deputy Grand Master for Lindsay; Sister Mrs. William Teasdale, Associate Grand Chaplain for Merritton; Geo. Worrell, Associate Grand Secretary; Mrs. William Robson, Associate Grand Treasurer, Hamilton. The following received the degree D.D.G.M: William Teasdale, Wentworth; James Mustice, London; G. E. Hill, Toronto; Wm. McKee, Frontenac; J. Sloan, Peterboro West; J. Jackson, Hastings; J. J. Gibson, Ontario; Miles S. Plumley, Lennox and Addington; J. J. Shaw, Victoria; Thos. Cann, Northumberland; Alf. H. Monkman, Manitoba and the Northwest; H. Reinhart, Wentworth; J. McMillan, East Durham; J. F. McGill, West Durham; A. Manning, East Peterboro. A letter was read from the Citizens' Committee and the different delegates furnished with literature and petitions to commence a campaign for disallowance of the Jesuit Bill, or for the dissolution of the Dominion House. The lodge then rose to the Blue Apron degree and discussed the advisability of extending the degree to ladies. It was unanimously agreed to do so and a committee was appointed to make a second degree form. The lodge will meet at St. Catharines on the second Tuesday of May, 1890.

The vote to-morrow on the bylaw for $600,000, in addition to the million dollars already on hand for the erection of the proposed new municipal and county buildings, will be one of the largest ever taken on a money bylaw here. Opinion is about equally divided—one party contending that a million dollars would build a fine enough Court House and that the present plans should be modified, and the other party contending that the present plans are the most desirable and should be carried out.

A new college for boys is about to be established in St. Catharines. The first general meeting of shareholders was held yesterday. Mr. T. R. Merritt, Vice-President of the Imperial Bank, was chairman over a large and influential gathering. Ridley College, as it will be called, will have a close connection with the Provincial University. About $50,000 have been subscribed. The corporation is expending about $25,000 on land and buildings at St. Catharines, where the college will be situated. These directors were elected: President, T. R. Merritt; Vice-President, A. H. Campbell; Secretary-Treasurer, Fred. J. Stewart. Directors—Judge Senkler, Judge Benson, Judge Muir, Judge Macdonald, Charles Moss, Q.C., S. H. Blake, Q.C., N. W. Hoyles, R. S. Gurd, V. Croyn, J. Herbert Mason, Robert Jenkins, Geo. S. Gillespie, Robert Gilmor, R. Homer Dixon, Sir W. P. Howland, Stapleton Caldecott, Charles E. Hooper. The head master, it is understood, is to be Mr. J. O. Miller, a graduate of Toronto University.

Frank Low and George Campbell arranged yesterday to have a fight in an old cottage on an island in the east end opposite Morse-street. The police got wind of the affair and Sergeant Reburn sent Detectives John and Alf. Cuddy to the scene. When they arrived at the place of meeting all arrangements had been made for the mill, but Campbell, one of the combatants, had not put in an appearance. The officers therefore departed, but on their way back met the missing pugilist in a cab. He was fully prepared to take his share in the affray, but when the detectives requested him to change his mind he did so. The remarkable part of the affair was that Grand Trunk Constable Harrison was going with the fighter, apparently with the idea of seeing fair play. The proposed set-to is said to be the outcome of an old feud.

The annual commencement exercises of Wyckliffe College took place last evening. Principal Sheraton presented the prizes as follows:

Dogmatic Theology—F. B. Hodgins, B.A.
Exegetical Greek—J. R. S. Boyd, B.A.
Biblical Greek, Canon O'Meara prize—Geo. S. Sinclair.
G.M.A. prize—Robert Sims and E. C. Aitcheson (equal).
Willard prizes—1st, W. G. Reilley; 2nd, J. R. S. Boyd, B.A.
Elocution—F. B. Hodgins, B.A.
Historical Theology, Gzowski prize—L. E. Skey.
Old Testament History—J. W. J. Andrews.

AN AWFUL POSSIBILITY.

Was Mind-Reader Bishop Dead Before He Was Carved?

NEW YORK, May 16.—The wife and mother of Washington Irving Bishop, the mind-reader, have arrived in this city, and both claim that Bishop was not dead, but merely in a trance, when the physicians made their post-mortem examination, and that his death was caused by the surgical instruments. It seems that but four hours elapsed from the time of his reported death until Drs. Irwin, Ferguson and Hance were making a post-mortem examination of the body. The widow of the mind-reader states that he has suffered several times from cataleptic attacks, and has lain in a trance, apparently dead, for periods varying from six to fifty-two hours.

On one occasion in Malta, she says, physicians pronounced him dead, and advised preparations for his interment. His friends held a different belief, and in a little over two days he recovered. About two years ago Bishop, while suffering with a dangerous illness, was treated by Dr. Thomas S. Robertson of No. 22 East Twentieth-street, this city. While at the doctor's house he had a cataleptic attack, and remained in a trance-like condition for two days. The physicians who performed the autopsy, however, say there can be no doubt of Bishop's death before the autopsy was decided upon.

"Try Ayer's Pills"

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout. Stephen Lansing, of Yonkers, N. Y., says: "Recommended as a cure for chronic Costiveness, Ayer's Pills have relieved me from that trouble and also from Gout. If every victim of this disease would heed only three words of mine, I could banish Gout from the land. These words would be—'Try Ayer's Pills.'"

"By the use of Ayer's Pills alone, I cured myself permanently of rheumatism which had troubled me several months. These Pills are at once harmless and effectual, and, I believe, would prove a specific in all cases of incipient

Rheumatism.

No medicine could have served me in better stead."—C. C. Rock, Corner, Avoyelles Parish, La.

C. F. Hopkins, Nevada City, writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for sixteen years, and I think they are the best Pills in the world. We keep a box of them in the house all the time. They have cured me of sick headache and neuralgia. Since taking Ayer's Pills, I have been free from these complaints."

"I have derived great benefit from Ayer's Pills. Five years ago I was taken so ill with rheumatism that I was unable to do any work. I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time I am never without a box of these pills."—Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis.

Minutes of the last regular meeting and a special meeting were read and confirmed, with the exception of that part referring to the raise in the Treasurer's salary, which was expunged. A number of communications were read. One from Mr. Isaac Garbutt asking that the Weigh Scale Company be allowed to place the scales on the west end of the market square; from Mr. George Cochrane asking for protection for property owners from vagrant cows, and from Mr. Wm. The work of excavating has already been commenced for the foundation, and your Committee desire the opinion of the Council of having a cellar put in. Mr. Peter Baptie has agreed to build the cellar and run the centre stone wall through for the sum of one hundred and twenty dollars, providing the Council see fit to have the work done." The report was adopted. The following report of the Road and Sidewalk Committee was also submitted:—

The report was adopted, as was also the following report, submitted by Councillor Henderson, in regard to tanks:—"Your Committee on the construction of tanks advertised by posters, and received three tenders, all of which we consider too much money to be applied for tanks, and therefore would not recommend the acceptance of any." The Council then adjourned.

NORWOOD NEWS.

A Meeting of the Village Council—Other News Notes.

A VALUABLE BOVINE.—Mr. Chas. Doughty, who resides on the outskirts of the village, has a Durham cow which gives 50 pounds of milk a day and averages 11 pounds of butter per week. Not bad for a common "village" cow, eh?

BROKE AN ARM.—Last week a young daughter of Mr. Geo. Scott, of Asphodel, had the misfortune to break an arm. She was climbing over a rail fence when she fell backwards, breaking her right arm near the shoulder blade. Dr. Pettigrew was at once summoned and under his skilful attention the young sufferer is rapidly recovering.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—During the thunder storm on Friday last a large elm tree on the farm of Mr. John Kelly, Dummer, was struck by lightning. The tree stands about thirty yards from a barn recently erected by Mr. Kelly and was badly shattered. The entire top was knocked off and only about fifteen or twenty feet remain standing. This portion of the tree is hollow and the electric fluid appears to have traversed this natural tunnel into the earth, emerging a few feet from the base of the tree and following a root which it completely demolished. After leaving the root it ran zigzag along the sod, tearing it up as it went, dodged under a very large stone which lay in its course and wound up by a general frolic in a heap of chips and blocks in the vicinity of the new barn, thirty or forty yards from where it first struck.

PICNIC.—On May 24th, the Queen's birthday, a picnic will be held at Norwood under the auspices of Rev. Father Conway in the grove opposite the church. Prof. Doucet's orchestra will furnish music and a platform has been erected for dancing. A programme of caledonian games, for which prizes will be awarded, will be carried out, and a prize of $4 will be given to the best jig dancers, lady and gentleman. Dinner and tea will be served on the grounds. A day of enjoyment may be expected, and as arrangements have been made with the C. P. R. for return tickets from Peterborough at single fare no doubt a large number from the town will attend.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.—The installation of officers of Court Rob Roy, No. 114, Canadian Order of Foresters, took place on Wednesday night, 1st inst., when the following officers were installed:—

Bro. Jas. Calder.............P. C. R.
" Robt. Edgar.............C. R.
" Wm. Bailey.............V. C. R.
" A. Davidson.............R. S.
" Wm. Cuthbertson.............F. S.
" W. H. Brethen.............T.
" Jas. Kerr.............C.
" Wm. Goodridge.............S. W.
" C. Brown.............J. W.
" P. Livingstone.............S. B.
" K. Kempt.............J. B.
" Dr. Pettigrew.............Court Physician

We are pleased to state that Court Rob Roy is in a flourishing condition and are adding to their numbers almost daily. They meet on the third Wednesday of every month. Visiting brethren welcome.

VILLAGE COUNCIL.—A special session of the Village Council was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening last. Present,—Reeve Finlay in the chair; and Councillors Searight Reynolds, Brethen and Cumming. Mr. Fitz Gibbon appeared before the council in reference to the location of a certain industry in Norwood. The matter was very favorably entertained by the council, and a deputation, consisting of the Reeve and Mr. Fitz-Gibbon, was appointed to wait on the parties and offer liberal inducements to secure the location of the industry in Norwood. The question of draining the swamp and dredging the Ouse now came up for discussion. This matter, which comes to the fore as regular as the seasons, would have been given the customary six months hoist had it not been for the intimation made by Councillor Reynolds. He said he understood that if the council did not have the work performed at once the Board of Health would, and that they might as well act with good grace in the premises as not. A number of schemes were proposed in connection with this matter but none of them met with approval. It was finally decided, however, that the Clerk be instructed to ask for tenders for the work, but that previous to doing so the Council, in a body, go over the ground so as to enable them to act intelligently in the matter. On motion of councillor Cumming, seconded by councillor Searight, the Clerk was instructed to purchase 2,000 feet of cedar scantling for the sidewalks. The Reeve stated that some of the ratepayers were in the habit of herding their cattle on the streets and that the official whose duty it is to see that wandering bovines are properly taken care of, wished to have his duty distinctly defined in such cases. This created considerable discussion but the concensus of opinion appeared to be in favor of keeping the cattle off the streets entirely, except when bringing them to and from pasture. The advisability of giving the band a grant of $50 was next taken into consideration and the grant was made by the casting vote of the Reeve. Councillor Reynolds moved that the council grant the sum of $50 to assist in defraying the cost of watering the streets of the village, but the motion was not seconded. After arranging a date for inspecting the Ouse the Council adjourned.—Register.

THE SPORTING RECORD.

A 14 to 1 Chance Wins the Doncaster Spring Handicap.

LONDON, May 16.—This was the first day of the Doncaster Spring meeting, with the Doncaster Spring Handicap Plate as the attraction. It had twelve starters, of which Mr. T. B. Miller's bay colt Link Boy was the favorite. He, however, failed to get a place, the Duke of Montrose's bay horse Dazzle, with the odds of 14 to 1 against, winning easily from Regalia, who just beat Helmsley out for the place. Conditions:

Almost a Failure at Pimlico.

BALTIMORE, May 16.—The Maryland Jockey Club lost money on its spring meeting. The attendance was very light and the racing only fair. But for the Maryland horses the meeting would have been a failure financially and otherwise. A few outsiders who ran at Ivy City came on here, as did also a number of half mile-track plugs, but the pick of Northern stables remained away. Again and again has the Jockey Club been called upon to increase its stakes and purses, but the old time element which predominates refuses to give way to younger and more progressive men, and so the sport has been gradually dwindling down to nothing.

A little over $12,000 was paid out to the winners of the different events at Pimlico, J. A. & A. H. Morris received $[illegible]; Davis & Hall, $1725; Mart Jordan, $1670; J. J. McCafferty, $850; G. H. Kernaghan, $[illegible]; S. S. Brown, $[illegible]; W. C. Daily, $790; W. P. Burch, $730; G. B. Morris, $710; Oden Bowie, $[illegible]; Charles D. McCoy, $600; John M. Thornton, $[illegible]; Walter Gratz, $305; William Jennings, $130.

Oarsmen in the West.

TACOMA, W. T., May 15.—Albert Hamm of Halifax and Henry Peterson of San Francisco, the oarsmen, arrived here yesterday to compete with O'Connor and Lee in the rowing regatta on Saturday. All of the four men were out on the Sound yesterday afternoon.

Hamm says that O'Connor is the best oarsman in the world and will beat Searle in the coming contest on the Thames for the championship of the world.

Rowing Dates Fixed.

DETROIT, May 16.—At a meeting of the executive board of the Association held at the Russell House to-day, after considerable discussion Grand Rapids was selected as the place for holding the twenty-first annual regatta, in preference to Charlevoix and other places desiring it. The National Association holds its regatta at Pullman, Ill., on August 8 and 9, and the Northwestern selected the 6th and 7th of August, if the Mississippi Valley Association dates do not conflict. This will ensure large attendance from the Canadian and eastern clubs. The Garfield Beach club of Salt Lake City, Utah, were elected to membership and expressed their intention to send crews to represent them. E. C. Fox and Henry [illegible] of Grand Rapids were elected commodore and vice-commodore respectively for the ensuing year.

THE GREY GOODS COMBINE.

A New Lease of Life for the Manufacturers' Association—The Agreement.

MONTREAL, May 16.—The Dominion Grey Cotton Manufacturers' Association have entered upon a new lease of life as a result of their recent meetings, for although the matter is not formally settled yet practically it is. The amended regulations as agreed upon by the meeting contain the following clauses which it is claimed are necessitated by the great advance in the price of new cotton:

All mills manufacturing grey cotton must enter into the association before the rules can be binding. An executive committee is appointed to regulate the production of the mills pro rata according to the requirements of the trade of the country. If any mill manufacture more than it is allowed the surplus must be exported from the country or sold for printing purposes. No mill shall run more than 60 hours per week for home trade. No mill shall produce more than 75 per cent. of their full product for home trade. Not more than 3 per cent. of the total production may be classed as seconds, any excess must not be disposed of without the sanction of the association and the discount off seconds is to be 5 per cent.

The discount for pre-payment shall not exceed 9 per cent. per annum and this only for payments not later than the tenth of each month. All deliveries after Sept. 1 shall be for three months' terms. All goods for 36 in. and under now under order shall be delivered by Nov. 1. Each mill shall enter into a bond at the rate of $10 per loom covered by a demand note of the company. If any company fails to pay all or part of any fine imposed by the association the president guarantees to pay the amount himself. All assessments for expenses shall be made according to the number of looms. Goods for printing and export are excluded from the provisions of the association. The duration of the association shall be not less than two years.

For One Night.

The Bank of Montreal.

The Montreal Gazette says:—"Enquiry among those entitled to speak with authority indicates that there is no foundation for the rumor current in Toronto that Mr. Coulson, of the Bank of Toronto, had been invited to accept the office of general manager of the Bank of Montreal. The report is believed to have had its origin in stock dealing circles. Not only is no change contemplated in the management of the bank; but the feeling is expressed that, if such were likely, it would not be necessary to go outside the existing staff of the institution to fill the highest position."

Don't Attempt to Steal.

Fireworks and firemen will be the two attractions on the night of the 24th when the grand pyrotechnic display is to be given by Peterborough's fire fighters in the P. A. A. A. grounds. The display will be the most magnificent and brilliant that has ever been seen here, and the auspices under which it is being held should itself commend it to the patronage of everyone. Of course some of the small-souled individuals will hunt up some eminence from which to attempt to steal a free show, but the fence which surrounds the grounds will be too thick to allow the best of the display to be seen from without. Show your loyalty to the Queen and the firemen and see something that will be worth seeing.

A Feature of the Sports.

It seems that there is a general wish that a wheelbarrow race should be placed on the programme of sports on the P.A.A.A. grounds on the 24th. It is an exciting experience for the contestants, but rather hard on the wheelbarrows. Contestants get their barrows, generally borrowed, wheel from the pole to the fence, are blindfolded, turned around and let go. The crash is terrific and splinters often fall in the adjoining country. Capt. Hill and Lieut. Mason and others are spoken of as great wheelers. Capt. Hill is reported endeavoring to secure a blue barrow with terra cotta trimmings, cut bias and with a slide to take out the two front pleats and insert a steel cow-catcher. The various wagon makers of the town view this race with interest and encouragement. Broken winded, spavined or ringboned barrows are barred. Accident policies may be taken out to idemnify any loss of limb. Taken altogether the sports promise to be simply immense.

METHODISM IN THIS DISTRICT.

Some Figures About the Methodists. The Jesuit and Temperance Questions—Will the Slanderous Report be Investigated.

When the District meeting resumed session yesterday afternoon the receiving of the schedules of the different circuits was continued. These returns showed in all cases, with hardly an exception, that the affairs of the different circuits, both spiritual and temporal, had been most satisfactory during the year past. They showed a total church membership for this district of 2,424, which is an increase over last year of 229. The total amount raised in the district for the educational fund was $196.72, while $681.74 had been subscribed to the superannuation fund and $1,443.27 was returned for missionary purposes, but George-st. and Charlotte-st. churches were not included in this. For Sunday school purposes $1,093.10 was raised throughout the district, and the returns placed the total number of Sunday school scholars at 3,229. Of these George-st. claims 656, with an average attendance of 372; Charlotte-st. school is down for 300 of these, with an average attendance of 226, and Mark-st. Sunday school, Ashburnham, has 168 on the roll and an average attendance of 75. Lakefield has 448 Sunday school children with an average weekly turn out of 349. These 3,229 scholars are taught and controlled by 348 officers and teachers, of whom George-st. is credited with 49, Charlotte st. 35 and Mark-st. 16.

CONFERENTIAL DELEGATES.

After the schedules had been all received and discussed and the deficencies in any of the funds provided for, the election of the different committees and representatives was proceeded with.

Rev. Francis Johnston, of Lakefield, after a second ballot, was elected as representative on the Stationing Committee of the conference, along with the District Superintendent, Rev. M. L. Pearson, who is an ex-officio member.

The lay delegates then retired to nominate the committee of representatives to the Conference, and the result of their consideration was that the following gentlemen were appointed:—Messrs. John Hull, Lakefield; R. M. Clarke, Millbrook; Thos. Johnston, Ashburnham; James Brock, Millbrook; John Barnicutt, South Monaghan; Edwin Kerr, Beaufort; J. C. Sherin, Lakefield; J. L. Hughes, Peterborough; T. H. Richardson, Bethany; O. C. Rowse, Peterborough; Wm. Yelland, Peterborough; H. S. Griffin, Peterborough; Jacob White, Warsaw.

Rev. D. McCamus, of South Monaghan, was chosen ministerial representative on the Sunday School Conference Committee, and Mr. John Hull, of Lakefield, will be the lay representative on the same committee.

Mr. R. M. Clarke was elected as representative on the Missionary Committee of the Conference.

THE JESUITS.

Rev. Mr. Burns then introduced the following resolution which was unanimously carried: The Peterborough annual district meeting, feeling great alarm at the aggressive movement of Romanish authority in Canada, as for instance, the incorporation of the Jesuits, therefore resolve that we memoralize the annual conference to give a decided expression on the question.

AN ODIUM TO BE REMOVED.

Rev. Mr. Burns moved, seconded by Mr. R. M. Clarke,—That this district meeting respectfully requests the Bay of Quinte Conference to take some vigorous steps for the purpose of investigating a slanderous report put in circulation concerning some unmentioned members of this Conference shortly after the close of its session of 1888 in Lindsay.

The reports which are referred to appeared in a Lindsay paper and was to the effect that some member of the Conference had indulged too freely in the cup which inebriates.

Several of the members of the meeting thought that perhaps it might be well not to bring up a dead report like this, but others again objected to the odium of such a statement resting on them as a body, and said that if it was true then it should be known, and if it was without foundation, then the odium of such a report should be removed from the body. Finally the motion was carried.

PROHIBITION WANTED.

The temperance question was the next to be given notice, and Rev. Mr. Burns moved, seconded by Dr. Fife.—That, inasmuch as the vote on the Scott Act in a number of counties where it was in force has strongly declared that nothing but Prohibition, pure and simple, will satisfy the people of Ontario, therefore, be it resolved, that this district meeting respectfully requests the Conference at its ensuing session in Belleville to take such steps as will place our church within the bounds of the Bay of Quinte Conference strongly and uncompromisingly in the old lines of Prohibition.

The motion was unanimously carried.

It was decided to hold the May meeting of the district in the George-st. Church here, and the financial district meeting in September at Lakefield.

The matter of the division of the Lakefield circuit was brought up, and the meeting adjourned to meet during the Conference when the matter will be dealt with.

Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter.

Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter closed their evangelistic services in Woodstock on Wednesday night last, and held a grand farewell meeting similar to their closing meeting here. The Sentinal-Review says:—"It was a grand meeting, great in many respects—great in numbers, great in the evidence it afforded of the work of the departing evangelists." The local ministers gave testimony of the great work that had been accomplished by the evangelistic services and the evangelists took a farewell of the Woodstock friends in a few parting words. They went from Woodstock to St. Thomas, where they will remain for a few days rest and then proceed to Exeter where they will open services.

Success Attends the Ladies.

The sale under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's church held in the Sunday school room yesterday afternoon and evening was attended with such magnificent success financially and otherwise, that the ladies are jubilant at the result of their enterprise. The articles which were offered for sale were all donations either by the ladies themselves or by friends of the society, so that the proceeds of the sale are clear profit. However, the ladies deserved or rather earned the success which they achieved for they have been untiring in their zeal to make the end such as it has been and they have every reason to feel proud and exultant over it. The Sunday school room had been nicely decorated and with the saleladies at the different tables busy with the purchasers and the large crowd which filled the room to its fullest capacity moving here and there chatting and talking, the scene was a busy one. There were six tables in all three of which were given up to ice cream, cakes and refreshments, while the other three, including the children's table, which made remarkable large returns, were filled with articles of all description, useful and ornamental, and ranging in prices from five cents up to five dollars. The sale commenced in the afternoon, and a good crowd was present then, and then in the evening the crowd that filled the room was immense. The refreshments served were, as usual with St. Paul's, excellent. There was no chairman or any formal programme, but during the evening while the sellers were busy selling and the buyers were all intent on buying, a short musical programme was rendered. Miss Fairweather and Miss Taylor rendered an instrumental duet, Miss Sophie Cameron contributed two pleasing vocal solos, "The Soldier's Dream" and "Three Young Men." Mrs. Mein sang "In April" in good voice, Mr. Parker also gave a couple of instrumental solos, as also did Miss Fairweather. The programme was short, but was good and was appreciated by those present. It was after ten o'clock when "God Save the Queen" was played and the busy scene became one of quiet, and the purchasers made their way home with their parcels.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The First Match of the Season is a Victory for the P.A.A.A. Nine—Other Notes.

A quiet friendly game of baseball played on the P.A.A.A. grounds last evening between the Association nine and the Athletics resulted in a victory for the former by a majority of 7 runs. The game was the first match of the season, and it showed to both clubs that they both had considerable need for practice before they play any outside teams. However, it was not a regular wayback game of ball with wayback batteries by any means, for the men on both nines played a fair game considering the practice they have had and a better exhibition will probably be given in the future. Ad. Pearson was in the box for the Association team and did good execution, while O'Brien, his receiver, also did himself credit, as he has not properly got into shape this season. The rest of the Association team was as follows:—Dr. Brennan, 1b; Turnbull, 2b; Mackay, 3b; Dumble, s.s.; Hay, r.f.; Allison, c.f.; Bowman, l.f. The Athletics put Farley up as deliverer in the first three innings, but the third innings when the nine runs were batted off him he was changed and Taber, who gets more speed on the sphere, went in and relieved him. Graham was behind the bat for the Athletics and he played his position in good style. The rest of their field was made up with Bird on first, Burns on second, Lyle on third, Daly at short, Scott in right field, Henrie in left and Taber in centre field. Mr. Sam Ray acted as umpire and did his work impartially and to the satisfaction of both nines. Only four innings could be played when darkness stopped the game. The score by innings was as follows:—

Athletics	5	2	0	2—9
P.A.A.A	3	2	9	2—16

LINERS.

A friendly game may be played by the Association nine with the Ashburnham club some night next week, the villagers, some of whom witnessed last night's game, having the idea that they could get over the nine.

A good crowd witnessed the game last night, and it was evident that there is considerable enthusiasm in the game among some of the citizens despite the poor exhibitions they may have to work it off on.

Monday Evening,

The Fife and Drum.

For some time past a number of the members of the local lodge of True Blues have been assiduously practicing with the fife and drum in their hall on Simcoe st., a few evenings each week; and that their practice has not been for naught was evidenced by the music they discoursed on the occasion of their first appearance in public. They marched to the station at 8.50 and met the delegates who were returning from the meeting of the Grand Lodge in Toronto and then marched through the streets, giving the public some stirring airs in a first-class style, the boys all playing well.

May 20th.

After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we issue our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. Those who desire bargains call. W. J. Morrow, 340 George-st.

In her Dramatic

Heroic Bravery.

The Lindsay Warder says:—"Early this week while a young twelve year old lad named Archer was fishing in the river close below the falls in Fenelon Falls, he fell into the seething, foaming torrent. He was seen by Mr. A. Sutherland, station master of the G. T. Ry., who chanced to be across the river towards the canal bridge. Quick as thought, off went his coat and boots, and plunged into the foaming waters. With much difficulty he reached, seized the lad, and after a stubborn struggle for life reached shore in safety with the boy. Such heroic conduct should not go unrewarded. Indeed, it is understood Mr. Hudspeth has already taken steps to have it brought before the Royal Humane Society. Many a tale has been told in days of old over incidents no more brave or heroic than was the daring deed of modest, unpretending A. Sutherland in saving a fellow creature's life at Fenelon Falls." Mr. Sutherland is well known here, he having been operator in the present Northwestern telegraph office for some time.

Recitals.

A Child's Fearlessness.

Little May Clancy, the two or three year-old daughter of Mr. Wm. Clancy, of the City Hotel, in her innocence and childish fearlessness, put herself in a most perilous position and caused her father a most fearful suspense to-day. She was playing around the house and went to one of the front windows facing on George-st., which was open, and fearlessly stepped out on the twelve or forteen inch ledge which runs along the front of the building about fifteen or twenty feet from the sidewalk and started to walk along, little dreaming of how near she was to death, for had she fall to the sidewalk below the chances are she would have been instantly killed. Her father, who was standing below with a number of gentlemen, saw to his horor the child standing looking down with a smile on her face, and calling to her to stand where she was, he rushed upstairs. The men working on the market excavation and those who were passing stood in suspense, expecting every moment to see the child come tumbling down. Just as her father reached the open window the child slipped and fell, but happily did not roll off the ledge, and was snatched by her parent's arms and taken inside to safety.

THE WORKINGS OF THE ARMY.

The Charges Against the Salvation Army Answered by Mr. Gooderham—A Good Meeting.

There was not a crowd of very large proportions seated in the Salvation Army temple when the Salvationists returned from their grand street parade last evening. However, the meeting proved a very interesting one, and Commissioner Coombs and Mr. Wm. Gooderham, of Toronto, both gave rattling addresses which enthused the soldiers and must have impressed the careless and Godless who were present. There were a large number of the officers of this district present, among whom was Staff-Capt. Marshall, D. O., Capt. Hindes, and Col. and Mrs. Dowdle were also on the platform.

The meeting opened with singing and prayers, after which a couple of hallelujah lasses sang a very pretty hymn, the chorus of which was swelled by the voices of the audience and their fellow soldiers.

THE COMMISSIONER.

Commissioner Coombs gave an earnest address in which he spoke of his conversion and the good he had reaped since he had joined the army. He said there was no greater joy in his soul than to see souls brought to God and no greater joy to his heart than to see his wife marching through the streets, as she did, with the blackest of sinners. He referred to the work accomplished in the drunkard's homes in Toronto and of the disgusting sights which some of the occupants of that place sometimes presented. He said some people said he made a good thing out of the Army. Well, so he had. He had found a fortune for time and for eternity and his wife had also come from the ranks of the Army. He referred to his home life, saying that he had four children, the youngest of whom, only two years old, could play and sing already. His was a happy home and they had a good time. He said that the statistical officer in Toronto had told him the other day that during the last month there had been over one thousand soldiers added to the Army ranks in Canada. He said it was five years since he arrived in this country with his heart full of love to God, and he stood there that night with that same love in his breast and was five years a better man and a better soldier, and was five years nearer Heaven, nearer the time when he would hear the Lord's "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

After the Commissioner had finished speaking, he introduced Mr. Gooderham's lieutenant or body-guard, Lieutenant Rennie, a little chap about seven years of age, who from the top of a table sang a hymn in very good style and accompanied with the most approved army wave of the hand.

Col. Dowdle then read the evening lesson and dropped a few earnest words into the ear of both saved and unsaved.

THE ARMY'S FRIEND.

Mr. Wm. Gooderham, of Toronto, is a gentleman who it is well known has always been a great champion of the Army and has given much of his wealth to Army purposes. Mr. Gooderham expressed in opening his pleasure at being present with his Peterborough friends and proceeded to dwell impressively and at some length on God's last commission to his disciples and to the Apostle Paul, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel." He spoke of the great and grand results which would follow if all professing Christians and church members obeyed this command. This was what the army was doing and he said people though it was extraordinary, but he had failed to see anything extraordinary in it. One reason why he loved the Salvation Army was because of its special work, in reality those who would not be allowed in the churches, and he said he believed that it did more good outside of its own body than in it, for when people saw the Salvationists so in earnest it led them to think of their own lethargy, and he believed that on the Great Day that hundreds and thousands it would be found had been saved through the Army, persons who were in the churches. He said he knew something of the workings of the Army as he had been largely associated with it since it came to Canada and the more he knew of the work the more he loved it. He had seen the Salvationist work from the Atlantic to the Pacific—seen them in St. John, Halifax, Quebec, Montreal and as far west as California, in San Francisco and Victoria. All this had been done in seven years. He remembered when two officers came to Toronto and held a meeting on the street corner and were followed to a little room on a back street by a few boys and girls and the rag-tag and bob tail of the city, but now they saw the results in the eleven barracks which they had in Toronto. In addition to these barracks he told them of the training schools the Army had for lady and men officers, the rescue home for fallen girls and the drunkard's home. He said he was a Methodist-Salvationist and he believed that if he was twenty years younger that he would put on the red jersey and go right into it himself. Referring to the statements which have been published lately in regard to

of the Army, he said:—"I have reason to know, because I have taken up case after case that has been brought before me, and I have reason to know that everything that has been published is either highly colored and distorted or else entirely untrue. I am sorry that some have become disaffected, but in England several years ago they had similar reports and it was said the Army was going to the devil, but the General only said 'Steady boys, steady,' and the few soon disappeared, and so it will be with these few in Toronto." He then went on to encourage the soldiers in their work and told them of the manner of living of the Commissioner, which he said was no better than that of a common mechanic at $1.25 a day. In closing he told of the cure of a doctor, Dr. Williams, who was suffering from some unknown disease and after trying all kinds of drugs he thought he would try the Lord Jesus Christ, and he came and got saved and recovered his health. He, himself, the speaker said, had been troubled but he was anointed by the hands of a sick lady and since then he had been wonderfully benefitted and was much stronger.

Mrs. Col. Dowdle then gave a short address, speaking of the Army work and its progress. She had been in the Army 20 years, and when she became a member there were only some eight officers and now they had some 8,000 officers in the ranks. She said that after her twenty years in the work she still had confidence in the Army and its heads, for she knew its inner workings and the motives of those at headquarters. While God was in it it would stand.

Commissioner Coombs interrupted Mrs. Dowdle while she was speaking of the workings of the Army, and said that while she was talking he would tell her another secret. He said since that it had been printed saying that he had compelled a dying woman to make her will in favor of the Army, that two people had given him to understand that they had made up their minds that when they died the Salvation Army should have all they possessed.

After little Lieut Rennie had sung an other song, the meeting dispersed.

Col. and Mrs. Dowdle said farewell after a two week's visit here.

TO QUASH THE BY-LAW.

The Hotelmen Intending to Move to Have the High License By-law Quashed.

Since the vote was taken on the Liquor License by-law there have been rumors, more or less current, that the hotelmen intended to move in the courts to have the by-law quashed on certain grounds. Just exactly what these grounds were was not generally known, but yesterday and to-day it was quite general talk that the proceedings to have the by-law annulled would be taken at once. This is correct, and it is quite probable that on Monday or Tuesday next the matter will come up at Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

The principal ground upon which the by-law will be attacked is that the vote was not a proper expression of the opinion of the ratepayers, as a large number of votes were refused because the the opinion of the town solicitor was, and the orders the deputy returning officers received, were not to accept the ballots of any man who was not either a freeholder or a leaseholder for one year. This is in accordance with the Municipal Act which enacts that a by-law which provides for the expenditure of money shall be submitted to the vote of the ratepayers and that only freeholders and holders of leases for the period over which the money in the by-law is spread shall vote. It is contended that it was not proper to make an application of this clause to govern the vote on the license by-law, for while it was only proper that in the matter of the expenditure of money these, the freeholders and leaseholders, who would have to pay the additional taxes and are therefore the only ones affected, should be the only persons allowed to vote, that in the case of this license by-law where no expenditure of money was involved, but where only an expression of the opinion of the ratepayers was sought, every man who had a vote for the local elections should be allowed to cast his ballot for or against the high license. The matter will be one purely of argument and legal points and will undoubtedly arouse some interest.

One of the most active hotel men in the matter of taking the proceedings was seen by a reporter this morning and when asked said, "Yes, it is true that we will try and quash the by-law, and I think we will do it." "The grounds that the action is taken on is that of the refusal to accept the votes of all of the ratepayers?" enquired the reporter. "Yes, that is one of the grounds and it was not right that good men who have lived here for many years should not be allowed to vote on this by-law." When asked if it would not be necessary to produce as evidence over thirty-three men whose votes had been refused, this being the majority by which the by-law was defeated, the hotel man said, "Yes, it will, but we can get that number without the least trouble, for there were over a hundred refused." He said that Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., had been engaged to handle the matter for the hotelmen and if the necessary evidence is produced it is probable that Mr. Poussette will move in the matter early next week.

Should the by-law be quashed it cannot be submitted to a vote again this year.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

FRIDAY, MAY 17, 1889.

MICKEY FINN'S CANARIES.

There were striking indications in the landscape of Cooney Island that Spring had come. The fields were beginning to blush with a greenish tinge of color, and the brooks were swollen with melted snow. Mickey Finn's goat was glad. Mrs. Finnegan's geslins showed signs of gratification, and the humble human dwellers in the locality stood in their back doors and looked off toward the south, as if waiting for the advent of smiling May. A gentle rain was falling upon the dilapidated roof of Michael Finn's cabin, and his wife placed a wooden pail in position in the kitchen to catch the drip, drip which had been making its way through the roof for the past two hours. Then she proceeded to put the "praties" in the skillet ready to place on the fire. The cabbage had to be cut up, too, and as Mrs. Finn busied herself with the task she remarked:

"Oh, my; oh, my; isn't it awful rain? I dunno will it ever stop! Shure my Mickey'll be dhrowned through an' through, an' sorra dhry stitch have I t' put on him when he comes home from school!"

It occurred to the good woman that she might find something dry for her boy to wear in the old trunk which her husband had brought from Ireland and which lay in the only other room which the cabin afforded, and thither Mrs. Finn made her way. Mickey's old grey goat, finding the good woman absent from the kitchen, quietly entered and regaled himself on the head of cabbage which Mrs. Finn had cut up a short time before to put in the pot along with the bacon for supper. Breaking upon the goat's repast with a stove-lifter in her hand, Mrs. Finn exclaimed:

"Oh, ye thafe's breed, ye! Ye dirty, greedy divvle. I declare t' me goodness ye'd stale th' holes out iv a flute. Bad sess t' th' bit will ye get this noight for the thrick."

The goat retired very slowly, but when his horns had been turned away from her Mrs. Finn materially assisted his progress with a shove. As she was about to close the door Mrs. Finn saw Mickey coming through the rain. With uplifted hands and with an expression of horror on her face, Mrs. Finn said:

"Och, Mickey, Mickey, why did ye sthay out in that wet rain? Shure ye're soaked to th' skhin, an' ye'll catch ye're death o' cowld!"

While being relieved of his wet clothing and robed in his father's trousers and vest, which gave him the baggy appearance of a scarecrow, little Mike told his mother that on his way home from school he had gone to Peter Dolan's house to see the canaries.

"But, in the name of Finn McCool, why didn't ye wait till some sunshiny day?" asked Mrs. Finn.

"Mother, dear, oh, mother, if ye only seen thim wanst ye'd go t' see thim again, rain or shine, so ye would; they're that purty. Two o' the prettiest little yalla birds that iver ate grass seed! Pether has thim in a big cage on th' wall, so he has, an' ye has t' get on a laddher t' see thim. An' mother, dear, shure they has four weeny weeshy little burds, all covered wid soft, yalla wool, an' they cheep an' cherrup at th' ould father an' mother for all th' world just like little babies. An' th' ould mother bird does be feedin' thim little bits o' what she do be atin' herself'. An' th' oul father looked at me as much as t' say that I darn't go near thim. Faix, mother, I'd like t' have wan o' thim little burds, but I can't earn any more money wid my scroll saw because it's bruk. Pether put me up on th' laddher t' look at thim, an' when I was up th' divvle says t' me: 'Mickey, why don't you sthale wan o' thim little yalla burds? An' dy'e know, mother, that me fingers was itchin' t' git hold o' wan o' thim. But I says me little prayer an' th' divvle went awa', so he did. Mother, dear, would ye buy me wan o' thim little birds?"

"Arrah, darlint, asthore, I can't buy ye wan now, but wait till we sell th' chickens, an' I'll thry thin."

When little Mike drew near to the stove and huddled down close to the grate trying to get warm, and afterward he could eat no supper, his mother knew that something was wrong. Placing her hand upon the boy's shoulder, she said:

"Asthore, macree, what ails ye?"

"Mother, dear," little Mike answered, "I'm very cowld, an' me head's akin'—but the little yalla burds, mother! If ye only seen thim! Dear, dear, but me back has the tooth ache, it's akin' me that hard! They feeds 'em whate an' oats an' bread crumbs. Oh, dear! me head is bustin', so 'tis. I'm sheverin' an' I can't get warrum. Shure, if I had wan o' thim yalla—"

"Niver moind the burds, Mickey, you're sick. Ye got yer fate wet an' ye hev' yer back load o' cowld now. But niver moind, acushla, I'll soon fix ye. I'll soak yer fate in hot wather an' mustard, so I will. Ye shall have a dhrop o' hot dhrink. Whin ye're in bed I'll cover ye wid me warrum flannin' petticoat, asthore. Ye'll be betther in th' mornin'."

But when Mr. Finn came home in the evening he was sent off in haste after "Dr. Chorker, the doctor as ain't hoard on th' poor," as Mr. Finn said. For little Mike had a high fever and was raving about the "little yalla birds" which in fancy he saw sitting on the foot of his trundle bed. When the doctor arrived he felt of the bounding pulse and heated brow of the sufferer.

"I'm afraid it's a case of pneumonia."

"Newmonya!" exclaimed Mrs. Finn, in horror. "Faith ye're mistakin' wid all yer larnin'. There's no dog afther bitin' my Mickey. No, no, docther, dear. Faix yer a smart man, so ye are, an' devil's the wan'll deny it; but it's not the newmonya, it's not that. Arrah, doctor, say it's bad cowled he has jist, an' no more!"

The doctor smiled at Mrs. Finns' misconception, but his face became tender and grave when he looked into the anxious mother's face raised to his. He did not violate the truth or his skill as physician when he replied:

"That's just what ails him, Mrs. Finn. He has a bad cold and nothing more."

"Oh, I thought ye were foolin' me, docther, dear. Settled in his bones, I suppose?"

"In his chest."

"Ah, ha! in his chest is it? Well, I'll soon have it out of there with flaxseed. But, d'ye know he has something on his moind, d'ye see, docther? His lips is mutterin' an' he's that disthressed he does be kickin' the nice warrum flannin' petticoat off the bed, so he does."

"He isn't in love, is he?" joked the doctor.

"No. It's all about th' little yalla burds he seen down be Pether Dolan's. I think if he had wan o' thim he'd be cured entoirely without the flaxseed."

In a few minutes the doctor was in possession of the whole story about the canaries. He knew that the sight of one of the feathered songsters when the boy awoke from his delirium would do more to hasten his recovery than any medicine from the mineral or vegetable kingdom. As he drove slowly up the Old Point road, thinking how a canary or two could be procured for the boy, an idea came to him which seemed like an inspiration. He slapped his knees gleefully and laughed inwardly, as he said, "It's just the thing. It's cheap, and the mother and boy will be delighted."

Many were the sleepless vigils of Mrs. Finn at the bedside of her boy. Tenderly she soothed his heated brow. Carefully she watched the cracked kitchen stove and saw that the room was kept at the proper temperature.

How exact was she as to the time for giving him his medicine only a mother similarly situated can fully appreciate. Many a morning did the elder Finn go without his breakfast rather than to disturb the fevered slumberer. Even the goat seemed subdued during that critical period. At least Mrs. Finn thought so, although it was probably a fancy on her part.

The crisis came at last. One morning the light was trying to steal through a crack in the closed blinds when the doctor came. He carried a bird cage in his hand, which was covered with paper. He looked at the sick boy and told his mother that a few hours would seal his fate.

While little Mike slept the doctor stepped on a chair and hung the cage on a nail over the window. The blinds were open now so that the cage and its contents would be distinctly visible from the bed.

Worn with her long siege of sleepless nights, Mrs. Finn dropped asleep in her chair, and was awakened by a feeble chuckle of delight. Raising her eyes to the bed, they rested on the wan face of her boy, radiant with light. He was looking at the cage.

"Luk, luk, mother," he cried, feebly but excitedly. "There's three o' thim burds from Peter Dolan's—a yalla wan, an' a red wan, an' a blue wan. Did you buy thim, mother?"

"No, th' doctor brung thim, lad. Now, you must go to slape."

The crisis had passed, and little Mike improved rapidly. When the doctor came that evening Mrs. Finn met him at the door with her finger upon her lip.

As the door of the sick room opened to the doctor the goat slipped in before him and nosed around among the medicine bottles standing on a chair till they all fell upon the floor and broke. Then Billy contentedly ate several hundred pellets of aconite and bella donna, while the boy sat up in bed and grinned in delight.

"How is he?" said the doctor.

"Shure, he's worth tin dead b'ys," said the delighted mother. "It was th' little burds as did it. But ain't you a foine decaiver t' be paintin' little chicks wid red an' blue an' yaller paint an' passin' 'em off for canaries!"—Omaha World.

Hypnotism has become conspicuous in Europe of late. It has been used in the place of chloroform for some time in surgical operations at Paris, and when, in a recent murder case there, it was charged that the murderer had hypnotized the victim and forced her to kill herself, public opinion accepted the possibility of the fact in a way quite remarkable.

COMP'S CUNNING SCHEME.

WESTERN LIQUOR DEALERS BADLY SWINDLED.

The Electric Sugar Refining Process Paralleled—Whisky Aged Six Years in Ten Minutes—A $300,000 Boodle.

CHICAGO, May 17.—One of the biggest swindles of the year has just been brought to light. Western liquor men have been mulcted to the tune of $300,000, and a bright young chemist named Comp is now living in luxury far away. John Archibald Comp came to Chicago fifteen months ago and put up at the Cosmopolitan hotel. Among his effects were two large trunks and a small refrigerator. He seemed to have plenty of money and it was noticed that several wholesale liquor dealers were among his visitors. Mr. Comp claimed to have discovered a compound which, when mixed with new whisky, would give it the odor, taste and appearance of from 4 to 6-year-old high-wine. Under his manipulation the poorest quality of wet goods became smooth and the entire process was exemplified in the presence of the victim.

Mr. Comp wished to establish a stock company with a paid-up capital of $1,000,000. The profits would be enormous. He refused to divulge what the compound he used consisted of. The ingredients were known only to him. He managed to rope in many victims and finally rented an office in the Ætna block, where for several weeks he conducted his business. In his room was the refrigerator referred to. The visitor would procure a bottle of poor whisky; then Comp would pour out one-half, put in a teaspoonful of this compound, fill the bottle with water and place it in the refrigerator. This was done with the visitor observing every movement. Mr. Comp would close the lid and in five or ten minutes would raise it and take out what appeared to be the same bottle filled with liquor of a higher grade. It was wonderful. Whisky which could be purchased at $1.50 per gallon in ten minutes' time became six years old and worth $6 per gallon. The electric sugar refining process dwindled into insignificance compared with Mr. Comp's scheme. Many prominent dealers invested, and plans were drawn up for the erection of a laboratory.

Finally one prominent distiller engaged a detective to investigate Mr. Comp's methods. The detective became intimate with Comp, often witnessed the ice box transformation, and began to believe the process was bona fide. Comp finally got so bold that he would age liquor without the refrigerator, and did so several times in west side saloons, the method being the same except that he would step into an inner room to put in an ingredient known only to himself. Not long since the detective entered Mr. Comp's room while he was asleep and found there what looked like a tin armor. It would reach from the waist to the armpits. At the bottom was a small faucet. The armor was hollow and contained a high grade of whisky.

The detective awakened Comp and taxed him with the fraud. He owned up and offered to take the detective into partnership with him. It was agreed to and Comp then explained the whole trick. The refrigerator had a false bottom and an ingeniously arranged trap. When a bottle of poor whisky was set on the trap, by pressing a spring a bottle of good whisky would be substituted, and the mechanism was so perfect that there was little chance of detection. The use of the armor was to provide whisky for an exchange when he did the trick without the aid of the box.

Mr. Comp informed the detective that he had worked Kansas City for $60,000 in three weeks, and that nothing could be done with him because those who invested in his scheme knew it was a case of defrauding the government. It is also stated that the enterprising youth has sold more than $300,000 of the stock in Chicago, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City and elsewhere. The detective reported to his employers and they to the [illegible] authorities, but Comp evidently [illegible] and skipped before the [illegible] could get hold of him.

A SENSATIONAL STORY.

General Gordon Said to be Alive—Herald Bennett on His Way to Khartoum.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Newspapers and club circles are excited over news from Europe that James Gordon Bennett, proprietor of The New York Herald, has gone to Khartoum. He left Paris three weeks ago. One story is to the effect that at the Club Menton in Paris one night an officer who had seen service in the Egyptian army said it was impossible for a foreigner to enter Khartoum and depart alive. A discussion arose which culminated when Bennett declared that only one possessing sufficient brains and money could visit the Mahdi and return unscathed and offered a heavy wager that he could himself do it within six months. The bet was accepted, and Bennett, accompanied by an intimate friend, started on the journey.

Another story is that on the evening in question, at the club mentioned, Bennett received a despatch from a Cairo correspondent stating he had received a visit from an envoy of the Mahdi with important news regarding Chinese Gordon and that the latter was still alive and kept a close prisoner, that the new Mahdi by reason of his reverse in Kordofan and the Bahr-El-Ghazal and his loss of the province of Darfur, was willing to ransom Gordon for a million francs. The next few days Bennett made arrangements for the trip and for the payment of the vast sum mentioned and with an intimate friend set out for Egypt.

At The Herald office here it is stated that Bennett has been in Cairo, but nothing is known about his prospective movements.

BRIGHT'S POLITICAL HEIR.

JOHN MORLEY DEFINES THE LIBERAL PROGRAM.

A Rumor That the Queen is to Visit Ireland for a Week—The Esquimalt Defences—General Cable News.

LONDON, May 17.—Mr. Morley made the finest speech last night which he has delivered this year. He sounded more distinctly than before the social note of the Liberal program and defined what the Liberals want to do. He said: "We shall not make the world over again in a day. We shall not turn this London purgatory into a paradise perhaps, in your lifetime or in mine, but we can go on with the work by making beginnings, and by trying experiments in new directions. We want to give those who plow the ground, and who in the sweat of their brow sow the seed, a rather handsomer share in the sheaves when they are reaped. We want that those who weave the garments should not themselves go cold." Mr. Morley is proclaimed Bright's successor; the heir to Elijah's mantle.

Mr. Morley condemned a speech made recently by Gen. Wolseley at Oxford, in which the latter said many harsh things about the Liberals. Mr. Morley said: "It is a bad sign for the welfare of the country when an officer of Her Majesty's army stoops to do the dirty work of the Primrose League. It is indecent that a servant of the Crown should impute bad motives to men who have been and may again be his colleagues and superiors." Mr. Morley also declared that the Government must be hard pressed when they were forced to employ the army and Government employes to defend their wavering cause.

It is again rumored that the Queen will visit Ireland and remain there a week. The same report says that she will hold a drawing-room at Dublin Castle and review the Irish troops at the Curragh of Kildare. The Curragh of Kildare is a tract of Crown land where reviews yearly take place, and where races are run.

The Committee of Convocation reports strongly against betting and gambling, and lays down emphatically that it is immoral in principle for a Christian man to seek his livelihood or the increase of his estate by means of unproductive labor from which no profit accrued to the common weal, and by which the winner rendered no equivalent to the man whose money he received. They recommend spiritual measures and the maintenance of the company's rules by captains of passenger ships and the officials of railroad carriages and that the legislative authorities deal with the present mischief in the same spirit which leads Parliament to suppress lotteries.

A Radical Motion Defeated.

LONDON, May 17.—The House of Commons to-day, 201 to 160, rejected Mr. Labouchere's motion to abolish hereditary seating in the House of Lords.

The Esquimalt Defences.

LONDON, May 17.—In the House of Lords last night Lord Sudely raised the question of the Esquimalt defences, and in reply Lord Elphinstone stated that last year's agreement between the Imperial and Dominion Governments had been modified. The Dominion Government find it difficult and expensive to provide a garrison; the Imperial Government has therefore decided to provide a royal marine artillery garrison under command of three officers, at the annual maintenance charge of $35,000 to the Dominion Government. Men and officers have left for Esquimalt with the exception of the submarine miners, who have not yet completed the drill armaments now on the way. His Lordship could not say exactly when the fortification would be completed.

Riotous Strikers Shot.

BERLIN, May 17.—There has been rioting in Silesia and the strike is extending. The striking miners are demolishing the pits, threatening officials and preventing men from returning to work.

The Freisinnige Zeitung says the negotiations between mine owners and the striking miners looking to a settlement of their disputes have been suspended owing to Herr Krabler, a mine owner, declining to entertain the demands of the strikers. The other mine owners were prepared to consider them.

A conflict has occurred between the military and the strikers near Breslau. The troops fired upon the strikers, killing a number of them.

The Rheinisch Westphaelische Zeitung states that 30,296 miners have returned work.

The Situation Threatening.

BERLIN, May 17.—Emperor William sent an envoy to Westphalia recently to make private inquiries regarding the strikes. Seventeen thousand men are on strike in Silesia. The situation is threatening.

The Claims Settled.

SHANGHAI, May 17.—The claims for damages arising out of the Cho Foo riots have been settled. The English and American flags have been rehoisted, the Chinese troops saluting them.

An Anarchist Agitation in Italy.

ROME, May 17.—Anarchists are fomenting a land agitation in Lombardy. There has been serious rioting, and a number of houses have been ransacked. Troops are suppressing the disorder.

A Tough Bricklayer.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., May 17.—John Williamson, a bricklayer, accomplished a peculiar feat of pedestrianism here. He started on Tuesday morning to walk to and fro from one side of the street to the other for 36 hours, carrying a 4½ pound brick in each hand, which he had to place on the side of the street, raise himself to full height, pick up the bricks and going across repeat the performance on the opposite side. He was to continue for the full period, being allowed one hour for meals every six hours and an intermission of 15 minutes every three hours. Williamson tramped all night and both days, part of the time through a driving rain, finishing at 6 o'clock on Wednesday night. Interest in his undertaking grew rapidly and crowds were constantly in attendance, a great deal of money changing hands on the result. When Williamson finished his feet were covered with blisters, and his legs and hands were frightfully swollen.

Where is Farmer Shaw?

WOODSTOCK, May 17.—Much excitement was created here to-day by the rumor that David Shaw, one of the largest farmers in the county, had left for parts unknown. Shaw owned 400 acres in the Township of East Zorra and also a large territory in Northern Ontario. On the former the town of Galt holds a heavy mortgage and on the latter a concern in London holds a mortgage. Mrs. Shaw refuses to give any satisfactory information as to his whereabouts. It was learned that all stock, implements, etc. had been removed during the past few days. Shaw was an extensive breeder of fine stock. His liabilities are estimated at about $40,000.

PARIS, May 17.—The Senate to-day by a vote of 184 to 92 exempted students for the priesthood from military service after one year's drill. PRICES AND PROSPECTS.

Moderate Activity in General Merchandise—Cereal Crop Prospects Excellent.

NEW YORK, May 17.—At most of the cities reporting by wire to Bradstreet's this week general trade is of moderate volume, or only fairly active. Boston and New York only constitute mild exceptions. The relatively best demand east is for dry goods and west for hardware, lumber and groceries.

The drouth in Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana has been broken, but it is becoming serious in Louisiana and is having an effect in Texas. Cereal crop prospects are excellent. Rice is not as favorably situated as it was and cotton has suffered a little.

Increased receipts of cattle and hogs at western centres have depressed these markets and cattle are off 30 cents and hogs 30 to 40 within four days.

Prices of groceries, country produce, naval stores, crude rubber and furniture tend lower. Butter has reached a very low price.

Good crop prospects created a bullish disposition regarding western railroad shares, and with active buying of Oregon Transcontinental shares for control gave a decided strength to stock speculation. Bonds are less active, but investments continue firm. Money at New York is easy at 2 to 2½ per cent. on call.

No pronounced improvement has developed itself in the iron market. Copper at New York is down to 12 cents.

Wheat flour has been in fair home and foreign demand only, which with the downward course of wheat results in depression in high grade stock. Other varieties are fairly maintained. Heavy cables, splendid home crop prospects and unloading and realising have influenced wheat prices to decline 2 to 3c, and the volume of business is smaller. Supplies of corn via the canal being large, realizing pressure brings prices down ⅝c., and on spot 2 to 2½c. Oats are off 1c. in sympathy with wheat and corn.

Hog products are heavy, with the rest in a light business. Pork is off 25c a barrel, and lard 17 to 18 points.

There has been a light business in raw sugars. Warehouse deliveries and arrivals have been freer and stocks at the four distributing ports of the United States have increased, yet holders have been confident and unwilling to make concessions, so that prices close steady.

There has been a better demand for raw coffee for jobbing and distributing requirements, and in restricted dealings in some lines prices are ⅛c. higher.

Print cloths, low grades, are 1-16c. higher. Brown and bleached goods are in good demand. An average re-order request is reported by New York jobbers, while agents report only a moderate business.

Raw wool is active and higher in the producing districts but dull and firm on the seaboard. Cotton is 1-16c higher on a light movement, less favorable crop reports and better Liverpool advices.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 199 in the United States this week, against 174 last week and 180 this week last year. Canada had 21 this week against 29 last year. The total failures in the United States Jan. 1 to date is 4769, against 4349 in 1888.

BAPTIST HOME MISSIONS.

Annual Meeting of the American Society at Boston—The Church's Growth.

BOSTON, May 17.—The 57th annual meeting of the American Baptist Home Mission Society began here to-day. Nelson Blake of Chicago delivered the opening address. The Executive Committee's report, read by Rev. H. L. Moorehouse of New York, stated that the past year showed the largest number of missionaries ever under appointment. Baptisms number 8456 and church edifices were erected at the rate of 1½ per week. 18 life directors and 61 life members died during the year. There are now 3,000,000 Baptists in the country. The society mission work has been conducted during the past year in 45 states and territories and in Ontario, Manitoba, Alaska and in three states of the Mexican Republic. The number of laborers supported has been 790, being 47 more than last year. Seventy-four new mission stations have been taken up the past year. The society aids in the maintenance of 20 schools for colored people and the Indians. Treasurer J. G. Snelling reported total receipts of the year $370,254, total expenditures $404,500. A resolution was adopted providing for a committee to act with representatives of other religious bodies to secure efficient chaplains for every post of the United States army.

Presbyterians to Bury the Hatchet.

PITTSBURG, May 17.—There is a strong probability that the two factions of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, known as the "Synod," and the "General Synod," will be united after a separation of 56 years. A committee of three members of each synod had several conferences looking to that end. A number of schemes have been suggested to bury the hatchet and restore peace and harmony within the fold.

A Toronto Veteran Eloquent at Oshawa.

Captain Bridgewater of Her Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans' Society of Toronto, in addressing a meeting at Oshawa said he loved the term "British," because English, Scotch and Irish had side by side gallantly aided in sustaining the honor and dignity of the grand old flag in many a well-fought battle. They were comrades in heart and feelings, and it was a gratifying sight to see the medal-decked veterans of Toronto meeting together and in unity of feeling suggesting means whereby their aged, feeble comrades would be able to lay their aching limbs in a home of comparative comfort and ease. In conclusion he said that while some of the European powers were to all appearances anxious for war, the British Lion shook his shaggy mane, and placing one foot on the shamrock, the rose and thistle and the other on the maple leaf he howled defiance to the world.

A Jealous Man's Crime.

NEWARK, May 17.—This afternoon John Hengle entered Mrs. Scherzer's apartments here and cut her about the face, neck and arms with a knife. He then cut his own throat. Neighbors, hearing the noise of the struggle, summoned the police, who broke the door open and found Mrs. Scherzer sitting up covered with blood and Hengle lying naked on the bed weltering in blood. Blood was spattered all over the room. Both Hengle and his victim were taken to the hospital. Hengle will probably die. No opinion is expressed as to the woman's injuries. The cause of Hengle's crime was jealousy. He and Mrs. Scherzer lived together up to the latter's marriage, May 5, to Scherzer.

Convict Immigrants for Texas.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Ten contract laborers who arrived from Rotterdam last night on the steamer Obdam were detained at Castle Garden to-day until Collector Erhardt inquires into their cases. The immigrants said they came here at the instigation of the Prisoners' Aid Society of London, and they were to place their services at the disposal of Samuel Nell, an immigrant agent at Seguine, Tex. The Castle Garden authorities have evidence that the Prisoners' Aid Society of London has been shipping English convicts to Nell in Texas at the rate of one or two a week for many months.

Oregon Transcontinental's Big Jump.

NEW YORK, May 17.—In the suit to restrain Henry Villard and others from selling $10,000,000 of Oregon and Transcontinental stock the order for Villard's examination was to-day vacated and the injunction was virtually disposed of in the same way upon a stipulation that Villard and associates should not try to issue any stock before election. The exciting contest for the control of the Oregon Transcontinental Co. ended to-day. After the registry books closed to-day Mr. Villard claimed that he has secured 271,000 of the 400,000 shares of stock. The stock rose today from 37 to 44½, the highest point reached in six years.

Fatal Accident at Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, May 17.—Robert Pasook, a farmer living in the township of Hope near Canton, was thrown from his wagon in front of Beamish's plaster mill here at 6 o'clock to-night, and the wheel passing over his chest he was almost instantly killed. Deceased was 68 years old and leaves two grown-up sons and one married daughter.

A BLOW AT FEDERATION.

SIR THOMAS GALT SAYS THE INJUNCTION MUST CONTINUE.

The Chief Justice's Decision Will Likely Go on to Appeal—The Matter of a Speedy Trial Not Settled Yet.

TORONTO, May 18.—Judgment as to the continuance of the injunction against the Victoria University Board of Regents by the town of Cobourg and individual plaintiffs was given by Chief Justice Sir Thomas Galt at Osgoode Hall yesterday. The injunction was secured to restrain the defendants from removing the site of Victoria University at Cobourg to Toronto.

The case has excited great interest throughout the Dominion. But more especially were members of the Methodist Church interested in the issue of events.

A goodly gathering of interested persons listened with attention and anxiety to the decision. This will continue the injunction until after the trial and as said by His Lordship is in effect as follows:

There are two separate objects: first, the removal of Victoria College from Cobourg, and second, the taking steps to federate Victoria with Toronto University. There are also three separate plaintiffs, the town of Cobourg, the subscribers to the endowment fund of Victoria University, and lastly representatives of the Senate. The rights of these parties are entirely distinct. The town of Cobourg and the subscribers to the endowment fund have nothing whatever to do with the federation of Victoria College with Toronto University so far as conferring degrees is concerned, and Messrs. Kerr and Hough, on behalf of the Senate, have nothing whatever to do with what may be called the material property of Victoria University. The most important question before me is that relating to the federation of Victoria with Toronto University; and this is the question which I propose in the first place to discuss.

By the original charter there are three bodies, the trustees, the visitors, and the board, which is composed of the other two. The board had power to appoint a principal and all officers, etc., and to define their duties. The trustees had control of the financial affairs. The visitors were to have authority to do what pertains to the office of visitors. It is to be observed that the principal and professors have no place except as officers of the corporation. They have nothing to do with the management of the Academy or its property.

The next statute is the 13th and 14th Victoria, which authorises the removal of the site of Victoria College from Cobourg to Toronto. The question considered was the power of the Senate. Then comes the statute 23 Victoria, chap. 70. This repeals the charter, also the 4th and 5th Victoria and the 22 Victoria, and may therefore be considered a re-organization of the college. This abolishes the trustees, the visitors and consequently the board, and vests the whole of the property in a body corporate to be called "The Board of Victoria College at Cobourg." By sec. 16 the members of the college board and the president and professors of the various faculties of the college shall constitute the Senate of the University of Victoria College, and shall have power to confer the degree of bachelor, master and doctor in arts, science, law, divinity and medicine, and shall have the management and supervision of such affairs of the university as shall from time to time be assigned them by the college board.

It is plain that unless power is conferred on the Senate by the Board, they under this statute had no authority to interfere with the management of the corporation.

Up to this time I agree with the argument of Mr. Moss that the Senate had no special authority except the conferring of degrees. No change was made until 42 Victoria, chap. 95, when a very important alteration took place. By sec. 2 of this act sec. 16 above mentioned is changed to read: "The members of the college board and president and professors of the various faculties of the college, the four representatives of the graduates in arts and one from each of the faculties of law, medicine and theology shall constitute the Senate of Victoria College, and shall determine courses of study and qualification for degrees, the appointment of examiners and all matters strictly pertaining to the work of education, and also the time, place and method of electing representatives of the alumni to the Senate."

A statute was then passed providing that the members of the board and professors of the various faculties appointed by the board . . . . and such representatives of affiliated colleges as may be admitted under such regulations as may be made by the board shall constitute the Senate and shall have power to confer degrees and over all matters pertaining to education, and to settle, subject to ratification by the regents, the terms upon which chartered colleges and schools may become affiliated to the university.

It appears to me that after the passing of this act, although the Senate has no authority to interfere with what may be called the financial affairs of the university, exclusive authority is given to it in all respects educational and also to affiliated colleges subject to ratification by the board.

The University of Toronto Act, sec. 6, chap. 43, is then referred to, which empowers colleges, after the suspension of their degree-conferring power, to federate.

I have pointed out that the entire management of the educational department of the university is vested in the Senate, which alone has the power of conferring degrees. It appears to me, therefore, that the Board of Regents has not the power to suspend its powers to confer such degrees, and it may be to alter the system of education, without the concurrence of the Senate. The Senate is not the creation of the Board of Regents; it is established by the act of incorporation; it alone has the power to confer degrees, and although the notification mentioned in sub. 2 of sec. 6 must be given by the Board of Regents, I do not think they have the power to give it without the concurrence of the Senate.

I therefore consider that, so far as the [illegible] of the case is concerned, the injunction must be continued until the trial.

As respects the claim of Cobourg and the subscribers to the endowment fund, [illegible] entirely as to whether or not any contract is alleged by the plaintiffs has been made between the town of Cobourg and Victoria University. This is a matter of evidence; and if this alone was before me I should not deem it expedient to continue the injunction; but as it appears from the affidavit of Dr. Potts, through whose exertions a very large sum of money has been obtained for the erection of the proposed building (in federation), and as I am of opinion that federation cannot take place without the concurrence of the Senate, and as any [illegible] must be made in the name of Victoria University, I think the injunction must be continued until after the trial, or until after an opportunity has been afforded the defendants to [illegible] the propriety of my decision as respects the powers of the Senate.

The motion will therefore be absolute with costs in the cause.

After the judgment had been given, defendants' counsel were given the liberty to [illegible] order to expedite the trial. Chief Justice Galt expressed the view that it would be a useless expense to go on with the trial until his judgment had been taken to the Court of Appeal, so that no order was made as to a speedy trial yesterday. It is expected the question of an early trial will be brought up to-day.

DOMINION TAXATION.

At frequent intervals a statement goes the rounds of the Liberal press regarding Dominion taxation, and the extent of the taxation is always misrepresented. A paragraph now on the rounds states, with varying phraseology, that the amount raised represents a sum equal to $50 from each family in the country, and the citizens are startled or amused by being informed that he is "bled at every pore." We are gravely told that if the tax was collected directly the people would rebel, but that the wicked Government maintains the system of indirect taxation to deceive the people.

If the Liberals believe that indirect taxation is wrong, why do they not advocate direct taxation in Parliament? They do not do that, however, and until they do it is scarcely worth while paying attention to their covert references to that system.

But the taxation for Dominion purposes does not represent $50 for each family. Last year the total amount raised by taxation was $28,177,412, or about $5 60 per head of the population and $28 per family. It is a glaring fallacy, however, to pretend that each family paid such a sum into the Dominion treasury. The taxes raised for municipal purposes in Peterborough last year—and this is one of the lightest taxed towns in the Province—amounted to about $5.50 per head of the population or $27.50 per family. And did every family in town pay $27.50 to the Collector? Of course not. Some paid a great deal more than that and some a great deal less. And so it is with Dominion taxation, only to a greater degree, the greater portion of the taxation falling upon those who are best able to pay.

In the comparison with the municipal taxation the roll only was taken, and the revenue from the liquor trade was not taken into account. If we treat the Dominion taxation in the same manner the revenue from excise duties, on liquors and tobacco, should be dropped from the calculation. This would leave $22,105,926 of customs duties. But of this $3,218,108 was collected on importations of liquors and tobacco, so that the sum left is $19,887,823 or $3.97 per head of the population, and less than $20 per family of five, instead of $50 as stated by the Liberal press. An exaggeration of 150 per cent. is not bad even for followers of Sir Richard Cartwright.

The figures, however, should be still further examined. There were large sums collected on importations that are not used except by persons in a position to indulge in luxuries and able to pay the tax upon them. For instance manufactures of gold and silver paid $62,900, jewellery paid $97,107, musical instruments $130,512, silks and manufactures of silk $627,700, carriages $71,700, and embroideries and fancy goods $407,900. Good cotton and woollen goods and tweeds are made in Canada are not taxed, but more expensive goods are imported and pay duty. When sifted down it will be seen that a person may live in Canada without paying any Dominion tax, or a mere trifle, and that as a matter of fact the man who lives quite comfortably without indulging in expensive imported luxuries pays very little into the Dominion treasury towards maintaining the machineries of Dominion and Provincial legislation—for out of the sums collected by the Dominion the subsidies to the Provinces are paid.

Events move quickly. A Toronto educational journal, in answer to a question, informs its readers that "Germany, France, Austria, Russia, and, we suppose, Italy," are the first-rate powers of Europe. One is left in a harrowing doubt as to whether Great Britain has become a second-rate power, or has slipped away in Africa. It also informs its questioner that Mr. T. B. Pardee is Commissioner of Crown Lands, and it gives a list of the members of the Ontario Government in which the name of Hon. A. S. Hardy does not appear. What has become of "Little Thunder?" Is this another mysterious disappearance case? The same authority says that the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario is Sir Alex Campbell, K. M. C. G. Some might think the letters should be K. C. M. G., but as this paper is edited by two gentlemen who write M. A. after their names it must be correct.

TROTTING HORSES.

With the exception of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes,—who would, by the way, have made an excellent sporting man, had not the superior attractions of literature and medicine intervened,—I do not know that any writer of mark has ever said a good word for the American trotter. This is a great pity, for the animal plays an important part in the daily life of the whole community, being concerned, as the Autocrat pointed out, even in the early conveyance of milk-cans and in the prompt delivery of fresh rolls. These humble offices have actually been performed by horses who afterward acquired fame upon the track. Within the past year, an old Dutchman, living in Western New York and engaged in the milk business, was astonished and not a little frightened by the pace which his beast set up one frosty morning. The cart was bounced over the pavements of the city where his route lay, the cans hopped and rattled in their seats, and the driver lost his breath. But he had no sooner recovered it than he began to boast of the wonderful speed at which the horse had carried him, and thereafter the animal was taken out, harnessed to a buggy, on Saturday afternoons and like occasions, for a brush on the road with the fast trotters of the neighborhood, all of whom he outstripped. Pretty soon the Dutchman's son, who had been brought up in this country, procured an old sulky, and put the milk-wagon steed in some sort of training. In two months' time they appeared at a track, engaged in a race with veteran drivers and horses of established reputation, and beat them all in three straight heats,—a wonderful achievment for a green trotter and jockey, and an immense surprise to the professional persons who had jeered at the uncouth appearance of the new-comers. This case bears out Dr. Holmes's illustration of the milk-cart; nor is the other example that he gives without foundation in fact. Some years ago, a baker's horse in Boston, after delivering her rolls and brown-bread in the city one day as usual, was driven to Saugus, a distance of about eight miles, and started in a match race at the track there. In the exuberance of her spirits she ran away in the first heat, and went around the course once or twice before she could be stopped. But being allowed to start again, notwithstanding this irregularity, she won the race, and finished her day's work by bringing the baker back to Boston and beating all the horses that engaged with her on the road home.

It must not be supposed however, that these animals were entirely of plebeian origin. The milkman's horse had a dash of thoroughbred in his composition, and the baker's mare belonged to the incomparable Morgan strain. Indeed it rarely, perhaps never, happens that a horse who is not connected more or less closely with the equine aristocracy becomes distinguished as a trotter.—Atlantic.

The Cricket Match.

A team of cricketers from the Lindsay Collegiate Institute arrived here this morning and started play at eleven o'clock this morning in the P.A.A.A. grounds with a team of local cricketers. The Peterborough men went to bat first and the last wicket fell for 48 runs. The Lindsay team ran up 51 in their half of the first, and then the local men went in and at three o'clock their last wicket went down with a score of 111 to their credit. The Lindsays are now to bat and have 109 runs to make to win the game.

An Event in Lakefield's History.

Quite a number of Peterborough gentlemen went out to Lakefield yesterday to witness the test of the new fire engine which the village is purchasing. The Reeve had proclaimed a civic holiday in honor of the occasion and the village turned out en masse "to see the engine squirt." They saw it squirt and the test was pronounced satisfactory. The engine is a Waterous make and is small and cheap. It threw water, after a suction of 27 feet, almost 180 feet, or almost 180 feet feet from the nozzle. It was quite a day for Lakefield it is reported.

After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we have our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. Those who desire bargains call. W. J. Morrow, 340 George-st.

The time for receiving tenders for the stone and mason work of the market closes at four o'clock this afternoon, and the Market Committee is called to meet to-night when the tenders will be considered. The work of excavating has been pushed rapidly, and the showing that is made for one week's work has been remarked by many as being very large, there having been an immense amount of earth removed.

Monday Evening,

An Eloquent Divine Coming.

It will be of interest and of pleasant anticipation to the members of the congregation of St. John's church and to many others in Peterborough who are acquainted with Rev. Dr. Clarke, of Toronto University, to know that this noted and eloquent divine will preach in St. John's church here on Sunday, June 9th. The rev. gentleman is perhaps one of the most eloquent of the clergy of the English church. He may also give a lecture here on the Monday evening following.

Dyspepsia causes depraved blood, which in time, affects every organ and function of the body. As a remedy for these troubles, nothing can approach Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It vitalizes the blood, strengthens the stomach, and corrects all disorders of the liver and kidneys.

May 20th.

IMPOSSIBLE to excel those New Fresh Teas, not arrived at M. R. KIDD'S.

They Drop Together.

And for what purpose? Why, to get their heft on the rope. It is well known that a strong pull altogether is what is needed in a tug of war. Come and see the mighty struggle on the 24th at the P.A.A. grounds. There is some talk of using Mr. Fred Winch as anchor for one team and Harry Walters, of Lindsay, for the other, but this is only talk. When the teams get fairly at work the turf will fly. It is rumored that the drill shed was the scene of some tall practicing on Friday night and that the seats of twelve pairs of Government pants showed signs of wear and tear. It's hard work while it lasts and ambulances will be provided to carry off any member of the teams who succumbs to the strain. The general public will keep back and save their carcasses from being tramped on Don't forget the 24th sports.

In her Dramatic

The Sportsman's Guide.

The Grand Trunk railway has issued a guide to the fishing and hunting resorts in the vicinity of the railway that will be very convenient for sportsmen who desire to select a place in which to spend a few days or weeks in hunting or fishing. It gives particulars as to fish, game, hotels, liveries, baits, guides, etc., in fact just the information the sportsman would desire. Peterborough, Lakefield, Keene, Hastings, &c., are on the list, and the usual particulars concisely given. The book has a handsome paper cover and is neatly printed. By the way, the Grand Trunk should revise its map. The map on this book only shows the Grand Trunk branching out in four directions from Peterborough, instead of five. The Chemong line should be put in now and Bridgenorth, with its park, should be added to the sporting stations.

1,000 Ladies wanted—to test the quality of those fine New Teas at M. R. KIDD'S.

Recitals.

Merit Wins Success.

"Lindsay is losing a worthy young man in the person of Mr. Marshall Anderson, for some years manager for Mr. S. S. Ritchie of this town," says the Warder. "Mr. Anderson has received and accepted the appointment as sole manager of a large business in Tilsonburg, Ontario, and assumes charge at an early date. During his five years in Lindsay, his career has been marked by manly straightforward dealing and a perfect walk in life. He was President of the Y. M. C. A., and by his example and interest has made it a success. A leading and useful member of the Presbyterian Church, Mr. Anderson was honored by receiving a beautiful present of silverware on Monday evening. The members and adherents numbering upwards of one hundred met at the residence of Mr. Jackson to do him honor. On Tuesday evening, though five other meetings were going on in town, the commodious Y. M. C. A. hall was filled with worthy citizens met to do honor to the retiring president. A beautiful address printed on blue silk in gold and neatly framed was given as a memento from the members to Mr. Anderson. A well prepared programme instructed and entertained the large audience until about ten o'clock, after which refreshments were served. Few young men have ever left a town bearing away the heartfelt good wishes, and leaving so many kind remembrances, as does E. Marshall Anderson. His future is assured. Therefore, it is quite needless to congratulate him, or to wish him success." Mr. Anderson is a son of Mr. D. Anderson, of Apsley, and has many friends in Peterborough.

A CLANDESTINE MARRIAGE.

A Warning Against Such a Course—Miss Maybee's Unhappy Position.

In reference to the marriage of Miss Maybee, of Port Hope, and John Johnston, which the latter publicly denied, the Port Hope Times gives further particulars. A reporter visited the young lady's father, who told him the following story:—

"In order to give you full particulars, I will have to go back to the time they were introduced to each other. Johnston was a school teacher in School Section No. 5, township of Hamilton, where he was well liked and an efficient master. He boarded with some friends of mine, Mr. Thomas Newton, about a mile and a half from here. One evening Mr. and Mrs. Newton came over to spend the evening at my house and Mr. Johnston came with them. That was about two years ago. A friendship sprung up between them which continued for some time, and they secretly became engaged to be married in July of last year. My daughter has some friends living in Peterborough, and about the middle of August, 1888, she went out there to pay them a visit. The 24th day of August was the civic holiday in Port Hope, and Johnston having a holiday on that date, went out to Peterborough to see her, and while he was there they were married by Rev. Mr. Shorey, the Methodist minister."

"Did she go out there with the intention of being married?"

"I don't know for sure. Before she went my other daughter had some conversation with her, from which I would judge she had some idea of it."

"At whose suggestion was the clandestine marriage performed?"

"It was undoubtedly the work of Johnston, for it was only after repeated urgings on his part that she consented to go through the ceremony. The minister was requested not to publish the fact of the wedding, but in some way or other it found its way into the columns of the Peterborough REVIEW as follows:—

'A QUIET WEDDING.—A couple were married here last night by a Methodist clergyman, who had the ceremony performed in a quiet manner. They were Mr. Johnston, of Toronto, whose calling was given as that of a student, and Miss Adelaide Maybee, of Port Hope. They proceeded to the parsonage, having procured the license, and were made one in the presence of the minister's family only and departed as quietly as they came.'

The clipping was copied the day after by a local paper in Port Hope, and when my attention was drawn to it as it appeared in the local paper, I knew for the first time that my daughter was married. I could not believe it at first; I spoke of it to my daughter and she evaded my question at first but afterwards admitted that it was true. Johnston wanted the matter kept quiet so that his mother and a young lady living up west would not hear of it. I consented to this, but on hearing that Johnston was paying marked attention to other young ladies in Port Hope, I confronted him with a mention of what I had heard. He said in an evasive sort of way, that he did it only to keep the public from suspecting he was married. I got tired of the unsatisfactory way he was acting and wanted to have the matter settled one way or another.

I kept pressing him but could not get any satisfaction, he would suggest nothing. A letter dated Friday, May 3rd, was received by me on the following Monday, from which the following is a clipping:—

"You need not think that I am foolish enough to go after another girl if I had a wife living."

On May 9th I received a second letter from him, which contained the following quotation:—

"I would give you the reason why Addie is not my wife, but it would place me in your power, and I will take good care to keep out of any scrap in that line."

"What did you do then, Mr. Maybee?"

"I consulted legal advice at once, and the lawyer advised me to go to Peterborough, which I did, and I had the satisfaction of possessing myself of all the necessary proofs."

"When you came back from Peterborough what did you do?"

"While at Peterborough, I ascertained that Johnson had gone to the ministers in the morning and had arranged for the wedding in the afternoon. A wedding ring was used. I returned from Peterborough on Friday night, and early last Saturday morning went to see Johnston. He saw me coming, from an upstair window and ran down stairs to prevent his employer, Mr. T. Neelands, from hearing our words. I was pretty hot about that time, and demanded what he meant by all his villainy. On Saturday night he came out to my house, but I could get no satisfaction from him at all."

"In what way?"

"In any way, he would say nothing, but just let it lie quiet."

"Did you tell him you intended exposing him?"

"Yes, and he said if I did he would have to leave the country and get over the border. This was the last I saw of him. I published his exposure on Wednesday, and I understand he got out of town on Thursday morning."

AN UNFORTUNATE GIRL.

The result of the whole case is that Mrs J. H. Johnston, nee Miss Adelaide Maybee, a very respectable and popular young lady, well-known to the most of our residents, finds herself in the position of a cruelly deserted wife. From reading letters written from Johnston to Mr. Maybee, the natural conclusion arrived at is, that he has another wife living. Were it not so he would not have been so anxious to get over the border and disappear from the sight of the authorities. By his communications he has branded himself a most unscrupulous adventurer, and it is a pity that he has got out of town without a liberal smearing of tar and feathers. The young lady's character, however, is still unblemished. Though indiscreet in the first place in consenting to a clandestine marriage, her conduct all the way through has been honest and upright, and it is a matter of congratulation to the parents as well as to the young lady herself that her character has been maintained pure and spotless, from beginning to end. She feels her position keenly, but like a courageous girl is making the best of it. If the admission in his letter that he has another wife living, is correct, it would be the means of freeing Mr. Maybee's daughter from her vows.

WHERE IS JOHNSTON?

Johnston was at his employer's office up to five o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, but has not been seen since. Johnston's post office address when on a visit to his home was Blackstock, Ont., but who he really is, or where he came from originally, is shrouded in mystery.

The Chemong Lake Road.

The work of ballasting on the Chemong Lake road is now being pushed on the line north of Smith-st. New culverts are also being built extending north from Smith-st. and a considerable quantity of cedar has been used in the work.

Brick and Stone.

There will be a meeting of the Bricklayers and Masons Union No. 12, on Tuesday evening next, May 21st, at 8 o'clock sharp in the K. of L. Hall, Water-st. A full attendance is urgently requested as business of importance will come before the meeting. J. J. Hartley, President. 1d117

Art Prizes.

Mr. Foderic Nicholls, Toronto, Secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, writes:—In order to encourage originality in Industrial Design in Canada, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association have for some years awarded medals to the pupils of the Ontario Art School for Prize Designs for specified subjects. This year the scope of competition has been enlarged by being thrown open to any persons resident in Canada, and ten each silver and bronze medals were offered for the best designs, models, and specimens of carving in wood, for subjects selected by the Association. It was intended to close the competition upon the 1st day of May, but as in eight of the ten classes competition was not sufficient to warrant any award being made, the time for receipt of competing designs has been extended until the 1st day of August for the eight classes referred to, of which full particulars will be sent upon application to the Secretary of the Association, 6 Wellington-st. West, Toronto. In addition to awarding medals for the designs, which latter remain the property of the competitors, the Association endeavors to sell those which are considered of special merit, and thus open up a profitable business for the designer. Apart from the Association medals, Mr. J. B. Armstrong, of Guelph, offers one each, silver and bronze medal as first and second prizes for "specifications and working drawings, with details, of a 10 H. P. Steam Engine."

Porter Bros. Stock Sold.

The stock of Porter Bros., carriage manufacturers, was sold yesterday afternoon and the entire stock en bloc was bought by Mr. T. Fitzgerald for $1100.

The Farmers Picnic.

The fare from Hastings and Bridsall to the Union Farmers' Institute picnic on June 12th was erroneously stated. From Hastings will be 40 cents and from Birdsalls 30 cents.

A Missionary from India.

Rev. J. Wilkin, who has been a missionary in Mdore, Central India, for the past ten years, will preach to-morrow morning in St. Paul's church at 11 a.m. and in the evening in St. Andrew's church at 7 p.m. It is hoped that many may embrace the opportunity of hearing Mr. Wilkin while in Peterborough.

All Should See Them.

The celebration of the seventieth anniversary of Her Majesty's birthday on Friday is to be duly observed by our loyal and enthusiastic citizens and the attraction and event of the celebration will be the grand display of fireworks which is to be given in the P.A.A.A. grounds in the evening under the auspices of the firemen. All other pyrotechnic displays are to be eclipsed, and the old and young, poor and rich, should all in respect for the occasion and in compliment to our gallant fire-fighters go to see the fireworks, not from the outside and the hills round about, but within the fence.

Personal.

Rev. M. L. Pearson will conduct the re-opening services of the King-st. Methodist Church, Cobourg, on May 26th.

Mr. W. F. Hamilton, Inspector of Inland Revenue, was in town yesterday.

Mr. Fred W. Craig, a brother of Mr. John Craig, of town, whose arrival in Toronto from San Francisco, was noticed a day or two ago, arrived here last night to visit his many Peterborough friends. Mr. Craig is secretary to the president of the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway.

The Minden correspondent of the Independent says:—"The Rev. Mr. Bennett, of Peterborough, has come to take charge of this mission in the interests of the Presbyterian Church. We have no doubt that Mr. Bennett will meet with an ample measure of success in his ministrations. He is a young man of high attainments and good ability, with an honest purpose and any amount of energy. His people are extending to him a cordial welcome, and although his field is a very large one, much good we believe will result from his labor-ings."

A.C.A. Camp Site Changed.

The Peterborough representatives who left on Thursday morning last for Gananoque to attend the meeting of the officers and Executive Committee of the general meet of the American Canoe Association arrived home this morning, and report having enjoyed their trip immensely. The gentlemen who went from here were Commodore Rogers, Col. J. Z. Rogers, and Messrs. R.M. Dennistoun, Geo. Hatton and E. B. Edwards and they were accompanied by a delegation from Lindsay composed of Messrs. J. G. Edwards, R. Hopkins, T. B. Dean and E. Pitt. The canoeists remained in Kingston on Thursday and early Friday morning they left for Gananoque, accompanied by a couple of Kingston representatives. At Gananoque a party of some thirty canoeists embarked in a pleasure launch and took a run down the river to Sugar Island, the proposed place for the meet. A tour of inspection was made through the islands, which dot the St. Lawrence in this locality, and it was finally decided to change the place of the association camp from Sugar Island to an island, about one mile from Sugar Island, known as Stave Island. This is a most delightful and picturesque spot, and one of the Peterborough canoeists remarked this morning that he had not the slightest idea that a spot half as beautiful could be found. Arrangements were made with the owner of the island for the supplying of milk and vegetables during the meet and it is felt that the canoeists will be enchanted with the spot when the meet is held. The run through the islands was a very pleasant one and the local gentlemen say they enjoyed themselves greatly.

Improvements in the School Grounds—Promising Appearance of the Crops.

Correspondence of the Review.

A MUCH NEEDED IMPROVEMENT.—The Trustees of S.S. No. 10 have enlarged the school yard to twice its former size, and a fence and shed have been erected. The new part is to be levelled and seeded, and in a few years the grounds ought to present a respectable appearance worthy of the neighborhood in which they situated.

BRIGHTENING UP.—The inside of the Cheese Factory has received a few coats of paint, and looks better in consequence. The "old reliable" maker, Mr. Ernest Deyell, is again in charge.

CROPS.—The rain has made a big change in the appearance of the crops, and also in the faces of the farmers, which are one hundred per cent. brighter.

MEASLES.—A mild form of measles is prevalent. Quiet a number have have had them lately, but do not report them either pleasant or desirable.

BIBLE CLASS.—A Teachers' Bible Class is held on Wednesday evenings in connection with the Sunday school. It meets in Stewart's school house.

FOOTBALL.—"Crystal Springs" has been re-organized and practice's once a week on the old grounds.

Well, Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Hall's Hair Renewer to restore the color of my hair.

Annual Convention.

The annual convention of the Emerald Beneficial Association opens here on Monday morning, when it is expected there will be some twenty delegates present, representing the twenty branches of the organization scattered throughout Ontario. The convention will remain in session for three days, and on Wednesday evening the local branch, St. Peter's, No. 21, will tender the delegates a grand banquet at the Balmoral hotel.

Brevities.

—The Otonabee Canoe Club will meet on Wednesday next.

—Belleville's Imperial Federation League has been re-organized.

—Harry Lindly is coming here next week and will appear in "The Castaways."

—There was a good market to-day, the attendance of buyers and sellers being large.

—The time for entering appeals against this year's assessment closes at twelve o'clock to-night.

—There was another quiet night in police circles last night and a blank at the Police Court this morning.

—It has been remarked by a number of observant citizens that it was pretty near time that the men on the police force were given new uniforms.

—Prof. Martyne, the humorist, was to give an entertainment in the Opera House last night, but the number of ten cent pieces that were presented were so small that the curtain failed to rise and there was no show.

Never had a preparation a more appropriate name than Ayer's Hair Vigor. When the capillary glands become enfeebled by disease, age, or neglect, this dressing imparts renewed life to the scalp, so that the hair assumes of its youthful fullness and beauty.

HIS FIRST WIFE GRUMBLED.

So Duggan Left Her and Married Again—Ambitious City News.

HAMILTON, May 17.—Jeremiah Power Duggan, the bigamist, was remanded for a week at the Police Court this morning. Duggan admitted to Chief McKinnon that he hot married when his first wife was alive. He deserted her in Toronto four or five years ago because she was continually grumbling.

The corridors of the Royal Hotel were thronged to-day with spruce young men wearing shiny silk hats and other evidences of festive intentions. They are members of the society known as the Knights of the Golden Eagle, and they came here to assist in the institution of the grand castle of the Dominion of Canada.

It is said that $700 worth of condemned canned lobsters has been dumped into the inlet within the last few days. They were all from one wholesale house.

At a recent meeting of the Hamilton post-office clerks engaged in Sunday work it was unanimously decided to request the postmaster to discontinue the Sunday work, and in case of his non-compliance to petition the Postmaster-General.

At 2.30 this morning a special freight going east, in charge of Conductor Eames, ran off the track at Mimico and traffic was suspended until 7 o'clock. The brakeman had gone ahead of the train to open the west switch, but he did not have time to get it properly set before the engine arrived and went bumping along on the ties followed by two car loads of dressed beef. No one was hurt, and the track was clear before the passenger trains were due.

Miss Minnie Graham, the well known local singer, is reported to be dying.

The city residence of Valancey E. Fuller was sold yesterday by Mulligan and Stewart. The purchaser was Mr. Ward, who paid $7300 for it.

THE ST. SAUVEUR FIRE.

An Inquest Opened—Arrangements for the Funerals of the Two Victims.

QUEBEC, May 17.—In St. Sauveur to-day the wells were explored to fish up valuables deposited by the owners at the time of the fire.

An inquest on the bodies of the two victims of the powder explosion was begun at the Citadel hospital this afternoon. Surgeon Colin Sewell of "B" Battery identified the remains of Major Short and Sergt. Wallack, and gave the details of the accident already published.

Major Short's funeral takes place to-morrow at 11 a.m. from the Citadel to the English Cathedral, thence to Levis via the Grand Trunk Railway to Kingston. All officers of Quebec military district No. 7 are under orders to attend.

The funeral of Sergt. Wallack is deferred till Monday to allow the attendance of relatives coming from Ontario.

Admiral Porter's Dog "Bruce."

Dogs have been favorites with the Admiral all his life, and within the last twenty years, or since making Washington his headquarters, he has owned no less than twenty-two!

But Bruce, early in his career, earned the highest place in his master's regard by one of those feats of sagacity which seem to prove that animals sometimes reason, and that, too, often more wisely than their recognized mental superiors.

Admiral Porter had a little grandson, who lived near a deep and rapid water-course about twenty-five feet wide. The stream was crossed by a narrow plank. One day, the little fellow—who was but three years of age—attempted the perilous crossing alone. There was no one near to warn him of danger or prevent him but the dog. Realizing the child's peril, Bruce ran to him, and, catching hold of his dress, tried to pull him back. The youngster was determined to have his own way, and vigorously resented the dog's interference by beating poor Bruce in the face, with a big stick he carried, until the dog was forced by pain to relinquish his hold.

The faithful animal then jumped into the water, and swam slowly across the stream, below the plank, evidently with the intention of saving the child, should he happen to fall in.

When they were both safely across, and Bruce had shaken the water from his shaggy coat, he artfully induced the little fellow to get on his back for a ride, a treat he knew the youngster much enjoyed and for which he was always ready.

The moment the dog felt the child's arms around his neck, and the little feet digging into his sides, he trotted back across the plank, and homeward, never stopping until his young charge was safely beyond any temptation of repeating his dangerous performance.

Books We Wrote Last Year.

The figures for the year just ended have now been made up, from which it would appear that 4,631 works were issued in the United States last year, against 4,437 during 1887. Of this number, but 590 are reprints, and of this number 875 were works of fiction.

He Read Dime Novels.

CHICAGO, May 17.—Frank Jasinski, aged 16, stepped out in front of his father's saloon last night with a rifle in his hand. Glancing down the street he saw Frank Kiowski, a lad of his own age, standing in the front of his home. Jasinski raised the rifle, took deliberate aim and fired. Kiowski fell, the ball having passed through his body two inches above the heart. Jasinski then coolly took aim and fired at another acquaintance, Mike McKay, who stood at the front door of his home, 160 feet away, and Mike fell to the ground, the ball having entered six inches below the left shoulder blade. Jasinski escaped. Kiowski's wound is fatal, but McKay's is not serious. Jasinski belongs to the gang of which young Kuberowski, who shot a lad named Trinor last Sunday night, was a member. Jasinski had in his room a "Wild West" outfit, including knives and revolvers, and a lot of flash literature.

Alleged Bribery.

BELLEVILLE, May 17.—Alderman Porter affirms the truth of the rumored charge that Mr. T. F. Corman offered him a bribe to vote [illegible] of a building on [illegible] Market and used as a fire station. The Mayor will take immediate action.

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK.

A little child, tired of play, had pillowed his head on a railroad track and fallen asleep. The train was almost upon him when a passing stranger rushed forward and saved him from a horrible death. Perhaps you are asleep on the track, too. You are, if you are neglecting the hacking cough, the hectic flush, the loss of appetite, growing weakness and lassitude, which have unconsciously crept upon you. Wake up, or the train will be upon you! Consumption, which thus insidiously fastens its hold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach, must be taken in time, if it is to be overcome. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case of Consumption, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

SMASH-UP AT CORBYVILLE

A TIMBER TRAIN CRASHES INTO THE MADOC PASSENGER.

More Than a Score of Passengers Injured, But None, it is Thought, Fatally—Full List of the Sufferers.

BELLEVILLE, May 19.—A collision occurred at Corbyville, a small village on the Grand Junction branch of the Grand Trunk Railway about five miles from this city, at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, by which a score of passengers were injured, several seriously.

The Madoc train, consisting of an engine, a baggage car and one coach, under the charge of Conductor Wm. Kerr, and which is due here at 9.30, had reached Corbyville and had taken on a number of passengers, and being the last station before the city is reached the coach was well filled with passengers.

Following closely was a train consisting of 12 cars loaded with square timber, destined for the Collins Bay Rafting Company, who are rafting the timber at this place. It was stated that this train was under too great a speed. The first intimation which was heard of anything wrong was the shrill whistle for brakes by the engine of the timber train as it rounded the curve near the junction of the gravel road. The passenger train was then going slowly, only just getting under headway, and was unable to get out of the way. On came the timber train and it was seen that that a pitch-in was inevitable. The fireman of the latter train, named Miller, jumped just as the coach was struck. The engineer, however, remained at his post. The iron horse plunged into the coach among the passengers and splinters, glass and iron work were scattered in all directions. The passenger train was in this manner carried some 200 yards by the other train before a stoppage was effected. The interior of the coach was stripped of everything, and the engine of the timber train was encased in the frame work, the smoke stack being driven up through the centre of the roof. Willing hands were soon on the spot to render such assistance as was needed. By those who witnessed the disaster it was expected that a number were killed, but this happily was not the case.

A wrecking train was made up and sent out to the scene to bring in some of the wounded, some of whom were removed to the hospital, and others were taken to their homes. Whilst a number were badly injured, none were, it is thought, fatally hurt. The names of the injured and the nature of their injuries are as follows:

P. Ryan, Montreal, horse buyer, three ribs broken, legs bruised and a wound on the head.

Mrs. J. N. Gould, Foxboro, right hand badly sprained and a scalp wound.

Mrs. Simeon Ashley, Huntingdon, painful contusion of the chest; her back was also hurt.

Mrs. Losius Reed, Corbyville, bruised about the legs.

Jeff Caverly, Madoc, an ugly cut on the side of his face, a painful scalp wound and a wound on the wrist of his right hand.

Mr. Robert Kingston, Rawdon, a painful wound on his left leg, a piece of iron penetrating the fleshy part of the calf of the leg.

Miss Sinclair, St. Catharines, a niece of Mr. D. Gunn, station agent, had a miraculous escape from death. She was caught by the dress in some manner, lifted to the top of the car and left suspended in the air. It was necessary to cut her dress in order to extricate her from the perilous position in which she was placed. She escaped with slight injuries.

Mr. Vincent, foot and leg badly bruised.

Mrs. Cole Harris, bruised about the body, hand also hurt.

Mr. William Holland, an aged man from Huntingdon, face badly cut in three places.

Miss Holmes, Belleville, injured, but not seriously.

Robert Ueed, Rawdon, received a painful cut in the face.

Mrs. Kane, knee fractured.

Mrs. Frets, Foxboro, ankle fractured and body bruised.

Mrs. Martin, ankle fractured. Her child is also suffering from concussion of the brain.

Mrs. French, Huntingdon, right arm broken, bruised about the chest and legs badly bruised.

James English, Madoc Township, a bad cut on the head.

Mrs. Harris, Madoc, leg fractured and injured in different parts of her body.

Mrs. D. Eggleston, 1st con. Rawdon, injured in the legs. Her little boy was with her and received injuries in the ribs, but none were broken.

The damage to rolling stock is estimated at [illegible].

The injured are reported by the various medical men in attendance to be progressing favorably and no fatal results apprehended.

The official inquiry by the officers of the line will be held to-morrow. There was very little interruption to traffic. Both engines brought their trains through to Belleville. The first-class car was the only one damaged. The engines were slightly damaged.

A Kingston Child's Fatal Draught.

KINGSTON, May 19.—One day last week Mr. P. C. Carnovsky took his family out for a sail on a steamer. Before going he procured a small phial of brandy in case of sickness. Little Kenneth, 2 years of age, took sick and was given a spoonful of the liquor, which revived him. On Friday morning about 7 o'clock he was found by his mother lying insensible on the floor and near him was the empty phial, the contents of which—about a gill of brandy—he had swallowed. He had found the bottle in a small cupboard. Medical aid was called in, a stomach pump used, but, notwithstanding that every effort was made to save his life, the little fellow died at 5 o'clock yesterday morning after suffering terrible agony for nearly 24 hours.

THE STRIKE IN GERMANY.

EMPEROR WILLIAM TAKING STEPS IN FAVOR OF THE MEN.

Mine Owners Given Fair Warning by the Kaiser—They Must Come to Terms or Feel the Weight of His Displeasure.

BERLIN, May 18.—The Emperor, impatient at the delay in bringing about peace between the miners and employers, has directed the president of the province of Westphalia to convey to the mining companies his emphatic desire to accelerate a compromise. It is reported that the president has resigned, the Emperor blaming him for allowing affairs to drift and also for sending out false alarms as to encounters between strikers and the military. Dr. Hinzpeter, who is now, by command of the Emperor, making a tour of the strike districts in order to hear both sides, is charged to warn the mine owners that the government will resent their action if they refuse to grant the claims of the men. The power of the government to make employers feel the weight of its displeasure lies at hand. The mine owners have during recent years received many favors. They have secured special tariffs throughout Germany and have been granted low freight rates to Hamburg, Bremen, Belgium and Holland in order to enable them to compete with English coal. These privileges are readily assailable if the companies are contumacious. While the state of the mines is most prosperous the condition of the men is yearly more wretched.

The Bourse quotations show an enormous advance in shares. For instance, the Dortmund Union mine shares have risen 50 per cent. in the past two years, and meanwhile some of the men at Dortmund have earned a beggarly 12s 6d weekly. Recently the owners have withdrawn some allowances hitherto granted to the men and have increased the severity of the fines imposed upon the miners. For instance, there is the practice called nullen, by which nothing is allowed a miner for any car load of coal which lacks full weight. The owners sell this coal, but the man working underground, often naked, in a temperature upwards of twenty degrees, Reaumur, which is common to the deep Westphalia pits, gets nothing if the car is not quite full.

Public feeling is becoming more and more pronounced in favor of the men. The paralysis of the iron and steel industries consequent upon lack of a sufficient supply of coal intensifies the feeling of discontent existing outside of the coal district. In the event of the failure of a speedy settlement of the trouble the government will convene a conference of employers and workmen under a neutral president which shall be empowered to arbitrate on the differences.

Criticisms on the alleged violent phrase of the Emperor to the workmen's delegates that if they resisted the troops he would have all of them shot (lasse er alles heben den haufen schiessen) led to a semi-official denial that the Emperor made use of a phrase which bade fair to become a historic illustration of his despotic disregard of the life of the masses. The official version of the stenographer present does not contain the words. The delegates say that the Emperor, striking the pommel of his sword, warned them that he could make them feel his power if they resisted the authorities. His subsequent assurances of sympathy softened the severity of the warning. Herren Liebknecht and Bebel invited the delegates to confer with the Socialist members of the Reichstag, but they declined, having noted the Emperor's remark, "Don't associate your movement with the Socialists," said the Emperor: "Denn fuer mich ist jeder Social Demokrat gleich bedeutent mit Reichs und Vaterlands-feind."

The building trades strike in Berlin is extending. Many of the workmen have given their masters until Monday to answer their demands. The climax of the movement will probably be reached in June, several of the largest workmen's associations having postponed the general strike until then.

In the Reichstag to-day when the Aged Workman's Insurance Bill came up for third reading Prince Bismarck made an acrid speech. He said that he was not surprised that the Socialists, the Freisinnige party and the Poles opposed the bill, but he had not expected that Conservatives would assume a hostile attitude toward proposals affecting the innermost depths of the whole empire. In concluding, he said: "I wish the bill to be disposed of before the next elections, for no one knows whether we shall have as much leisure next year as now. I beg Conservatives, Imperialists and Nationals to free themselves from the Socialist, Polish, Guelph, French and Freisinnige parties."

After a reply from Herr Bamberger the House adjourned. Prince Bismarck's appeal is likely to induce the government to give warmer support to the measure. The opposing Nationals and ultra-Conservatives will again refrain from voting, leaving Prince Bismarck to rely upon the former majority. Prince Bismarck will entertain a large number of members of the Reichstag at a fruhschoppen on Monday morning.

The Bundesrath has approved without alteration article four of the penal-code, embodying in the common law provisions hitherto specially applicable to the Socialists. The government will not venture to test the Reichstag on the code during the present session.

The Mine Owners Yield.

BERLIN May 19.—The Westphalia Mine-owners' Association has accepted all the miners' proposals with the exception of those in reference to over-time, which have been referred to a committee of miners and owners.

Fie!

BERLIN, May 19.—In the Reichstag yesterday Prince Bismarck expressed doubt whether the Freisinnige party had not supported the Army Bill from necessity rather than from patriotism.

"Fie!" exclaimed Herr Richter, resenting the imputation.

"Whoever says 'fie' to me," warmly retorted the Chancellor, "is impudent."

Herr Bamberger declared that the Chancellor's action could only produce personal hatred. Prince Bismarck abruptly left the chamber.

Charged With Murder.

LONDON, May 18.—Mrs. Maybrisch, a niece of Jefferson Davis and a French-Canadian aristocrat by birth, has been arrested at Liverpool on a charge of poisoning her husband with arsenic. Mr. Maybrisch, who was a prominent merchant, died with symptoms of slow poisoning. His brother Michael, known as Stephen Adams, a musical composer, and other relatives hesitated to act on the report circulated as to the cause of death. To-day County Magistrate Col. Biddell, accompanied by the Chief of Police, went to the Maybrisch residence. They were told that the lady was ill in bed. Medical aid was summoned and after an examination they pronounced her fit to hear the charge. Her solicitor demanded to know the nature of the evidence. The Chief of Police responded that he had grave evidence that the woman had given arsenic to her husband from time to time. The officials went to the bedroom where the woman lay—haggard but composed. The magistrate directed that she be removed to the Kirkdale jail, where she is now being attended by doctors and a nurse. The case has caused a great sensation.

A Quarrel in Regent-street.

LONDON, May 18.—While Henri Rochefort accompanied by friends was walking in Regent-street to-night he met M. Pilotel. Angry words were exchanged and Pilotel threatened to strike Rochefort unless he assented to a duel. Rochefort drew a revolver and was about to fire at Pilotel when a by-stander seized the weapon. A policeman arrested the men and took them to the station, where Pilotel charged Rochefort with assault. The revolver was found fully charged. Rochefort was bailed.

LOOKS LIKE THE WORK OF FIREBUGS.

Nine Houses and a Dozen Barns Burned in East Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Fire this morning at One-hundred-and-sixth-street and Avenue K, in East Chicago, destroyed nine houses. Twelve barns were incidentally licked up by the flames, and the total damage is between $30,000 and $40,000. Both fires started in barns in the most unaccountable manner, and in localities where the flames were sure to spread.

A $100,000 Fire at Roxton Falls, Que.

ROXTON FALLS, QUE., May 18.—Fire broke out in the Cassib tannery and set fire to the Roxton tannery, which in return communicated with the Beaver tannery and a large quantity of tanbark. All were totally destroyed. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

A Boatload of Colored People Capsized on the Mississippi.

VICKSBURG, Miss., May 18.—A serious accident occurred near the foot of West Pass late this evening, to a party of negroes who were returning in two skiffs from a trip to the Louisiana shore. The wind and waves were high and the people in one of the boats became frightened and capsized the boat and nine out of the ten passengers were drowned—a little girl being the only one that reached the bank in safety.

Drowning Accident at Wingham.

WINGHAM, May 19.—While some boys were bathing this morning in the river, Arthur Long, a tinsmith aged 19, took a cramp and was drowned before assistance could be called.

The Samoan Conference.

BERLIN, May 18.—The fourth session of the Samoan conference, which was held yesterday, took place in the small room of the Department of Foreign Affairs, in which the three previous meetings have been held. The department is furnished with extreme simplicity. There is space for little besides a long table, at which the Commissioners sit. The meeting was called to order shortly after 2 o'clock by Count Herbert Bismarck, who presides at all the meetings in accordance with the established custom that the highest representative of the Government of the country in which a conference is held, shall preside. Count Herbert sat at the upper end of the table, just back of a plain little desk, which the late Emperor Frederick used during his brief reign. None of the Commissioners was in uniform or court dress, but wore black frock coats.

The proceedings were almost entirely formal. They consisted chiefly in listening to the reports of the various sub-committees which have been holding daily sessions ever since the conference met. At these meetings the real work of the conference has been transacted, and as nearly as can be learned the American Commissioners have succeeded in carrying every important point they set out to obtain. Indeed, so prevalent is this feeling in Berlin that the Berlin press and other influential papers in Germany complain of the success of the Americans.

While the greatest secrecy in regard to the proceedings is maintained, and heretofore nothing much beyond the fact that the meetings had been held was known, it can now be stated that excepting the question of indemnity for German sailors killed and beheaded by the Samoans and one or two other minor points, the work of the commission is about over. It is thought that the restoration of Malietoa to power is assured and the plan for a tripartite government in Samoa, for which the American Commissioners contested against the German plan for the representative selected by the three powers, will surely be put into effect. It is also more than likely that the commission has decided in favor of the absolute independence of Samoa as soon as the people there demonstrate their ability to go alone. The indemnity question is yet to come up. It may prolong the meetings of the conference some weeks, but this is believed to be the only point on which there is likely to be a serious contest. The question of Klein's connection with the affair in which the German sailors were killed has never come up, nor is there any likelihood of its doing so. Neither will the commission hear testimony of any kind. During the past meetings of the conference and the committees the only points of difference have been between the German and American Commissioners, the attitude of the English members being neutral. Their influence has generally been cast with a view of settling the question as expeditiously as possible. They have, however, been strongly in favor of having a Protestant for King of Samoa, which is thought to indicate their preference for Malietoa, who was trained in an English Protestant college.

O'Connor's Winning Oars.

TACOMA, W.T., May 18.—The regatta yesterday was a great success. Twenty-five thousand people witnessed the races. The first race started about 3 o'clock. O'Connor led from the start and was ahead in turning the flag, Lee second, Peterson third and Hamm fourth. Hamm's flag drifted about two boat lengths farther out than the others. After turning Peterson got ahead of Lee and O'Connor, but the latter regained his lead and came in ahead. Time 14.02. Peterson was second in 14.04. Hamm made a splendid race and came in third in 14.14, with Lee fourth in 14.15. Hamm had 120 feet further to pull than the rest. The course was two and a quarter miles. The tide was in their favor going out and against them on their return.

Stocks in London Quiet.

LONDON, May 19.—During the past week business on the Stock Exchange was quiet, with a tendency to weakness. American railroad securities were inanimate. The unsettling of values is largely due to New York buying. On the continental bourses prices were generally fair, with a rising tendency.

DISASTER ON LAKE HURON

THE SCHOONER MERRICK SUNK BY THE PROPELLER RANNEY.

Four Men and One Woman Lose their Lives—The Captain and One Seaman Saved—Thick Weather Causes the Accident.

PORT HURON, May 18.—The steamer R. P. Ranney, which arrived down this forenoon, reports having been in collision with the schooner M. F. Merrick off Presque Isle, resulting in the sinking of the schooner with the loss of all her crew excepting the captain and one man. The Ranney proceeded down the river with the captain of the Merrick, who will land at Detroit.

Following are the names of the lost:

MARTIN JOHNSON of Detroit, mate.

JOHN CHARLEVOIX of Detroit, seaman.

WM. OURS of Ashtabula, seaman.

PATRICK KANALY of Clayton, N.Y., seaman.

MRS. COLE of Cleveland, cook.

The Merrick had a cargo of about 400 tons of sand and was bound for Lake Linden.

The following is the story of the disaster as told by William Goodfriend, the only survivor besides the captain:

"The Merrick had a cargo of furnace sand and was bound from Port Austin to Portage. We left Port Austin with a free wind, the weather thick and smoky. When about 15 miles off Presque Isle, at 12.30 Friday morning, we heard three blasts from a steamer's whistle. About half an hour later the mate ordered me to put the wheel over and let her come up in the wind. I then saw the steamer about 15 feet from us. She struck us just aft the forerigging. The schooner sunk under her bow. The crew on deck took to the rigging and went down with the vessel. I was saved by being picked up by a yawl from the Ranney. The captain was saved by a line being thrown to him by the Ranney's crew. Mrs. Cole, the cook, stood aft, holding on the schooner's wheel, when the schooner sunk. Every possible effort was made by the Ranney's crew to save us. The steamer's engines were backing when we came together. The weather was so thick we could only see a short distance. I think the schooner sunk in from twenty to thirty seconds after being struck. She went down head first, our main boom going over the Ranney's bows as she went down. We were blowing our fog horn all the time, giving proper signals, which were understood by the steamer. Three of the crew were below when the vessel sunk."

The Merrick was owned by Cash P. Taylor and G. Maitland of Detroit. She was valued at $7500 and insured for $5000. She was one of the old Merrick fleet, was built at Clayton, N.Y., in 1863 and rebuilt in 1877.

Collisions off Sandy Hook.

NEW YORK, May 19.—The pilot boat Charlotte Webb when eight miles east of Sandy Hook lightship yesterday was run into by the steamer La Normandie, bound for Havre, during a dense fog. The pilot boat sunk in three minutes. Captain Malcolm (pilot) and Boatkeeper Charles Fitzgerald were drowned. La Normandie picked up the survivors, who complain of being poorly treated, and this morning they were put aboard the Etruria and brought here. The saloon passengers of the Etruria made up a purse of $305, which was divided among the Webb's crew.

The steamers delayed by the fog Saturday continued their voyages this morning. The Servia, which had grounded, floated off.

Last night the steamer Comal was run into by the steamer Guyandotte while the former was at anchor below quarantine. The Guyandotte cut about 15 feet into the starboard quarter overhang of the Comal. The Guyandotte's bow was cut into seven or eight feet in width to within a foot of the water's edge. The Comal's steering gear was destroyed. Both steamers put back for repairs.

He was the grandson of John Wallack of Masboro and son of Mrs. George Jackson of that neighborhood by her first marriage. He joined "B" battery, 1st Brigade Field Artillery, here in 1879, and a year or two later went to the Kingston School of Gunnery and afterwards joined "B" battery of regulars at Quebec as gunner, rising by his ability to the post of head riding instructor. He was a general favorite with the men.

The Mind Reader's Death.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The autopsy on the body of Washington Irving Bishop was made to-day by Deputy Coroner Jenkins. There were also present Deputy Coroner Weston, Dr. Briggs and Dr. Ferguson, who made the original autopsy. The examination, so far as was possible to be made to-day, did not reveal the cause of death. Dr. Jenkins however removed various particles of the vital organs for microscopical examination of which is expected to settle the matter of whether or not the mind reader died under the post mortem knife or not. Drs. Hamilton, Janeway and Spitka, who were expected to be present, did not attend the autopsy. The last named gentleman is said to have declared that it is impossible to solve the mystery at this late time.

VIGOROUS CANADIANISM.

SENATOR SULLIVAN'S ABLE SPEECH IN THE UPPER HOUSE.

Canada's Remarkable Development Under the National Policy—The Ground Taken From Under the Feet of the Blue Ruinists.

In the debate in the Senate consequent on Mr. Wark's resolution against Unrestricted Reciprocity, Hon. Senator Sullivan, of Kingston, took part as follows:—

I would shrink from making any remarks on this occasion, were it not that in the section of the country that I represent a large majority of its inhabitants would consider me derelict of duty did I not give expression to what I believe to be their opinions on this question. No objection can be taken to the resolution; no more worthy theme could occupy the attention of this Senate. The colonial empire of Great Britain challenges the admiration of the world. No country, ancient or modern, has attained to such a pitch of greatness. Its growth is marvellous, and the problem of governing an empire containing 9,000,000 square miles and 321,000,000 of inhabitants is engaging the attention of the the greatest statesmen of Great Britain, and I could not help thinking that the learning and experience of this hon. body would be better engaged in aiding them in the solution of this problem. Unfortunately, this discussion has not been confined to the resolution or the amendment. It has wandered off, and been made the occasion of an attack of an audacious character on the National Policy. It has been led on by the member from Ottawa, and sustained with all the force of his confrere, the member from Halifax. The former of these I was astonished to hear. I do not know so much about Halifax, but I should think if the hon. member from Ottawa had looked around him and witnessed the marvellous growth of his own city it should have prevented him from speaking of one of the principal causes of this growth and prosperity as "a fearful incubus on the industry and labors of its inhabitants."

Hon. Mr. POWER.—The hon. gentleman is giving me credit for something I do not deserve. I did not say much about the National Policy at all.

Hon. Mr. SULLIVAN—I think the hon. gentleman aided and abetted his leader. However, if it is an incubus, it is one that this country has voluntarily again put on and which it has refused to part with when the opportunity was presented—an incubus which it cherishes, with which it is satisfied and which, probably, it will continue to bear. Surely the hon. member forgot the circumstances attending the inception of this policy—the general depression that prevailed, the paralysed industries of the country and the lack of employment for working men. The few manufactures of the country were in a crippled condition, and Egyptian darkness prevailed over the land; and the municipalities were obliged, for the first time in the history of this country, to provide means for giving public charity. The Government, in this crisis of affairs, when appealed to, said they were perfectly powerless. The observation, now become very trite, was used, that they had no more power to improve the condition of affairs than the fly on a wheel has power to turn the wheel. Fortunately there were those in this country who thought differently, and I say on this occasion all honor to the political sagacity and the statesmanship of those whose prophetic vision pierced through the clouds and foresaw splendid realizations which we have to-day. They said that the State could aid the people—that they would devise a policy which would, without making the rich richer and the poor poorer, shed its beneficent influence over all. Manufacturing industries were established. I need not detail them—why should I weary this House with a long array of figures, showing the rapid progress that this country has made in the development of its resources, distancing all that had previously been done in that line! Instead of looking into Blue Books and quoting figures, I think it would be better to look into the homes of the people and see what is to be found there. We find the people happy and prosperous; we find that enterprise has been stimulated, and that a spirit of self-reliance prevails among the people.

I know that the city where I live, in a locality not looked upon as manifesting any great enterprise, very soon after the adoption of the National Policy commenced to feel its beneficent influences, and property and population now are nearly double the value that they possessed at that time. Cotton and woollen mills were established, and the locomotive works were revived. But why did not the hon. member for Toronto rise to his feet and denounce in indignant terms any one who could for a moment question the marvellous growth and prosperity of the section from which he comes? He, above all other members of this House, could have shown the wonderful growth and prosperity of his city; he could have spoken of the magnificence of its buildings, of the extent of its immense warehouses and stores, filled with all the products of every clime. He could have pointed to the magnificent palatial residences, the abodes of culture and refinement, and all brought into existence within a very short period of time. The hon. gentleman from Ottawa also spoke of the National Policy benefiting only a few, only those who are engaged in manufactures, and that it did so at the expense of the rest of the community. I do not think that that is so. The nature of my profession leads me to see how people live in their homes, and travelling, as I do, over a very extensive locality, probably among the less fertile sections of any part of the Province of Ontario, the condition of the people presents a picture to which I would fail to do justice if I attempted to describe it to you. There is quite a difference now since the National Policy has been in force; the people present every appearance of increasing prosperity, and the evidences of growing wealth and comfort are extraordinary. Then again, reference has been made to our people expatriating themselves. I fail to see any evidence of it. Living, as we do, alongside of a great nation, whose progress is phenomenal, and beside which any other country would appear at a disadvantage, there will always be a large number of people passing from the smaller to the greater field of labor, furnishing, as it does, an attraction for their talents and industry. Probably many will foolishly leave a more certain livelihood at home to run their chances there, but if this policy has done anything it has prevented many from going who would have gone but for its existence. Any that have gone have left us in spite of that policy, and not because of it.

THE SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Take the sugar industry as an illustration of what has been accomplished. In 1878 no men were employed in the industry; in 1882 over 3,500 workmen were employed in connection with the refineries. Similar figures could be brought forward to show what the cotton industry and other industries have attained under the National Policy. I need not follow up the argument. It will flash on your own intelligence how much trade and how much employment result from the establishment of a single industry. At all events, the population has kept pace with the trade, and the percentage of increase is most flattering. We are also receiving large accessions to our population by immigration into the country. We find that the stream of immigration is pouring into our North-West and that already this year over 6,000 immigrants have gone into those vast territories. Yet, after all these evidences of prosperity, in view of the success which has followed its adoption, after the experience of eleven years, we are asked to destroy the source of our prosperity, and all simply because the United States, influenced by their cupidity, have conceived the idea of acquiring this country. What else could have tempted their ambition but the great growth and the extraordinary developement of our wonderful and varied resources? Nothing else could have prompted them to take notice of it. I do not know that they have our interest so much at heart or that they so earnestly desire our welfare as to make overtures to us, or that they think of us otherwise than as a means of advancing their own ends. We know what their policy has been and we know or ought to know, that when we are well off is no time to propose a change. As it is with individuals, so it is with nations; they should not change when they are prosperous and everything is moving smoothly and satisfactorily. The apostles of the movement propose three modes of attaching Canada to the United States—one is war, another rebellion, and a third unrestricted reciprocity or commercial union, as it is called. What do you think the newspapers in the United States head their articles on this subject?—"The means to capture Canada,"—and they propose to bring us into their union by this policy.

A TRUE CANADIAN.

As a Canadian, I feel proud of my country, and I think it is within our power to build up a great nation. The scattered Provinces, now bound together, are in a position to enter on a career of undiminished prosperity and to take their place among the nations of the earth. That man would be very degenerate who, for any reason, when the country is prosperous and satisfied, would by his vote or his voice tend to produce discontent in the minds of the people. At all events there is a party in this country who have faith in its future. They have nailed their colors to the mast; they challenge their opponents to take up the issue, and in that issue, when the appeal is made to the electors of this country, when the time comes that this parliament shall have come to an end, the people will be called upon to decide between the two parties. What the result may be, of course I cannot say, not being gifted with prophetic knowledge; but I am satisfied that the verdict will be on the side of those who have shown such signal capacity and energy in the management of our public affairs, who have infused into the people a spirit of self-reliance, and who have evinced such a determination to advance the interest of their country and elevate it to the highest place of natural prosperity. I will leave to others the task of answering my hon. friend who preceded me. I doubt not it will be an easy matter because it took him a whole hour to argue that Great Britain had not shown any fostering care of her colonies. In my opinion he brought forward instances where Great Britain had shown a most intense desire to foster us. As an example he mentioned one period when Great Britain gave way and relaxed her policy, not to serve her own interests, but for the purpose of benefitting Canada, for the purpose of making an arrangement with the United States that would be salutary and beneficial to the trade of this country. In the same way, when he speaks of the losses sustained through the Fenian invasion, does he wish that Canada should be deluged with blood in order that our own claims should be pushed to the extremity? No; England wisely gave up those claims in order that this country might not be made a battle ground and it's people given to slaughter, its treasures exhausted and the Dominion thrown back in the scale of progress for at least half a century.

Honey and the [illegible]

An amusing anecdote is related of George Honey, who, some years ago, while on a tour in the provinces, had taken lodgings in a house in the outskirts of a town. Soon after retiring, he was awakened by a fluttering noise, as of a bird, around the curtain of his bed. He sprang up, struck a light, and saw a small, dark creature, with wings, blundering about the room. Not being well versed in natural history, he did not recognize it as a bat; but thinking it a queer sort of a bird, he resolved to catch it, if possible, and examine it by daylight. So he took his felt hat and attempted, for a long time in vain, to capture the intruder; but at length he pounced upon it, carefully removed it from his hat with his hand, shut it up in a drawer, listened while it struggled for a few moments to escape, and then went to bed and was soon asleep. But he was not destined to sleep long. Hardly had he dozed off when a further fluttering awakened him, and lighting another match, he found a second bat. He had an exciting scramble before he caught this one, but finally he succeeded and put it in the drawer with its companion, and again retired. Again, however, he was awakened in a similar manner; bats came not in single spies, but—if the expression be allowed—in "battalions." Each specimen was carefully deposited in the drawer. At last, after an unusually long chase, he was so heated that he opened the window, and having retired exhausted enjoyed a few hours' sleep. When he awoke he jumped out of bed and opened the drawer very cautiously, to look for the prizes of the night; but, lo! there were no bats there! He opened the drawer wide, and then discovered that it had no back to it. He had, in fact, spent his night in catching the same bat, which had flown out at the back of the drawer as soon as he had put it in at the front, and when the window was opened, had finally escaped.

Awarding Contracts.

The Market Committee met on Saturday night to consider the tenders for the quarry stone and mason work for the new market building. There were two tenders, those of Messrs. Princett and Long, which offered the stone at the same figure, $7 per cord, and the contract was, therefore, divided equally between them. The mason work was given to John Hayes, jr., at $789, his tender being the lowest.

The Belleville Railway Accident.

Mr. James Stephenson, General Superintendent of the Grand Trunk, went this morning to the scene of the accident near Belleville, a telegraphic report of which appears in another column, to hold an investigation. The conductor of the timber train, which pitched into the passenger coach, was Alex. Millage, of Peterborough, and the driver was Wm. Rogers, of Lindsay. Both escaped unhurt. Mr. Ryan, the Montreal horse buyer, who was so seriously injured, does business here and is well known. Conductor Morris' train was delayed Saturday night by the accident and did not arrive until late.

Boys and Ice-Cream.

Last evening just about church time Mr. John Craig upon going into his confectionery store on George-st. found three small boys inside the shop helping themselves to ice-cream, etc. Mr. Craig's appearance had the effect of bringing the boys to the hasty conclusion that ice-cream was not good for them and they accordingly made a break out of the shop and up the street, followed by Mr. Craig. One of the lads was overtaken, but as they were young fellows who should have known better and this was the first time they had been guilty of such an act, he allowed them to go without punishing them. The boys gained an entrance to the shop by the back door.

Our Driving Sale

of Dress Goods won us hundreds of encomiums. And why? Because there can be no hesitation in pronouncing our sale of dress goods the most satisfactory ever attempted in Peterborough. Other merchants have set out to run off a balance of stock at the end of the season. We began at the beginning. We handle at figures never before matched the finest line of dress goods ever offered. New and stylish, every piece an unparagoned bargain, and the unanimous verdict is our vote of success. From now until the end of the month bargains in these lines continue and the opportunity is open to all. M. Sullivan & Co., George-st. d118

After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we issue our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. A Religious Drunk.

John Duggan was arrested this morning for raising a disturbance on the street. He was drunk and was suffering from the effects of a prolonged spree and when he appeared before the Magistrate at the Police Court he was far from being in a fit condition to speak for himself. He was remanded to gaol for one week. After being removed to the cells below Duggan amused himself by singing hymns and quoting scripture.

A Small Blaze.

Yesterday afternoon at about five o'clock there was a narrow escape from a large fire at Mr. James Edgcumbe's, corner of George and Antrim-sts. Neighbors saw a blaze at a bedroom window in the second storey and warned the family, when the flames were extinguished. The lace curtains on the window, a stand and some clothing were burned, and the carpet was damaged. It is supposed that it was started by a child playing with matches, as no other theory can be found to account for it. A small child was in the room when the fire was discovered and was quietly watching the blaze.

Monday Evening,

Business After All.

An article in a valued exchange is headed, "Do you Read Advertisements." Well, about three times a week we are led into reading a thrilling account of something by an eye witness that tails off into a cake of soap or a bottle of bitters; but it is not our fault, and it isn't a means of spiritual growth or moral improvement. Not so with the announcements of Hawley Bros. Their business principle laid down that if you buy your tea from a firm dealing only in tea, making a specialty of tea, you will get the best value and quality in town. Try Hawley Bros. d118

The Only Attraction.

The brilliant display of fire works, which will be given here on the evening of the 24th under the auspices of the firemen, should prove a great attraction to all citizens. The arrangements will be such that a large crowd can be accommodated at the P. A. A. A. grounds where the exhibition will take place, and the band will be present in full force and will discourse several of its most popular and harmonious airs. As this is the only event for the evening of Her Majesty's seventieth anniversary there should be a large turnout.

May 20th.

Explain the Case and She Will Walk.

On Saturday evening a horse and rig belonging to Mr. Oliver Macdonald, of Otonabee, was taken from the sheds of the Commercial House where it had been left standing. Who took the horse and buggy is not known, but about eleven o'clock they were found tied to a post near the hotel. This seems to be a favorite practice of some person around town, as of late several similar cases to this have been reported, where a horse and rig has been taken from a hotel shed, kept for a few hours and then returned. The fact that the last three cases have all been on Saturday night would lead to the conclusion that it is some young man who is suffering from the pangs of love and who has not the wherewithal to hire a livery rig in which to take his best girl for a drive. However, he had better walk after this or there may be trouble.

In her Dramatic

A Quiet Sunday.

It was remarked by many that yesterday was one of the most quiet Sundays in Peterborough for three years past. The Order-in-Council repealing the Scott Act has been gazetted and the Crook's Act was rigorously observed by all the hotelmen Saturday night and yesterday. Hereafter this will be the case every Saturday and Sunday, and it is expected that there will be no difficulty with the hotels as they will all comply with the Act, but it is suspected that there are some unlicensed places that will continue to sell during prohibited hours until they are caught by the police. There were many dry throats Saturday night, but the appeals to the hotelmen for liquor were met by a universal refusal. The duties of the police in regard to the enforcement of the Act is most clearly defined in section 134 of the License Act which reads as follows:—

"It shall be the duty of every officer, policeman, constable or inspector in each municipality to see that the several provisions of this Act are duly observed, and to proceed by information and otherwise prosecute for the punishment of any offence against the provisions of this Act; and in case of wilful neglect or default in so doing in any case, such officer, policemen, constable or inspector shall incur a penalty of $10 for each and every such neglect and default."

Recitals.

A Company Under Canvas.

Look out for the appearance on Tuesday evening of Burtch & Burnip's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company, which will play under canvas on the Riverside Park, Ashburnham. Don't fail to attend. They are well spoken of by the press throughout the Province and the Deseronto Tribune of May 10th says:—On Tuesday evening, 7th inst., Burtch & Burnip's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company performed before the largest audience ever assembled to greet any company in Deseronto. Their mammoth pavilion was at an early hour crowded to its utmost capacity and hundreds were unable to gain admittance. The pavilion was well lighted and it was evident that the Company had spared no effort to make their equipment complete in every respect. It would be work of supererogation to follow through all the scenes in the old and ever popular drama of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It is only necessary to state that the whole play was well carried out, each member taking his part admirably and effectually succeeding in giving realism to the pictures of Southern life in ante-bellum days. The scenery was new and elaborate and much admired, and, as was generally expressed, of a character not often seen under canvas.

CRICKET AND BASEBALL.

The Local Men Won in Saturday's Cricket Match—Varsity Baseball Club Coming.

The cricket match which was played on Saturday on the P.A.A.A. grounds between teams from the Collegiate Institutes of Lindsay and Peterborough resulted in a victory for the latter by 27 runs. It was the first match of the season and quite a number of spectators watched the game from the grand stand and now and then applauded a good play or a nice hit. The wicket was in very good condition and the game, on the whole, was not a poor one. The local men went to bat first shortly after ten o'clock and knocked out a score of 48 runs, while the visitors went in and their last wicket did not fall until they had to their credit 51 runs. In Peterborough's second a total of 111 runs was run up and the Lindsay men failed in their half of the second to score the required 108 runs to beat the home team, their last man being retired with 82 on the score sheet to their credit.

Both teams played a good game, but one advantage which the home eleven had was in the bowling. Lindsay only had the two, Chas. Matthews and Milner, and the local men in the second innings dropped onto the bowling and the result was the handsome score of 111. The Peterborough team, however, had some half dozen bowlers, and the change thus afforded, no doubt, proved destructive to the Lindsay batsmen, who were not enabled to become acquainted with the bowling. Stirling, Goldsmith, Williams, Pearson, Allison and Long all took a turn at the trundling with more or less effective results. Stirling in the first innings got five wickets for 8 runs, thus performing the "hat" trick. In the second innings Mr. Long made a fine catch for the home team, as also did C. Matthews for the Lindsay men when he captured a hard fly off of Williams. Mr. Long made the top score, 26 runs, and did so by nice steady play, which did a good deal to demoralize the visitors. The Lindsay men took their defeat nobly, and returned home on the evening train on Saturday consoling themselves with the hope that on some future occasion they would make the result different. The score was as follows:—

A GAME WORTH SEEING.

A telegram was received on Saturday evening from the 'Varsity baseball team of Toronto which stated that they would accept the offered terms and would be here on Wednesday to play a game on their way to Kingston, where they play on the 24th. Mr. Ed. Brown, manager of the Riverside Baseball Club, will take the management of the game, and it is his intention to make up a picked nine from the various local teams. In this way he will be enabled to put on the diamond a nine which will be able to hold the 'Varsity men down pretty well and that there will be a good exhibition of ball witnessed it is safe to say. The University club has a record which is known here, and they will at all events play a game in professional style. The opportunity to see a crack game of ball will undoubtedly be witnessed by a large number, and as there is considerable expense in connection with bringing the Toronto men here there should be a good crowd.

SPORTING NOTES.

The baseball match to be played on the P.A.A.A. grounds on the morning of the 24th will be a close game, it is expected.

The Riverside lacrosse team are practising so as to be in trim for their game with the Torontos here on the afternoon of Her Majesty's Birthday, Friday next.

The Lindsay cricket team which play here on Saturday was composed entirely of teachers and pupils of the Collegiate Institute, while the local team only had on two men who did not come under the same heads in the Institute here.

The name "Williams" which appears in the cricket match of Saturday is a non-de-plume which covers a well-known young cricketer who can play a good game, but, who it is supposed, is a victim of modesty this season.

Evidencing their Esteem.

From the Guelph despatches in the Empire the following is taken:—"Last evening an address, accompanied with a handsome gold watch and chain, was presented to Mr. A. McNeil, who is about to take his departure from Guelph. Mr. McNeil came here about a year ago from Peterborough to fill the position of cutter in the clothing establishment of Cormack & Kelcher. During his short sojourn in the city he gained many friends, as was evinced by the testimonial presented to him last evening." Mr. McNeil is expected to return home to-day or to-morrow.

Well, Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Hall's Hair Renewer to restore the color of my hair.

A Question of Jurisdiction.

The Ottawa correspondence of the Empire says:—"In July last John Wason, sr., of Peterborough, was convicted of an offence against the Ontario statute, of 1886, providing against frauds in the supplying of milk to cheese and butter manufactories. The proceedings were removed by certiorari to the Queen's Bench Division, where the conviction was quashed by Armour, C. J., and Falconbridge, J. (Street, J., dissenting), on the ground that the local Act was ultra vires of the Provincial Legislature. The Attorney-General of Ontario is prosecuting an appeal to the Court of Error and Appeal, for the purpose of further testing the constitutionality of the Act. Application has lately been made to the Dominion Government to intervene for the purpose of maintaining federal jurisdiction in the matter. The parties, however, have been informed that the Dominion, not being directly interested in the controversy, it is not a proper case for intervention. It may be noted that the Dominion Parliament last session passed an act substantially carrying into effect the provisions of the local Act, so that, whether the Act be declared constitutional or not, this class of frauds now comes within the operation of the criminal law."

CHANGES IN INDIA.

A Returned Missionary Tells of the Hindoos—Other Church Notes.

Yesterday Rev. J. Wilkie, who has for the past ten years been a Presbyterian missionary in Indore, Central India, preached two sermons in town. In the morning he occupied the pulpit in St. Paul's Church and faced a large congregation, whose attention he held for over an hour while he pictured to them the condition of the natives of India and told them of the advances and changes which were everywhere manifest in that far-off land. In the evening the rev. gentleman preached another sermon, of a similar character at St. Andrew's Church and again had a good congregation. He is a gentleman whose manner of speaking would lead a listener at once to the conclusion that he was intensely in earnest in his work in India and that his utterances came from a heart that was filled with a desire that the cloud of darkness and error might be for ever swept from the many millions of Hindostan.

THE HINDOO'S CONDITION.

In the morning at St. Paul's when reading the lesson from the first chapter of Romans, he took occasion to speak of the degradation and vileness which prevailed and was fostered by the religious doctrines of the Hindoos, either Hindooism, Budhism or Mahometanism. He said there was a tendency among some people to point to the few sparks of light which there might be in the teachings of these creeds, but he said that it was a fact that just as a man was religious in like proportion was he degraded. He said he could not picture the degradation and vileness which in their childish superstition was practiced by the people under these religions.

A LENGTHY ADDRESS.

He took for the basis of his remarks the words:—

"But when he saw the multitude he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted and were scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd. Then saith He unto His disciples, the harvest truly is plenteous but the laborers are few."—Matthew ix; 36

These words, the rev. gentleman said, he took not for a text so much as because they expressed the condition of those people of whom he wanted to speak. He said in order to realize the necessity of the missionary work in India, they should understand the state of affairs that existed there to-day, and he then proceeded at great length to describe the condition of the country and the field it offered to the missionary. He said there was in India one fifth of the population of the globe, a people who were in all respects their equals, from the same Ayrian stock, with the same type of features, the same high intelligence. The only thing that distinguished them from the Hindoos was that they had the Gospel and the Hindoos had not. He said the Hindoos had been sleeping but they were now awakening and were putting forth a revolutionary effort which tended towards the overthrow of the errors of the past and the freeing of the people from the old ideas. There were also, he said, throughout India as a whole influences being brought to bear which were tending to and to bind the people into one great nation. As evidence of this be gave extracts from speeches which were delivered at a meeting held in India for the consideration of the different religious beliefs, which was attended by some two thousand men, Mohammedans, Buddhists, Hindoos and himself. Then he went on to speak of the changes which were taking place in India politically. He said he found little political organizations meeting to see how they could best obtain their political rights, and there was also a central congress of these little political organizations held, and it was ever increasing in numbers. This congress, the rev. gentleman said, will be the power which will shake the hold of England upon this great nation if the policy of pure selfishness of the past was pursued in future. He said to-day they found Hindoos knocking at the door of the English House of Commons in order that they might have some one on the floor of that House to represent them. He saw them shaking off old social surroundings, found them talking against early marriages, and in favor of widows being allowed to marry again, and even caste was becoming a thing of the past and had to-day lost the respect of a great many of the people of India. That they might not think him an enthusiast, he read several extracts from India papers protesting against the caste system as a whole. The great majority of the educated people, he said, had lost all faith in the caste system. Then he proceeded to tell of the great work which had been accomplished in the different parts of India and spoke of the schools, and said the people realized the importance of education and were under a spirit of inquiry. He said if the missionaries could but advance with public opinion and step in where the people demanded education, they could in a short time have control of most of Central India, for they had at the high school some 150 boys, most of whom were sons of leading men and who would in the future occupy high positions in the land, and who had lost all faith and respect for Hindooism. He closed his lengthy address by pointing out the responsibility which rested upon the Christian people of all lands in giving the light to the heathen, and urged them to assist liberally with their means in carrying on the work.

Church Notes.

Rev. J. H. Stevenson, B.A., who recently graduated from McGill College, Montreal, preached at the George-st. church in the morning and at the Charlotte-st. church in the evening. His sermons were good discourses, well delivered, and Mr. Stevenson gives promise of being a power in the ministry.

Rev. N. G. McDairmid, of Oshawa, preached an excellent discourse at the Charlotte-st. church yesterday morning and at George-st. church in the evening Mr. McDairmid was the guest of Mr. B. Shortly while in town.

Rev. S. J. Shorey preached the anniversary sermons of the Oshawa Methodist church yesterday.

The celebrated Rev. Father Chiniquy will preach in St. Andrew's church next Sunday evening.

Rev. J. G. Lewis, of St. Alban's Cathedral, Toronto, officiated at both the morning and evening services at St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, yesterday. He preached two very able discourses to two good congregations.

Rev. E. F. Torrance at St. Paul's Church last evening, dispensed with an ordinary sermon and substituted therefor the report on "the state of religion," which he read before the Synod at its meeting last week at Bowmanville. The report was of great interest to all church members, and dealt with numerous questions which had been answered by the different sessions in the various Presbyteries. The questions were relative to the manner in which elders performed their duties, attendance at church services, the observance of the Sabbath, family worship, the weekly prayer meetings, the missionary and evangelistic work, the work among the young people and the hindrances to the work of the church.

On Wednesday evening next a union meeting of the St. Andrew's and St. Paul's congregations will be held in St. Paul's Church, when Mr. Orr Bennett will be ordained as a minister of the Presbyterian Church. Rev. Alex. Bell will preside and the members of the Presbytery will also be present.

Rev. D. O. Crossley has returned to Brighton to take a rest. He conducted revival services in Newmarket, London, Kincardine and Uxbridge during the winter, resulting in the conversions of nearly 900 persons.

Never had a preparation a more appropriate name than Ayer's Hair Vigor. When the capillary glands become enfeebled by disease, age, or neglect, this dressing imparts renewed life to the scalp, so that the hair assumes of its youthful fullness and beauty.

SUDDEN DEATH AND SUDDEN GLORY.

In memory of a beloved sister who departed this life March 28th, 1889. "Absent from the body, present with the Lord."—2 Cor., v, 2.

She was called by the angel of death
In the midst of life's cares busy round,
And her soul in the bosom of God in a breath
Repose hath eternally found.
Why mourn love's ministrations denied
Or regret her soul's sudden release
From its dwelling of clay to a state glorified,
Of felicity, rapture and peace.
Like sudden sun-gleamings amid summer showers
Glory burst on her spirit from Eden's fair bowers.

Sorely stricken we would not repine,
But we would still ev'ry grief-surging pain
Acquiescing in wisdom, unerring, divine,
For we know that our loss is her gain.
E'en when tears of affection do flow
Consolations God gives are not slight,
For with dear-loved ones now in Heaven we know
She lives in ineffable light,
What blest revelations have been hers since the time
She changed earth's abode for the Heavenly clime.

There among all the sanctified throng,
In the presence of Jesus their King,
In rapturous anthems of worship and song
Unto Him who redeemed them they sing.
Thus adoring the Lamb who was slain,
High exalted now on Heaven's throne
May our voices not blend in the same grateful strain
Unto Him who hath called us His own?
How transporting the though that we one day shall meet
No more be parted in supreme bliss complete.

"Blessed are they who die in the Lord"
For they rest from their labors below
And the good work's they've done follow them and reward
The Master on them will bestow.
All unknown to the world and its gaze,
Was the field where she served him who knew,
The deed—selfdenying, the calm patient ways
And kind word that scoth'd heart's deepest woes.
Who will give her a crown she by faithfulness won
With His smile of approval and servant, "Well done."

Shall we go to the grave oft to weep;
No, we think not of her being there,
The frail tabernacle of her soul there doth sleep,
But she is in realms bright and fair,
Immortelles we would strew o'er her tomb
As expressions of undying love,
As emblems of flowers amaranthine that bloom
In arbors celestial above,
And of that glorious morn when her body shall rise
Immortal to dwell with the Lord in the skies

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

TO CLEAR the throat and invigorate the system try a 5lb. caddy of Tea from M. R. KIDD.

THREE "GOOD MEN" MURDERED.

A Rather Incoherent Account of an Arkansas Tragedy.

FOREST CITY, Ark., May 18.—This city was horrified at 2.10 o'clock this afternoon by the most terrible tragedy in the history of the county. For several days excitement has been high over the school election and A. M. Neely and G. W. Ingram, both colored, have been making incendiary speeches, advocating the ousting of the whites from the control of school affairs. Neely has been a disturbing element in the politics of this county for some time, having almost absolute control of the negroes.

To-day a large crowd assembled at the junction of Washington and Front-streets in the vicinity of the polls. The exact origin of the trouble cannot, in consequence of the terrible excitement, be ascertained. It seems Neely had a fight with a white man and was knocked down by a bystander. He then ran to Captain John Parham for protection. Marshal M. Folbre interfered and commanded the peace. Thomas Parham, son of John Parham, heard the disturbance and came running downstairs from the County Clerk's office, where he is employed as a deputy, with a pistol in his hand. He saw the Marshal and his father close together talking excitedly, and raised the pistol and fired, the ball striking Folbre in the back of the head. In falling Folbre raised his pistol and fired two shots. Tom Parham fell mortally wounded and died in a short time. Sheriff D. M. Wilson came running to the scene when a stray ball struck him, piercing his heart and killing him instantly. His only words were: "I am a dead man." It is supposed a ball from Neely's pistol killed the sheriff. Capt. John Parham is thought to be wounded but he refuses to allow the wound to be examined.

Wilson and Parham are what is known as Fusionists. Three of the best men in the county were seen lying murdered upon the street at the same time. The cries of the afflicted families were heartrending. Women from every part of the town rushed through the streets searching for husbands or brothers. G. W. Ingram, coroner of the county, was waited on by the citizens this afternoon and invited to leave town, which he did on the 6 o'clock train.

Neely Killed.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 19.—The particulars of the killing of the fourth man in the Forest City riot have arrived. The last victim is A. M. Neely, the negro who started the trouble and who was shot while avoiding arrest. This last killing renewed the excitement and there were fears of a raid on the town by the negroes.

Another Ocean Greyhound.

NEW YORK, May 19.—The new twin screw steamer of the Hamburg packet line, the Augusta Victoria, named after the Empress of Germany, has just completed the fastest first trip ever made across the Atlantic. She made the voyage from Hamburg to New York, 3046 miles, in 8 days and 1 hour. She covered the distance from Southampton to Sandy Hook in 7 days 2 hours and 30 minutes, an equivalent of 6 days 2 hours from the Fastnet to New York. Taking off the 4 hours during which the steamer was delayed on the 17th and 18th because of heated journals and the actual time between the Fastnet and Sandy Hook lightship would be 5 days 22 hours and 30 minutes, or better than the great voyage of the new City of Paris. Her best run, 474 knots was made on the 15th.

Baptist Education Society.

BOSTON, May 18.—The American Baptist Education Society held its annual meeting here this afternoon and evening. The treasurer reported receipts, exclusive of gifts, of [illegible] and expenses $32,422 during the year. It had been decided by them to establish an institution of learning in Chicago, and it was proposed to raise $1,000,000 for this purpose before June, 1890. The secretary announced that he had in his hand a letter from John D. Rockefeller offering $600,000 and one from C. Hinckley of Chicago, offering $50,000, so they had to raise only $300,000 of the $1,000,000 necessary.

"Struck Something."

DETROIT, May 18.—Train No. 20 on the Canadian branch of the Michigan Central line night "struck something," as the engineer reported to the train despatcher. It was found later that the train had struck a horse and buggy belonging to Joseph Bechard of South Dover, killing the man and horse and smashing the buggy.

A little later another Michigan Central train struck a double carriage driven by M. Hutchins of Huron, a short distance from Windsor. The horses were killed and Hutchins was slightly injured.

Incorporated in Michigan.

DETROIT, May 19.—The Fort William Mining Company, organized for the purpose of mining, smelting, manufacturing and mining iron, gold, copper, silver lead, zinc ores, was yesterday incorporated. The capital stock is $500,000, of which $100,000 is conveyed to the company in cash value. The stockholders are Messrs A. Delano, of Fair Haven, Mass., who holds 1000 shares; Mrs. J. Mills, Port Arthur, Ont., 500; Thomas A. Keller, Port Arthur, 10; William Wright, Potato Opts, Ont., 500; Preston Brady, Detroit, 500; Samuel Brady, Detroit, 10; Henry T. Thurber, Detroit, 500 shares.

Shot by an Excited Policeman.

JOLIET, Ill., May 19.—Barry Koehler while crazy with drink ran amuck through the streets Friday night and shot and seriously wounded a young lady, Dolie Hart. A crowd gathered and began to search for him among some freight cars. A freight train moved past and at the open door of one of the cars a man was seen. The crowd called out that it was Koehler and an excited policeman fired at him, inflicting a fatal wound in the head. Then it was discovered that the wounded man was William Hanson of Chicago, who was on his way to Oklahoma. Koehler was captured Saturday morning.

A French scientist has found nine forms of microbes in the juices of a healthy stomach and concludes they play an important part in digestion. Every stomach seems to be a little inhabited world in itself and sometimes the population appear to indulge in a revolution which may be fun to them, but plays the mischief with the owner of the organ.

The original copper plates from which Audubon's book on the birds of America was printed were recently sold to a brass company of Ansonia, Conn., and all but two melted down. By the merest accident the identity of the plates was discovered in time to save these two, and the proprietor of the works has had them polished and inserted as panels in a mantelpiece in his library.

Why a Lady Burned Her Will.

A year or two since a wealthy and eccentric Boston lady, who was undecided what to do with her money when she should be done with it, saw on the street a young man whose face attracted her so strongly that she turned and followed him until she saw where he lived—the distance, fortunately for her, not being very great. She had inquiries made, found that he was a young man just out of college who had come to Boston to study medicine. She contrived to see him several times without his remarking her, and each time she became more and more convinced that he was a fellow of honor and of great promise. In the end she took him home and adopted him, to the great indignation of various people who had been keeping a careful eye on the old lady's property with a view to its going to certain charitable institutions. In less than a year the young man proved all the old lady's skill in reading his face to have been a delusion and a snare by running off with all her loose cash and a lot of her silver. She was too sensitive to the scandal to have the matter followed up legally, but she abandoned all faith in physiognomy and burned her will.—Boston Letter.

A Diabolical Invention.

Edison's latest triumph is the linguagraph, or shouter. It is designed to take the place of the mysterious code of whistles now in use on railroads. The linguagraph-equipped locomotive will not whistle "brakes off" or "brakes on," but will give steam shrieks closely resembling a stentorian utterance of the order desired. The advantages of the invention are not unmixed, even though it should eventually call out the names of stations, as predicted. The whistle of the locomotive is bad enough, but a series of multi-toned shrieks will surely be far worse.—Globe-Democrat.

The Mail Granted Leave to Appeal.

MONTREAL, May 18.—In the Court of Appeal to-day Mr. Trenholme presented a motion on behalf of the defendant in the Jesuits-Mail case for leave to appeal from the judgment of Judge Loranger setting aside a part of the allegations in the exception to the form. The motion was granted, security to be given within 15 days.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.
EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets, by grocers, labelled thus:
JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists London England.

"There was a frog who lived in a spring.
He caught such a cold he could not sing."

Poor, unfortunate Batrachian! In what a sad plight he must have been. And yet his misfortune was one that often befalls singers. Many a once tuneful voice among those who belong to the "genus homo" is utterly spoiled by "cold in the head," or on the lungs, or both combined. For the above mentioned "croaker" we are not aware that any remedy was ever devised; but we rejoice to know that all human singers may keep their heads clear and throats in tune by the timely use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, both of which are sold by druggists.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh in the Head, no matter of how long standing, while for all laryngeal, bronchial, throat and lung affections, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is positively unequaled. It cures the worst lingering coughs and builds up the flesh and strength of those who have been reduced by wasting diseases. It is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all diseases for which it is recommended, if taken in time and given a fair trial, or money paid for it refunded.

The British Naval Defences Bill Passes its Third Reading in the Commons—The Labor Troubles.

The Plot Against the Czar.

MILAN, May 20.—Strikes among the peasants in the provinces are spreading. A conflict occurred to-day between the strikers and military. One peasant was killed and eight were injured. Four carbineers were injured.

THE CORBYVILLE PITCH-IN.

All the Wounded in a Fair Way to Speedy Recovery—The Blame Not Yet Fixed.

BELLEVILLE, May 20.—The all-absorbing topic of conversation since Saturday has been the railway accident at Corbyville. The more the subject is ventilated, the more astonishing seems the fact that none of the passengers were killed and that none appear to have been injured to such an extent that recovery is improbable. Where the blame is attached has not at present been determined, but a searching investigation will be held by the authorities of the road. The timber train, it appears, did not leave the North Hastings Junction until some forty minutes had elapsed after the departure of the Madoc passenger train. It is also said that the latter train was some 15 minutes behind time in reaching Corbyville, which delay was no doubt caused by the numerous stoppages that are made for the taking on of passengers.

Where the accident occurred it is impossible to see a distance of more than 200 yards ahead, and it would be almost impossible to bring a heavily laden train to a standstill in so short a space; and at that point it is also necessary to get under good headway for the up-grade which is situated a short distance beyond. The engineer of the lumber train exhibited considerable courage in reversing his engine and remaining at his post when going, to all appearances, into the jaws of death. After the train was brought to a standstill, he had to use a hammer to break the glass on the side of the cab of the engine in order to extricate himself. Another remarkable feature about the accident was, that not a wheel was off the track.

From present indications all of the wounded will pull through. There are five in the hospital, Messrs. A. Ryan and Robert Kingston, Mrs. C. Harris, Mrs. Simeon Ashley and Mrs. French. They are all doing nicely and in a fair way to speedy recovery. Mrs. Ryan arrived on Sunday morning and is caring for her husband.

THE HAMILTON PROTEST.

AGAINST THE JESUITS' ESTATES ACT.

Principal Caven, Rev. D. J. Macdonnell and Mr. John Charlton, M.P., Deliver Addresses—Strong Resolutions Adopted.

HAMILTON, May 20.—A mass meeting of the citizens of Hamilton to discuss the Jesuit question was held in the Palace Rink to-night, which was crowded to the doors by a representative and enthusiastic audience, who applauded the speakers to the echo. Dr. McDonald was in the chair and addresses were delivered by Rev. Principal Caven, D.D., Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, B.D. of Toronto and Mr. John Charlton, M.P. These resolutions were proposed and unanimously adopted:

"Resolved (1), that this meeting strongly disapproves of the Act incorporating the Order of the Jesuits as calculated to endanger the peace and well-being of this Dominion by giving legal status to a society which, in the past, has everywhere proved itself the enemy of civil and religious liberty, and has therefore been adjudged unworthy of a place in any country, Protestant or Roman Catholic; that this meeting also strongly disapproves of the act entitled an Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuits estates, and urgently affirms that the position accorded the Pope of Rome in this act, implying as it does a right on the part of a foreign potentate to interfere in our civil affairs; the claims which the Pope, as head of the Roman Catholic Church, has advanced in the brief distributing the $400,000 placed at his disposal in said act; the provision which the act makes for the endowment of a religious body contrary to the recognized principle of equality of all churches; the doubtful constitutionality of the act and its essentially mischievous character, all demand its disallowance.

"Resolved (2), that this meeting regards with deep humiliation and with profound regret the fact that a motion recently submitted to the Dominion Parliament calling for the disallowance of the Jesuits Estates Act was voted down by 188 of the 201 members present, only thirteen members nobly bearing their testimony in favor of that which this meeting, and, we believe, the vast majority of the citizens of the Dominion, regard as an end which all should have united in seeking to secure. Viewing the above mentioned vote as a stain that should be wiped from the page of our country's history, and hoping that under altered circumstances and with the aid of new light, which has been furnished since said vote was taken, the country's representatives would now decide differently had they the opportunity, this meeting hereby determines to petition His Excellency the Governor-General in council to convene Parliament in special session without delay for the purpose of reconsidering and reversing the vote by which the act for the settlement of the Jesuits' estates was left to its operation in terms of a previous decision of the Government; and, failing this, to petition and pray that the House be dissolved so that the country may have the opportunity of pronouncing upon this question at the earliest possible moment.

"Resolved (3), that this meeting expresses its earnest sympathy with the Protestant minority in the Province of Quebec in view of the many disabilities under which they are placed, and the grievances against which they justly complain owing to the peculiar connection which exists—improperly, as this meeting believes—between the State and the Roman Catholic Church in that province; and as all these evils would be greatly intensified by the operation of the Jesuits Estates Act and also the act incorporating the Order of the Jesuits, this meeting is warned that the time has come for the taking of steps to bring about the complete separation of church and state throughout the Dominion in whatever form it exists as the only means by which equal rights for all can be guaranteed, ecclesiastical aggression, whether Papal or otherwise, successfully resisted and our national unity preserved and promoted."

A committee was appointed, to be known as the Hamilton Citizens' Committee, to give effect to the resolutions passed at the meeting and to adopt such other measures as may be deemed necessary to secure the disallowance of the Jesuits Estates Act, to test the constitutionality of said act and of the Act of Incorporation of the Jesuit Order; and to this end to co-operate with other similar committees throughout the Dominion.

Delegates were also appointed to represent the citizens of Hamilton at the convention to be held at Toronto on June 11th and 12th next, to consider this whole question.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Swindled Italian Laborers—A Horse Thief Captured.

TORONTO, May 21.—President Michael Basso of the Italian Benevolent Society is investigating a serious case of hardship in which 50 Italian laborers were very badly treated. On May 11 Peter Dameo, an Italian boss in St. John's Ward, received the following letter from Mr. John Scully, employment agent: "P. DAMEO: I want you to get me fifty Italians, men, good laborers, for grading work, wages to be $1.25 per day, and the work is likely to last all summer. It's through a good country and the men can board themselves. They will be able to get provisions and live cheap there as it is a good farming country. I know Mr. Nicholson the contractor and he is all right and a good man. JOHN SCULLY." Dameo hunted around through Centre, Chestnut and Elizabeth-streets and soon had the requisite number of men. These he marched down to Mr. Scully's office, who told them that their destination was Waterford on the C. P. R. They paid him $1 each as his commission for getting them the work and $3.05 for their fare. When they arrived at Waterford, they found that there was work but for 10 men and that at $1.12. After not a little suffering and hardship the gang got back to Toronto, and now Mr. Basso, with the aid of Inspector Archibald, is requesting an explanation from Mr. Scully.

About daylight yesterday the stable of Provan & Martin, 189 King-street east, was broken into and a valuable horse stolen. Later in the day it was found in the possession of a man named Cohen in Adelaide-street east. Cohen said he had bought it from a man named James Beatty. Detective John Cuddy soon traced Beatty to where he worked, in the street car stables, and placed him under arrest.

His Worship Mayor Clarke and City Treasurer Coady take to-day's noon train for New York en route for England, where they will look after the city's interests in the matter of the new issue of debentures.

There were about 120 delinquents, mostly drunks and disreputables, before the Police Magistrate yesterday. Col. Denison sent John Barry, a Chicago thief, to the Central for three months for breaking into the premises of Charles Gray. Arthur Chapman was fined $20 or 30 days for assaulting P. C. Mills. Andy Wilson was fined $40 or 60 days for a brutal assault on Solomon Saunders and his daughter. A boy named John Hodgins was committed for five days for theft of raisins. Thomas Stones, for a disturbance at the Union Station, was fined $6. John Lyons, John Doyle and William Doyle, stealing copper from Booth & Son, were sent to jail for ten days.

E. J. Lennox, architect of the proposed new county and city buildings which the citizens on Saturday decided to build, says excavation will be commenced within a month, and that by the end of the season the foundations will have been laid to a level with the ground.

Part of the embankment of King-street subway, now in course of excavation, fell in yesterday morning and buried Moses Brown, one of the laborers. His companions dug him out and had him removed to the Hospital. He suffered internal and spinal injuries and is likely to die.

JUDGE LYNCH IN CONNECTICUT.

A Mob Hauls Frank Nearing With a Rope Around His Neck.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., May 20.—While Mrs. Charles Nearing, the wife of a wealthy resident of Lanesville, was waiting for a train at the railway station here her brother-in-law, who is about 22 years old and married, drove up to the station, and jumping from his buggy informed his sister-in-law that he was just about to drive to Lanesville and asked her to ride with him. When about a mile outside the village he turned his horse into a road leading through a mountain and away from Lanesville. Upon inquiring the cause of his taking this road the sister-in-law was informed that he had a message to leave with a farmer living about three miles farther along.

The road is a lonely one and is seldom used. There is but one house on its entire length. This is occupied by the above-mentioned farmer for whom Nearing said he had a message. When, however, about a mile further along Mrs. Nearing said that her brother-in-law began to make improper advances, and seizing an opportunity she sprang from the carriage.

But young Nearing was not to be foiled. Immediately he sprang after her, letting the horse go madly galloping away. In springing from the carriage Mrs. Nearing fell, slightly spraining her ankle, and before she could rise young Nearing sprang upon her and literally tore her dress into shreds. He left his sister-in-law lying by the road and fled into the woods.

Mrs. Nearing, more dead than alive, dragged herself towards the house of the farmer, but had not proceeded far when she was met by the farmer and his hired man, who had been alarmed by the team galloping madly past the house. The farmer and his hired man assisted Mrs. Nearing to his house, when he at once started for New Milford and notified the authorities. An armed force of officers was at once despatched to search for young Nearing and at 11 o'clock Saturday night he was captured hidden in the interior of the woods. He was immediately lodged in jail here and, anticipating trouble, an armed force of officers was detailed to guard the prisoner.

At about 3 o'clock yesterday morning the officers, who were all stationed in the room adjoining the cell in which the prisoner was confined, were surprised by the bursting in of the door, and several hundred men, wearing white masks, sprang upon them. The officers were too drowsy to intelligently use their revolvers and they were bound hand and foot. The key to Nearing's cell was soon taken from the pocket of one of the officers, and the prisoner, who was now loudly crying for mercy, was roughly seized and bound also hand and foot. A rope was loosely slipped around Nearing's neck, while the mob, carrying him with them, hurried toward a tree near by.

By this time the entire population of the town had been aroused by the noise of the scuffle in the jail, toward which they began to hurry. The lynchers, however, were set in their determination to sling up the young man, and, seeing the crowd, began to tighten the rope around his neck. The foremost men in the crowd now whipped out their revolvers and began wildly firing toward the lynchers. At the commencement of the firing the lynchers fled, and all of them made good their escape, although it is believed that some of them were wounded.

Nearing had been left lying at the foot of the tree. He was found in an unconscious state. The noose was quickly detached from the young man's neck and he was hurriedly carried into the jail, where he was soon restored to consciousness by several physicians. Further trouble is anticipated.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

An Inquiry to be Made into the Behring Sea Seizures of British Vessels.

OTTAWA, May 20.—Mr. Daly, M.P., is here on business connected with the Northwest Central Railway.

The Supreme Court met to-day and took up Ontario cases. The first case was an appeal from the Ontario Court of Appeal. The action is by a Montreal creditor, H. Lamontagne, leather merchant, to set aside a chattel mortgage taken by W. E. Browne against H. Pacquette, of Ottawa, which is said to be fraudulent and made with intent to give Browne preference.

A rumor is current in official circles that a British man-of-war will shortly leave Victoria, B.C., for Behring Sea in order to inquire into the seizures of British vessels there by American cutters.

Some changes are about to take place in the representation of the United States Government in Canada, which will result in Ottawa becoming a consulate-general for the Province of Ontario, instead of a commercial agency as at present. The new arrangement will come into operation on July 1. The Citizen expresses the hope that the services of T. W. Hotchkiss, the present consul, will be retained.

A grand army post will be formed here shortly by Canadian veterans who served in the American rebellion. So far about 70 names have been obtained.

President Oakes of the Northern Pacific has left here for New York after a conference with the directors of the Great Northwest Central Railway. The charter of the latter road is to be transferred to the Northern Pacific within three or four weeks, the delay being occasioned by the location of the land grant.

FUNERAL OF MAJOR SHORT.

The Victim of the St. Sauveur Disaster Interred at Kingston.

KINGSTON, May 20.—The funeral of the late Major Short took place this afternoon from the residence of Mr. J. B. Carruthers. The pallbearers were Col. Geo. A. Kirkpatrick, Col. Duff, Major Todd of Ottawa, Major Rigg, Surgeon-Major Neilson, Major Drennan, Major Power and Captain White of Quebec.

Among the large throng which assembled to pay a last tribute to the gallant officer were Gen. Sir Fred Middleton, Bishop Cleary, the Mayor, aldermen and civic officials, a firing party of 120 composed of A Battery and gentlemen cadets under command of Captain Rivers, the 14th Battalion, Royal Military College cadets, the city clergymen and many prominent citizens. The funeral was conducted with full military honors.

Staff-Sergt. Wallock.

QUEBEC, May 20.—The public funeral of the late Staff-Sergt. Wallock of the Royal School of Gunnery took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Citadel. A numerous military representation and a large body of citizens, preceded by the Mayor, Premier of the Province, judges, members of the Dominion Parliament and Provincial Legislature and leading citizens, were in attendance. The service was held in the Methodist Church and the interment took place in Mount Hermon Cemetery.

Halifax Summer Carnival.

HALIFAX, May 21.—Arrangements for the Halifax summer carnival are rapidly approaching completion. The affair will be under the auspices of the military and naval authorities, who will assist in elaborate demonstrations and sham battles on land and water. The week selected, Aug. 5 to 10, will be filled in with a naval attack on Halifax by night, mimic conflict between the troops on shore, a military tournament, professional walking match, running and trotting races, harbor illumination, trades' and firemens' processions by day and night, professional and amateur regattas and numerous other events. Regiments of militia will be camped here and there will be militia and artillery competitions. In the military and naval branches of the carnival 10,000 soldiers and sailors will be under arms.

Defaulter Faulkner's Trial.

ROCHESTER, May 20.—At the trial of Gen. [illegible] B. Faulkner, the president of the Dansville Bank, James Faulkner took the stand this afternoon. He explained in detail his method of keeping two sets of books and falsifying the reports to the Controller of the Currency. He also detailed the story of how he stole the books at midnight and his trip to Canada and Europe. He was subjected to a severe cross-examination which was not concluded when the court adjourned at 11 o'clock to-night. The cross-examination of James Faulkner will probably occupy the time of the court all of to-morrow.

BLOODSHED PREDICTED.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND TROUBLE NEARING A CRISIS.

Proclamations Torn Down by the Infuriated People—British Fishermen Threaten to Use Rifles.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 20.—Advices from Bay St. George represent that the relations between the Newfoundland and the French fishermen on the disputed French shore are reaching a crisis.

The commander of the British warship Lily has issued a proclamation to the effect that he would not permit the Newfoundland fishermen to set their nets to catch herring and if they did so he would confiscate their nets.

An indignation meeting was held, at which strong language was used.

Rev. Dr. Howley, prefect apostolic of the west coast of Newfoundland, told the commander of the British warship he was there with the apparent mission of protecting French instead of British interests.

The commander replied that he was carrying out his instructions from the Imperial Government, and added that he took but little stock in the inhabitants or in the Newfoundland Government.

The proclamation, which was posted up in public places, was quickly torn down by the infuriated people.

St. George's Bay is the great herring fishing ground. Some 2000 people there live almost entirely by catching herring and exporting them to Canada.

The French are given "concurrent rights" by treaty to that part of Newfoundland but claim exclusive jurisdiction, and now that they cannot get bait in other portions of Newfoundland they are asserting their claims of exclusiveness over Bay St. George and supplying themselves with bait there.

This prevents the British inhabitants from getting fish, which would of course "interfere" with the French, and a British warship there prevents any interference.

The people threaten to use rifles to enforce their rights.

They say they will either do that or abandon that portion of the British Empire to the French.

Bloodshed is predicted.

The Oregon Transcontinental Corner.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The sensation caused by the corner in Oregon Transcontinental stock appears to be dying out, but both parties to the contest for control keep the interest in it alive to-day by their manipulation for the purpose of liquidation. It is generally believed that a compromise was arrived at Saturday by which Union Pacific will continue to pay 6 per cent. dividends on Oregon Navigation stock and retain control of the road. This eliminates all the bitterness from the election and leaves nothing for the Villard party to fight for. Over $10,000,000 however have been tied up in the stock and the brokers for both sides have joined in manipulating the market for a chance to unload. With this end in view they absorbed several thousand shares which arrived by steamer from Europe to-day and bid 3 to 4 per cent. more for the cash stock than it was offered in the regular way. The short interest has been all covered and no demand whatever appeared except from the brokers of the two factions. In the afternoon the stock was decidedly heavy and selling by insiders forced the price down to 30, a decline of 6 per cent. from the opening. Henry Villard was offered 5000 shares with proxies by Governor Ames of Massachusetts, but declined to buy them. While Oregon Transcontinental stock was being sold brokers identified with Villard bought Northern Pacific heavily and caused an advance of 2½ per cent.

Defending Canadian Roads.

BOSTON, May 20.—The Oil Trade Association of New England has come to the defence of the Canadian railroads. In a formal communication to the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce this organization sets forth that the route through Canada is a natural one from the West to Boston and trade has long been in that channel; that the Canadian roads have always treated the New England merchants fairly; that competition has been maintained among them without regard to the American through lines, and that the unrestricted use of these Canadian lines should be maintained. The association will urge its views upon the committee by submitting evidence. Other New England business organizations are invited to assist in the work.

Brodie Jumps the Passaic Falls.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Steve Brodie at five o'clock this morning jumped over the Passaic Falls at Paterson, N.J., a distance of 100 feet. The jump was made from Eagle Rock, the highest point above the falls, and was the most perilous Brodie has ever made. Brodie's neck was swollen somewhat and his head ached but otherwise he was in good condition. Brodie afterwards declared he would jump the Genesee Falls some day and then quit bridge-jumping forever. Sam Patch once made a leap into the Passaic River from a tree in the park but never jumped over the falls.

Murdered His Benefactor.

PORT LIMON, Costa Rica, May 20.—Rev. Mr. Hobbs, a Baptist minister from the United States living on the island of [illegible], has been murdered with his wife and child. Mr. Hobbs had sold his property for [illegible] gold and was about to go to Belize. The money was taken by the murderer. A shipwrecked sailor from Jamaica who had been cared for by Mr. Hobbs committed the deed and has been arrested.

A Hamiltonian Chosen.

HALIFAX, May 21.—The Munro chair of English language and literature in Dalhousie University, made vacant by Dr. Alexander's acceptance of a professorship in University College, Toronto, has been filled by the appointment from a large number of applicants of Archibald MacMechan of Hamilton, Ont. Mr. MacMechan is a fellow of Johns Hopkins University.

Killed by Lightning.

SUNDRIDGE, May 20.—Yesterday afternoon, during a severe thunder storm, the 6-year-old son of Mr. Thomas Smart of this place was struck and instantly killed by lightning. The bolt came down the chimney near which the boy was standing and passed down into the cellar. Mrs. Smart was also affected by the shock, but sustained no severe injuries.

A $1500 Blaze at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, May 20.—About 5 o'clock this afternoon fire broke out in the stables in rear of Mr. A. U. Chevrier's hotel, St. Patrick-street. The flames spread to the rear of the hotel and were extinguished with difficulty. The stables were destroyed. Loss $1500, partially covered by insurance.

Perrine—Folsom.

JACKSON, Mich., May 20.—Mrs. Oscar Folsom, mother of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, and Henry E. Perrine, the Buffalo millionaire, were married here this evening. Mrs. Cleveland was among the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Perrine will reside in Buffalo.

Accident Near Lucknow.

LUCKNOW, May 21.—What may result in a fatal accident occurred here Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. L. McIntosh were on their way home about five miles from here and had just got over the Grand Trunk Railway crossing on the Walkerton road when the 6 o'clock freight train came thundering along, frightening the horse, overturning the buggy and throwing both out. Mr. McIntosh is injured in the back and Mrs. McIntosh cut in the head. They are now with friends here, being in too precarious a condition to be taken home.

Buried in Greenwood.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The remains of Washington Irving Bishop were [illegible] Greenwood to-day.

"Try Ayer's Pills"

For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout. Stephen Lansing, of Yonkers, N. Y., says: "Recommended as a cure for chronic Costiveness, Ayer's Pills have relieved me from that trouble and also from Gout. If every victim of this disease would heed only three words of mine, I could banish Gout from the land. These words would be—'Try Ayer's Pills.'"

"By the use of Ayer's Pills alone, I cured myself permanently of rheumatism which had troubled me several months. These Pills are at once harmless and effectual, and, I believe, would prove a specific in all cases of incipient

Rheumatism.

No medicine could have served me in better stead."—C. C. Rock, Corner, Avoyelles Parish, La.

C. F. Hopkins, Nevada City, writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for sixteen years, and I think they are the best Pills in the world. We keep a box of them in the house all the time. They have cured me of sick headache and neuralgia. Since taking Ayer's Pills, I have been free from these complaints."

"I have derived great benefit from Ayer's Pills. Five years ago I was taken so ill with rheumatism that I was unable to do any work. I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time I am never without a box of these pills."—Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis.

A PROPOSITION.

A REFORMER of forty years standing, who always polled a Reform vote, is disgusted with the manner in which the Mowat Government had administered the liquor laws to obtain a party advantage, and announced in a Toronto paper that he will vote against that Government in future. There are many of the same mind as this man. Educational laws, liquor laws, and all appointments and other administrative acts of this Government are carried out with the one view—to entrench the party in power. Contracts for goods are let without tender, and when offices are not conveniently open to be filled a new one is created and the people saddled with the expense of another salary.

This old Reformer makes the following proposition in regard to the appointment of license commissioners:—

"Appoint three commissioners, the one the judge, the second the warden and the third a man to be elected by the people at the time of the municipal elections for each provincial electorial riding; and all three commissioners to be paid for the duties they perform. Is my proposition a fair one?"

The proposition is a very fair one. The question of the payment of the commissioners is one of detail and it might not be necessary to do so. But the proposition, if carried out, would relieve the administration of the law, to a large extent, if not entirely, from the partisan influences that now hamper it and by which the licensing power is used as a party weapon to secure votes for friends of the Government. That the power is used to influence electors in marking their ballots was shown by evidence given in court in Hamilton, and that was not an isolated instance. By adopting the proposition under consideration there would be a more independent administration of the law, and the same end could be attained by the method of making the appointments which was embodied in the McCarthy Act. Under that system the commissioners would be the county judge, the warden and one commissioner appointed by the Government. But Mr. Mowat and his followers at the last session of the Legislature voted to retain the license system as a party machine and no reform need be expected from them.

THE Liberal papers are now choosing Conservative candidates for East Durham, which seat Mr. Craig will probably resign. They would be better engaged in searching for some Liberal willing to stand up to be knocked down.

THE result of the election in Compton, Que., was very satisfactory to the Dominion Government. Mr. Pope's majority of 839 is not a small one, and it is shown that the people of that county have no desire to aid Mr. Wiman or the Liberals in bringing about commercial union.

HAMILTON is going to have a summer carnival, with illustrated papers and all. The Spectator is going into the illustrated paper part of the business, which is a guarantee that it will be well done, and a very good guarantee that the carnival will be a good one. The Spectator would not illustrate a poor performance.

THE Liberal press is making a mean and cowardly attack upon Mr. T. D. Craig, M. P. P., of Port Hope, because he has announced his intention of going to California. Mr. Craig's health has not been good for a long time, and a change of climate was deemed desirable. Under the circumstances sympathy would be in better taste than taunts, but Mr. Craig was a thorn in the side of the Mowat Government in the Legislature and his exposures of the Government cannot be forgiven by its followers.

Attempted Arson at Guelph.

GUELPH, May 20.—A whistle of an engine and the subsequent ringing of the fire bells aroused the citizens shortly before 1 o'clock on Sunday morning, but by the time any crowd got to the scene of the fire all danger was over. It was soon learned, however, that a most determined attempt had been made to fire the stable of Mr. John Allan, grocer and carter, in Essex-street, next to Dr. Keating's. On investigating it was found that the fire had started between the bill board and the outside of the stable, and a bundle of cotton rags soaked with coal oil plainly told of the dastardly attempt which had been made to destroy property or wreak vengeance. Oil was spilt on the sidewalks, as if the rags had been soaked right at the spot. The Chief of Police and Chief Robertson of the brigade have the matter under investigation, but nothing definite has turned up.

[illegible] Immigrants Landed at New York.

NEW YORK, May 20.—It was afternoon to-day when the dense fog that spread over the lower bay since Friday night was sufficiently cleared away to enable the [illegible] fleet of ocean steamers anchored there to come up to the city. No additional disasters were reported. The detained steamers landed [illegible] emigrants at Castle Garden, the largest number in one day for many years.

A St. Kitts Barber's Exploits at the Ambitious City—Busy Burglars.

HAMILTON, May 20.—The Kincardine train on the Wellington, Grey and Bruce division of the Grand Trunk Railway, due here at 12.20, was between two and three hours late to-day. Four miles north of Harrisburg a flue in the boiler collapsed, and the train was brought to a standstill. A new engine was procured and the train proceeded on its way. Nobody was hurt.

The steamer Modjeska, the new boat built for the Hamilton Steamboat Company, and which will run between Hamilton and Toronto, sailed from Glasgow on Saturday for this country.

William Henry Nathaniel Moore, a colored barber who hails from St. Catharines, was in the Police Court this morning on the complaint of Mary E. Viner. Mrs. Viner is a white woman and she has been living with Moore at St. Catharines for eight or nine years. She came here alone four or five months ago. Moore could not keep away from her and he joined her five weeks ago. Last Wednesday night, while she was lying in bed, he paced up and down the room using frightful language. He pulled out a knife, and going to her bedside told her to feel the blade. The woman was afraid that Moore would kill her, as he had frequently pulled a razor on her. He afterwards broke the knife, saying that Providence had saved her life. The defendant was fined $10 for the assault. The magistrate advised Moore to keep away from the woman, and bound him over to keep the peace in $100 and two sureties in $50 each.

At the Police Court to-day James Leonard was fined $5 for disturbing a Salvation Army meeting.

Some time between Saturday night and this morning S. Mills's store, 64 John-street south, was entered by a thief, who broke a pane of glass and opened the window. A half sovereign and 50 cents were stolen from the till and a number of jack-knives were taken.

An attempt to burglarize the residence of George E. Bristol, 51 Bay-street south, was made early this morning, but the thief was frightened away before he secured any plunder.

Singular Fatality at Richmond.

RICHMOND, Que., May 21.—A singular fatality has befallen the family of the late Mr. James Mooney of Ulverton. It is not yet two years since the father was suddenly taken from them and on the first of last March Miss Kate Mooney dropped dead from heart disease. Her brother James died suddenly on the morning of May 10. Although for some time in poor health he had been at Lavenir the previous evening, a distance of about four miles, and remarked that he was feeling much better. His aged mother was prostrated with grief at this second shock and died on May 13 and last evening Mrs. Kelly, the mother of the young widow, walked to the house of her daughter, half a mile distant, and died upon [illegible] reaching the house. A young daughter at home on hearing the sad news of her mother's death became senseless and speechless and for several hours it was feared she would not rally but is now reported better, though still weak.

New Grocery Store.

W. H. Lowes & Co. have opened out a tidy grocery store in the stand at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets. The stock is new and well assorted, and people in the neighborhood will find the shop a convenience. Mr. Lowes is well known and will, no doubt, draw a good trade.

Everybody will see Them.

The people from all the surrounding country and villages are coming to town on the 24th to see the grand display of fireworks on the P.A.A.A. grounds which the firemen have arranged at considerable expense and cost. The display will be the grandest and most brilliant ever witnessed here and should not be missed by any one. The brigade band will be in attendance and will furnish some choice selections. The admission is only 25 and 15 cents.

Our Driving Sale

of Dress Goods won us hundreds of encomiums. And why? Because there can be no hesitation in pronouncing our sale of dress goods the most satisfactory ever attempted in Peterborough. Other merchants have set out to run off a balance of stock at the end of the season. We began at the beginning. We handle at figures never before matched the finest line of dress goods ever offered. New and stylish, every piece an unparagoned bargain, and the unanimous verdict is our vote of success. From now until the end of the month bargains in these lines continue and the opportunity is open to all. M. Sullivan & Co., George-st. d116

After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we issue our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. Those who desire bargains call. W. J. Morrow, 340 George-st.

A Handsome Banner.

Some time ago the local lodge of True Blues gave Miss M. Bird, of London-st., an order for a banner and the work is now about completed. It consists of a blue silk ground with a red border and gold fringe trimmed at the corners with gold tassels, and surmounted with a red drapery with a heavy gold fringe. On the front of the banner is a well executed figure of King William III. on horseback, encircled with a wreath of maple leaves and orange lilies. Underneath the figure are the words, "King William Lodge No. 42, Peterborough." On the back of the banner is an open Bible on which is represented a heart, a sword and two links, placed above a scroll on which are the words, "Derry, Enniskillen, Aughrim, Boyne." The banner is a handsome piece of work and reflects much credit on the artist, and will add greatly to the appearance of King William Lodge when on parade.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The Games which the Peterborough Cricketers will Play—The Baseball Matches.

The first eleven of the Peterborough Cricket Club have already a good number of matches on their books, and the secretary, Mr. J. Stirling, has supplied us with a complete list of the games which have already been dated. Of course, before the season closes, many other matches may be added to the list. However, from the present prospects, the season promises to be an active and interesting one, and the local men will have many a hard struggle to fight, but as the team which the club will be enabled to put on the field this season will be as strong, if not stronger, than in former years, they may be expected to give a good account of themselves and fully sustain the reputation of the club. The first game will be played on Friday next at Toronto, and the first home game will not come off, according to the matches arranged so far, until Dominion Day when the Rosedales will play here. The following is the list of booked games at present, those marked with a star being the home games:

May 24th, with Toronto University.
*July 1st, with Rosedale.
*July 8th, with St. Paul's School, Concord.
*July 15th, with Toronto.
July 22nd, with Hamilton.
July 23rd, with Toronto.
July 24th, with Guelph (at Toronto.)
*Aug. 2nd, with Hamilton.
*Aug. 10th, with Staten Island.
*Aug. 12th, with East Toronto.
Sept. 13th, with East Toronto.

A match will be played in June with the University Rovers here, in July with Ottawa here, and in August at Ottawa.

MAPLE LEAF MATCHES.

The Maple Leafs, the junior eleven, have also a couple of matches arranged, and will furnish some good exhibitions this year it is expected, as there is some good material in the club. Their games so far arranged are:—

June 8th, with Trinity College School 2nd eleven.
June 15th, with Trinity College School 2nd eleven.
June 22nd, with Lindsay.

They will also play two matches with Lakefield.

To-morrow's Game.

The Toronto University baseball nine play a game here on the P.A.A.A. grounds to-morrow afternoon with a picked team of local base ballists, when the public will be given the opportunity of seeing the best game of ball that has ever been played in Peterborough. The University team consists of undergraduates and graduates, who are scholars, gentlemen and athletes, and they are, perhaps, the best amateur team in Canada. They are now just commencing an extended tour, and before it is completed they expect to play in Cobourg, Kingston, Oswego, Amherst College, Brown and Cornell Universities, Lockport, Guelph and other places, and their opening game of the trip will be played here to-morrow.

THE TWO NINES.

Mr. Ed. Brown, manager of the Riverside Club, who is taking the financial risk, has secured a strong team to represent Peterborough. It will be as follows:—

F. Billings, catcher.
F. Cameron, pitcher.
W. Metherall, 1st base.
E. A. Pearson, 2nd base.
Little, 3rd base.
J. Turnbull, short stop.
Dr. Brennan, centre field.
A. Moore, left field.
H. Galley, right field.

The personnel of the Varsity's is as follows:

F. B. Hodgins, who will manage the tour, but who will not be able to visit Peterborough owing to exams., is a graduate of the clubs of '86. He is at present studying for the English Church ministry.

S. D. Schultz, who will manage the tour in Peterborough, is a resident of British Columbia and is at present studying law in Toronto. He is also a graduate of '88. "Sam" has pitched the 'Varsity's to victory many a time.

Harry Waldell, catcher. He is a member of the class of '92. He is a great backstop and a very heavy hitter.

F. Waldell, a brother of the above, will play short-stop.

J. Macintosh, right field. He is a new man but said to be a good one. He is a member of the class 91.

F. Wood, left field. This player is a brother of Pete Wood, the famous Hamilton ex-pitcher.

Joe Wright, centre field. This player is a heavy hitter and good change pitcher. He will be recognized as the "stroke" of the champion four-oared crew of Toronto. He is taking a special course at the University.

F. W. Bennett, pitcher. Class of 92. He has a good record and many league clubs have tried to secure him.

A. N. Garrett, second base. "Garry" is the only professional on the team, having played last summer with Kingston under salary. He is the best goal-keeper in Canada at Association Football and accompanied the Canadian team on its late tour to the Old Country.

C. P. Clarke, first base. He is a graduate of the class of '88 and is at present studying medicine. "Charley" is a great first-baseman and a heavy hitter.

J. H. Jenkin, third base. "Harry" is probably the strongest man on the team. He generally goes to bat first and invariably makes a big hit. "Harry" is by far the best athlete attending the University. He is captain of the Rugby Football team and the best at running and jumping among the University boys. He is also captain of the cricket team and played last summer in the International match. He takes his degree this spring.

NOTES.

Quite an interest has been awakened in baseball in town, and it is expected that tomorrow's game will be witnessed by a large crowd.

The new coach for the cricket club is expected to arrive next week.

The Riversides and Athletics baseball clubs were practicing in Riverside Park last night.

The Otonabee Canoe Club meets to-morrow night.

The Riverside lacrosse team had a good practice last night and expect to be in good condition for their match with the Torontos on the 24th.

Picnic at Norwood.

A number from town will go to Norwood on Friday to attend Father Conway's picnic. There will be a list of Caledonian games, dancing, and other accessories of a successful picnic. Dinner and tea will be served on the grounds.

Endeavor Society.

The Endeavor Society met last evening and the usual business being transacted Mr. J. Gillespie read "Mr. Solomon Snooks." Miss Sherlock followed with a recitation "The Children," which she rendered in her usual able manner. Mr. Rowse read a selection from the Casket "Advice to Young Men," by one of the other sex, which was very amusing to the young ladies present and very instructive to the young men. Next Monday evening Mr. Richardson will give a Bible reading on "Christ's Second Coming."

A Horse Drowned.

This morning a runaway accident occurred which resulted fatally to one of the horses. The animal was owned by Mr. David Storey, of Emily, and was one of a good team. The accident happened about eleven o'clock. A young son of Mr. Storey's, a lad about fifteen years of age, was delivering a load of straw at Mr. James Campbell's on Water-st., and had driven it behind the store to unload. The load was about half off when the horses became frightened at a girl who was passing up the lane with a wheelbarrow, and they made a bolt straight over the steep bank into the river. One of the horses broke his leg in the fall and being unable to rise out of the water was drowned, but the other one was rescued almost without a scratch. The half load of straw was lost and the waggon and harness were badly broken. The boy who was in charge of the team was not injured.

The Douro Picnic.

The Douro pic-nic will take place on Thursday, June 13th, not the 20th, as previously announced.

Take Warning.

Another George-st. merchant was summoned to appear before the magistrate this morning to answer to a charge of obstructing the sidewalk on Saturday by allowing boxes of goods to remain on the walk an unreasonable length of time. The merchant pleaded rush of business but this by-law is going to be enforced and the magistrate fined him ten dollars and costs.

To-night

The Early Season Makes Over Work.

The men at Peter Hamilton's foundry are now working over time, having commenced this week to work until eight o'clock in the evening instead of six. This is made necessary in order to rush out the agricultural machines in time to catch the demand, the spring having been earlier than usual, and an early harvest is expected to follow, so that the reapers and mowers, etc., will also have to be in the market earlier than is usual.

Literary Notes.

No. 131 of Bryce's "Home Series" is "Grandison Mather," by Sidney Luska, a popular author.

"The Scragville Bandits" and other stories, by C. G. Rogers, is published by A. S. Woodburn, Ottawa.

Councillors Inspecting.

The members of the Street and Bridge Committee were out on their annual tour of inspection this morning. They drove around the entire town in a bran' new hack and took their observations with the dignity which should always rest upon the representatives of Canada's most flurishing town. Those who made the tour were Councillors Langford, Dawson, Cahill and Kendry and Street Inspector Pope. The result of the inspection will be embodied in a report to the council at its next meeting.

Business After All.

An article in a valued exchange is headed, "Do you Read Advertisements." Well, about three times a week we are led into reading a thrilling account of something by an eye witness that tails off into a cake of soap or a bottle of bitters; but it is not our fault, and it isn't a means of spiritual growth or moral improvement. Not so with the announcements of Hawley Bros. Their business principle laid down that if you buy your tea from a firm dealing only in tea, making a specialty of tea, you will get the best value and quality in town. Try Hawley Bros. d118

Peterborough's Acquisition.

The Toronto Mail says:—"Mr. R. J. Colville, who has gained so many friends here as Assistant Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, was presented with an illuminated address on Saturday by the Beaverly-st. Baptist church, with whom Mr. Colville has been associated for some time, latterly as a deacon of the church. The presentation was made by Rev. Ira Smith. Mr. Colville has taken the position of Secretary of the Peterborough Young Men's Christian Association, and that branch will soon derive benefit from their acquisition."

Inspecting the Necropolis.

The directors of the Cemetery Company drove down to the Little Lake Cemetery yesterday and made their usual yearly inspection of the city of the dead. Mr. Kelly, the caretaker, showed the gentlemen through the necropolis, pointed out improvements he had made already this season and others which he had in his mind's eye and intended to carry out as soon as possible. The cemetery is already assuming a verdant and beautiful aspect, with the green grass and hedges and budding trees, and as the directors of the company observed what had been done and what was proposed they expressed themselves as highly pleased with the satisfactory condition of the place. The work of cribbing the remainder of the shore of Little Lake on Crescent-st. will be proceeded with, it is expected, at an early date.

Lecture.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons in Town.

Mrs. Scott-Siddons appeared in the Opera House last evening before a good-sized audience, the major part of which were ladies. Mrs. Siddons has apparently lost none of her beauty, dramatic power or emotional expression since she last visited Peterborough, and her audience last night was delighted with the excellent and varied programme, and all that is to be regretted is the fact that a larger number were not present to enjoy the rich treat which may always be counted on when this talented lady undertakes to entertain an audience. Last night some of her numbers were encored which fact may be accounted for, as was remarked, not from any lack of enthusiasm or appreciation, but because those of the male persuasion were so few in the audience. To comment on her renditions would be unnecessary, as so much has already been said of Mrs. Siddons' talents that simply to give the programme and state that it was carried out in its entirety is sufficient. The programme which she gave last night was as follows:—

PART ONE.

Nathalie, a Tale of Alsace......Eliz. D. Cross
Condemnation of Constance de Beverley.....

Aunt Abigail's Adventure...........Anonymous

THIRTY PERSONS DROWNED.

Collision of an English and German Steamer in the Channel.

LONDON, Eng., May 21.—The steamers Beresford, bound for Hartlepool, and the German Emperor, for London, collided in the channel this morning. Both vessels sank almost immediately. It is believed that over thirty persons were drowned. Nine of the survivors have landed at Dover.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

LONDON, May 21.—The Beresford was lying at anchor in the Goodwin sands when the accident occurred. The German Emperor sank immediately. Boats were launched from the Beresford and succeeded in rescuing three persons from the German Emperor. The Beresford has proceeded to Gravesend, where she will receive temporary repairs. Nine persons on board the German Emperor took to a small sail boat and have landed at Dover. Nevertheless it is thought that thirty persons have perished.

Personal.

Mr. J. Johnston, of Toronto, has decided to cast his lot in Peterborough, having secured the position of baker to Mr. L. Potvin, George-st. north.

IMPOSSIBLE to excel those New Fresh Teas, just arrived at M. R. KIDD'S

Sons of England.

Mr. J. W. Kempling, of Barrie, Grand President, and Mr. J. W. Carter, of Toronto, Grand Secretary of the Sons of England, were in town to-day on their way to Lakefield where they will institute a lodge of that society this evening. A number of the Peterborough brethren will accompany them.

Valuable Prizes.

The programme of sports of the 57th Batt. and the P. A. A. A. was issued to-day and is certainly attractive. The merchants of the town have generously contributed a handsome lot of prizes and these alone ought to guarantee keen competition on the 24th. The tugs of war will be pulled by teams of six men from each company and are always exciting. The menagerie race will be contested by a whole Noah's Ark of curious "critters," and the races in "line" and "file" are sure to provoke laughter.

Youthful Musicians.

The band of Harry Lindley's Dramatic Company formed in front of the Grand Central this afternoon and discoursed some good music. Quite a crowd was attracted by the music and by the unusual spectacle of ladies and children playing in a band. There were two ladies, one playing a cornet and the other an alto, and a little girl about six years of age tapped the kettle drum in fine style, while a little lad who was not much older pounded the big drum. The Company appear in The Castaways at the Opera House to-night.

The Convention Opens.

The annual convention of the Emerald Beneficial Society opened in the hall of the local society, St. Peter's branch, No. 21, on Simcoe-st., at two o'clock this afternoon. Grand President Crotty, of Hamilton, presided, and the other delegates who arrived at noon to-day and were present at the opening were:—Messrs. W. J. McLean, Grand Vice-President, Toronto; W. Lane, Grand Secretary, M. Matthews, Grand Marshall, Toronto; I. Smith, of Dundas, and Chas. Burns, of Toronto, Grand Organizers; Maurice Walsh, Oakville; F. Fischer, Elora; J. J. McCauley, Toronto; Thos. H. H. Suikie, Merriton; David A. Carey, Toronto; Geo. M. Vincent, Toronto; Wm. Jamieson, Hamilton; B. Nelligan, Hamilton; M. O'Neil and J. P. Ball, Hamilton; B. Muvale, Hamilton; John McGrath and Geo. H. Giroux, Peterborough. There was no business transacted this afternoon, as after opening the session, the invitation of Mr. H. Calcutt to the members of the convention to take a trip down the river on the steamer Golden Eye was accepted, and an adjournment was made for that purpose. A session will be held this evening.

Brevities.

Never had a preparation a more appropriate name than Ayer's Hair Vigor. When the capillary glands become enfeebled by disease, age, or neglect, this dressing imparts renewed life to the scalp, so that the hair assumes of its youthful fullness and beauty.

The Crown of Thorns.

I know the masters of painting from Guido in his wonderful "Ecce Homo" down to the present time have depicted the crown that rested upon the head of our crucified Savior as a twisted branch of bare thorns, and that is, so far as I know, universally accepted as the true crown.

Some years ago an incident that occurred in the Holy Land caused me to think that this popular belief may be a mistake. A party of us who were journeying toward Jerusalem at this season of the year, which is identical with the passion and death of the master, had stopped to rest and lunch just before entering the hill country, some miles beyond Ramleh, when a lady of the party who was gathering the beautiful flowers that covered the landscape on all sides wreathed an exquisite spray, and holding it up exclaimed: "The crown of thorns!"

Our party were delighted with the wreath and upon examining it we found that long sharp thorns were concealed by the lovely pink flowers. We were convinced that this was the true crown, and as we advanced toward Jerusalem we saw that the whole country, even to the walls of the city, was covered with this flowering thorn.

The plant and flower are very similar to what we commonly call the flowering almond, with the addition of a thorn. The bloom is very thick, so that by merely entwining a branch a wreath is made, while the long, sharp thorns set out at right angles about an inch apart make it a very painful crown to wear upon the human brow.

When we remember that the soldiers who dressed our Savour with the purple robe and crown did it as a mockery, it is reasonable to believe that they chose this plant, which was so accessible and would make a beautiful appearance, while at the same time wounding his holy brow.

Many who have visited Palestine at this season of the year have doubtless had this suggested to them, yet I have never seen comments upon it in any book of travels.—Letter in New York Herald.

The license law of Sweden forbids any person buying drink without purchasing something to eat at the same time. Brandy is the national drink, and it cannot be sold in a quantity less than two bottles. As the poor are unable to purchase drink often in this way, the law is said to have greatly promoted temperate habits.

MR. FROUDE'S ROMANCE.

The Historian Produces a Work of Fiction with Irish Exiles for Heroes.

James Anthony Froude, the historian, has produced his first work of romance, and it is a story of the middle of the last century, in which the never ending struggle between the Celt and the Saxon is presented in a new light as the central theme. The story is entitled, "The Two Chiefs of Dunboy," and the chief figures are Irish exiles who are in command of privateers fitted out in France; the rebellious natives of the south of Ireland, on the coast of which the principal scenes are laid; and the representatives of the English revenue service and of the English colonization schemers. Incidentally there is a description of the Dublin society of the day, which goes far to explain the demoralization that prevailed elsewhere on the island.

It is as a romance, however, rather than as a social study, that the book makes its strongest appeal; and the author's account of the fight between the smugglers and the coast-guard, his description of the long chase of the privateer by the English frigate, and his narrative of the duel between the two rival chiefs of Dunboy, are of absorbing interest.

The duel scene, as the following extract shows, is quite exciting:

"Morty to fire first and at his own time after the handkerchief was dropped. The signal was given. He paused a second or two, raised his pistol, took deliberate aim, and then let fall his arm again, and scanned his enemy's body as if considering where he could hit him with most certainty of fatal effect. Then he raised it again with a vicious smile on his lips. His eye fixed; his arm stiffened and became rigid as the stock of a crossbow. He drew the trigger, the hammer fell, and the pistol missed fire.

"Angrily he cocked it again, again pulled, this time without waiting, and again there was no result.

"'There is something the matter with your flint, sir,' said Goring, coolly. 'You had better let it be looked to.'

"With an angry flush on his cheek, Morty flung his weapon to his nearest second, who readjusted the flint and returned it to him.

"He fired instantly, but Goring's calmness had disturbed his nerve. His arm shook. The ball, which was intended for his antagonist's brain, passed through his hat, cutting away a hair or two on the way and left him untouched.

"It was now Goring's turn. With the same composure as before he again examined his pistol, as if to assure himself that he could depend upon it. He then, for the first time since they had taken their places, looked steadily into Morty's face.

"'Capt. O'Sullivan,' he said, 'you required the satisfaction of shooting at me, and you have had it. It is not your fault that you missed me, for you were deliberate enough. I might now save the hangman trouble. But your life is forfeited; it belongs to your country, and to your country I shall leave you. Fire at you in return I shall not, but that you may know and that all here may know that your life is mine at this moment if I please to take it, do you see yonder bow at the top of the farthest elm, with a single yellow leaf at its extremity? Mark that leaf.'

"He, in turn, raised his arm and glanced swiftly along the barrel; a flash, a shot, and the leaf, cut off at the stem by the ball, slowly fluttered to the ground.

"'Give us other pistols. Load again,' cried Mortly, furiously; but even the Irish crowd, who would have been well pleased to see Goring fall, could not refuse their admiration for his courage, his forbearance, and his skill: there was a cry that enough had been done; the seconds on both sides interposed; they declared that the affair was over and could go no further."

"WHAT MEDICINES ARE MOST CALLED FOR?"

asked the reporter of an old druggist. "Dr. Pierce's preparations," he replied. "They are sold under a positive guarantee that they will, in every case, give satisfaction, or the money is promptly refunded. His 'Favorite Prescription,' for all those chronic weaknesses, nervous and other derangements peculiar to women, is used with unfailing success. It cures weak back, bearing-down sensations, irregularities and weaknesses common to the sex, and being the most perfect of tonic medicines builds up and strengthens the entire system. The demand for it is constant, and I am conversant with scores of cases cured by it."

Returning after a few moments' absence, the venerable wielder of the pestle remarked, "the number of sarsaparillas and other, so-called, 'blood medicines' is legion; but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery outsells them all and it is the only blood-purifier out of the many which I am obliged to keep upon my shelves, that is guaranteed to benefit or cure in all cases for which it is recommended, or money paid for it is refunded."

"In the line of Pills," remarked the old gentleman, "the little Sugar-coated 'Pellets' put up by Dr. Pierce lead all others, both in amount of sales and the general satisfaction they give my customers."

NEWS OF THE DOMINION.

A MAIDSTONE MAN CHARGED WITH A BRUTAL MURDER.

Three More of the Victims of the Junction Cut Disaster Identified—A Wife Bought From Her Husband for $75.

WINDSOR, May 21.—Thomas Johnson, colored, of the township of Maidstone, was brought to the Windsor Police Station last night charged with the murder of his 2-year-old child May. The child's body is said to be covered with bruises inflicted by Johnson. A boy is alleged to be ready to swear that he saw the prisoner beating the child unmercifully. Johnson's wife is said to be positive in accusing her husband of the crime.

Dr. Langlois of Windsor will hold a coroner's inquest on the child's body at the Johnson residence, Maidstone front, to-morrow.

LOOKING FOR THE MISSING.

Three More of the Junction Cut Victims Identified.

HAMILTON, May 21.—Five strangers arrived in the city to-day in search of relatives supposed to have perished in the Junction cut disaster of April 28.—John Smith, 58 Tehama-street south, San Francisco, Mrs. Martin, of Akron, Ohio, his sister, and John McNiff, of the latter place, arrived in search of Mrs. Smith and her daughter. Mrs. Smith was a wealthy widow of Akron, Ohio. Some time ago she went out to San Francisco to visit her son and decided to remove to that city. She was on her way back to sell her property and wind up her affairs in Akron when she met her death. Akron is near Buffalo and she bought her ticket via the Grand Trunk to that point, consequently her friends had no idea that she was in the wreck, as they did not know she took the northern route. She was accompanied by her 18-year-old daughter. The relatives looked over the relics and identified a metal button found on one of the bodies as having belonged to Miss Smith's sister.

Wm. Gleeson, 57 Pierce-street, Chicago, and Mrs. D. W. Morrison, 664 North Ashland-street, Chicago, came here in search of their sister, Miss Maggie Gleeson, aged eighteen, who was on her way to Middleton, Conn. They went down to the hospital and interviewed the survivors. Mr. Kenyon, the minister, distinctly remembered the young lady from the description they gave.

Viner Sold His Wife for $75.

HAMILTON, May 21.—The charge against W. H. N. Moore, the St. Kitts colored barber, for destroying property belonging to Mary E. Viner, the woman whom he lived with, was heard at the Police Court to-day. The trouble occurred Wednesday night when Moore assaulted the woman and smashed some of the things in the house. Moore made a startling statement. He told the magistrate that A. B. Viner sold his wife to him for $25 cash and a debt of $50. The wilful damage case was dismissed, but Moore will have to spend forty days in jail unless he pays a fine of $10.

TWO LEAGUES EULOGISED

LORD SALISBURY THINKS HIGHLY OF THE PRIMROSE.

And Mr. O'Brien Believes that the National Has Done Great Things for Ireland General Cable News.

LONDON, May 21.—Lord Salisbury delivered an address at a meeting of the members of the Primrose League to-day. He said the alliance between the Parnellites and Gladstonians was slowly but steadily breaking. The Irish would find more profit in peace than in disorder. The work of the Primrose League was surely destroying the professional politician and increasing the security of the institutions on which the country's prosperity depended.

Testifying before the Parnell Commission to-day, Mr. O'Brien described the wretched condition of the people in Ireland prior to the formation of the league. They were in debt up to their necks, he said, and had absolutely no redress against the exactions of the landlords. The troubles after 1870 arose from the universal movement of the landlords to take advantage of the two years allowed by the act of 1870 to get rid of small tenants and thus save the payment of compensation. The condition of affairs in Mayo when Mr. Davitt formed the league there was appalling; wholesale famine and bankruptcy seemed inevitable; farmers sold everything at a dead loss, the landlords did nothing to alleviate the distress; they denied that any distress existed. Mr. O'Brien stated that he approved boycotting. He believed it prevented crime.

Mr. Reid, of counsel for the Parnellites, read an article from United Ireland denouncing the Phoenix Park murders and asserting that the assassins, if discovered, would be more likely to be lynched in Dublin than in London.

Mr. O'Brien said the anger expressed in the article was undoubtedly genuine. The view of the Nationalists was that the Government should pursue a policy of conciliation and thus obtain the people's sympathies with the law, but the members of the Government lost their heads and passed a strong coercion measure under which the country had been terribly disturbed for three years. The Government in 1882 suppressed United Ireland because witness charged the Government in that paper with getting up crime, which charge he was perfectly prepared to prove. Mr. O'Brien attempted to enter into the details of the alleged outrages instigated by the Government, but Attorney-General Webster objected and his objection was sustained by the court. The commission then adjourned.

Two Views of the Irish Viceroyship.

LONDON, May 21.—A meeting of Unionist members of the House of Lords and House of Commons at the residence of the Marquis of Waterford to-day adopted a memorial to the Government praying for the abolition of the Viceroyship of Ireland and the transfer of its functions to a secretary of state. The memorial further asks for the establishment and maintenance of a royal residence in Dublin. A deputation was appointed to present the memorial to Lord Salisbury.

DUBLIN, May 21.—At a meeting of the Dublin branch of the National League to-day Professor Galbraith denounced the proposal to abolish the office of Viceroy of Ireland as an insidious attempt at a further absorption of that country. Any interference with the office would fail, he said, especially if the Parnellites chose to obstruct it, "as please God they would do when the proper time came." Professor Galbraith's remarks were greeted with cheers.

Humbert's Reception at Berlin.

BERLIN, May 21.—When Signor Crispi emerged from the train at the station to-day, he was greeted by Prince Bismarck who shook him heartily by the hand. Cuirassiers escorted the carriages from the station to the castle. The first carriage was occupied by Emperor William and King Humbert, the second by the Crown Prince of Italy, Prince Henry of Prussia and Prince Frederick II., son of the Emperor, and the third by Prince Bismarck and Signor Crispi. Representatives of the Berlin Academy and other associations of artists occupied a pavilion fronting the opera house. Further on were stationed choirs under the direction of Herr Joachim who chanted an ode specially prepared for the occasion commencing with the words "Viva Umberto rex Italiæ." The court actress Hochenburger recited verses written by Herr Jordan, director of the National Gallery, welcoming King Humbert to the city. After being received by the Empress King Humbert and the Prince of Naples retired to the apartments set aside for their use in the Castle. Later they visited all the royal princes, Prince Bismarck and Count Von Moltke. After a family dejeuner the Emperor and his guests drove to Charlottenburg, where they placed wreaths upon the tomb of Emperor Frederick.

CRAZED BY DRUGS.

Harriet Hubbard Ayer's Strange Story About a Conspiracy.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Never outside of the realms of romance was a more dramatic story told than was set forth in the affidavits read before Judge Daly in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday. A woman whose success in business has made her name familiar in every town and city from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific charged a stock broker, a man whose wealth is estimated at many millions, with a crime that appears almost incredible in this century. She implicated in the alleged conspiracy against her the broker's son, the young man's bride, who is her own daughter; a famous authoress and a noted German physician. In order to rob her of her money these people, according to her sworn assertions, wished to have her declared insane and placed in an asylum. Their scheme was not to have two venal doctors pronounce her demented and then to bury her out of the sight of the world, but to actually deprive her of her senses through the use of a terrible drug administered in such excessive doses that to continue them for any length of time would mean death. While this horrid plan was being put into effect and she was tossing on a bed of torture in Europe she says her mail was being rifled, fictitious cablegrams were sent to her to allay her suspicions and the burglar entered her house in this city and stole many of her private papers.

Of this melodrama Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer is the [illegible] heroine and the villain she paints is James M. Seymour, of the firm [illegible], Baker & Co.

Mr. Seymour denies all Mrs. Ayer's allegations.

An Ovation to Prince Albert Victor.

LONDON, May 21.—Prince Albert Victor of Wales opened a new dock at Belfast to-day in the presence of immense crowds. The Prince was given an ovation.

NEW MILFORD'S MOB.

Another Attempt to Lynch Frank Nearing Thwarted—Tumult in the Court Room.

NEW MILFORD, Conn., May 21.—The unusually heavy guard which was placed over Frank Nearing was either effectual in damping the determination of the angry mob, who were almost successful in their previous attempt at lynching, or this is merely the calm before the storm. Be that as it may, no repetition of the outrage was made last night, but the excitement this morning is at white heat. Nearing's trial was set for 9 o'clock this morning, and for hours earlier than this the Town Hall, in which the Justice's court is located, was thronged with a motley crowd, all eager for a glance at the prisoner. To avoid this mob, through which it would have been impossible to get the prisoner, he was led from his cell, which is located on the ground floor of the Town Hall, through a secret passage to the court-room.

The first witness called was Mrs. Nearing, the victim of the defendant. She appeared greatly agitated, but told her story just as it was published yesterday, further stating that after having jumped from the carriage, in doing which she slightly sprained her ankle, she made a fierce resistance to young Nearing's attack. But he grabbed her by the throat and choking her almost into insensibility, he threatened to kill her outright if she did not remain quiet.

The farmer who was the first one to reach Mrs. Nearing after her struggle, was next called to the witness stand. He was followed by his hired man, both testifying substantially the same as to the condition in which they found Mrs. Nearing.

No witnesses were called for the defence and here the case rested. Judge Levy held the prisoner over to the Superior Court under $5000 bonds. When the amount of the bonds was announced the audience to a man rose up, protesting against the small amount and for a few moments wild excitement prevailed.

This was in a measure quelled by Lawyer Addis, attorney for the State, rising and exclaiming that he would at once telegraph particulars of the case to State Attorney Huntington, with a request to raise the bonds to at least $15,000. The dress which Mrs. Nearing wore at the time was exhibited. It was literally torn into shreds, and resembled more a bundle of rags than a dress.

The prisoner during the trial continually cast apprehensive glances toward the spectators, apparently fearing more harm from them than from the court, as well he might, after his rough experience at the hands of the lynchers early Sunday morning. At the end of his examination a numerous and armed guard led him back through the secret passage to his cell.

The authorities considered it unwise to keep Nearing in the jail here longer, so it was decided to remove him at once to the county jail, located at Litchfield. The rumor that Nearing was to be removed to Litchfield some time during the day got abroad and long before noon to-day a large crowd began to congregate. At 12.10 a covered carriage, to which a spirited horse was hitched was seen to move rapidly from the rear of the jail. Some one in the crowd yelled, "There he goes!" and a mad rush was made in the direction of the covered vehicle.

This was a ruse on the part of the officers, and as soon as the mob began to scatter a bay horse, attached to another covered vehicle, in which was Sheriff Raymond, Officer Addis and a driver, dashed to the jail door and Nearing, handcuffed to an officer, was hurriedly pushed in. The driver gave the horse a terrific lash with the whip, which started him off in a gallop. The mob by this time had been led several miles away from the scene, and when they discovered the strategy the Sheriff and his prisoner was safe from pursuit.

Rumor here this afternoon has it that a large force from this town will go to the County Jail at Litchfield with the determination not to return until the attempt to lynch Nearing shall be successful. No attempts have as yet been made, nor probably will be made, to identify the men who came so near ending the young man's career. It is not supposed that any of the mob that was fired upon were seriously injured.

IN HAMILTON THIS TIME.

A Disastrous Pitch-in on the Northern and Northwestern—Nobody Hurt.

HAMILTON, May 21.—A disastrous pitch-in occurred about midnight last night on the Northern and Northwestern division of the Grand Trunk Railway. The yard engine, No. 643, in charge of Engineer Alfred Coody and Fireman Michael Smith was shunting freight cars. It had left about twenty-five cars, most of which contained lumber, on the siding a short distance from Walker's soap factory. After shunting these there the engineer went to the Wentworth-street crossing and returned with eleven cars. While they were away nine or ten of the cars on the siding (some of which were uncoupled) started down the grade westward and kept on running until they got to the switch near the foot of Wellington-street. The switch was, of course, set for this train on the main line. Four of the truant cars left the track and stopped those that followed.

The yard engine, with its nine cars behind it and pushing two in front of it, came at a good rate of speed down the grade toward the switch. Neither the engineer nor fireman saw the wreck of the truant cars at the switch until they were too close to prevent the pitch-in. The cars which preceded the engine crashed into one of the cars that was foul of the track, and sent it into the switch. The engine was badly demolished and was turned around on the track. It did not telescope the freight car, but smashed into it and they lay together in a shapeless mass. The fire from the engine spread to the car and the lumber commenced to blaze. The engineer was jammed into the wreck, but fortunately escaped without being hurt. His side of the engine was tangled up with the freight car, and he escaped out of the fireman's side of the cab. Fireman Smith also escaped unhurt. One of the freight cars that was in front of the engine was thrown across the track and Brakeman McIlroy, who was on the front end of it, was fired on to the embankment. He was not hurt. The car after the engine was thrown off the track and badly smashed. Several of the cars following it were derailed.

The wreck of the car that was pitched into the gutter burned fiercely, and the firemen were telephoned for. When they arrived on the scene there was a big blaze. The flames were spreading to the car that lay across the track and the engine. All the cars contained lumber, and had the flames not been checked it would have made a big blaze. The fire was confined to the car in the gutter. It was almost wholly destroyed. The shunting engine was a complete wreck, but only a portion of it was burned. Two other cars were demolished. The track was cleared at 10 o'clock this morning.

The General Assembly.

NEW YORK, May 21.—At the afternoon session of the General Presbyterian Assembly the resolutions offered by the Committee on emigrant population were taken up. Dr. Hamilton of Washington spoke of the importance of assimilating the emigrant population. He contended that the perpetuating of foreign languages on American soil should not be tolerated and offered an amendment to the resolution embodying his views. The amendment was lost.

Whisky Saved His Life.

NEW YORK, May 21.—John McConnell, a snake tamer, was bitten by a rattler in a museum yesterday. His arm began to swell and he dosed himself with whisky. He drank four quarts during the evening and night and is now recovering from the effects of the bite.

THE MILLERS' GRIEVANCE

HOW THEY PROPOSE TO MEET THE DOWN EAST OBJECTION.

A Big Meeting at Listowel and a Larger One to be Held in Toronto—Mr. Plews' Plan.

LISTOWEL, May 21.—The millers of Ontario, to use current slang, find themselves in the soup. Their grievances are:

1. That they have paid as high as $1.20 for a lot of wheat that they have now in stock, which if turned into flour would not realize 90 cents a bushel.

2. That there is little or no market for their flour because the Canadian market is overrun with United States flour, which is only taxed 50 cents a barrel, while the tax on American wheat on a barrel of flour is 71 cents, thereby discriminating against the Canadian miller at least 21 cents a barrel, equal to a cash bonus to the American millers from Canada of $100,000 a year.

3. That the price of wheat in Canada is away above an "export basis" that is, that Liverpool prices do not rule here, and if they did all the millers' grievances would vanish.

To discuss these grievances the millers of Bruce, Wellington, Huron and Middlesex met in convention here this afternoon. There was a big attendance and the interest manifested showed that the grievances are no small affair.

Among those present were: J. C. Hay, Listowel (chairman); W. B. Hutton, Wingham (secretary); James Phair, Clinton; J. A. Williams & Co., Zurich; Stewart & Lowick, Breslau; Robt. B. Clement, Walkerton; R. G. Chapman, Teeswater; Houston Bros., Teeswater; A. Moyer & Co., Listowel; A. Watt, Palmerston; Henry Cook, Hensall; James Pringle, Stratford; McKechnie Bros., Durham; Hunt Bros., London; D. Plews, Brantford; Stark Bros., Toronto; M. Winger & Bro., Ayton; Thos. Wilson, Harriston; Geo. Elphick, Pinkerton; A. H. Plews, Winnipeg; James Hudd, Stratford; J. Steinmiller, Walkerton; A. Fisher, Paisley; James Stark, Paisley; John Lee & Son, Walkerton; Jno. McFarlane, Dumblane; H. Cargill, M.P., Cargill; Wm. Austin, Cargill; W. G. Hay, Listowel; W. F. Hay, Listowel; Dodds & Co., Orchardville; R. Black, Gorrie; Thos. Gibson, Wroxeter.

Letters were read from a number of prominent millers all over the Province, sympathizing with the meeting.

David Plews, the Brantford miller, narrated the efforts made by himself and a couple of other millers who had been sent to Ottawa last session to have the duty on flour increased. After a great deal of lobbying, and when they thought they had accomplished their purpose, the politicians had declined interfering. To leave things as they are meant the ruin of many millers, the discharge of their men and their coopers.

Mr. Plews proposed his remedy, which would only be very partial for this year's trouble, but would in subsequent years be effective. It was, in substance, for the millers to combine to keep the price of wheat down to the export basis. They would bind themselves in an association not to compete against one another in the purchase of wheat in the local markets.

Mr. Hunt of Hunt Bros. suggested as a remedy that the Government pass an order-in-council giving the millers the privilege of bringing in American wheat for the next three months, grinding it into flour for the Lower Provinces or other home markets, and allowing them to cancel their bonds by exporting Canadian wheat in its place after the new crop comes to market.

There was considerable opposition to this project from those who had large stocks of wheat on hand.

After a lot of discussion it was moved by James Stark, seconded by N. Winger, that in view of the fact that the people of the Maritime Provinces of Canada have declared against granting an adequate measure of protection to the manufacturers of breadstuffs in Ontario, and that whereas the duty on soft coal has been retained as a set-off against the duty on breadstuffs; be it resolved, that we, the millers assembled in this meeting, humbly petition Her Majesty's Government at Ottawa to abrogate the duty on soft coal and that the Boards of Trade, Manufacturers' Associations, and Farmers' Institutes be asked to co-operate with this association with a view to forcing the Maritime Provinces to grant us justice.

Henry Cargill, M.P., who was present, defended the position of the Dominion Government in the course they had pursued with the millers, and claimed that the millers had really no grievance but that their present clamor and cry out was due to the fact that they had been suffering from the effects of an extended period of bad crop seasons.

Mr. Plews at once took him to task for this and forced from him an admission that the millers really had grievances, but with the Dominion Government it was merely a question of votes, and the members from the Maritime Provinces being bitterly opposed to any change in the tariff the Government deemed it expedient in order to retain power to leave the question alone.

Mr. Plews' proposed plan for keeping down the price of wheat was recommended by the association to be adopted at a mass meeting of Ontario millers to be held in Toronto at as early a date as the millers' section of the Board of Trade could have such a meeting called.

DARING ROBBERY.

How a Depositor in the Bank of Montreal Lost $3300 Yesterday.

MONTREAL, May 21.—An impudent robbery of $3300—$2000 in checks and $1300 in cash—occurred this afternoon at the Bank of Montreal. A clerk from the wholesale dry goods firm of Messrs. Thomas May & Co., named Denault, was sent as usual to the bank to make a deposit and placed the bank book with a roll of notes and checks upon the counter until the teller was disengaged. He stood for a moment with his back to the compartment until he could be attended to, when a respectably dressed man attracted his attention by asking his opinion about the genuineness of some bills which he held in his hand. The unsuspecting clerk courteously gave his opinion and then turned to his own business, when he suddenly noticed that his deposit was gone although the book remained on the counter. For a moment he imagined that the teller had taken the money and was checking it with the "pay in" slip, but taking alarm he found that the teller had not touched the deposit, which had been abstracted by some unknown person.

The alarm was at once given and the assistance of the police and detectives instantly procured. The culprit, whoever he was, had obtained three or four minutes' start and no clue has yet been obtained of his whereabouts.

The officials behind the counter or the two porters always on duty at the door had not noticed any suspicious character about the building, nor did they observe anyone leave the bank in haste or under any kind of suspicious circumstances.

Lake Freight Rates.

CHICAGO, May 21.—The rate on corn to Buffalo by lake went off ½ cent yesterday—a drop from 2 to 1½ cents a bushel. Vessel men held out for a time against the inevitable, but finally succumbed. Shippers, however, made no great rush for room at the reduced rate, and the market was dull. The real cause of the decline was the surplus of tonnage either here or soon to arrive; but what immediately led to the drop yesterday was the chartering of a load of wheat to Buffalo last Friday at 2 cents. The transaction was kept quiet until the shipper wanted a vessel for corn and he would pay but 1½ cents. Then there was a rush among the agents.

Good News for the Miners.

SCRANTON, May 21.—The railroad and coal companies operating collieries in Pittston have ordered their men to resume work on full time. For nearly four months the miners have hardly worked more than four or five days a month on an average. This has created great distress and in some cases almost starvation. The order affects nearly 5000 men and boys.

Lost His All and Then His Life.

RUTHERFORD, N.J., May 21.—George Lane, a prosperous mason and contractor, shot and killed himself last night. He dropped a great deal of money on the Brooklyn handicap and in endeavoring to recoup lost all he had.

If every victim of this disease would heed only three words of mine, I could banish Gout from the land. These words would be—'Try Ayer's Pills.'"

"By the use of Ayer's Pills alone, I cured myself permanently of rheumatism which had troubled me several months. These Pills are at once harmless and effectual, and, I believe, would prove a specific in all cases of incipient

"I have derived great benefit from Ayer's Pills. Five years ago I was taken so ill with rheumatism that I was unable to do any work. I took three boxes of Ayer's Pills and was entirely cured. Since that time I am never without a box of these pills."—Peter Christensen, Sherwood, Wis.

THE CONFERENCE FIZZLE.

The proposals to revolutionize our constitution put forth by the pretended Interprovincial Conference at Quebec seem, says the Empire, to have been abandoned by Mr. Mercier and Mr. Mowat as a failure for their main purpose of manufacturing political capital. They have been allowed to sink into oblivion, when they were found unserviceable as a party device, instead of being pressed forward as was confidently boasted while there was yet hope of the success of the contrivance. That the scheme had fallen flat, that instead of attracting Conservative sympathy it could not secure even the usual Liberal support for the party platform, was soon perceived, but the upholders of our constitution hardly expected that after the flourish of trumpets with which it was introduced it would be so speedily and completely dropped.

A newly announced Liberal theory may partly account for the abandonment of the Quebec resolutions. It is broached by Mr. Mowat's paper, so though newly published it may have been simmering in the mind of the Attorney-General, and may have influenced the course of himself and his close friend and associate, Mr. Mercier. The new theory is that if the Lower House votes for a measure but the Upper House rejects it, any executive action in its favor would be "in defiance of the expressed will of Parliament." Judged by this new standard, that the Upper Chamber declares the will of the Legislature, even if the popular House is of a different opinion, the Quebec Conference resolutions have been rejected by a majority of the provinces of Canada, two of them refusing even to consider the matter, and two of them rejecting the revolutionary programme by the expressed will of the Legislatures as pronounced by their Upper Chambers. In only two provinces out of the seven have the resolutions been approved and in the remaining province, Quebec, Mr. Mercier did not venture to bring them, for the expression of the will of the Legislature, before the House, which by this new rule is to have the office of expressing the parliamentary will. By this theory the provinces have given a vote of two to one against the resolutions, with Quebec in the position of not having expressed its will at all. Under these circumstances how could Mr. Mercier and Mr. Mowat urge their scheme either at Ottawa or Westminster? So, reluctantly they have had to bury their always rickety and long lifeless bantling. Messrs. Mercier and Mowat have put one of their failures out of sight. There are others of their joint contrivances that are following in the same road. This political combine has not been favored by fortune.

The Montreal Herald argues that the consumer or purchaser pays the duty on an imported article. Then when Canadian barley or horses are imported into the United States the American purchaser pays the duty? If the Herald's logic is not faulty the arguments it and others have used in favor of commercial union, unrestricted reciprocity, etc., were unsound.

Another prominent Liberal has announced publically that it will be necessary at the next election for the Mowat Goverment to "explain the abuses that have crept into the license system" and other institutions, and that he has made up his mind to vote for a man who will pledge himself to put that Government out and any other Government that will follow if it does no better. "And a good many other Grits will do the same," he says. This Liberal is Mr. Eli Ketchum, who was a prominent and active supporter of Mr. Mowat in Prince Edward county.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Great "Coaler" Seeking an Entrance into the Queen City.

Toronto, May 22.—The indications are that at least one of the big American roads which run to the international boundary at Niagara Falls are bound to get into Toronto. The latest aspirant for a road from the Falls to the Queen City is the great "coaler" known as the Delaware and Lackawanna. The Erie, too, it is rumored, is flirting quite freely with the same scheme. Both the Lackawanna and the Erie are big opponents of the "Vanderbilts," so styled on the Stock Exchange, and one of them is figuring to cut the New York Central out of a direct Toronto branch.

Yesterday afternoon George Johnson and "Private Detective" James McLaughlin were arrested on warrants charging them with "aggravated assault" on William Cumming, a baker residing at 14 Beverley-place. It is alleged by Cumming that the prisoners, in order to extort from Cumming the whereabouts of a 17-year-old girl named Jennie Manning of Trenton, whom it is said he had despoiled and brought to Toronto, inveigled the complainant to a house in Centre-street and there starved and tortured him into giving up the desired information. He was kept bound and without food from Monday until Tuesday afternoon, when the pangs of hunger proved too much for him and he told his tormentors where to find the girl. He was released and the girl found. The result is that Jennie is with her friends in Trenton and McLaughlin and Johnson are in the cells.

At the Police Court yesterday James Beatty, accused of stealing a horse from Messrs. Provan & Martin, pleaded guilty, and also admitted having served terms in the common jail and Central Prison for theft. This being a very clear case of horse stealing the Magistrate inflicted a severe penalty, committing him to the penitentiary at Kingston for three years.

The seventh annual session of the Grand Legion of the Select Knights of the A.O.U.W. was held in Shaftesbury Hall yesterday. Grand Commander W. J. Porte of Picton presided. There was a large attendance from all parts of the Dominion. The reports presented were encouraging. The name of the order was changed to "The Select Knights of Canada." These officers were elected:

Grand Commander—T. L. L. Lewis, Chatham.
Grand Vice-Commander—Henry Robertson, Collingwood.
Grand Lieut.-Commander—W. R. Fenton, [illegible].
Grand Recorder—[illegible], St. Catharines.
Grand Standard Bearer—Rev. W. Stewart Jones, Niagara.
Grand Senior Workman—[illegible], Picton.
Grand Junior Workman—W. D. McLaren, Montreal.
Grand Medical Examiner—Dr. J. J. King, Toronto.
Grand Guard—W. J. Graham, Toronto.
Grand Trustees—[illegible]; C. S. Collard, Toronto; A. R. Thompson, Montreal.
Committee on Finance—John Barton, Toronto; George Weltz, Toronto.

The newly-elected officers were then installed by Dr. King, P.G.C., and the session closed, to meet in Toronto on May 21, 1890.

CANADA AND AUSTRALIA.

Principal Grant's Impressions of the Antipodean Colonies.

Toronto, May 22.—Principal Grant lectured at Association Hall last night on the sister colonies under the Southern Cross to an audience in which the intellectual elite of the city was well represented.

The lecturer was in the optimistic vein throughout. "Beware of the pessimists" was one of his opening sentences, and then with his well known satire he stigmatised those who would belittle Canada, who raised the disloyal cry of annexation to the United States, and who doubted of the future of this Dominion. But Canada, said he, and the sentiment was cheered to the echo, is not going to be the plum to fall into the capacious mouth of our American neighbors.

Having delivered himself of these preliminary patriotic utterances, which were but forerunners of many others, Principal Grant waxed eloquent on his Australian trip, the nearness thanks to the C.P.R. to our Australian brethren, the illimitable commercial possibilities of the Archipelagoes of the Pacific, the vastness of the seven Australias, the need for a leaf out of Canada's book in the formation of a united Australia. The lecturer descanted on the interest Australians take in Canada and its concerns, and then described their system of education, which is secular, and on which an enormous amount of money is annually spent. They have no separate schools, though the Roman Catholics are anxious for their establishment and the Presbyterians would not object, as thereby the door would be opened for religious instruction.

Specially interesting was the lecturer's recital of the unique physical and historical development of Australia, which is not so big a country as Canada, though nearly as big as the whole of Europe. Australia, like Canada, has not had time to produce great men, great books, but she has excelled in the export of her unrivalled agricultural and mineral productions. The three millions of Australians are the richest people per capita of any in the world. Nowhere has material prosperity been secured so soon. In 50 years Melbourne and Sydney had progressed wonderfully and now have each a population of 400,000.

Still, as in all new countries, there was a monotony in the aspect of towns and cities. "I frankly confess," said the lecturer, "I enjoyed three weeks in Japan more than three months in Australia." The acquisition of wealth and the enjoyment of luxuries in the southern colonies was detrimental to culture and refinement. How mammon worship holds sway was humorously exemplified.

The latter portion of the lecture was political: the advocacy of closer union and trade between Canada and Australia. To a great extent Canada and Australia are the complement of each other. There should be direct cable communication and steamship service, both of which would pay. Cheaper postage also was needed. By cogent and manifold arguments these desiderata were espoused; and then the Principal gave the reins to his eloquence in considering what should be the relation between the Mother Country and her self-governing colonies.

An article in a valued exchange is headed, "Do you Read Advertisements." Well, about three times a week we are led into reading a thrilling account of something by an eye witness that tails off into a cake of soap or a bottle of bitters; but it is not our fault, and it isn't a means of spiritual growth or moral improvement. Not so with the announcements of Hawley Bros. Harry Lindley at the Opera House.

Harry Lindley's dramatic company put "The Castaways" on the boards at the Opera House last evening before a rather slim audience, but those who attended appeared to enjoy the play, which savors of seafaring life and abounds in nautical scenes and phraseology. As usual Harry was the leading character in the plot, so the majority of the audience thought, and his appearance was the signal for laughter and applause. His company is a fair one, the cast being largely the same as on his previous visits. The company went to Lindsay this morning.

Our Driving Sale

of Dress Goods won us hundreds of encomiums. And why? Because there can be no hesitation in pronouncing our sale of dress goods the most satisfactory ever attempted in Peterborough. Other merchants have set out to run off a balance of stock at the end of the season. We began at the beginning. We handle at figures never before matched the finest line of dress goods ever offered. New and stylish, every piece an unparagoned bargain, and the unanimous verdict is our vote of success. From now until the end of the month bargains in these lines continue and the opportunity is open to all. M. Sullivan & Co., George-st. d116

After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we issue our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. HOW TO GET UP IN THE WORLD.

Rev. T. W. Jeffrey, of Toronto, Delivers a Lecture in the George-st. Church.

The lecture announced to be given by Rev. T. W. Jeffrey, of Toronto, in the George-st. church last evening did not draw an audience that filled the edifice by any means, nor was the turnout as large as would be expected when the subject upon which the rev. gentleman was announced to speak, "How to Get Up," was one which upon the face of it should appear of vital and attractive interest to all, especially the young, for who among mortals has not at some time been down, in some respect, more or less, and would gladly avail himself of some well-adapted and easy way of rising. Rev. M. L. Pearson presided over the meeting, and, after an opening hymn, introduced the lecturer with few remarks.

Rev. Mr. Jeffrey, who has gained considerable notoriety throughout Canada through the famous Jeffrey trial, spoke at considerable length, nearly two hours, in a very practical strain, but illustrated all his points with amusing but appropriate anecdotes and incidents. His manner of relating a story seemed to please the audience who were kept in the best of humor from the beginning to the finish. In opening, the rev. gentleman, the chairman having referred in opening to the comparatively small audience, said that with him the people before him were, in his eyes, the people, and he did not care nor think of any others. In preaching or speaking, if he only had one man for an audience he would preach just the same, for he recognized the importance of a man who had been created by an infinite God. Then he proceeded to his subject, "How to get up in the World." He said it was easier for a man to rise than fall, for God had never put any fall-down muscles in a man, but had made him upright, and despite all Satan had done he had not made it possible for a man to fall down comfortably. Some people said it was easy to go to hell, but he held it was the hardest thing in the world to do, for a man had to and climb over the cross of the infinite mercy of God to get there. No one could tell him it was an easy thing to go to hell, for God had made no road to hell, but He had made innumerable ways leading to Heaven—roads everywhere so that no matter where a man was he could go to Heaven. It was an easier thing to do right than to do wrong, and he said that Satan alone, without the aid of humanity, could accomplish nothing, but was the most tremendous failure. The lecturer then went on to speak of happiness in this life, saying that God never intended man to have the tooth ache, or toe ache or be poor or needy, or miserable, but had intended that they all should be happy. The great drawback to happiness was that persons always wanted to be like somebody else, and he gave them some advice how to seek happiness. There was a somewhere for everybody, and they should all find out where that somewhere was, find the place God had fitted them for. They should also always remember their own individuality, that every human being was religious and that they should always have some motive behind them urging them on. This happiness was the first step in getting up, and the next step was to aim at something and to aim high. He told the young men it was for them to say what they would be, and if they would keep in a straight and persistent line they would arrive at exactly the place they desired. The next step in the upward course he dwelt on was the power of discrimination, discriminating between right and wrong, knowing when and how to say a thing. If they had this they would have a progressive power which would be remarkable. Another step he gave them was to know exactly when to say "No" and when to say "Yes." Another was to keep their eyes open and to think largely and liberally before they made answer. Then they should have a faith founded on the Word of God and should tell the truth and shame the devil, and lastly he told them to get married early. He created considerable amusement when dilating on their last step in picturing the scenes of an ill-timed marriage. His reason why a young man or woman should marry young, was that when they reached thirty or forty they had formed set habits which would be the cause of difficulties and prevent a real marriage, but when they were united early in life they became one in their habits, which constituted marriage in the proper sense of the word.

At the close of the lecture Mr. H. S. Griffin moved a resolution of thanks to the rev. gentleman, which was seconded by Mayor Stevenson and unanimously carried.

SMITH VS. YOUNG.—This case, which is an action for assault and battery, was tried at the last assizes in Peterborough when the jury gave a verdict of $40 for the plaintiff, the Judge reserving the question of costs. On Monday at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, his Lordship Mr. Justice McMahon gave judgment directing judgment to be entered for the plaintiff for $40, with full County Court costs, without any right to set off by the defendant. Another New Citizen.

Still they come and welcome. Peterborough holds out the hand of fellowship and is ready to greet the business men who looking for a new field decided to locate in our town. Mr. Chas. Lowes, of Cobourg, has purchased the business from Mr. Jas. Little, formerly carried on by Mr. W. McFadden, photographer. The premises will be thoroughly refitted and furnished and Mr. Lowes will add to the appliances the latest instruments used in the art. Mr. Lowes has had a large experience in the art during the last twenty-five years and has established a favorable reputation in his line. For many years a resident of Cobourg he has gained the esteem of his fellow townsmen and in social circles will be missed. An active church member and worker in the Y. M. C. A. he will be welcomed to the ranks and his assistance valued.

As Big as a Life Boat.

A craft that provoked the smiles of canoeists who walked around the Ontario Canoe Company's show room, on Tuesday afternoon, was the big 30 foot canoe built by the company to the order of the Toronto Canoe club. It is a veritable ark, and yet has all the gracefulness of the canoe. But such an overgrown, monstrous canoe hasn't been seen since the biggest of the dug-outs disappeared. It is about the size of the famous boat that Robinson Crusoe is reported to have made and then could not launch. Fourteen paddlers, two abreast, can sit on the thwarts. At the bow is room to stow a cabinet organ which will form part of the canoe's equipment. The beam is five feet and looks much wider. Painted a dark red with trimmings in natural wood, varnished, the craft will cause a sensation when launched at Toronto and will later on constitute one of the attractions at the Stave Island canoe camp.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

The Formation of Exeter Lodge No. 29 at Lakefield.

For some time past a number of gentlemen of English nationality of Lakefield have been considering the advisability of forming a lodge of the Sons of England Benevolent Society, and with that end in view they applied for a charter. On Tuesday evening Mr. J. W. Kempling, of Barrie, Worthy Grand President of the Society, Mr. W. J. Carter, of Toronto, Worthy Grand Secretary, and Mr. Thomas Gunn, District Deputy for Peterborough, assisted by a number of the brethren of Lansdowne Lodge, met in the Orange Hall, Lakefield, and inaugurated Exeter Lodge, No. 29. The new Lodge starts with a fair membership, fifteen names having been inscribed on the charter. After the initiatory ceremony was concluded the following were elected and installed officers for the remainder of the present year:—

Bro. J. C. Baldwin	W. President
" J. Noyes	W. Past President
" Wesley Northcotte	W. Vice-President
" J. G. Bargiss	W. Chaplain
" E. Hellens	W. Secretary
" G. A. Milner	W. Treasurer
" W. Danford	W. 1st Guide
" Wm. Edwards	W. 2nd Guide
" A. Woods	W. 3rd Guide
" R. Alford	W. 4th Guide
" R. Jory	W. 5th Guide
" T. Callcott	W. 6th Guide
" Thos. Danford	W. Inner Guard
" Wm. Alford	W. Outer Guard
Dr. D. Fraser	Surgeon

The nights of meeting were fixed for the first and third Tuesdays in each month. At the close of the Lodge an adjournment was made to the Queen's Hotel, where the Grand Officers and the visiting brethren were entertained to supper. Bro. J. C. Baldwin, W. President of Exeter Lodge, took his seat at the head of the table, having on his right the Worthy Grand President, and the Worthy Grand Secretary on his left. After the tempting viands, provided by mine host Munroe, had been done ample justice to, the brethren were called to order, when Bro. J. C. Baldwin proposed the toast, "The Queen," which was received in a right loyal manner, the company singing "God Save the Queen." "The Grand Lodge" was next proposed, the company singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." This brought the Worthy Grand President to his feet, who gave, in a short speech, some interesting statistics in regard to the Order generally, and wound up by giving one of his favorite songs. "Exeter Lodge and the Order Generally" was toasted and responded to by Bro. J. C. Baldwin and the Grand Secretary. "Our Host and Hostess" was then given, followed by singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," and was replied to by Mr. Munroe, thanking the gentlemen for the manner in which they had drank his health. Bro. Carter said he could not let this opportunity pass without proposing the health of Dr. Fraser, who, although not a member of the Society, yet he believed he had some English in him. The Doctor, on rising to reply, said he believed if he searched his ancestory he thought he could claim nationality with them. However, in his capacity as surgeon, he would do his utmost to further the interests of the Lodge. The company broke up by singing the National Anthem, and giving three cheers for the Queen.

STRUCK TO SAVE HIMSELF.

Mr. Dennis, of Cobourg, Tells the Story of His Affray on the Boat Five Dollars and Costs.

The trial of Hugh Dennis, of Cobourg, who was charged with an aggravated assault on Wm. Johnston, took place at the Police Court this morning, before Mayor Stevenson, who in the absence of Police Magistrate Dumble occupied the bench. The particulars of the affair which occurred at the C.P.R. wharf on Tuesday night, the 14th inst., and in which Johnston sustained injuries which have confined him to the hospital ever since, have never been clearly known, but the evidence at the court this morning unfolded the case in detail. Johnston was brought to the court from the hospital, and wore a scar upon his nose and another on his head as evidence of his little escapade on the boat.

THE STORY OF THE ASSAULT.

From the evidence of Mr. Dennis himself, which was corroborated by that of Mr. Clair Calcutt and in part by Mr. Jackson, the affair occurred about as follows:—Johnston, the battered man, and John Graham, were the two men who had brought Mr. Dennis' home boat to Peterborough on Tuesday and were in charge of the same. On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Dennis telegraphed Graham to have steam up and the boat ready for his (Mr. Dennis') arrival with his wife and party of friends on the 11.30 train from Toronto. On his arrival here he was met at the station by Clair Calcutt and with Mr. Jackson and his wife proceeded to his boat, which he expected to find in readiness for starting down the river. Instead, however, of finding the boat lit up ready to receive him, his wife and party, all was in darkness, and upon going into Mrs. Dennis' cabin he found Graham and Johnston both lying there drunk. He shook Johnston and tried to arouse him, but the man only swore, when, after requesting Mrs. Dennis to leave the cabin, Mr. Dennis with the assistance of Mr. Jackson took Johnston and Graham from the cabin and placed them on the scow of the Golden Eye, which was lying alongside the house boat. After doing this Mr. Jackson drove up town in a hack for the police, and while he was gone Mr. Dennis lighted the lamps in the boat and found that he had lost his hat in the struggle putting the men out of the cabin. He went outside to find it and saw it lying about six feet from where Johnston was stretched out on the deck of the scow. He passed the drunken man, picked up the hat and had turned to return to the cabin when Johnston rose to his feet with a stick of wood in his hand and with an oath remarked that he would smash his old hat for him. Mr. Dennis instantly seized a stick of wood, struck his assailant on the bridge of the nose felling him to the deck. In falling Johnston struck against a pile of wood that was on the deck and cut the back of his head. When Johnston fell Mr. Dennis waited until the hack and policemen arrived and then had the men removed to the cells.

Graham, the injured man's companion, Clair Calcutt, M. Jackson, Dr. Yelland and Johnston, the defendant, all gave evidence.

Johnston, the defendant, could remember nothing about the occurrence except that he was hit, but by whom he did not know.

After this evidence had been given Mr. John Burnham, who appeared for the prisoner, asked to have the charge amended to that of a common assault, and His Worship thought that it was only a common assault and the information was so amended.

Then Mr. Dennis gave his evidence about as given above, after hearing which the Magistrate said while there was considerable justification for Mr. Dennis acting as he had under the circumstances, still he thought undue violence had been used, and he fined the prisoner $5 and costs.

Mr. Dennis also pays the expenses of Johnston in the hospital.

Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the Crown.

Sporting Sparks.

Last night the prophesies and wishes expressed by the local baseball men as to how the weather would be to-day for the game with the 'Varsity nine were numerous and of no avail, for the desired fine weather did not arrive in time. However, the University men arrived on the 11:44 train this morning and are registered at the Commercial House, and the game was called on the P. A. A. A. grounds shortly after four o'clock this afternoon.

THE CONVENTION'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Annual Convention of the E. B. S. The Delegates See the Town—A Difficulty Settled.

The convention of the Grand Branch of the Emerald Beneficial Society resumed session last evening at 8 o'clock. In the afternoon the proposed trip down the river on the Golden Eye was not taken, on account of the coolness of the weather, but instead the representatives were driven around the town in hacks by the members of the local society, and many were the expressions of congratulation and surprise at the busy and beautiful town which they viewed.

AN INTERNATIONAL DIFFICULTY.

At the evening session the different committees for the session were struck, after which the rest of the evening was occupied in a discussion over the international connection with the United States of the Ontario branch of the Society. For some years past there has been some difficulty or misunderstanding in reference to the connection of the Ontario branch with that of the States, and last evening after considerable discussion, it was decided that the Ontario branch should renew its international connection with the sister organization across the border.

Mr. A. Macdonald, Grand Treasurer, of Toronto, arrived yesterday evening and was present at last night's session.

REPORTS AND CONSTITUTION.

This morning's session was taken up by the Grand President's address and the report of the Grand Secretary and Treasurer. Notwithstanding the difficulty which has existed between the Ontario branch and that of the States, these reports showed the affairs of the organization to be in a satisfactory condition.

The latter part of the morning session and this afternoon the convention was occupied in revising the constitution of the Society.

To-night the local Society will tender the delegates a grand banquet at the Balmoral Hotel.

PRESENTATION.

Mrs. Beck Presented with an Address and Gift by the Ladies of St. John's.

On Tuesday evening Mesdames C. A. Weller and A. P. Poussette, for the congregation of St. John's church and representing a committee of ladies, called at the rectory and presented Mrs. Beck with a handsome purse of money and a beautiful satchel, accompanied by the following address:—

DEAR MRS. BECK,—The congregation of St. John's desire to express to you, through us, their warm and deep appreciation of the zeal and energy which you have expended in the work of the church during so many years. They recognize with gratitude your untiring efforts in the reduction of the old debt, the debt on the school house and the debt incurred for the restoration, and your constant solicitude in all matters pertaining to the welfare of our people. In your place at the rectory you have been looked to for guidance and assistance by all who might require such and whether in distress or otherwise you have never been appealed to in vain; indeed to the Rector you have, in the fullest sense, been a help-meet. At the present time, when the opportunity seems to be presented for your taking a brief respite from your numerous duties, and, it is to be hoped, some fitting relaxation both of body and mind, it appeared right to the congregation, not only to let you know the affectionate regard in which you are held by them, but also to place in your hands the means necessary for the object suggested and it is earnestly hoped you will accept the accompanying gift, as a slight token of the congregation's interest in your welfare. We look forward to welcoming you at no distant date on your return to your home among us.

We remain, dear Mrs. Beck, on behalf of the congregation, sincerely and affectionately yours.

Peterborough, May 20th, 1889.

Mrs. Beck replied as follows:—

MY VERY DEAR FRIENDS,—I am deeply touched by the kindness which has prompted you at this time to address to me such words of affection and encouragement, and I am more grateful than I can express for the handsome gift, showing as it does how heartily and generously the congregation of St. John's have responded to the call you have made upon them. I thank you and them most sincerely for this manifestation of good will, and remain

Very affectionately,
MARGARET BECK.

"The Rectory," May 25th, 1889.

P. S.—I desire also to convey to the Children's Guild my sincere thanks for their gift of a handsome prayer book. M. B.

Too Late to Change.

This morning Commodore H. C. Rogers was handed a communication from several eminent people of Kingston who enquired, if it was not yet too late, that the coming camp of the A. C. A. be located on Horse Shoe Island, about five miles from the city. Various advantages were enumerated. While the Kingstonites would no doubt do all they could to make the camp a success and a pleasant rendezvous, the matter is definitely settled and Stave Island, near Gananoque, the location. Some other year the Kingston proposition will be entertained.

Business After All.

An article in a valued exchange is headed, "Do you Read Advertisements." Well, about three times a week we are led into reading a thrilling account of something by an eye witness that tails off into a cake of soap or a bottle of bitters; but it is not our fault, and it isn't a means of spiritual growth or moral improvement. Not so with the announcements of Hawley Bros. Their business principle laid down that if you buy your tea from a firm dealing only in tea, making a specialty of tea, you will get the best value and quality in town. Try Hawley Bros. d118

Harry Lindley at the Opera House.

Harry Lindley's dramatic company put "The Castaways" on the boards at the Opera House last evening before a rather slim audience, but those who attended appeared to enjoy the play, which savors of seafaring life and abounds in nautical scenes and phraseology. As usual Harry was the leading character in the plot, so the majority of the audience thought, and his appearance was the signal for laughter and applause. His company is a fair one, the cast being largely the same as on his previous visits. The company went to Lindsay this morning.

Our Driving Sale

of Dress Goods won us hundreds of encomiums. And why? Because there can be no hesitation in pronouncing our sale of dress goods the most satisfactory ever attempted in Peterborough. Other merchants have set out to run off a balance of stock at the end of the season. We began at the beginning. We handle at figures never before [illegible] the finest line of dress goods ever [illegible]. New and stylish, every piece an unsurpassed bargain, and the unanimous verdict is our vote of success. From now until the end of the month bargains in these lines continue and the opportunity is open to all. M. Sullivan & Co., George-st. d116

After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we issue our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in [illegible] and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. Those who desire bargains call. W. J. Morrow, 369 George-st.

HOW TO GET UP IN THE WORLD.

Rev. T. W. Jeffrey, of Toronto, Delivers a Lecture in the George-st. Church.

The lecture announced to be given by Rev. T. W. Jeffrey, of Toronto, in the George-st. church last evening did not draw an audience that filled the edifice by any means, nor was the turnout as large as would be expected when the subject upon which the rev. gentleman was announced to speak, "How to Get Up," was one which upon the face of it should appear of vital and attractive interest to all, especially the young, for who among mortals has not at some time been down, in some respect, more or less, and would gladly avail himself of some well-adapted and easy way of rising. Rev. M. L. Pearson presided over the meeting, and, after an opening hymn, introduced the lecturer with few remarks.

Rev. Mr. Jeffrey, who has gained considerable notoriety throughout Canada through the famous Jeffrey trial, spoke at considerable length, nearly two hours, in a very practical strain, but illustrated all his points with amusing but appropriate anecdotes and incidents. His manner of relating a story seemed to please the audience who were kept in the best of humor from the beginning to the finish. In opening, the rev. gentleman, the chairman having referred in opening to the comparatively small audience, said that with him the people before him were, in his eyes, the people, and he did not care nor think of any others. In preaching or speaking, if he only had one man for an audience he would preach just the same, for he recognized the importance of a man who had been created by an infinite God. Then he proceeded to his subject, "How to get up in the World." He said it was easier for a man to rise than fall, for God had never put any fall-down muscles in a man, but had made him upright, and despite all Satan had done he had not made it possible for a man to fall down comfortably. Some people said it was easy to go to hell, but he held it was the hardest thing in the world to do, for a man had to and climb over the cross of the infinite mercy of God to get there. No one could tell him it was an easy thing to go to hell, for God had made no road to hell, but He had made innumerable ways leading to Heaven—roads everywhere so that no matter where a man was he could go to Heaven. It was an easier thing to do right than to do wrong, and he said that Satan alone, without the aid of humanity, could accomplish nothing, but was the most tremendous failure. The lecturer then went on to speak of happiness in this life, saying that God never intended man to have the tooth ache, or toe ache or be poor or needy, or miserable, but had intended that they all should be happy. The great drawback to happiness was that persons always wanted to be like somebody else, and he gave them some advice how to seek happiness. There was a somewhere for everybody, and they should all find out where that somewhere was, find the place God had fitted them for. They should also always remember their own individuality, that every human being was religious and that they should always have some motive behind them urging them on. This happiness was the first step in getting up, and the next step was to aim at something and to aim high. He told the young men it was for them to say what they would be, and if they would keep in a straight and persistent line they would arrive at exactly the place they desired. The next step in the upward course he dwelt on was the power of discrimination, discriminating between right and wrong, knowing when and how to say a thing. If they had this they would have a progressive power which would be remarkable. Another step he gave them was to know exactly when to say "No" and when to say "Yes." Another was to keep their eyes open and to think largely and liberally before they made answer. Then they should have a faith founded on the Word of God and should tell the truth and shame the devil, and lastly he told them to get married early. He created considerable amusement when dilating on their last step in picturing the scenes of an ill-timed marriage. His reason why a young man or woman should marry young, was that when they reached thirty or forty they had formed set habits which would be the cause of difficulties and prevent a real marriage, but when they were united early in life they became one in their habits, which constituted marriage in the proper sense of the word.

At the close of the lecture Mr. H. S. Griffin moved a resolution of thanks to the rev. gentleman, which was seconded by Mayor Stevenson and unanimously carried.

Well, Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Hall's Hair Renewer to restore the color of my hair.

Another New Citizen.

Still they come and welcome. Peterborough holds out the hand of fellowship and is ready to greet the business man who looking for a new field decided to locate in our town. Mr. Chas. Lowes, of Cobourg, has purchased the business from Mr. Jas. Little, formerly carried on by Mr. W. McFadden, photographer. The premises will be thoroughly refitted and furnished and Mr. Lowes will add to the appliances the latest instruments used in the art. Mr. Lowes has had a large experience in the art during the last twenty-five years and has established a favorable reputation in his line. For many years a resident of Cobourg he has gained the esteem of his fellow townsmen and in social circles will be missed. An active church member and worker in the Y. M. C. A. he will be welcomed to the ranks and his assistance valued.

As Big as a Life Boat.

A craft that provoked the smiles of canoeists who walked around the Ontario Canoe Company's show room, on Tuesday afternoon, was the big 30 foot canoe built by the company to the order of the Toronto Canoe club. It is a veritable ark, and yet has all the gracefulness of the canoe. But such an overgrown, monstrous canoe hasn't been seen since the biggest of the dug-outs disappeared. It is about the size of the famous boat that Robinson Crusoe is reported to have made and then could not launch. Fourteen paddlers, two abreast, can sit on the thwarts. At the bow is room to stow a cabinet organ which will form part of the canoe's equipment. The beam is five feet and looks much wider. Painted a dark red with trimmings in natural wood, varnished, the craft will cause a sensation when launched at Toronto and will later on constitute one of the attractions at the Stave Island canoe camp.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

SONS OF ENGLAND.

The Formation of Exeter Lodge No. 80 at Lakefield.

For some time past a number of gentlemen of English nationality of Lakefield have been considering the advisability of forming a lodge of the Sons of England Benevolent Society, and with that end in view they applied for a charter. On Tuesday evening Mr. J. W. Kempling, of Barrie, Worthy Grand President of the Society, Mr. W. J. Carter, of Toronto, Worthy Grand Secretary, and Mr. Thomas Gunn, District Deputy for Peterborough, assisted by a number of the brethren of Lansdowne Lodge, met in the Orange Hall, Lakefield, and inaugurated Exeter Lodge, No. 80. The new Lodge starts with a fair membership, fifteen names having been inscribed on the charter. After the initiatory ceremony was concluded the following were elected and installed officers for the remainder of the present year:—

Bro. J. C. Baldwin	W. President
" J. Noyes	W. Past President
" Wesley Northcotte	W. Vice-President
" J.C. Burgin	W. Chaplain
" E. Sellens	W. Secretary
" G. A. Milner	W. Treasurer
" W. Dunford	W. 1st Guide
" Wm. Edwards	W. 2nd Guide
" A. Woods	W. 3rd Guide
" R. Alford	W. 4th Guide
" R. Jory	W. 5th Guide
" T. Callcott	W. 6th Guide
" Thos. Dunford	W. Inner Guard
" Wm. Alford	W. Outer Guard
Dr. D. Fraser	Surgeon

The nights of meeting were fixed for the first and third Tuesdays in each month. At the close of the Lodge an adjournment was made to the Queen's Hotel, where the Grand Officers and the visiting brethren were entertained to supper. Bro. J. C. Baldwin, W. President of Exeter Lodge, took his seat at the head of the table, having on his right the Worthy Grand President, and the Worthy Grand Secretary on his left. After the tempting viands, provided by mine host Munroe, had been done ample justice to, the brethren were called to order, when Bro. J. C. Baldwin proposed the toast, "The Queen," which was received in a right loyal manner, the company singing "God Save the Queen." "The Grand Lodge" was next proposed, the company singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." This brought the Worthy Grand President to his feet, who gave, in a short speech, some interesting statistics in regard to the Order generally, and wound up by giving one of his favorite songs. "Exeter Lodge and the Order Generally" was toasted and responded to by Bro. J. C. Baldwin and the Grand Secretary. "Our Host and Hostess" was then given, followed by singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," and was replied to by Mr. Munroe, thanking the gentlemen for the manner in which they had drank his health. Bro. Carter said he could not let this opportunity pass without proposing the health of Dr. Fraser, who, although not a member of the Society, yet he believed he had some English in him. The Doctor, on rising to reply, said he believed if he searched his ancestory he thought he could claim nationality with them. However, in his capacity as surgeon, he would do his utmost to further the interests of the Lodge. The company broke up by singing the National Anthem, and giving three cheers for the Queen.

STRUCK TO SAVE HIMSELF.

Mr. Dennis, of Cobourg, Tells the Story of His Affray on the Boat Five Dollars and Costs.

The trial of Hugh Dennis, of Cobourg, who was charged with an aggravated assault on Wm. Johnston, took place at the Police Court this morning, before Mayor Stevenson, who in the absence of Police Magistrate Dumble occupied the bench. The particulars of the affair which occurred at the C.P.R. wharf on Tuesday night, the 14th inst., and in which Johnston sustained injuries which have confined him to the hospital ever since, have never been clearly known, but the evidence at the court this morning unfolded the case in detail. Johnston was brought to the court from the hospital, and wore a scar upon his nose and another on his head as evidence of his little escapade on the boat

THE STORY OF THE ASSAULT.

From the evidence of Mr. Dennis himself, which was corroborated by that of Mr. Clair Calcutt and in part by Mr. Jackson, the affair occurred about as follows:—Johnston, the battered man, and John Graham, were the two men who had brought Mr. Dennis' home boat to Peterborough on Tuesday and were in charge of the same. On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Dennis telegraphed Graham to have steam up and the boat ready for his (Mr. Dennis') arrival with his wife and party of friends on the 11.30 train from Toronto. On his arrival here he was met at the station by Clair Calcutt and with Mr. Jackson and his wife proceeded to his boat, which he expected to find in readiness for starting down the river. Instead, however, of finding the boat lit up ready to receive him, his wife and party, all was in darkness, and upon going into Mrs. Dennis' cabin he found Graham and Johnston both lying there drunk. He shook Johnston and tried to arouse him, but the man only swore, when, after requesting Mrs. Dennis to leave the cabin, Mr. Dennis with the assistance of Mr. Jackson took Johnston and Graham from the cabin and placed them on the scow of the Golden Eye, which was lying alongside the house boat. After doing this Mr. Jackson drove up town in a hack for the police, and while he was gone Mr. Dennis lighted the lamps in the boat and found that he had lost his hat in the struggle putting the men out of the cabin. He went outside to find it and saw it lying about six feet from where Johnston was stretched out on the deck of the scow. He passed the drunken man, picked up the hat and had turned to return to the cabin when Johnston rose to his feet with a stick of wood in his hand and with an oath remarked that he would smash his old hat for him. Mr. Dennis instantly seized a stick of wood, struck his assailant on the bridge of the nose felling him to the deck. In falling Johnston struck against a pile of wood that was on the deck and cut the back of his head. When Johnston fell Mr. Dennis waited until the hack and policemen arrived and then had the men removed to the cells.

Graham, the injured man's companion, Clair Calcutt, M. Jackson, Dr. Yelland and Johnston, the defendant, all gave evidence.

Johnston, the defendant, could remember nothing about the occurrence except that he was hit, but by whom he did not know.

After this evidence had been given Mr. John Burnham, who appeared for the prisoner, asked to have the charge amended to that of a common assault, and His Worship thought that it was only a common assault and the information was so amended.

Then Mr. Dennis gave his evidence about as given above, after hearing which the Magistrate said while there was considerable justification for Mr. Dennis acting as he had under the circumstances, still he thought undue violence had been used, and he fined the prisoner $5 and costs.

Mr. Dennis also pays the expenses of Johnston in the hospital.

Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the Crown.

Sporting Sparks.

Last night the prophecies and wishes expressed by the local baseball men as to how the weather would be to-day for the game with the 'Varsity nine were numerous and of no avail, for the desired fine weather did not arrive in time. However, the University men arrived on the 11:45 train this morning and are registered at the Commercial House, and the game was called on the P. A. A. THE CONVENTION'S PROCEEDINGS.

The Annual Convention of the E. B. S. The Delegates See the Town - A Difficulty Settled.

The convention of the Grand Branch of the Emerald Beneficial Society resumed session last evening at 8 o'clock. In the afternoon the proposed trip down the river on the Golden Eye was not taken, on account of the coolness of the weather, but instead the representatives were driven around the town in hacks by the members of the local society, and many were the expressions of congratulation and surprise at the busy and beautiful town which they viewed.

AN INTERNATIONAL DIFFICULTY.

At the evening session the different committees for the session were struck, after which the rest of the evening was occupied in a discussion over the international connection with the United States of the Ontario branch of the Society. For some years past there has been some difficulty or misunderstanding in reference to the connection of the Ontario branch with that of the States, and last evening after considerable discussion, it was decided that the Ontario branch should renew its international connection with the sister organization across the border.

Mr. A. Macdonald, Grand Treasurer, of Toronto, arrived yesterday evening and was present at last night's session.

REPORTS AND CONSTITUTION.

This morning's session was taken up by the Grand President's address and the report of the Grand Secretary and Treasurer. Notwithstanding the difficulty which has existed between the Ontario branch and that of the States, these reports showed the affairs of the organization to be in a satisfactory condition.

The latter part of the morning session and this afternoon the convention was occupied in revising the constitution of the Society.

To-night the local Society will tender the delegates a grand banquet at the Balmoral Hotel.

PRESENTATION.

Mrs. Beck Presented with an Address and Gift by the Ladies of St. John's.

On Tuesday evening Mesdames C. A. Weller and A. P. Poussette, for the congregation of St. John's church and representing a committee of ladies, called at the rectory and presented Mrs. Beck with a handsome purse of money and a beautiful satchel, accompanied by the following address:—

DEAR MRS. BECK,—The congregation of St. John's desire to express to you, through us, their warm and deep appreciation of the zeal and energy which you have expended in the work of the church during so many years. They recognize with gratitude your untiring efforts in the reduction of the old debt, the debt on the school house and the debt incurred for the restoration, and your constant solicitude in all matters pertaining to the welfare of our people. In your place at the rectory you have been looked to for guidance and assistance by all who might require such and whether in distress or otherwise you have never been appealed to in vain; indeed to the Rector you have, in the fullest sense, been a help-meet. At the present time, when the opportunity seems to be presented for your taking a brief respite from your numerous duties, and, it is to be hoped, some fitting relaxation both of body and mind, it appeared right to the congregation, not only to let you know the affectionate regard in which you are held by them, but also to place in your hands the means necessary for the object suggested and it is earnestly hoped you will accept the accompanying gift, as a slight token of the congregation's interest in your welfare. We look forward to welcoming you at no distant date on your return to your home among us.

We remain, dear Mrs. Beck, on behalf of the congregation, sincerely and affectionately yours.

C. E. Sherwood G. J. Poussette

T. Buller J. Chamberlen

Peterborough, May 20th, 1889.

Mrs. Beck replied as follows:—

MY VERY DEAR FRIENDS,—I am deeply touched by the kindness which has prompted you at this time to address to me such words of affection and encouragement, and I am more grateful than I can express for the handsome gift, showing as it does how heartily and generously the congregation of St. John's have responded to the call you have made upon them. I thank you and them most sincerely for this manifestation of good will, and remain

Very affectionately,
MARGARET BECK.

P. S.—I desire also to convey to the Children's Guild my sincere thanks for their gift of a handsome prayer book. M. B.

Too Late to Change.

This morning Commodore H. C. Rogers was handed a communication from several eminent people of Kingston who enquired, if it was not yet too late, that the coming camp of the A. C. A. be located on Horse Shoe Island, about five miles from the city. Various advantages were enumerated. While the Kingstonites would no doubt do all they could to make the camp a success and a pleasant rendezvous, the matter is definitely settled and Stave Island, near Gananoque, the location. Some other year the Kingston proposition will be entertained.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE

By FRANCIS HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c., &c.

[Copyright 1889, by John A. Taylor, Toronto.]

CHAPTER I.

It had taken him a long time, and it had cost him — Jose — much hard labour to prepare for his aged grandmother and Pepita, the tiny home outside Madrid, to which he at last brought them in great triumph one hot summer's day, when the very vine leaves and orangetrees themselves were dusty. It had been a great undertaking for him in the first place, for he was a slow fellow, Jose, as slow as he was dull and kind and faithful to Pepita and the grandmother. He had a body as big as an ox and a heart as big as his body' but he was slow and dull in everything but one thing--that was his carpenter work. He was well enough at that, and more than well enough, for he had always had a fancy and a knack for it from the time when as a boy he had worked in his uncle's vineyards and tilled his fields and fed his beasts.

His uncle had been counted a rich man among his neighbors, but when his sister and her husband died and left the two children, Jose and Pepita, penniless, and with no protector save himself and their grandmother, already an old woman, it was upon the grandmother the burden fell, for he did nothing for them except to give them, grudgingly now and then, a few poor vegetables or a little fallen fruit. It is true that when Jose was old enough to labor in the fields he gave him work to do, but he paid him ill and treated him ill also, giving him poor food and harsh words, and often enough blows the poor lad did not deserve. So it came about that while he was at his work Jose fell into the way of planning to escape from all this and make another home for himself and his pretty child-sister and the old woman. He knew there was only one way to do it—if he could carry his one gift where it would be of more use to him than it could possible be in a poor small village—if he could carry it to a market where there were more people and where work was better paid for. Where the king and queen were, of course, there must be more money, and one could find more to do and live better. It was Padre Alessandro, the village priest, who had suggested this to him first. He was a kind, jovial old fellow, and padre, and had seen something of the world too long ago, which was perhaps why he was never very hard upon the simple sinner who went to confession, and could give a bit of unecclesiastical advice now and then. He had always been kind to Jose, and as Pepita had grown prettier and prettier every day, he had often spoken of her to old Jovita, and said she should be well taught and taken care of, and one even—when she had come into the house with a basket of grapes on her little head, rose-flushed with the hot day, her black hair curling in moist silken rings on her forehead—he had been betrayed into the worldly remark that such pretty young things ought to have something brighter to look forward to than hard work and scant fare which made them old before their time and left them nothing to look back upon. But he only said it to Jovita, and Jovita only stared a little, it never having occured to her that there was anything much in the world but hard labor and poverty. And what difference did it make that one was pretty, except that it became more probable that some gay, lazy fellow would pretend to fall in love with one, and then after marriage leave one all the work to do and a house full of hungry children to feed? She had seen that often enough. Had it not been so Pepita's mother, who died at twenty-five almost an old woman, worn out with trouble and hard usage.

But afterwards, when Padre Alessandro saw Jose, he spoke of Pepita to him also, though only as if incidentally among other things.

"She should marry some good fellow who could take care of her," he said. "If you go to Madrid it will also be better for her."

And so the end of it all was that after much slow planning and many hopes and fears and more than one disappointment, there came a day when the uncle was thrown into a violent rage by losing one of his best and most patient worker, and the poor cottage stood empty, and Jose and Pepita and Jovita found themselves in a new world.

What a new world it seemed to them all! Through the help of Padre Alessandro and an old friend of his Jose had work bringing him pay which appeared absolute wealth to him. The cottage, with its good walls and roof, its neat rooms and garden, being compared with the mere hut they had left behind, seemed a palace. For the first few days, indeed, Jovita was scarce at ease: to feel no necessity for heavy labor, to have food enough, to be so comfortable, seemed unnatural, as if it might finally bring disaster. But it was not so with Pepita. All the joy of youth, all its delights and expectation filled her heart. To be so near the great grand city, to look forward to seeing all its splendours, to walk in its streets, to share in the amusements she had heard of—this was rapture. If she had been pretty before, she became now ten times prettier; her lovely eyes grew larger with laughter and wonder and joy; her light feet almost danced; her color was like that of a damask rose. Each day brought new innocent happiness to her. When Jose came home from his work at night she sat by his side and mend. Truth to tell, she entirely forgot Sebastiano, not even recognising him in the pageant of the grand entry, she was so absorbed in its glitter and blaze of color.

But at the killing of the bull that was different. Just a moment before she had awakened to the fact that Manuelo was near her—near enough to speak; he had been staring at her, and growing more restless every moment, until he had at last attracted the attention of Jose and Jovita, and his first words to her came amid shouts of applause and delight.

"Sebastiano," he said; "it is Sebastiano."

Pepita turned to look. With what a proud and careless air he advanced; with what a strong light step; how he held his head and shoulders; how his gold and silver garnishings glittered; how the people called to him with a sort of caressing ecstasy. They adored him; he was their idol. Yes, there was a thrill in it, even for her cold heart. She felt a quick pulsation. To be so proud and triumphant and daring—to be the central point of everything—to be able to awake this exultant fervour—was something after all. And he was beautiful too; though she cared nothing for that, except as she could see that it added to his triumphs and made them more complete.

"It is Sebastiano," said Jose.

Detectives in a Hot Place.

PARKERSBURG, May 21.—For some time detectives have been working clues in the Jacob Morgan case of Tyler County. Morgan's murder was cold-blooded. Detectives Burnett and Gale and Constable Unemsteller went on Friday to the Morgan neighborhood to make arrests. Sunday morning a number of men surrounded the house in which the officers were staying and demanded their surrender. The officers fired at the party. The men riddled the house with bullets, wounding Gale in the arm. One of the assailants was mortally wounded and two others were badly hurt before they retired.

LONGFELLOW'S MAIDEN,

who is—

"Standing, with reluctant feet,
Where the brook and river meet,
Womanhood and childhood fleet!"

is a type of thousands of young girls who are emerging from the chrysalis stage of their existence, as they enter upon their "teens." Nervous, excitable, irritable, stirred by strange, unknowable forces within them, each a mystery unto herself, our girls need the tenderest care, the most loving, patient oversight, and the aid of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, to safely carry them through this critical period, during which, in too many lives, alas, are sown the seeds of distressing forms of diseases peculiar to the female sex. But this boon to womankind will prevent all such diseases, or cure them if they have already seized a victim. Woman owes it to herself, to her family, and to her social station, to be well and strong. Let her then not neglect the sure means of cure. "Favorite Prescription" is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. Sold by druggists; $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

THE BON MARCHE FIRE.

INSURERS THINK THERE WAS SOMETHING "CROOKED."

Toronto's Latest Sensation—The Proprietor of the Establishment Says the Trouble Arose From Discharged Employes.

TORONTO, May 22.—The World this morning says:

For the past three or four weeks there has been considerable quiet talk in town over certain circumstances attending the fire at the Bon Marche in King-street, of which Mr. F. X. Cousineau is the proprietor, which occurred at 4 o'clock on the morning of Thursday, Jan. 18 last. Insurance men particularly have been deeply concerned in the conflagration, for it was openly whispered the fire was not "straight." The result is that the ten companies interested have taken decided action in the matter, and they will attempt to recover the $17,400 which they paid Mr. Cousineau on the ground that it was obtained by fraud. Mr. Cousineau was so notified to this effect yesterday afternoon. At the time of the fire the following policies were in force on the stock in the Bon Marche:

North British and Mercantile	$8,000
Royal	7,500
Glasgow and London	7,500
Imperial	7,000
Scottish Union	6,000
Lancashire	5,000
City of London	5,000
British America	5,000
Connecticut	5,000
Guardian	3,000
Total	$60,000

At first it was thought, or at least the insurance adjusters thought, that the total loss would be between $3000 and $4000, but certainly not more than the latter sum. When therefore Mr. Cousineau fyled a claim for $17,400 damages there was a big but very silent kick. The money was duly paid over, but the companies interested determined to inquire into the circumstances of the fire. With that end in view they secured the services of "George E. Wilson," a detective said to be attached to one of the Pinkerton's bureaus of Chicago. Wilson, or so he registered himself on the book at the Hotel Metropole (with "Boston" opposite his name), has been at work on the case for several days, and as a result of his labors a formal demand was made upon Mr. Cousineau for the return of the money. He is to be given two days to pay back the money, in default of which a writ is to be issued and perhaps charges of a serious nature will follow a refusal to refund. Messrs. McCarthy, Osler, Hoskin & Creelman are acting for the companies and Mr. Cousineau received a notice from this firm at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon of the intentions of the insurance people. All the proceedings of the insurance companies were conducted through the head offices and not through their local agents. The companies, too, were so guarded in their movements that they would not trust the matter in the hands of Toronto private detectives, but sent to Chicago for their man.

Detective Wilson received his instructions from headquarters and was given certain information which he was detailed to follow up. It is known that the detective has had frequent conferences with certain ex-employes of Mr. Cousineau, and it is said the officer was placed in possession of important information by these parties. One of them is a discharged bookkeeper, and he has been heard to tell some [illegible] stories about the [illegible] One of [illegible] is that [illegible] amount of the [illegible] recovered from the companies. The World saw Mr. Cousineau at his comfortable quarters [illegible]. He admitted that his lawyer, Mr. F. [illegible], received the letter in question. [illegible] asked what he was going to do about it, he said that he would certainly fight it out, but the trial could not take place till September. Mr. Cousineau further said that the trouble arose out of his discharging three of his employes about a fortnight ago. One of these was Harry Wilkinson, who came from New York and took the position of [illegible] He had [illegible] Wilkinson [illegible] York [illegible] hardly surprised to learn that he had been [illegible] on the other side. Mr. Cousineau [illegible] blamed Wilkinson for giving false information, and he was [illegible] saying that [illegible] would [illegible] the thing through. The [illegible] of the Bon Marche further said that he thought the proceedings also originated with the help of a discharged employe named Grant, whom he discovered to have been giving too much [illegible] and another named [illegible], who had been drinking too much. In short he put it down as a matter of revenge on the part of discharged employes.

Nipped by Frost.

MILWAUKEE, May 23.—Despatches from the interior of the state indicate the garden truck and the tender shoots of early corn were severely nipped by frost Tuesday night. Ice from ½ to ¾ of an inch thick formed in pools and the ground was frozen stiff. It is feared the strawberry crop, which promised to be larger than ever before in St. Croix and Pierce Counties, is a total loss.

MONTREAL, May 22.—Early this morning another terribly fatal disaster was added to the list which has already made 1889 a memorable year in the history of the Dominion. The day was just breaking over the St. Lawrence at Pointe aux Trembles when the Allan mail steamship Polynesian, Captain Hugh Wylie, and the Donaldson liner Cynthia, Captain John Tyler, crashed together in a disastrous collision, resulting in the sinking of the Cynthia and the drowning of eight of her crew, whose names are given above.

The Polynesian left port shortly after 4.30 and was proceeding down the Varennes Channel, opposite Pointe aux Trembles, when she perceived the Cynthia, inward bound. There is a dangerous curve at this point in the channel, and through some misunderstanding of the "rule of the road" the Polynesian was brought into collision with the Cynthia, striking her on the port bow, causing such a gap in the side of the unfortunate ship as to sink her in a very few minutes. The hull filled with great rapidity. Those on deck had barely time to rush below and warn the crew off watch and in their berths asleep to get on deck and swim ashore to save their lives. Fortunately the Cynthia carried no passengers, otherwise no doubt many lives would have been sacrificed.

The Cynthia was inward bound from Glasgow with a general cargo, chiefly pig iron. Several of the crew of the Cynthia, soon after their swim ashore, were penniless and they were endeavoring to obtain a passage by the street cars to the city. The sufferers secured nothing in their hasty flight from the sinking ship. The captain offered his watch as security and also promised payment on arriving at the company's office, but the car conductor refused to accept the watch and said he could not take the men up for the further reason that the car was required for workmen who used it on that trip. The angry sailors seemed inclined to take possession of the car and force it to proceed, but in obedience to their captain they refrained from doing so.

About ten feet of mast, one boat half full of water and another totally submerged with the exception of part of one side, was all that was visible of the unfortunate Cynthia at Pointe aux Trembles shortly after the collision. The vessel had totally disappeared and was lying at the bottom, not more than twelve feet from shore. According to the people in the vicinity, some of whom witnessed the catastrophe, the collision took place about 4.40 and in 20 minutes more the boat had disappeared. The bow which was struck went down first, lifting the screw partly out of water, and then she toppled over, throwing all but three men into the water. Most of those could swim and saved themselves, but the pilot, who was carried away by the tide, being in great danger of drowning, the three men who were on the hulk refused to leave when a boat came to their assistance, till the pilot had been saved. They evidently knew not of their peril, and when the vessel suddenly sank one of them, not able to swim, became the victim of his heroism and drowned, together with the seven others whose retreat from below had been cut off by the inrushing water. When the Cynthia struck shore there was a report like that of a cannon, and a shock that made the window panes shiver and the chimneys tumble down.

The sailors of the Cynthia claim that the Polynesian steamed right ahead, and that had she stopped she could have saved the men who were drowned. They also state that there were fifteen men on shore who, although there were boats near by, did not raise a finger even in an attempt to rescue the drowning men. The Polynesian had a big hole stove in her bow.

At the time of the collision Captain Taylor was on the bridge and he says the Cynthia was on her proper side of the river. The rule of sea likewise prevails in rivers that vessels pass each other on the port side. The position in which the Cynthia now lies, Captain Coates contends, is proof positive that she was in her proper course, and as the Polynesian struck her on the starboard side he contends this shows that some how or other she was going out of her proper course. He believes that something had gone wrong with the steering gear of the Polynesian, as otherwise she could hardly have gone so astray, or was probably being steered from the stern, which he considered very dangerous, instead of being steered from the bridge, as was the case with the Cynthia.

Captain Coates spoke in strong terms of the lack of hospitality exhibited. Notwithstanding the survivors were dripping wet, no one offered them shelter or refreshment, and they had to walk all the way to town.

The Cynthia was built by Henderson of Glasgow. Her sister ship, Titania, was wrecked about three years ago off Anticosti. The cargo was a general one, comprising about 550 tons pig iron and 560 tons coal.

Talking with shipping men as to whether the Polynesian ought not to have stood by the Cynthia and rendered what assistance she could they said it was utterly impossible. With the "way" on her caused by full speed down stream she could not have stopped, and even if she could have stopped in a short distance she would have been unable to turn in the narrow channel so as to get back to the scene of the accident.

THE POLYNESIAN AT QUEBEC.

She Has Received Serious Injury—The Buenos Ayrean to Take the Mails.

QUEBEC, May 22.—The Polynesian, which was in collision this morning with the Cynthia, arrived here safely at 9 o'clock this evening. She has received serious injury, the extent of which cannot be known until the surveyors have made their report. It cannot be learned at present when she is likely to be ready for sea. Arrangements have been made by which the steamship Buenos Ayrean will carry this week's mails intended for the Polynesian.

Annie Was Not Dead.

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 22.—Miss Annie Griffiths arrived here unexpectedly yesterday. Two years ago the relatives of Miss Griffiths received a despatch giving an account of her death by foul means in Kansas. The body of a woman was found in Kansas City in whose dress pocket was found a letter addressed to Annie Griffiths, Franklin, Pa., and whose cuffs were marked with that lady's initials. As Miss Griffiths was in the west her friends telegraphed on to have the remains sent here, but they had already been buried and it was thought best not to disturb them. For over two years Annie had been mourned as dead and the sensation she created among her relatives by suddenly appearing before them can be better imagined than described. She is at a loss to account for the finding of the letter in the pocket of the dead woman and does not give much account of herself, only saying she has been in the west.

Firebugs in a Michigan City.

IONIA, Mich., May 22.—At 1 o'clock yesterday morning the foundry and machine shop of W. F. Bush & Co. was burnt; loss $6000, insurance $3600. A man was seen running from the shop. He had set fire to it in three places, making the ninth incendiary fire in the city in a month. Seven have been vacant buildings. The firebugs have selected those owned by wealthy people and [illegible] have gone down [illegible] on vacant houses.

The Richmond Horse Show.

RICHMOND, Que., May 22.—The annual spring horse show of the Richmond Agricultural Society was held here yesterday and was attended by a large number of the principal breeders and fanciers of the country. More than usual interest was evinced and the raising of a better class of horses seems the aim which all have in view.

THE SIKH SOVEREIGN.

All About Maharajah Dhuleep Singh and His English Bride.

PARIS, May 23.—The ex-Maharajah Dhuleep Singh and his English bride have left to spend their honeymoon in Russia. The wedding ceremony was strictly private and only attended by one or two Paris friends of the bride and bridegroom. The courtship was a short one. Barely six months have elapsed since the couple first met in the drawing-room of a house here. The marriage took place in the office of the mayor of the eighth arrondissement (city district). In the register the bridegroom was described as the Maharajah Dhuleep Singh, the sovereign of the Sikh nation, formerly of the Faubourg Saint Germain; profession, rajah, and the widower of the Maharanee Bamba Muller, who died in London.

The bride is a young and good-looking lady. She wore a lavender-colored traveling costume and orange blossoms, and figured in the register as the daughter of the late B. D. Wetherill and of Sarah, his wife, both of Hampshire, England. When the nuptial knot was duly tied, the mayor, girt with his tri-color scarf of office, addressed a briefly hymeneal homily to the bride and bridegroom, and the proceedings were then explained in English to the maharajah, who cannot speak French.

After this the mayor read a kind of address to the bridegroom, in which his honor showed that he was evidently suffering from a mild form of Anglophobia. He saluted in the person of the ex-maharajah the last of the kings of Punjaub, and spoke of him as having been despoiled of his territories and of him finding hospitality in France. After a few references to the former greatness of the dethroned prince, Monsieur le Maire finally wound up by expressing a hope that the royal union would be propitious. The ceremony then terminated, and the bride and bridegroom received the congratulations of their friends.

Mr. Lincoln Welcomed to England.

LIVERPOOL, May 23.—Upon the arrival of the steamer City of Paris in the Mersey yesterday afternoon a special tender decorated with flags put out to the vessel for the purpose of conveying Robert T. Lincoln, the new American Minister, ashore. Among those on the tender were Henry White, first Secretary of the American Legation at London; Mr. Russell, the American Consul at Liverpool, and the members of the corporation of this city. The Mayor met Mr. Lincoln at the landing stage and welcomed him to the city. Mr. Lincoln spent no time in Liverpool, but proceeded immediately for London.

The Samoan Conference.

BERLIN, May 23.—Yesterday's session of the conference on Samoan affairs lasted from 3 until 4.30 o'clock.

The Session Was Peaceful.

BERLIN, May 23.—The Associated Press Correspondent learns that there was no difficulty encountered during the deliberations of the Samoan Conference yesterday. The question of the indemnity to be paid by the Samoans for the killing of Germans at Apia by natives was not brought up but was left to the Working Committee. This action is taken as an indication that the question can be solved here. The next session of the Conference will be held next week. The final adjournment may occur then.

The Empress Was Shaken.

BERLIN, May 23.—While the train carrying the Empress of Austria from Wiesbaden to Vienna yesterday was being shunted at Frankfort the last car left the rails and three cars were upset. The Empress and suite were shaken but nobody was injured except a footman.

Laid The Foundation Stone.

BELFAST, May 23.—Prince Albert Victor of Wales laid the foundation stone of the Albert bridge yesterday. An immense crowd attended the ceremony and the Prince was accorded an enthusiastic reception. The Prince and several officials made addresses.

Overcome by His Misfortunes.

BALTIMORE, May 23.—A policeman was standing under the Baltimore and Ohio trestle at Carey-street yesterday when he noticed an aged man sitting above him on the edge and in danger of falling and being killed. The policeman slipping up behind, caught the old man just as he was about to swallow "Rough-on-Rats," it being his intention to jump after taking the poison. At the station house he said his name was J. W. Randall, and that he had married and buried four wives and now his fifth wife, after getting in a religious discussion, had knocked him down with a tin pan and told him his second cousin John was dearer to her than he was. Overcome by his misfortunes he had resolved on suicide. He was locked up.

Heartless Cruelty.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—In compliance with a request from President Laughlin of the Board of Charities and Correction, Geo. W. Symonds, reporter of the Philadelphia Inquirer, who secured admission to the Insane Department of the Philadelphia Hospital and the County Almshouse and wrote up the institutions, yesterday made affidavit charging Keepers Joseph Marshall, Joseph Devlin and Joseph Williamson with assault and battery upon numerous patients of the institution. Warrants were issued for the arrest of the keepers. The hearing has been fixed for Wednesday next, when it is expected interesting revelations will be made.

Funeral of Major Cunningham.

AMELIASBURG, May 23.—The funeral of the late Major Cunningham, who was drowned on Friday last, took place yesterday and was largely attended. He was buried under the auspices of the A.O.U.W., of which he was a member. His remains were accorded military honors by the 16th Battalion, of which he was senior major. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Daw of Christ Church, Belleville. Among those present were Dr. Platt, M. P.; Lt.-Col. Bog of Picton, Lt.-Col. Lazier of Belleville, Major Lazier and Paymaster Ponton of Belleville.

Riotous Miners.

DR. CRONIN'S BODY FOUND

STUFFED INTO A SEWER IN A CHICAGO SUBURB.

Stark Naked But For a Towel About the Head—Terrible Wounds in the Skull—Mystery Follows Mystery.

CHICAGO, May 22.—The dead body of Dr. P. H. Cronin, the Irish-American who strangely disappeared from his home in Chicago two weeks ago, was found this evening some distance north of the city in a sewer in Evanston-avenue. A bloody towel was wrapped about the head. The rest of the body was stark naked. A Catholic emblem which the doctor wore next his skin suspended about his neck was untouched. On the dead man's head were a dozen deep cuts which had severed the scalp and indented the skull. It is the opinion of the police that Cronin was murdered by some man who could not bring himself to disturb a Catholic trinket. Laborers in the employ of the Lakeview suburban government have been cleaning the ditches along Evanston-avenue during the week. To-day as they neared a catch basin they noticed a strong smell of putrifying flesh and pried off the top of the basin and uncovered the body. It had apparently been hastily pitched into the basin for the head was underneath and the feet and legs were up in the opening. The place where the corpse was discovered is about 300 yards from the station of the Chicago (and Evanston branch of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad. It is but two or three blocks from the lake and nearly a mile north from where the blood stained trunk was found the day after Cronin's disappearance. It seems remarkable that it was not sooner discovered for the Lakeview police started to search all the catch basins in the suburb the week after the trunk was found. Old Maxwell of Lakeview, who was one of the searching committee, said the searchers worked 5 or 6 days, but stopped a few blocks from the basin in which the body was found.

The body was taken to the morgue and Cronin's friends were notified, and before midnight at least 40 had identified the body. Among these were Dr. Brandt, President of the Cook County Hospital staff, and Cronin's dentist. Dr. Brandt's examination showed over the left temple a cut 4 inches long through the scalp and into the skull, over the left parietal bone a cut 1 1-2 inches long which also marked the skull, also a cut 1 1-2 inches long over the frontal bone, and at the junction of the left parietal a cut 3 inches long.

A great hubbub was caused in the suburb by the finding of the corpse. The police had hard work to keep back the crowd who tried to enter the morgue to see the remains. The tumult continued far into the night. Woodruff, or Black, the prisoner who confessed to having helped carry off a trunk containing a corpse from a barn the night of Cronin's disappearance, manifested no discomposure when told that the body of Cronin was found. He talked freely but would not go outside the story he originally told.

WAS IT A MURDER?

The Body of an Unknown Man Found Floating in Hamilton Bay.

HAMILTON, May 22.—The body of an unknown man, apparently about 40 years old, was found floating in the bay this morning. There was a bad contusion on the top of the head and another on the back of the skull. A lady's card bearing the name "Lizzie Caldwell" was found in one pocket. For Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout. Stephen Lansing, of Yonkers, N. Y., says: "Recommended as a cure for chronic Costiveness, Ayer's Pills have relieved me from that trouble and also from Gout. If every victim of this disease would heed only three words of mine, I could banish Gout from the land. These words would be—'Try Ayer's Pills.'"

"By the use of Ayer's Pills alone, I cured myself permanently of rheumatism which had troubled me several months. These Pills are at once harmless and effectual, and, I believe, would prove a specific in all cases of incipient

THE VISITORS VICTORIOUS.

The University Team Win a Victory in the First Match of their Tour—The Home Team Play a Good Game but Fail to Hit the Leather—The way the Runs Were Made.

The chilly atmosphere and threatening sky no doubt kept a great many from witnessing the game of baseball which was played on the P. A. A. A. grounds yesterday afternoon, between a picked nine of local players and the team from Toronto University. However, there was a fair attendance, but an entire absence of the fair sex, no doubt not from any lack of enthusiasm in the game, but owing to the weather.

The result of the game was a victory for the 'Varsity boys by a score of 16 to 1. The score looks bad, but the game taken as a whole was not by any means a poor exhibition. The local nine played a good game in the field considering that they had never practised together, and some of them, including Cameron, had not practised this season. Billings caught a good game for the home team and Pearson at second played his position in excellent style, taking everyone of the many chances offered him. Burnon at centre also got under several difficult flys and held them. Cameron who was in the box for the first five innings did not do the execution he usually does for several good reasons. The rain that fell nearly all the time for the first four innings made the ball hard to control and besides this he had not had a single opportunity of practising since last season. Little who played third for the first five innings is a neat player and held down his bag in a professional style, while his effectiveness in the box is evidenced by the fact that in the last four innings the Toronto men failed to get around the diamond. The visitors are a fine team of ball tossers and play a very neat and clean game, but had Little been in the box for the home team from the first innings the game would have been a close one. It was not the weakness of the home team in the field, but their failure to find Bennett which left them so far behind. Everything considered the local players deserve credit for the showing they made. The score was as follows:—

HOW THE RUNS WERE MADE.

The visitors went to bat first. Senkler got his base on balls, stole second but was caught by Billings trying to purloin third. Garrett also trotted to his first on balls, stole second, got his third on a high throw to second and scored on a pass ball. D. Wardell got his first on balls, was advanced to third on H. Wardell's single and the two brothers both crossed the plate on Wright's three bagger. Shultz got his first on balls. Clarke struck out and McIntosh's single to centre field brought Wright and Schultz both home. Bennett got his first and stole second, but got no further as Senkler struck out. For the home team, Billings went to bat first and got to first on balls, stole second but was caught trying to get third in the same way. Pearson flyed to centre field and Turnbull struck to Senkler and got his base on a bad throw, but died there, being neatly caught away from the bag by Wardell.

In the second Garratt gave Moore a nice fly in the left field, but he did not accept it, and Garratt stole to third and scored on C. Wardell's single. H. Wardell got first on balls and Wright's high fly to centre which Burnon pulled down in good style sent him to third, as Burnon threw wild to first base. Schultz struck to the pitcher and went out at first, but H. Wardell scored. Clarke struck to Pearson who threw him out at first. In the Peterborough's half Cameron was given his first on balls, got his second on a pass ball, but stopped there as Burnon flyed to Senkler at third, Moore fouled to first base and Metheral struck to second and was retired at first.

In the third innings McIntosh got his first on balls, and Bennett's hot fly to first was captured by Metheral who also sent McIntosh in by holding the ball on first. Senkler got his base on balls and came in on Garratt's three-bagger. D. Wardell made a pretty single, as also did his brother, and Wright's two-bagger to the fence brought them home. Schultz struck to pitcher and was killed at first. Galley led for the home team in the third innings and struck to second base, but failed to reach first before the ball. Little got his first on balls, but never reached third, as Billings failed to find the sphere and Pearson struck to Senkler and went out at first.

In the fourth Clarke's long fly to centre was captured by Brennan. McIntosh made a nice single to left field, Bennett bunted to Little but got his first on Metheral's error, and scored on Senkler's bang to centre. Garratt was retired at first by Pearson and H. Wardell struck to Turnbull and died at first. The home team's half was short, Turnbull and Cameron struck out and Brennan went out at first, after hitting to second base.

In the fifth Little went into the box for the home team. Wright got his base on balls, stole second and third and scored on a pass ball. Schultz struck out, Clark made a single to left field, stole second and third and [illegible] on McIntosh's fly to first. Bennett flyed to Turnbull and the run-getting for the visitors was ended. Moore for the home team struck out. Metheral was thrown out at first and Galley struck out.

In the sixth Senkler was retired at first by Pearson's pretty fielding of his hot grounder, Garrett made a single, stole second but was caught at third and D. Wardell struck to Metherall and the visitors got their first duck. Little and Billings struck out a Peterborough's half and Pearson bunted to short but was thrown out at first.

In the seventh Wardell struck to Pearson and died at first, Wright sent Pearson a hot one which he also put to Metheral in fine style and Schultz struck to Metheral. Turnbull struck to short but did not get his first. Cameron struck out and Burnon tapped one to the pitcher and went out at first.

In the eighth Clark struck out, McIntosh sent one to Metheral and Senkler fanned the air three times and left Bennett on second. In this half the only mark in the run column was scored by Metheral. Moore got his base on balls but was caught at second by Metheral's grounder to short. Gally was struck out. Little was given first on balls and Metheral went to second, and a pass ball advanced both of them a bag nearer the plate. Then Billings made the only base hit of the day for the home club, and Metheral came home, but Little who tried to do likewise was caught by a pretty throw in by Wright.

In the last innings Garrett struck to pitcher and was killed on first. D. Wardell struck out and Wright harmlessly agitated the atmosphere three times and left H. Wardell on second. For the home team Pearson struck to short and went out at first, Turnbull got his base on balls but died stealing second and Cameron struck out.

The umpire, Mr. Smith, of Dundas, a delegate to the E B.A. Convention, came in for considerable abuse by outsiders, but he umpired an impartial game on the whole.

MEETING THE DEMANDS.

A Leading Furniture Firm Enlarge and Improve to Accommodate Their Business.

To every observant citizen the marked change that the last few years has seen in the furniture trade of this country must be patent, for who can look around on the elegant and extensive warerooms of our furniture dealers, filled, as they are, with a class of furniture which evidences that the change has certainly not been for the worse, and not be bound to admit this fact. The change has been brought about largely by two causes—an inclination on the part of the people generally for a better class of furniture and a praise-worthy desire on the part of the makers and dealers to meet the demand of the people and supply improved goods. As Canada has grown, the people have grown wealthier, education and culture have become more general, and as they have become more wealthy, educated and refined, the natural result to be expected is a demand for more luxurious, comfortable and artistic homes, and for these the appeal is directly to the furniture dealers and decorators. That this demand is being readily responded to is shown on all sides, and in no instance more so than that of Messrs. Craig & Mooney, corner of George and Brock-sts., a visit to whose commodious and handsome warerooms will emphasize these remarks.

In the first place the premises have been remodelled and added to, so that they are hardly recognizable as the same store of a few weeks ago. The corner of the front store has been torn out and rounded, while the door which formerly opened out on George-st. is now situated on the corner, while the entire thirty feet frontage is now plate glass, and a new plate glass window has been cut in the Brock-st. side of the building. This large glass front not only allows a very advantageous display of goods, but makes the interior of the store exceedingly well lighted which, in a furniture establishment is an important consideration to a customer. The floor of the front store which was always two or three feet higher than the sidewalk, has been lowered almost six feet from the front windows to the level of the street, thus making one of the most extensive and handsome show windows in town. This window was dressed for the first time today and is well worth a walk up town to see. It has been furnished complete with a handsome mahogany bedroom suite, including a pretty patch-work quilt on the bed, the pillows, chamber set, etc. The walls of the ware-room downstairs have been all newly papered, the stairs which were formerly in the front part of the store have been removed to the rear and the show room is in all particulars well adapted and commodious. Then up stairs, where formerly were the upholstering department and workshop, the partitions have been torn down, new windows cut, the walls papered, the ceiling decorated and the whole second storey made into a well-lighted and large ware-room, where the upholstered furniture will be shown. In these two warerooms the customer will see on every hand combinations of beauty and comfort, articles which will please the artistic eye and in which sweet rest can be found. Furniture of every description and for all classes, from the plain and cheaper to that combining luxurious comfort with refined elegance.

Then in rear of their warerooms a white-brick, two-storey addition, 24x35 feet, has been built, the lower storey of which will be used for a workshop, while the upper storey will be the upholstering department.

With their now handsome and commodious premises Messrs Craig & Mooney will be enabled and are carrying a much larger and more elegant stock of furniture than ever before, and their enterprise will undoubtedly reap its reward in an increased business.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Another Pitch-in—The Artists' Exhibit—The Aggravated Assault Case.

TORONTO, May 23.—At 11 a.m. yesterday a freight train coming from West Toronto Junction collided with a Guelph train backing up from the Union Station. The engineer of the freight reversed his engine. A collision, however, was unavoidable. The shunting engine was badly damaged, but all hands escaped uninjured.

The proposal of the Minister of Customs to impose a duty of 20 per cent. on sumac has evoked a protest from tanners and other persons interested. A deputation waited on the council of the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon to induce the board to take some action in the matter. Messrs. D. W. Alexander, R. W. Elliott, W. B. Hamilton and Robert Jeffrey were appointed a committee to petition the Government to refrain from imposing the tax.

The seventeenth annual exhibit of the Ontario Society of Artists was opened by the Lieutenant-Governor yesterday morning. Hon. G. W. Allen presided. Sir Alexander Campbell opened the exhibit. Such efforts towards excellence in art, he considered premature in Canada. He attributed the lack of encouragement given to Canadian art to the poverty of the country and spoke very much in favor of advancing mechanical drawing. The artists express considerable indignation at his honor's remarks.

"Private Detective" James McLaughlin and George Johnston were sent for trial by the Police Magistrate yesterday on the charge of committing an aggravated assault on William Cumming under circumstances detailed yesterday. The bail in each case was $300 in two sureties. This was forthcoming and the accused were liberated.

The Reservoir Burst.

LITTLETON, N. H., May 22.—The heavy rain of two nights caused the upper reservoir of the Littleton Water and Electric Light Company, situated 600 feet above the village, to burst Tuesday night. The reservoir covered about eight acres and the great body of water came tearing down Palmer Brook, gullying it into a large river bed, uprooting trees and piling up debris. The bridge at Mann's Hill road was destroyed and one family compelled to [illegible] for safety. One barn was [illegible] and a dwelling seriously damaged. An article in a valued exchange is headed, "Do you Read Advertisements." Well, about three times a week we are led into reading a thrilling account of something by an eye witness that tails off into a cake of soap or a bottle of bitters; but it is not our fault, and it isn't a means of spiritual growth or moral improvement. Canoe Regattas.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Otonabee Canoe Club was held last evening when considerable discussion arose over matters in connection with the club, but nothing definite was the outcome. Several new members were enrolled on the list and it was decided to hold a series of regattas during the season, probably every two or three weeks, the first one of which will come off on Friday, May 31st. There will be single and double canoe contests and an upset race. This it is expected will excite considerable interest as well as afford good sport.

Early Closing.

The business houses of George-st. are all falling in line in the early closing movement, the last to do so being the grocers and liquor dealers, and it has been remarked that it was about time. The following agreement has been signed and is now being carried out:—

Belleghem's Beneficence.

Does every young man consider the ultimate cost of marrying, take up house keeping and concurrent expenses. He doesn't. Probably not 5 per cent even consider the matter in that way. If he esteems his best girl enough—and generally he does—expense is a matter relegated to the future. But after the honeymoon comes the question of furnishing the house. Discusses it with his wife. She consults her mother. Friends have presented a few pieces but the bulk is to be bought. They bethink them of Belleghem. Belleghem's furnished the license that guaranteed the stability of the wedding. He further stands ready to furnish the house. No need to go to Belleghem and fancy you've to pay big prices. He is the friend and benefitter of the every day folks. You can't think of an article of furniture he can't supply. Hall, parlor, diningroom, bedroom and kitchen equipment all at hand, and if you haven't faith in your ability to select a coal or cook stove turn the job over to Belleghem and he'll do it fine. Go to Belleghem if you're looking for furniture, Belleghem of Peterborough, the furniture king.

A MINISTER ORDAINED.

MR. ORR BENNET SET APART TO PREACH THE GOSPEL.

Impressive Service in St. Paul's Church—Sermon by Rev. Alex. Bell—Address by Rev. E. F. Torrance.

Mr. Orr Bennet, B.A., son of the Rev. Wm. Bennet, of Springville, Clerk of the Peterborough Presbytery, was ordained as a minister of the Gospel last evening in St. Paul's church. Mr. Bennet is a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, and has chosen the mission of Minden as his field of labor.

There was a large congregation present. Rev. Alex. Bell presided, in accordance with the appointment of the Presbytery, and Rev. E F. Torrance, M.A., and Rev. Wm. Bennet were present. Rev. Mr. Bell conducted the opening exercises, which consisted of praying, singing and the reading of part of Matthew xxviii and Acts i.

THE SERMON.

Rev. Mr. BELL then preached the sermon, taking his text from I Timothy i, 2:—"The glorious Gospel of the blessed God." Paul, he said, was writing to Timothy warning him against the false doctrines of the times and calling upon him to use his influence and authority to restrain the false teachers. The law was right if used lawfully, and the Gospel was right if used rightly, and the law and the Gospel ought to be used harmoniously. The law showed sin and its punishment, and the Gospel showed God's mercy, so that while sin was condemned the sinner might escape. The law, which condemned sin and brought all men in guilty, was glorious, and how much more so the Gospel which showed how to escape the punishment. To understand the Gospel they must know, 1st, the condition in which the Gospel found them; 2nd, the provisons revealed through the Gospel to meet it, and, 3rd, God's appointed method by which they could appropriate those provisions. Their condition was one of alienation and sin. Man was made perfect in all the powers God had conferred upon him, but by disobedience he fell from that state and opened up the way for further sin. There rested on man the guilt of sin and of corruption, and in this condition of sin and of weakness he could not help himself. But Christ had died for him. Guilt and weakness was the burden that was holding them down. Every effort put forth by them resulted in confusion and jarring. Why were wordly things more attractive than religious things? Because there was something wrong within. They were alienated from the position which they ought to occupy. God must come to remove the guilt, if it was to be removed. While under the sense of weakness the message of love and mercy came—the Gospel of God—and it suited their needs. The provision God had made for them was such as would meet their case. They were guilty before the law and could not redeem themselves, but the Gospel came and told them of One who had taken away the cause of separation and who reconciled man to God. God provided a mediator—God in Christ reconciling the world into himself. God raised up One upon whom was laid the iniquity of all, and they had redemption through His blood. How Christ could atone for them was something planned by the wisdom of God. There was also provision made through the Holy Ghost to remove the weakness. The powers which under the natural state led to sin were renewed and led to good works, and while it was the natural desire before to draw away from God the desire now was to live close to Him. The preacher then referred to the means which God had presented and through which they were able to appropriate the provisions of the Gospel and partake of its benefits. Man left to himself could do nothing. Even repentance was a gift of God and loyal obedience could only come as fruits of faith and advantages of the atonement. God by His Spirit inclined man to accept the provisions made and by looking unto Christ guilt was removed and peace given. By yielding to the influence of the Spirit the heart was renewed. The remedy was Jesus Christ and His Spirit and to Him the glory must be given. This was the Gospel committed to the church to be preached unto the ends of the earth and to subdue the world.

THE ORDINATION.

After the singing of a hymn, Rev. Mr. Bell said they all knew why they were there. It was to set apart a young man, who had for years been in course of preparation, with full authority to preach the Gospel.

Mr. Orr Bennet was called forward and answered the prescribed questions.

The congregation bowed their heads while Mr. Bell engaged in prayer, and, the congregation being still in the attitude of devotion, the clergymen placed their hands on Mr. Bennet's head and Mr. Bell, in the name of the Presbytery, gave him authority to preach the Gospel and to administer the ordinances. This was followed by a prayer on behalf of the newly ordained minister. He was then taken by the hand and welcomed into the ministry.

ADDRESS TO THE YOUNG CLERGYMAN.

Rev. Mr. TORRANCE then addressed the newly ordained clergyman. It was, he said, with peculiar feelings he did so. He could not help thinking of the time, nearly thirteen years ago, when he was ordained in the same church and when his (Mr. Bennet's) father had addressed him. He read 2 Timothy iv., 1-2, and said that this was one of the pastoral epistles written by Paul in the latter part of his life. Other passages referring to a minister's duties were read. Paul constantly referred to the fact that he was a preacher of the Word. This Gospel was the preaching of Christ crucified—the grand theme of apostolic preaching. As all the prophecies converged towards the incarnation of Christ, so all His life converged towards the sacrifice He made for their sins. While this was the great theme, he would not say that other cognate subjects should not be dealt with in the pulpit, but they must only be given their relative importance. God had ordained that the Word should be made known to man by man, and some were set apart for that purpose. A Christian minister was required to be a hard student. Primarily he must study the Bible—it was to a preacher what the heavens were to an astronomer—yet he ought to be a cultivated and widely read man. It was true that God had used uneducated men, but it was a fact that those who had exercised the widest influence were learned men, and if there ever was an age when such men were needed it was the present. While he must have a mind well furnished, he must have his heart right—he must be living in communion with Christ and anointed with His Spirit. He referred to the motives which should actuate a minister to be instant in and out of season. Their hearts desire for Him, he said to Mr. Bennet, was that he should be able to carry out the apostolic injunctions, and at the end of his course be able to say with the apostle, "I have fought the good fight."

Hymn No. 290 was sung, Rev. Wm. Bennet pronounced the benediction and the impressive and interesting ceremony was over.

After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we issue our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. TO-MORROW'S PROGRAMME.

A Varied List of Attractions to Choose From—The Lacrosse Team.

To-morrow will be the seventieth anniversary of the birth of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, and Peterborough will not be behind in the loyal celebration of the day. The programme is a varied one so that no person need complain of having no way to spend the day.

THE SOLDIERS AND ATHLETES.

The 57th Battalion and the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association have combined in the celebration of the anniversary and have arranged a good programme of sports on the Association grounds. The first event will be a baseball match on the grounds between the Campbellford team and the association team. The game will be called at 9.30 sharp and it is expected that the spectators will be given a good exhibition of ball-playing. Then at half-past eleven the 57th will parade from the drill shed and proceed to the Association grounds, where the time until twelve o'clock will be utilized in performing military evolutions, and at twelve sharp a feu-de-joie will be fired.

After dinner, commencing at 1:30, a lengthy and interesting programme of athletic sports will be carried out, for which valuable prizes are offered. There will be running, jumping, bicycle races, foot races, the memorable menagerie race, climbing the greasy pole, etc., and there will be sport and excitement for all who attend.

THE FIREMEN'S ENTERPRISE.

In the evening the firemen have had the enterprise to arrange for a grand pyrotechnic display by Prof. Palmer in the P. A. A. A. grounds. This will be the most brilliant display of fireworks ever witnessed in Peterborough, and this opportunity will undoubtedly be appreciated and well patronized, as it should be.

AT THE DRIVING PARK.

On the Driving Park in the afternoon Mr. John Newhall has prepared a programme of sports which promises to be of a novel and attractive character. There will be a carters' race, a novelty race and there will also be a mixed trotting race, in which a number of good horses will start.

THE LACROSSE MATCH.

At two o'clock in the afternoon on Riverside Park the Riversides will play their first lacrosse match of the season with the Torontos. This is a strong team, and as the Riversides have been practising hard, a good game may be looked for. The local team will be composed as follows:—

J. Phelan	Goal
J. Joyal	Point
C. Rose	Cover Point
D. Burnon	1st Defence Field
T. Meagher	2nd Defence Field
M. Halpin	3rd Defence Field
W. Hendren	Centre

Our Spring Poem.

Where are you going to, my pretty maid?
I'm going to the cricket ground, sir, she said.
What are you going for, my pretty maid?
I'm going to see the 57th Batt. and P. A. A. A.
Having a high old time, sir, she said.
When will they have it, my pretty maid?
To-morrow, at 1.30 o'clock sharp, sir, she said.
What will they do there, my pretty maid?
Why, they'll have races, tugs of war,
Menagerie races, jumping and all
Kinds of athletic sports, sir, she said.
Do you advise me to go? says I. I do, says she.

THE BANQUETTING HALL.

ONE HUNDRED IRISHMEN GATHER AROUND THE FESTIVE BOARD.

The Delegates to the E. B. A. Convention Tendered a Complimentary Banquet—The Toasts and Responses—A Good Sprinkling of Songs.

There was a grand gathering of Irishmen at the Balmoral Hotel last night, when the local branch of the Emerald Benevolent Association tendered a complimentary banquet to the delegates who are here attending the annual convention of the Ontario Branch of the Association. It was after half-past nine when the delegates the members of St. Peter's Branch, No. 21, and their friends to the number of about one hundred filed into the spacious dining room of the Balmoral and took their seats around the festive Board, which had been tastefully laden with tempting viands and toothsome delecacies, and presented a very attractive and pleasing appearance. The menu which mine host Cavanagh placed before his guests was an elaborate and tempting one, and the praises of the host and hostess were on the lips of each and every one who partook of the bountiful repast. Prof. Doucet's orchestra was present and while the assembled Irishmen and their friends were busy with the knife and fork, the air was filled with Irish national airs and other enlivening selections, which had a happy effect upon the gathering, awakening in all an enthusiasm which prevailed undiminished until the last toast had been honored.

THE TOAST LIST.

Dr. McGrath presided at the head of the board, while seated on his right hand was Grand President Crotty, of Hamilton, and on his left President Lee, of the local branch. When all had discussed the good things provided to his individual satisfaction, the Chairman said he would not prefix the toast list with any remarks but would proceed at once to propose the first toast on the lengthy list, "The Queen" which was duly honored, and then Mr. Crotty, of Hamilton, sang "God Save Ireland." He was enthusiastically assisted in the chorus by all present and sat down amid great applause.

The second toast proposed and drank was "The Canadian Parliament," to which Councillor Cahill made a brief but good-natured and appropriate reply, in which he referred to the local members as able representatives and to the Dominion Parliament. He said during the late session of the House a debate had taken place which was an honor to the House and which had been decided to the satisfaction of them all and according to the constitution.

Messrs. Dunn and Tierney then sang "Larboard Watch" in excellent voice and were uproariously applauded, but failed to respond to the unanimous demand for an encore.

Then followed "The Mayor and Corporation," which was duly acknowledged by Councillor Kelly in a few happy remarks.

THE EMERALDS.

Mr. P. Ahern then rendered a patriotic Irish song, after which the toast of "The Emerald Beneficial Association" was proposed and drank. Mr. Carey, of Toronto, made a very neat response, in the course of which he said he had attended many grand conventions and sat around many a festive board, but he had never felt so proud as he was to sit around that festive board with the brethren of Peterborough. He spoke in terms of eulogy of the local branch and of the people of the town, who, he said, had extended to them true Irish hospitality. He then spoke of the Association and its work, saying that it had a grand future, in which every Catholic young man should take a part, for why should they not as Catholics take a place on the public platform and show those who thought they had no rights as Catholics that they had rights and were willing to share the profit and loss of the country. There were many other reasons why the Association should exist, and one in particular was the literary aspect, and he pointed out that every branch should have a library to allow the young men to study those books which were of the most interest to them. Peterborough's late Bishop, now in Hamilton, had sent a letter wishing the Emeralds success, and the administrator of the archdiocese of Toronto had also written stating that the Society had his heartfelt sympathy, and so, he said, they had the support of the clergy, and if the Association was not a success it would be the fault of the members themselves. In closing he thanked all whom he and his colleagues had met in Peterborough for their kind reception, and said he hoped they would always be able to look back upon their gathering with the rembrance that it was an honor to Catholicity. Mr. Carey sat down amid great applause.

Mr. J. J. McCauley, of Toronto, then gave the "Gems of Ireland" in good voice.

SISTER SOCIETIES.

"The Guests of the evening" was then honored and responded to by Mr. J. Smith, of Dundas, in a few brief remarks, and then Mr. John O'Brien favored the gathering with "The Irishman's Toast."

"Our Sister Societies" was followed by "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" by the gathering, and was eloquently responded to by Mr. John O'Meara in a felicitious manner on behalf of the Catholic Mutual Benevolent Association, which he said could very appropriately be called the sister society of the Emerald Beneficial Association. He referred to the duties of the Emerald Association in attending the sick and burying the dead, and then he said the Catholic Benevolent Association stepped into the breach and succored the widow and fatherless children. There were other Associations, such as the National League on behalf of which he might speak, but he would welcome them as a member of the Supreme Council of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association and the local branch of the Emerald Society.

The toast of "the Learned Professions" was next proposed and duly honored in a neat and happy speech by Mr. L. M. Hayes.

"The Army and Navy" brought Capt. Brennan, M. D., to his feet and in a patriotic and happy strain he sounded the praises of the Canadian militia, of which he said they should all be proud and support, and if the day should come, and he hoped it never would, when Canada would be called upon to take her place among the nations of the world he hoped that Irishmen and sons of Irishmen would be ready to nail the Canadian flag to the staff and keep it there.

Mr. J. P. Dunn then gave "Tipperary" in an inimitable manner and brought down the house.

"Our Mercantile and Manufacturing Industries of Canada" was honored in an able speech by Mr. Geo. Ball, in which he spoke of Canada's manufactories and pointed out that Canada should and would take a prominent place in the world as a manufacturing country in the hands of a people such as were in Canada.

Mr. Thos. Dunn then sang "Let Us Speak of a Man as We Find Him," and was enthusiastically applauded.

The Grand President, Mr. Crotty, responded to the toast of "the Town of Peterborough" in a rattling speech, congratulating the local brethren upon their beautiful town and speaking in glowing terms of the convention now in session here.

THANKS.

"The Ladies" was honored by Mr. J. J. Sheehy in a happy vein, after which Dr. McGrath was requested to vacate the chair in favor of Grand President Crotty, when Mr. Carey, of Toronto, moved, seconded by Mr. Jamieson, of Hamilton, a resolution of thanks on behalf of the delegates to the Convention, to the members of the Peterborough branch of the association, to the gentlemen present, and to the host and hostess for their hospitality and kindness that evening.

The Grand President then presented the resolution to the chairman of the gathering, who responded in a few well chosen remarks.

The host, Mr. Cavanagh, was ably represented by Mr. John O'Meara, who in a bright little speech thanked the gentlemen for the kind expressions of praise in referring to Mr. Cavanagh.

The gathering then broke up shortly after midnight, after having spent a very pleasant evening.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Young Lady Injured by a Runaway Accident.

This afternoon at about two o'clock Miss White, daughter of the Rev. Wm. White, who resides at No. 42 Albert-st., met with a serious accident. Mr. Patrick Grady was driving down George-st. with his new hack, and Miss White was some distance ahead in a buggy. Mr. Grady had a new team which he was trying, and had on a new set of harness. The tugs were buckled too short, and as he pulled up to let a man out, the horses heels were struck and the animals plunged forward. Miss White heard the noise and, looking back, pulled a line, but unfortunately pulled her horse across the road. The hack team jumped into the buggy, which was overturned. Miss White was thrown out and the hack and horses passed over her and the buggy.

When the young lady was picked up she was covered with mud, and was evidently suffering, but was conscious. She was carried into Mr. Andrew McNeil's, in front of whose residence the accident happened, and Dr. King was summoned by telephone and was promptly in attendance. There was an injury to the joint of the right hip and her back was injured, but the extent of these injuries and of the internal injuries could not be measured, though there evidently were internal injuries. Miss White was a short time after placed on Mr. Comstock's van and conveyed home.

The buggy in which the young lady was riding was completely wrecked—smashed into pieces. None of the horses were injured.

THURSDAY, MAY 23, 1889.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c., &c.

But Sebastiano was addressing the President of the games. He extended his glittering sword, and made his announcement in a clear, rich voice. Pepita listened as he spoke. And then the most thrilling excitement of the sport began. It was no child's play Sebastiano had before him. The fierce black bull glaring at him with bent head and fiery eyes, uttering low muttering bellowings of rage, as he tore at the earth throwing up the dust in a cloud, was a foe worthy of his mettle. He was a bull with vicious points and treacherous ones; already goaded to fury by the play of the picadors and banderillos, he must be watched, studied, excited, baffled; not one of his movements must be lost or even regarded as trifling—wariness, quickness, magnificent daring, the subtlest fore-thought, all were needed. What play it was—what a match between brute cunning, power and ferocity, and human courage, adroitness and calculation. The brilliant, graceful figure, was scarcely a moment in repose; it leaped and darted, the bright cloak waving, inviting, the bright sword glittering in the sun—it toyed with death and peril, evading both with an exultant grace and swiftness marvellous to behold and rousing the onlookers to shouts of joy and triumph. Even old Jovita wakened to a touch of fire which seemed like a renewal of her long past youth. Jose and Manuelo joined their cries with the rest. Pepita felt again—yes, more than once—that sudden throb and thrill.

And when at last the end was reached, with what a superb spring the last splendid blow was given. No need for a second—the bull staggered, shuddered, fell forward upon his knees, and upon his side. Sebastiano stood erect, a brilliant, careless, triumphant figure again, the air resounding with deafening applause.

"You have seen him," cried Manuelo to Pepita, "you have seen Sebastiano?"

"Yes," she answered, a little breathlessly, "I have seen him."

And even as she spoke she knew that he had seen her; he knew it even before Manuelo spoke again in great excitement.

"He looks this way—he looks at us—at you."

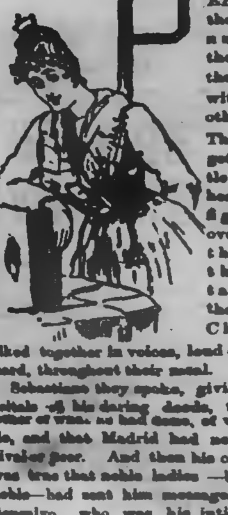
It was quite true. Something had attracted his attention to the tier of seats in which they sat, some cry—who knows what?—perhaps some subtle magnetic influence. He turned his head with a quick movement, and his eyes fell and fastened themselves instantly upon the brilliant little face glowing like some bright flower among those humbler and less blooming.

"He looks at you, Pepita," said Jose.

"He looks at you and at Jovita," Pepita answered. And she laughed and turned her face away.

But not before Sebastiano had seen it well. It was Fate. Yes, he knew that. He had been loved often; he had had romantic adventures, but it had always been he who had received and the others who had given; he had always remained Sebastiano, the hero, the adored. And now he stood and looked at a little head half concealed by a fan, and forgot for a moment where he was and that the people were still shouting their applause in deafening tumult.

CHAPTER II.



PEPPITA and the others, Manuelo with them, ended their gala day with still another festivity. They dined together at a little cafe, and heard the bull fight fought over again by those around them. At a table near them sat three Chulos, who talked together in voices, loud enough to be heard, throughout their meal. And it was of Sebastiano they spoke, giving dramatic recitals of his daring deeds, telling each other of what he had done, of what he could do, and that Madrid had never seen his rival or peer. And then his conquests. It was true that noble ladies—beautiful and noble—had sent him messages and tokens. Gonzalvo, who was his intimate friend could tell many things if he chose. Sebastiano had brilliant triumphs. Once he had even been in great danger because the woman who loved and sought him was of such rank that relatives would have resorted to the stiletto rather than allow her infatuation to continue.

"But it is said truly that he had no love for her—that he has little for any of them," said one. "They run after him too much, these women!"

"But there was one to-day——" began one of the others. "I heard it of Alfonso—he saw her at the bullfight—Sebastiano—and tried to find out——"

JIM AND BEN ARE OUT.

Three U. S. Cabinet Officers Said to Have Tendered Their Resignations.

BROOKLYN, May 22.—The Eagle's Washington special says: "It is learned on undoubtable authority that at yesterday's Cabinet meeting three Cabinet officers tendered to the President their resignations, to take effect at once if certain changes were not made. Secretary Blaine delivered an ultimatum to the effect if he could not be permitted to have same latitude in the conduct of the State Department he must positively decline to remain in his present position any longer. Secretary Proctor, endorsed all Mr. Blaine had said and declared that his resignation would follow Mr. Blaine's. Secretary Windom did not go quite so far but assisted the other members in their efforts to convince the President that Cabinet officers must be heads of their departments in deed as well as in name. He said he would not afford to remain in a mere clerical position.

"The cause of the outbreak was the indisposition of the President to make certain appointments desired by Secretaries Blaine, Windom and Proctor. They have spent much time trying to have several recommendations approved and yesterday the President turned down several of the proposals and announced [illegible] he was going to do the [illegible]. [illegible] the least doubt has existed here for several days that Blaine's days in the Cabinet were numbered."

SETTLING IN MANITOBA.

An Exodus From the States — A Farmer Struck by Lightning.

WINNIPEG, May 22.—Over 100 families from the States have settled in Manitoba during the past six months and a [illegible] from Kansas is now here seeking land for himself and neighbors, they being dissatisfied with their present location.

Farmer Howkes of Caron, near Moose Jaw, was killed by lightning last night while milking a cow.

Engineer Farling of Minneapolis has been engaged to report on the water-power here.

A survey party started to-day to locate the proposed C.P.R. extension into the Souris coal fields.

White men living in St. Peter's Indian reserve near Selkirk have been ordered off.

Fred M[illegible], barrister, of Cobourg, Ont., died yesterday after a brief illness at Calgary where he had just arrived with the intention of practising his profession.

Coal mining is reported brisk at Canmore.

The Flour Output.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 22.—The Northwestern Miller says: The flour output last week was the heaviest since last November. The aggregate production was 113,000 barrels against 94,070 the week before and 170,000 for the corresponding time in 1888. This week the daily output is about 2000 barrels lighter. The falling off in the demand for flour has been quite appreciable since about Friday, as an effect of lower wheat, and trade at present is very slow, prices occupying a lower range and being unsettled. The direct exports of flour for the week were 24,170 barrels against 35,000 barrels the preceding week. There were 461,990 bushels of wheat received for the week ending May 21. The shipments were: Wheat 160,000 bushels, flour 112,243 barrels, mill stuff 3070 tons.

Time Given The Mail to Plead.

MONTREAL, May 22.—A motion was made before Judge Wurtele in Chambers to-day by the attorneys for the defendant in the Jesuits-Mail case, asking that delay be granted for pleading to the merits of the action until September next, when the appeal from the judgment on exception to form will come up. The motion was granted.

"AGE CANNOT WITHER HER," remarked an old gentleman, as he gazed fondly upon the comely little woman by his side; "but frankly," he continued, "at one time I was afraid cosmetics would. The silly little woman, in order to appear youthful, plastered her face with different varieties of whitewash, yclept 'balms,' 'creams,' 'lotions,' etc." "Yes," interrupted the little woman, "I did, until my skin became like parchment and as pimply and coarse." "Well," said the listener, "What do you use now?" "Use," was the reply, "nothing but common sense and Dr. [illegible]'s Golden Medical Discovery. Common [illegible] told me that if my blood was pure, liver active, appetite and digestion good, that the outward woman would take on the hue of health. The 'Discovery' did all those things and actually rejuvenated me." If you would possess a clear, beautiful complexion, free from blotches, pimples, eruptions, yellow spots and roughness, use the "Golden Medical Discovery." It is guaranteed to do all that it is claimed to, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

WHOSE WAS THE FINGER?

A REPORTER'S STARTLING DISCOVERY.

The Catch Basin Where Cronin's Body Was Found Gives Up a Member Severed From a Human Hand.

CHICAGO, May 24.—Wm. B. Hotchkiss, a reporter for The Inter-Ocean, did a little police work last night on his own account. The result may be the disclosure that another person beside Cronin was murdered.

Hotchkiss found that the suburban police had neglected to search the catch basin where Cronin's body was found, after removing the corpse. The newspaper man undertook the work himself. In the bottom of the sewer basin, concealed in the water, he found a bloody towel exactly similar to the one that was wrapped about Cronin's head. Further groping brought up a single human finger. The member was decomposed and it was impossible to determine whether it was a man's or a woman's. Probabilities favor the idea that it was the finger of a male.

Recollections of Woodruff's confession as to a woman's body were revived by the discovery. The woman's body, Woodruff said, had been cut up into small pieces and the finding of the finger is pretty generally taken as a possible corroboration of the prisoner's strange story. It is certain that the finger is not from the hand of Dr. Cronin.

THE MYSTERY DEEPENED.

Doctors Cannot Agree as to the Cause of Cronin's Death.

CHICAGO, May 24.—A post-mortem examination of Dr. Cronin's body was made yesterday. The doctors found no signs of suffocation or strangling, and could not agree as to the cause of death, although all were of opinion that Cronin might have been killed by the blow at the outer corner of his left eye. Even this blow was not hard enough to fracture or splinter the bones. The mystery of the case is thus deepened. The funeral will take place Sunday. Cronin's brother John arrived from Arkansas yesterday and positively identified the body.

A Bloodstained Floor.

CHICAGO, May 24.—The police are guarding a vacant cottage in Lakeview which was rented shortly before Dr. Cronin's death but has not been occupied since. A reporter gained entrance this morning and discovered blood stains on the front parlor floor, in the corner of the back parlor, in the hallway and on the front steps. The steps were saturated with blood, although the murderers evidently made an effort to wipe away the evidence of the crime. The parlor floor is covered with bloody marks. The floor is daubed with brown paint and it can be plainly seen that the job was done in a hurry. But the murderers did not succeed in completely covering up the life blood of Dr. Cronin.

Half a Million for Cornell.

NEW YORK, May 24.—A despatch from Ithaca says it has been announced that in the event of the final loss of the McGraw-Fiske suit, involving $1,500,000 bequeathed to the Cornell University library, Henry W. Sage would pay for the splendid library building, to cost over $200,000, on which work has begun. In addition to standing the cost of the building, Mr. Sage offers, if the suit is lost, to give the library an endowment of $300,000. If the McGraw-Fiske suit is won, as is confidently expected, Mr. Sage's $500,000 will probably go to the university for other purposes.

Is Blaine After Hayti?

NEW YORK, May 24.—The Herald's Washington special says: "General Wallace and ex-Consul Packard have been selected as two of the three commissioners to go to Hayti and use their influence to secure a peaceable settlement of the trouble there and the establishment of a government which can maintain peace and order. The commissioners will ascertain where on the Haytian end of the Island of San Domingo there is a good harbor for a coaling station and will endeavor to secure from the Haytian Government the use of such a port for that purpose."

Bones of a Pre-historic Race.

WATERLOO, Ia., May 24.—Professor Webster of Charles C[illegible] has just opened five mounds near Brad[illegible]d, Chickasaw County. He found in them thirteen fairly well preserved skeletons. The skulls of all of them showed the same characteristics of low development that were shown by the skeletons near Floyd. Professor Webster is of opinion that there was quite a population in the Upper Cedar Valley in pre-historic times.

A $100,000 Embezzler.

NEW HAVEN, May 24.—John C. Bradley, cashier of the Merchants' National Bank, is said to have been under the surveillance of officers at his residence in Fair Haven since yesterday afternoon. He is charged with embezzlement of the bank's funds. The shortage may reach $100,000. It is said Bradley and C. W. Palmer for years discounted notes without the knowledge of the directors. Palmer has been arrested here.

The C.P.R.'s Application.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has applied to the Treasury Department to be bonded as a common carrier between ports of the United States. The application has been referred to the Solicitor of the Treasury.

Charged with Murder.

GEORGETOWN, May 24.—Constables Pope and Search arrested to-day Thomas Brigham and his wife on a charge of being accessories to the murder of the infant child of Annie Brigham.

Murdered His Brother-in-Law.

FORREST CITY, Ark., May 24.—J. T. Ellis was to have eloped with a girl Wednesday night and married her, but his brother-in-law, Frank Sherman, upset his plans. Yesterday Ellis shot and killed Sherman. Ellis escaped.

Suicide at Sea.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Henry Tydeman of England, a passenger on the City of Rome from Liverpool, jumped overboard and was drowned May 17. The cause is unknown.

THE ACTOR'S LITTLE GUN.

HE SHOOTS AT HIS BOSS IN A TORONTO THEATRE.

Manager Cleveland of the Minstrels Narrowly Escapes a Sudden Death—A Sensational Scene.

TORONTO, May 25.—One of the most sensational shooting affairs for a long time took place in the Grand Opera House last night, when Edward Stowe, one of the Haverly-Cleveland minstrels, attempted to shoot Mr. W. S. Cleveland, who is the owner and manager of the business. It was at 8.20, when the house was so filled that a couple of hundred people were glad to get standing room, and the show had just commenced. Stowe should have been on the stage as one of the tambo men in the opening part, but he wasn't.

Mr. Cleveland was standing in the lobby when Stowe came in and commenced abusing. Cleveland told him to go away or he would have to call a policeman, and then started into the theatre, getting as far as the passage at the back of the seats. Stowe followed him and was heard to remark, "I'll put a bullet through your heart!"

Doorkeeper Fred Felitz heard this and rushed forward, only to be threatened by Stowe, who pointed the revolver at Felitz, whereupon the latter retreated. Stowe was standing in the carpeted passage between the main lobby and the theatre proper, while Mr. Cleveland was inside. Using some bad language he drew a revolver from his hip pocket and fired at Cleveland, who had his back turned. One of the Japanese members of the company, who was standing in the passage, saw Stowe reach for his gun and called out to Cleveland, who ducked his head just as the bullet—if there was one—escaped him. Cleveland turned and promptly collared Stowe, from whom he snatched the revolver, but Stowe grabbed it again and in getting it away lacerated Cleveland's hand. Policeman David McKee, who was on duty outside the theatre, was called in and arrested Stowe, whom he took to Police Headquarters, but not without some vigorous resistance.

On his way to the station Stowe told the officer that he had fired at Cleveland and was sorry he had not shot the ——'s head off, as he had fully intended to do. At the station the prisoner described himself as "Edward Stowe, aged 23, actor, New Orleans." He expressed great regret that he had to abandon a bull dog, which he had left in the theatre. Mr. Cleveland followed close on the heels of the prisoner, and handed to Inspector Stephen the weapon he had taken from Stowe. It is a 44-calibre Remington and contained an unexploded blank cartridge and an exploded cartridge. The question which is puzzling the police is whether the second cartridge was blank like the unexploded one. The pistol is one used on the stage and is generally filled with bulletless cartridges. But in this instance, from the fact that the exploded and unexploded cartridges differ in kind, it is suspected that the exploded one contained something besides powder.

From his language both to Policeman McKee, who arrested him, and while in the station, it would seem—at least so think the police—that Stowe meant mischief. A search has been commenced for the bullet, as since it escaped Cleveland it must have found a billet somewhere. Should the charge of intent to kill fall through a second one of having unlawful possession of property belonging to Manager Cleveland may be preferred against him.

A reporter saw Mr. Cleveland, who who said that the whole affair arose out of Stowe's bad temper. Stowe, he said, had been with the company for two seasons and had been picked up with a couple of others at New Orleans, where the shooter had been a bill poster. "But," said Mr. Cleveland, "he has been a constant source of annoyance. His shooting business to-night was not caused by drink but by his bad temper. He always wanted to fight everyone in the company, and when he had a row with any of them he would come to me. The fellow first met me in the lobby and asked me to pay him up and he'd quit, as he often had threatened before. He also accused me of having opened a telegram to him which I never saw. He has been a constant source of trouble, but still I put up with him, while he would continually quarrel. He had some trouble in Vicksburg this season with the police and I think that he pulled a revolver there. As to whether the revolver that he used last night was loaded or not I cannot say, but even if it wasn't it was a gun that he and others have occasion to use on the stage, and if filled with a wad it would make a bad hole in a fellow's body. One of my company was hit with such a wad this season and it went through his trousers and into his leg almost to the bone."

Captain John Cummings of the stonehooker Elizabeth Ann reported to the police late last night that a mulatto named Charles Addison, aged about 25, had been drowned at about 11 o'clock by falling off the boat at the foot of West Market-street. The captain was going down George-street when he was met by a man named Tiny Palmer, who said that he and Addison had been on the boat. Palmer was going below when he heard a splash. Rushing up he saw Addison in the water. He held a pole out to the unfortunate man, who grasped it and then let go and sank. There had been some drinking and Addison was full.

An unsuccessful search was made for the body. To-day Esplanade Constable Williams will grapple for it. Addison was to have commenced work to-day on the Elizabeth Ann. He was well known in the colored quarters of St. John's Ward and had been in the hands of the police more than once.

The person of Mr. "E. J. Dunning, commission merchant, Room 4, 23 Toronto-street," as the directory states, is urgently wanted in Toronto both by the police and by several creditors. Mr. Dunning is charged with having done some crooked work in the matter of discounting notes which were found to be worthless. He came here ostensibly from New York about six months ago and opened a broker's office in the Union Loan Building, Toronto-street.

The chief complainant is Mr. G. H. Smith, barrister, 28½ Victoria-street, who had several dealings with Dunning in the way of loaning him money upon notes. They had many transactions and Smith was not always satisfied with Dunning's ways. Dunning had been given about $9000 worth of notes of the Rankin River Lumber Co., a company which was never incorporated and never existed although it was intended to be the name of a company that had arranged with Contractor McGann to supply 50,000 ties for the G. T. R. at about $12,000. He was given these notes to negotiate but the company did not continue and their solicitor notified Dunning to return the paper. He partly did this and spread some of the notes around. Mr. Smith says that Dunning first came to him, introduced by a mutual friend, and he lent him $[illegible] on a Rankin note for $1500. Dunning assigned to Smith a contract between the Rankin River Lumber Co., acting by W. P. Keating, and Dunning, for the delivery of 50,000 railway ties. Dunning later told Mr. Smith that he was negotiating for the purchase of a store in Queen-street west and for the sum of $[illegible] would assign $2000 of Rankin River notes and give a second mortgage on the property, but this didn't please Mr. Smith. Again Dunning called and said he wanted $[illegible] for a couple of days and got it, leaving the notes as security. This amount was not repaid as promised and Dunning afterwards called and got possession of the notes, saying that he could get $1500 on them and so be able to pay Smith off. This proved unsatisfactory.

But Mr. Smith claims that he is out $1[illegible] on account of money lent to Dunning and all he holds as security is a Rankin River note for $1500 and four others aggregating $[illegible], which he regards as worthless. There is a suit pending in the matter.

Mr. H. E. Caston, solicitor for the Rankin River Lumber Co., was seen and stated that a few parties had proposed forming a company of such a name with a view to supplying the ties mentioned and Dunning was given the notes to negotiate. But they changed their minds and Dunning was notified to return the paper at once, some of which he did hand over. The notes, said Mr. Caston, never had any legal value.

The office occupied by Dunning in the Union Loan building is owned by John Stark & Co., brokers, who on Thursday took possession of the place. Mr. Dunning was in the Police Court on May 13, charged with fraudulently appropriating two notes for $[illegible] and $[illegible], the property of J. A. McKenzie, but in this he was honorably acquitted by the magistrate, there being no evidence of fraud, and Dunning producing a receipt from McKenzie showing that he had paid $[illegible] for the notes. However, there is a warrant out for his arrest and the detectives are looking for him; the warrant is sworn to by a man named [illegible], who claims to have been defrauded out of some money.

Some of Dunning's friends say that he will turn up in a few days and that all the existing trouble will be settled, negotiations to that effect being in progress. But no one will say whether he is away or is in seclusion in the city.

One of the many events of yesterday, and one which was as unusual as it was pleasing, was the unveiling of the statue of the late Rev. Egerton Ryerson, D.D., LL.D., the founder of the school system of Ontario. In the front of the Normal School building, which was the scene of much of his labor, and facing Bond-street there now stands a bronze likeness of the man to whom Ontario owes a lasting debt of gratitude for having established what is perhaps the grandest school system in the world.

At 2 o'clock yesterday there was a gathering of about a thousand people, ladies and gentlemen, chiefly those interested in educational work. The Union Jack floated from the tower of the building, while in front was the handsome and lifelike statue in bronze covered with the Canadian flag and placed upon a pedestal of polished and rough granite, the whole being 20 feet high, the figure alone being 9 feet 6 inches.

The Minister of Education paid a glowing eulogy to the memory of Rev. Dr. Ryerson and reviewed his grand work in the most felicitous of terms, as indeed did all the speakers that followed, the common theme being that Ontario's grand educational system was even a better monument than bronze and granite. Mr. Ross in his address gave some very interesting figures. When in 1844 Dr. Ryerson entered upon his duties as Superintendent of the Common Schools of Upper Canada there were [illegible] schools with an attendance of [illegible] and a revenue of only $[illegible]. When he retired in 1876 there were [illegible] schools with [illegible] pupils and a revenue of $3,273,[illegible]. In this period the high schools increased from [illegible] to 104, the pupils from [illegible] to 8541 and the revenue from $[illegible] to $304,912. "The man," said Mr. Ross, "was as great if not greater than the opportunity," and applause followed. The work that he did was wonderful and for 30 years he labored with pen and brain to carry out his idea.

The Minister of Education then called upon the Lieutenant-Governor to do the unveiling. Sir Alexander in a few words said that no governor of this province had been called upon to perform a more pleasant duty. He gracefully pulled the cord that hauled the flag from the statue and amid applause the beautiful work of art was revealed. Mr. Ross next presented the sculptor, Mr. Hamilton McCarthy, to His Honor, who congratulated the artist upon his work.

ALL THE PASSENGERS INJURED.

A Railway Train Pitches Over an Embankment—No Deaths Reported

ST. LOUIS, May 24.—The west bound train on the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad which left St. Louis last night at 8.15 was wrecked three miles from Sullivan, Mo. Not a passenger escaped unhurt and 45 are known to have been seriously injured though no deaths are reported. The train was running at a high rate of speed when suddenly, without warning, the track gave way and the locomotive, baggage car and five coaches went over the embankment.

AT MONTREAL AND BERLIN.

Toronto's Two Crack Regiments Enjoying Themselves on Their Annual Vacation.

MONTREAL, May 24.—The Queen's Own arrived from Toronto at 9 o'clock this morning and marched to the ferry, landing at the foot of Jacques Cartier-square, where they embarked for St. Helen's Island. Breakfast was served in a large tent. The regiment returned to the city and took part in the military review on Fletcher's Field. Over 3000 participated, the brigade being under command of Gen. Middleton. These battalions took part: Montreal Field Battery, Montreal Troop of Cavalry, Prince of Wales' Rifles, Victoria Rifles, Royal Scots, Sixth Fusiliers, the Sixty-fifth Batt., the Governor-General's Body Guard of Ottawa, the Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto.

The features of the review were the feu-de-joie and the march past.

After the review the entire brigade crossed over to St. Helen's Island and had dinner. This evening was given up to merry-making and sight-seeing.

To-morrow morning will be spent by the regiment practising drill on the island, principally the new attack formation. In the afternoon the commanding officers and the officers of the Queen's Own will hold an "At Home," for which 1500 invitations have been sent out. On Saturday night the officers of the Queen's Own will be dined by the officers of the Vics. On Sunday morning the Queen's Own will have a church parade at the camp.

The Grens at Berlin.

BERLIN, May 24.—This bustling little town was in its glory to-day, and the Royal Grenadiers of Toronto received an enthusiastic reception from the citizens and thousands of people from the country. The regiment, under command of Col. Dawson, paraded the principal streets of the town at 11 o'clock.

In the afternoon there was a parade and trooping of colors in Athletic Park. This display pleased the townspeople and visitors from the country beyond description.

To-night a concert was given by the bands of the Grenadiers and the Berlin musical societies and a ball followed in the rink. It was a great day for Berlin.

FROM DIAMOND TO FORUM.

Sunday, of the Pittsburg Baseball Nine, Gives Advice to Young Men.

NEW YORK, May 24.—If W. A. Sunday, of the Pittsburgh nine, plays ball as earnestly and as well as he talked religion yesterday before a crowd of young men in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association, he ought to be in great demand among the rival clubs and command as high a salary as Kelly, Ward or Keefe. Although athletic men were especially invited to hear Mr. Sunday, there were few in the hall whom I recognized either as professional or amateur athletes, but for all that the audience was a large one. Mr. H. H. Webster presided and the devotional exercises, which consisted of prayer and song, were conducted by Mr. H. F. Smith, the instructor in gymnastic exercises, and Mr. Henry Kallenberg, his assistant.

Mr. Sunday's address was on earnestness in Christian work, and to preface it he read several verses of Scripture. One of these, which he said applied to everything in life as well as to baseball or other athletic games was: "Whatever you do, do with your whole will, your whole soul and your whole mind.

"I love to see a man earnest in everything he does," said the speaker, "and God doesn't love a half-hearted man. If you want to succeed in business, in a profession or in any sort of athletic sport you must be earnest, persistent and untiring. You must not be discouraged at little things. No man ever climbed over a mountain who halted when he came to a mole hill. So in your lives as Christians you must put your whole hearts into your work and always move onward and upward.

"No man who has never tried it knows how much effort it takes to save a soul, nor how many setbacks he will meet with in trying to do it. Shame to him if he starts into the good work and gives it up at the first—aye at the tenth—discouragement. Always remember that you cannot lead a man nearer to Christ than you are yourself. Never be afraid to profess your religion.

"After the battle of Waterloo an English surgeon who was probing in a French soldier's breast for the bullet that laid him low, asked: 'Where is Napoleon?' 'Cut an inch deeper,' replied the soldier, pointing to his heart, 'and you'll find him.' So should it be with the Christian soldier. He should have God in his heart.

"We are all seekers for something. Some look for wealth, some for knowledge, others for glory or power, but how few of us are looking earnestly for the straight and narrow road that leads to heaven! We should remember that those who miss opportunities to be saved will be held responsible in the hereafter. When they brought the sick man to Jesus he said, 'Thy sins, which are many, are forgiven!' By that He meant to show that sin is infinitely worse than physical illness.

"Do not be like the Roman Emperor who said almost with his last breath, 'During my life I have made preparation for everything but death!' Make your preparation while yet there is time. There are few cases on record where Jesus forgave sins without repentance and preparation. One of these was that of the robber on the cross. If we were called away to-night how many of us would be greeted at the gates of heaven with the words, 'Well done, good and faithful servant.' Angels of light and angels of darkness are at this moment fighting for your souls. It rests with you which shall win."

High-Pressure

Living characterizes these modern days. The result is a fearful increase of Brain and Heart Diseases — General Debility, Insomnia, Paralysis, and Insanity. Chloral and Morphia augment the evil. The medicine best adapted to do permanent good is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It purifies, enriches, and vitalizes the blood, and thus strengthens every function and faculty of the body.

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for years. I have found it invaluable as

THE JESUIT AGITATION.

A LARGE MEETING HELD IN THE OPERA HOUSE.

Addresses by Mr. John Carnegie, Rev. G. J. Macdonell, B.D., and Mr. J. J. Maclaren, Q.C., of Toronto—Resolutions Passed—A Committee to Appoint Delegates to the Convention.

The Opera House was filled with a large audience on Thursday night, to listen to Rev. G. J. Macdonell, B.D., and Mr. J. J. Maclaren, Q.C., of Toronto, who were to speak on the Jesuit question. Before the meeting closed several resolutions were adopted and steps were taken towards the representation of the town and county at the Convention which is to be held in Toronto in June next.

Mr. Geo. Stewart, Reeve of Otonabee, occupied the chair and seated on the platform were Mr. John Carnegie, ex-M.P.P., and Rev. Messrs. Bell, Torrance, Shorey, Wilson and Huff. Rev. Alex. Bell opened the meeting with a short prayer.

The chairman in opening the meeting spoke briefly, referring to the object of the meeting and saying that the time had come when they should put their shoulders to the wheel and move to have the Jesuit bill disallowed. He then introduced Mr. John Carnegie who, he said, had a resolution to submit to the meeting.

THE EX-M.P.P.

Mr. J. CARNEGIE was received with cheers. He said whatever difference of opinion might exist about the settlement of the question they were gathered to consider they would all agree that it should be approached quietly and calmly, and in moving the resolution he did not intend detaining them at any length as they had come to hear other gentlemen who were well acquainted with all the facts. But there were a few points of which he, as a politician, could perhaps speak with more knowledge than they could. They should lay it down, he thought, that this should be one country from the Atlantic to the Pacific and one province bear the same burden as another. This being the case then the power of disallowance was vested in the Dominion Executive so as to keep their Dominion intact. He claimed that the Dominion Government should have disallowed the act incorporating the Jesuits, which was really the time when the Government and they should have protested, as the last bill was only a question of money. If the Government had not seen their way to disallow it they should have left it an open question, for they were not called upon by the Act of Confederation to report on the matter. But after they had done all they did do there was no reason why the representatives should not have voted for its disallowance, for, he said, the maintenance of the Government was not involved in in the question had they not forced themselves into that position. Taking these facts into consideration their representatives need not try to shelter themselves behind the plea that they would have voted out the Government and brought in the Opposition had the voted for disallowance, for, he pointed out, they would have brought in Mr. Laurier who was not an opponent of the bill. He thought they would realize that the time had come when they should send men to represent them who had the backbone to do what was right. He then referred to the plea that was made that it was within the power or jurisdiction of Quebec to pass the act and the Government could not disallow it, and he instanced the case of the New Brunswick School Bill, regarding which in the Dominion Parliament in May, 1873, 45 out of the 64 Quebec representatives recorded their vote for the disallowance of the bill. He said it was remarked that they were too late in taking action in this matter, but the fact that they had not protested against previous legislation of a similar character was no reason why they should not take action now against what they believed to be wrong. Mr. Carnegie said he stood there ashamed that as a politician he had just because he was told that he must do it or the other party would get them. He said this policy had gone on all over until they had the result of it in the vote on this Jesuit resolution recently. If this if this should prove to be the last straw on the camel's back and should awake them to a knowledge of the suicidal policy they had been pursuing, he believed it would prove the greatest blessing to Ontario the Province had ever seen. He then moved the following resolution:—

"That this meeting views with alarm the constantly increasing ecclesiastical aggression in the government of this country and regards with feelings of deep humiliation the fact that a motion recently submitted to the House of Commons calling for the disallowance of a Provincial act which recognized a right on the part of the Pope to interfere in the administration of the civil affairs of Canada—an act at once derogatory to the supremacy of the Queen and menacing to the liberties of the people of the whole Dominion—was voted down by a majority of 175, only 13 members standing by the principles of freedom and equal rights to all, and we, believing the foregoing vote to be contrary to the will of the great majority of the people of Canada, hereby declare our approval of the address issued by the Citizens' Commons of Toronto, and their action in calling a convention of delegates from all parts of the Province for the purpose of forming a Provincial organization whose object shall be the undoing of the mischief already wrought, and the maintaining in the future of our civil and religious freedom."

Speaking further to the resolution Mr. Carnegie said he would support any man in the Local or Dominion House who would declare himself for the sentiments in the resolution. They should let every other question sink out of sight until this question of religious rights had been settled and they had equal rights for all and favors for none. He said, though he had been and was a strong believer in the National Policy and always favored the drawing closer of those ties which bound us to England, yet these were of little consequence if the real man who was to govern the country was to be that gentleman in Rome. He was therefore prepared to go against a man who was a friend either of the N.P. or commercial union, in order to support this movement, and if they would all do this they would succeed. With a few further remarks Mr. Carnegie took his seat amid great applause and cheering.

Mr. WM. YELLAD in seconding the resolution said he was fully in accord with the resolution and when they came to cast their votes they should show that they meant what they said. They had been running after party too long and had got so they would vote for almost any one, but he felt the time had come when they should vote for men and measures.

THE TORONTO DIVINE.

Rev. G. J. MACDONNELL, of Toronto, was then introduced and was received with cheers. After a few opening remarks he said the question which they had to consider was a grave and important one, and he did not believe that any earnest-minded, thoughtful Canadian who studied the history which had led up to this Jesuit bill and looked out upon the future could talk flipantly and lightly on this important question. No feeling of bigotry, no desire to curb the freedom of worship, life or thought of the Roman Catholic citizens had brought them together. This was the reason for the agitation which was advanced by some people, but he said if any attempt at aggression or if any power was brought to bear to take from the Roman Catholics the rights which they themselves as Protestants enjoyed, he hoped they would all stand up as he would to defend and demand for their Catholic friends their rights. It was not a theological fight, but a fight for civil liberty. They were not gathered, he said, because of a senseless Francophobia or any dislike of their French fellow citizens, neither were they there to condemn the motives of the men who voted against the resolution, for he did not know the motives which might have prompted them. Some who cast their vote against that resolution might have done so conscientiously, but, he said, the fact remained that a majority was given which they believed would be disastrous to the country. They should leave the question of motive to Him who searched and knew all hearts, but what they had to deal with were the acts of these men and the outcome of their acts. He asked them to judge of the spirit of the agitation by the considered and formulated utterances of those who were setting the matter before them. He dealt with the opposition which they were receiving from Rev. Mr. Herridge, of Ottawa, and read an extract from one of that gentleman's sermons. He said he thought the sentiments expressed were admirable, but Mr. Herridge put in parenthesis the two lines, "The political encroachments of ultramontanism are to be resisted as perilous to the freedom of the state," while he put prominently before them the advice not to hurt the feelings of their Roman Catholic friends. The speaker said this was like lecturing him because a robber had got as far as the porch of his home instead of talking to the robber himself. The question was, "Is or is not the incorporation of the Jesuits which is perilous to the freedom of the state?" Mr. Herridge thought not, but he thought it was. He gave them a little of the history of the Jesuits to show this and quoted the language in which Pope Clement XIV gave his grounds for his suppression of the Jesuits in 1773. He also gave them the opinion of Solicitor-General Wedderburn who was Solicitor-General in England at the time the question of the establishment of the Jesuits came up, in which it was said that it was incompatible with the law for this society to be established in an English state. In the light of what Pope Clement had said in 1773 and what the Solicitor-General had said, the speaker asked, "Was or was not the incorporation of the Jesuits a political encroachment perilous to the freedom of the state?" (Voices: Yes, yes.) This, he said, was not a question of toleration of religious worship, but a question whether government could be carried on at all if this society were allowed to undermine our institutions. He did not say that the Jesuits individually were not in some instances good men, but he proceeded to show the injurious influence which, as a society, they had exercised in other countries where they had been incorporated, and he said they had a hard fight before them, for if they would read up the German history they would see that the Jesuits had beaten one of the greatest administrators in Europe—Prince Bismarck. The principle upon which the Society was founded was radically immoral, for it ruled that there should be an absolute emasculation of the will, and a man had to subordinate himself entirely to his superior. This evil principle, which was at the very bottom of the Society, the speaker thought stamped it at the outset as iniquitous and immoral. He then spoke more particularly of the bill, giving the history of the estates which it dealt with, pointing out that when the last of the Jesuits died the Crown of Britain said their estates should be escheated to the State, but the Pope had said that according to cannon law, which was a church law never in force in England, their estates reverted to the Pope. This, the speaker said, was practically the two contentions and he ridiculed Sir John Thompson's manner of dealing with this point, who had held that it was a question which the Canadian Government could not settle but would have to refer to the Pope. The speaker read extracts from the bill and from the decrees of the Pope in reference to the matter and said that if they had a moral claim, which never died, to the $400,000, then they had the same claim to the whole two million dollars which were mentioned in the bill. In closing he pointed out to them what they should do—not stand on a quibble of Provincial rights, but come out and protest against the action of the Government. He referred to some of the ways it was proposed to to move in this matter in order to test the constitutionality of the Act, which was what they were trying to do; Mr. Maclaren having made out a case and submitted it to eminent legal authority in Quebec to ascertain if they could bring this matter under the review of the courts in that Province. Another way to bring about the desired end might be by petitions and he stated that it had been suggested that a special session of the House be called to reconsider their vote on the bill. He said if they failed upon this issue, the result would be that true-hearted loyal men would come together and say we will have the freedom of this country for which our forefathers fought. They would say "What ought to be, can be." The rev. gentleman resumed his seat amid great applause after speaking nearly two hours.

A POLITICAL ENCROACHMENT

A Q.C. SPEAKS.

Mr. J. J. MACLAREN, Q.C., was next introduced and in a half-hour speech he dealt with the legal aspect of the question and referred to some of the utterances of Sir John Thompson in his speech in the debate on the bill in the House. The speaker said he had been present for two days of the debate and he had noticed the Minister of Justice quoting copiously from a pamphlet which was none other than a book called "U.E.L." which had been printed by a Jesuit priest of Quebec and which while it was not false gave a wrong color to the history of the priests. From this book, he said, a great deal of Sir John Thompson's speech had been taken. The speaker then proceeded to deal with one of the Minister's points—that the proclamation of King George III of 1773 did not give the crown the power to escheat private property according to the law of nations. The speaker said this was true, and went on to show while it might be true in the case of an individual, it was unworthy of the Minister of Justice to conceal from the House the fact that it was directly opposite in the case of corporations. The speaker said that the Jesuit Society was a corporation and therefore their property became the property of the conquering sovreignty. He quoted the authority of Sir James Marriott, who held that the Jesuits could not hold estates as they were not a legally corporated body and pointed to the decision of Lord Mansfield in the Court of the Queen's Bench that the proclamation of George III had full power and was legal without the sanction of Parliament. Mr. Maclaren then referred to the money which the bill granted and said it was not a mere piece of pork over which all this agitation was arising. He said that the fact was that part of the property belonged to the Dominion Government, but by the bargain of Mr. Mercier with the Pope the latter relinquished all claims to the Champ de Mars which was estimated to be worth over a million dollars, in consideration that Mr. Mercier receded to Father Turgeon all rights to plain La Prairie. The speaker said that Mr. Mercier could, and he believed he would, come to the Dominion House now and demand the $400,000 which the Quebec Government had granted the Jesuits. In closing he dealt with the statement that the House was not the proper place to decide the constitutionality of the Act, but that they should take it to the courts. He had offered any member of the House $200 who would show him how the matter could be brought into the courts and he pointed out that there were two serious difficulties in the way—the want of a plaintiff and the absence of a defendant. He referred in terms of eulogy to the Mail's course in the question, and sat down amid applause.

The resolution of Mr. John Carneigie was then put to the meeting and carried amid applause.

A COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

Rev. E. F. TORRANCE then moved the following resolution without any remarks:

"That the following gentlemen (with power to add their numbers, and of whom seven shall be a quorum) be appointed a committee to be known as the Citizens' Committee of Peterborough, with instructions to see that this town and county are properly represented at the convention to be held in Toronto on the 11th and 12th of June next, to circulate petitions praying for the disallowance of 'an Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuits' estates,' to and in the collection of funds wherewith the legality of the foregoing Act and that incorporating of the Jesuits may be taken to the courts, and to do generally whatsoever may be deemed necessary to the carrying out of this and the foregoing resolutions, viz.:—

Geo. Stewart, A. P. Poussette, E. H. D. Hall, Dr. Fife, A. Clegg, J. A. Davidson, H. S. Griffin, J. J. Turner, A. L. Davis, W. J. Mason, W. W. Johnston, Dr. Taylor, J. L. Hughes, T. E. Bell, J. J. Hartley, D. McLeod, D. H. Gardner and Rev. Messrs. Torrance, Bell, Shorey, Pearson, Huff, Wilson and Parker.

The resolution was carried.

ANOTHER MEETING.

Rev. Mr. SHOREY then moved a resolution which read as follows:—

"That this meeting when it adjourns do stand adjourned to meet at the call of the Citizens Committee to hear the report of the delegates to Toronto and to take further action."

Rev. ALEX. BELL with a few words moved a vote of thanks to the speakers of the evening, which was acknowledged by Rev. Mr. Macdonnell and the meeting dispersed with "God Save the Queen."

His Private Opinion.

GORES' LANDING, May 23rd, 1889.

J. J. Turner:

DEAR SIR,—The tents received. They give me entire satisfaction and are the best both as far as tent and workmanship of any I have ever had. The mainsail has been much admired and stands as flat as a board, and I find the greatest difference in going to windward, the gear holding fully two points closer. I can thoroughly recommend anyone to go to you for a similar job.

The following delegates are expected: Rev. J. Salmon, Wm. Gooderham, W. F. Most of the above mentioned have experienced the blessing of Divine healing. Through the kindness of the officers of the Baptist Church the meetings will be held in that building. There will be three sessions each day, at 10 a.m., and 2 and 8 p.m. Admittance free. All Christians are cordially invited.

The Fireworks Postponement.

The firemen were unavoidably compelled to postpone the fireworks last evening on account of the rain, which, while it would have been uncomfortable for the people, would also have effected the fireworks and probably spoiled some of the best pieces. Having an excellent display, they did not desire to have it spoiled and also wished to give everyone an opportunity of seeing them. The display was accordingly postponed until next Friday evening, when it will be given in the Athletic Association grounds. The fire brigade and the band will parade to the grounds on that evening, and the band will discourse music during the evening. As the tickets have been placed at a low figure—15 cents for adults and 10 cents for ladies and children—there will undoubtedly be a large attendance on Friday evening.

So it is in this case. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. The Last Scott Act Fines.

Police Magistrate Dumble this morning gave his judgment in the four Scott Act cases which came before him last week and in which judgment was reserved as the question was raised which act was in force at the time—the Scott or Crooks Act. He said in these cases the Scott Act was in force at the time, 15th May, when the alleged breach was said to be made, the Order-in-Council not being passed at that time. The offence having been admitted the judgment of the court was that the four offenders, J. E. McIntyre, F. J. Daly, Ed. Brown and T. Carew be fined $50 and costs to be paid in ten days, in default of payment distress.

Dr. Clarke in Peterborough.

Many of our citizens will doubtless be glad to learn that arrangements have been completed by which Dr. Clark, in addition to his sermon on Sunday, June 9th, has agreed to deliver his well-known lecture on "Water-Babies" on the following evening. The members of the Y. M. G., under whose auspices the lecture will be given, have decided to use the St. John's school house for the occasion, though there were many strongly expressed opinions that the Opera House should be taken for a man of Professor Clark's popularity and oratorical gifts. On account of the season of the year, however, it was decided otherwise, but if as we assume, a due appreciation is shown, on this occasion, of our distinguished visitor, further arrangements will be made by which larger Peterborough audience may meet Dr. Clarke on some date next winter.

CELEBRATING THE 24TH.

HER MAJESTY'S BIRTHDAY LOYALLY HONORED IN TOWN.

The Home Baseball and Lacrosse Teams Victorious—The Military Parade—The Sports on the P.A.A.A. Grounds—List of the Events and Prize Winners—Races at the Driving Park.

The celebration of the seventieth anniversary of Her Majesty's birthday passed off very quietly in town yesterday. The weather prospects in the early morning were rather ominous, but by ten o'clock the sky had cleared and the sun shone forth in all its glory. So it remained until about four in the afternoon when the rain came down in showers and interfered slightly with the programme at the P. A. A. A. grounds. The town presented a gala appearance, business on George-st. being suspended and a liberal display of bunting being made. Several private excursion parties went down the river, others took advantage of the cheap rates on the railways, but the major portion of the citizens remained at home and enjoyed a quiet holiday or went to see the sports, lacrosse match or races.

The Baseball Match.

The first attraction of the day was the baseball match between the P.A.A.A. nine and the Campbellford baseball club, which was played on the Association grounds in the morning. The game was called at half-past nine, and was witnessed by a goodly number of enthusiasts. It was not an agricultural game by any means, each team, although making some bad errors, playing a very fair game throughout. The Association nine proved the victors by a score of 14 to 12, but the visitors, although defeated, are not discouraged and another match will probably be arranged for the near future. Only seven innings were played as the grounds had to be vacated in favor of the volunteers. Pearson was in the box for the home team and did very good work, the visitors' earned runs being few. Callahan was his receiver and caught a very good game considering the practice he had had this season. Beattie, the visitors thrower, was batted pretty freely, although many of the runs also were not earned. The local team were composed as follows:—Pearson p; Cox 1b; Burnson 2b; Callahan c; Allison c.f; Moore, 3b; O'Brien 3b; Dumble s.s.; Hay l.f. The visitors were:—Bells c.f; Isbester 2b; S. Beattie p; R. Cumming s.s.; Ingram c; Macoun 3b; Ferris r.f; W. Cumming 1b; J. Beattie l.f. The score by innings was as follows:—

Peterborough	2	4	4	3	1	0	0	—14
Campbellford	1	0	4	4	1	0	2	—12

With the Volunteers.

The red coats of the men of the 57th were numerous on the streets early in the day, and at eleven o'clock there was a good muster at the drill shed, when the six companies formed, and under command of Col. Rogers marched to the P.A.A.A. grounds, followed by a large crowd of people. Arrived at the grounds the battalion were put through several battalion movements which they executed in a creditable manner, taking into consideration the fact that this was the first muster of the men for a battalion march out this season under the new drill instructions. At twelve o'clock the battalion was drawn up into line and a feu de joie was fired, and as the ring of the last rifle report died in the air, the band struck up "God Save the Queen" and the battalion presented arms and the men gave three cheers and a tiger for Her Majesty. The battalion then formed fours and returned to the armory.

Sports at the P.A.A.A. Grounds.

In the afternoon the programme of games and sports which had been arranged by the P. A. A. A. and the 57th Battalion attracted a large crowd to the Association grounds, a crowd which was largely composed of ladies. The programme, which was a lengthy one, was carried out to the letter, and proved very interesting. The rain which fell towards the close of the afternoon, did a little towards marring the otherwise complete success of the afternoon's sports, but the crowd apparently enjoyed the different events. The Battalion band was present and discoursed several of their best selections throughout the afternoon. The officers of the Battalion were all on the grounds and were most zealous in their efforts to make everything pass off smoothly, satisfactorily and successfully. Mr. R. B. Rogers acted as starter in the races and was master of ceremonies inside the ring, while Dr. Burnham and Hon. Robt. Hamilton were the judges, and performed their duties to the satisfaction of all.

THE PROGRAMME.

The programme was started about two o'clock, and it was about half five when the rain made the postponement of the tug of war necessary. The events were nearly all well contested, and some of them afforded rich fun for the spectators.

The hundred yard dash, the 440 yard and the hurdle race were very good contests, but in all of these Archie Moore was an easy winner. The company races excited considerable friendly rivalry between the men of the different companies and gave the members no small amount of amusement. The boys' 220 yard race brought out about sixty lads from five to fourteen years of age, and when this flock got under way and were coming down the track, each of the sixty urchins straining himself to reach the goal first, the sight was a comical one. The officers' race caused a little excitement but the betting did not run very high. The officers all started in the race, there being eleven of the gallant military men in the struggle, including Col. Rogers and Major Bell. They all ran a good race except the Colonel and Capt. Langford, who were not in sprinting trim, and stopped just after starting. Capt. Brennan came in first with Capt. Dennistoun a good second and Lieut. Lech and Capt. Edwards about even for third.

The bicycle races were close and exciting. The first, the half mile green race, had six starters—R. Rogers, Ed. Roy, F. Annesley, W. A. Carr, W. Morgan and Holland. Roy and Morgan had a pretty race for first place, the two keeping side by side the entire six laps until about the last quarter when Roy got a little the lead and finished first. The boys rode a seventh lap by mistake and Morgan was ahead at the end, but, of course, the judges gave their decision as the riders stood at the end of the sixth lap. The two-mile handicap bicycle race was a fine one and created no little excitement. There were seven entries, but they all dropped out early in the contest and left Mattie Roy, of the Belleville Ramblers, and Fred Might to fight for first place. These were the two scratch men and from the word go to the finish there was not at any time over a wheel's length between the two, but Roy managed by hard peddling to keep his short lead the whole twelve laps and won by about ten feet.

The menagerie race was the event of the day and the spectators laughed to their hearts content at the comical figures the gallant officers cut as they attempted to cross the ring in tow of a goose, a turkey, a calf, a cat or a hen. The entries were as follows:—Capt. Brennan with his calf; Capt. Hill with a black turkey; Lieut Lee with a duck; Capt. Dennistoun with a white turkey; Capt. Langford with a cat; Geo. Schofield with a goose, R. B. Rogers with a pig. Some of the menagerie refused to get in motion when the word go was given. Capt. Langford's cat buried its claws in the earth and never budged. Mr. Rogers' grunter also stood stubbornly notwithstanding all the urging of his ambitious driver and would not proceed a step. Capt. Brennan's calf, however, started at a 2.40 gait across the field, followed closely by Capt. Hill and his black turkey and Capt. Dennistoun with his white bird. After considerable pushing and coaxing these three finished the race in the order named.

LACROSSE MATCH.

The Riversides Defeat the Toronto Team by Three to Two.

In the afternoon a lacrosse match was played on the Riverside Park by the Riversides, of Peterborough, and the West Torontos. There was a very good attendance of spectators, the grand stand being well filled. The players were as follows:—

RIVERSIDES		WEST TORONTO.
J. Phelan	Goal	R.E. Belfrey
J. Joyal	Point	R. Jamieson
T. Meagher	Cover Point	R. M. Todd
A. Ross	Defence Field	R. McDonald
M. Halpin	"	J. Robinson
W. Hendron	Centre Field	J. Degruchy
J. McCabe	Home Field	R. Crosby
J. Begley	"	G. Carson
T. Duncan	Outside Home	W. Mushaw
F. Pakenham	Inside Home	C.A. Kendall
J. Daly	Field Captain	J. Degruchy
J. Donohue	Umpire	G. Mitchell

Referee—W. J. Scott.

It was nearly three o'clock when the teams lined up to play until 4.30. The first game commenced with play in the centre, but the ball was taken to the Toronto goal. It soon returned and after some sharp play Mushaw threw it between the Riversides' flags. Time 3m. 15s. The second game was even shorter, but was taken by the Riversides. The ball first went close to the Peterborough goal, but was sent to the other end and Duncan put it through. Time 1m. 45s. The third game was another short one. After play in field there was a close call on the Riversides, but was neatly stopped by the goal, and the sphere went to the opposite end, where Duncan again scored. Time 2m. 45s.

The fourth game was the longest and brought out the good points of the players on each side. The Torontos had a good defence, and it was almost constantly engaged in defending the flags, though several times the Peterborough goal was in danger until one of its strong defence relieved it. Finally, the Riversides' players having been drawn up field by the play, the Toronto home got a chance and Crosby scored. Time, including stops, 58m. The fifth game was very short. The ball was taken in hand (metaphorically) by the Riversides and Phelan, who had been charged to home, passed it through. Time, 45s. This gave the match to the Riversides and after the usual cheers the players left the field.

The Riversides did well in the first match of the season and the game was a very interesting one. The old players were safe and agile, and in the new players the club has been strengthened. McCabe played his first game, and did excellent work, and Hendron, for whom this was the first match with the club, showed up well. The team is a strong one, and the old remark is again in place—with practice they cannot fail to make a good record this season.

RACES IN THE RAIN.

Three Contests of Speed at the Peterborough Driving Park.

Mr. John Newall had arranged a programme of races to come off at the Driving Park. Quite a number collected, and sat about on the stand and track while vehicles containing sightseers rolled over the track and enclosure. The races did not commence until after 3 o'clock. The judges were Messrs. W. Croft, J. Haggart and Dr. Beattie. The first contest called up was the mixed trotting race for which there was three entries, A. P. Morgan's Mayflower, driven by Tom McKwan; Ed. Brown's Pacer by Mr. Brown, and J. Daly's Willie W, driven by the owner. By the terms of the race Mayflower and Willie W were started from a point 150 yards in rear of the wire, the pacer having that distance of a start. Mile heats best 3 in 5. The first heat was taken by Mayflower after a sharp trot, during which the other horses broke badly and lost speed. The Pacer gained second place. The second heat was captured by the Pacer, who got fairly to work steadily and showed a fine turn of speed. The third and fourth heats were taken by Mayflower, the Pacer second. Following is a summary by heats:—

A. P. Morgan's Mayflower	1	2	1	1
J. J. Daly's Willie W.	3	3	3	3
Ed. Brown's Pacer	2	1	2	2

The first prize was a splendid new Outland road cart made by Fitzgerald & Stanger.

THE CARTERS' RACE.

Here was an exemplification of what horse flesh could do. At the call three carters drove their nags on the track and prepared for a dash for 10 lbs. uncolored Japan tea at 25c. per lb. The entry sheet showed that J. Curtis's chestnut mare, W. Croft's "Bay Rats" and Geo. Foley's "Geordy" had been entered. A start was made amidst yells of encouragement. Bay Rats led the pole, but was crowded against the fence, pulled down a couple of rods and upset the driver. The race, a half mile dash, was finished amidst applause and the winner secured an order for the tea.

J. Curtis's chestnut mare	1
W. Croft's "Bay Rats"	2
Geo. Foley's "Geordy"	3

THE NOVELTY RACE.

Therein the novelty consisted in the horses walking, trotting and running three successive half miles, best 2 out of 3, for a new saddle. The first part of the race was slow enough but the run amused the onlookers. The three contestants decided the race in two heats as follows:—

T. Bickle's Bay Mare	1	1
J. Mervin's Goldsmith Maid	2	3
J. Patterson's Blackbird	3	2

Then the rain came on and John Newall brought up the bag containing the tickets taken at the gate. Judge Haggart reached into the bag and brought out a ticket and the prize, a sovereign, was awarded to the tickets owner, Olive Guerin. Judge Croft thereupon remarked that he had seldom seen such an orderly and aristocratic crowd at a race meeting and Judge Beattie said they had spent the afternoon among the upper crust. It began to rain again and all hastened home.

CRICKET.

The Peterborough Eleven Plays Toronto University.

An eleven from Peterborough played in Toronto yesterday with the 'Varsity Club. The Mail gives this account of the match: The 'Varsity men obtained a creditable victory over an eleven of the Peterborough club by 6 wickets. It is only fair, however, to state that the visitors were not by any means fully represented, as only three members of the regular Peterborough club's eleven were playing in the team.

The game was played on the 'Varsity lawn, and was witnessed by a fair crowd of spectators. The scoring, owing to the lumpy state of the wicket, was very low, and the score which follows on being consulted will give a full account of the game:

At Norwood.

A large number of Peterborough people went to Norwood yesterday to attend the Roman Catholic picnic which had been arranged by Rev. Father Conway, and a great day was spent. There were games and sports of all kinds, and Prof. Doucet's orchestra was in attendance and the dancing platform was well patronized, and the jig dancing for the five dollar prize was very good. The Peterborough people all report that the day was most successful, and the church and residence of Rev. Father Conway were much admired by his old parishioners who never fail to enjoy themselves when they meet him on an occasion such as yesterday. In the evening Mrs. O'Neil gave a grand concert in the town hall, which also went off with great eclat. The hall was crowded and the programme was excellent. It included a recitation by Miss Sanders, of Peterborough, which, as usual, was well rendered and greatly appreciated, and several choice selections by Prof. Doucet's orchestra. Rev. Fathers Dube and Cotey attended the picnic and enjoyed the day immensely.

The Day at Lakefield.

Lakefield had a gala day yesterday and had several attractions which furnished amusement for the villagers. A cricket match was played between the Lakefield Lumber Company and a village eleven, which resulted in a victory for the Lumbermen. The single baseballists tried conclusions with the married men on the diamond and were victorious. A good game of football was also played between the Warsaw and Lakefield teams and the former were victorious. Reports say that the day passed off quietly and pleasantly.

Notes of the Day.

The canoeing parties that went down the river were caught in the rain.

The police report a very quiet day, although a few small rows occurred in the evening.

Mr. Sam. Ray, who umpired the baseball game in the morning, gave good satisfaction, and there was almost an entire absence of kicking.

While a young man, who was one of a canoeing party going down the river in the morning, was running in at the locks to portage, his canoe was drawn over the slide into the boiling rapids that are just beneath the dam, but he came out O.K.

Both at the P. A. A. A. grounds and the lacrosse game on Riverside Park, there were almost as many spectators stationed on the neighboring sheds and barns as there were inside the fence. These cheap spectators were not children by any means, but men and women, young and old, and even a few young men with their Sunday girls took in the sports from the roof of a shed. It is one way of stealing, and poverty is no excuse for the witnessing of the game was not a necessity.

Enlarging.

Mr. J. J. Turner's sail, tent and awning factory has outgrown its present premises and another enlargement is required. Since coming to Peterborough Mr Turner's business has grown steadily and the three storey premises he now occupies are too small. He has therefore secured another part of the block at the corner of King and Sherbrooke-sts, next his present show room, which is being fitted up for him. A plate glass front will be put in on the ground floor for a show room, and the partitions are being taken out of the upper storeys, and these will be used for workshops. Mr. Turner is pushing his business, and it would not be surprising if he would before long be asking for the whole block.

A Woman Injured in a Row.

A row occurred last night in Ashburnham between a couple of young men, one of whose names was Tom Gainey. Mrs. Gainey, the young man's mother, came out of her house to interfere in her son's behalf and in the row was struck on the leg with a stone and also received a kick in the back from which she was seriously injured and has been under the care of two doctors since. There were no arrests in connection with the affair. One of the other principals in the fracas is named Barrie.

Opening of the New Rifle Range.

The new range on the Curtis farm was opened on Thursday afternoon by a good representation of the local marksmen. The shooters found the wind, which was a "fishtail," awkward to handle at the long ranges. Those who have shot on the Rideau Range say that the elevation on it and the new range are identical. The following are the top scores at 200, 500 and 600 yards:—

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c., &c.

[Note—Owing to a mistake the wrong instalment of this story was inserted on Thursday. The following column should be read as following the first day's instalment after the 17th line of the second column.]

asked h a thousand questions. Had he seen the palace—had he seen the King or the Queen—what where the people doing—were the public gardens beautiful? And then she would take the guitar which had belonged to her gay father in his gayest days, and sat out in the little garden, among the vines and lemon trees and oleanders, and play and sing one song after another, while Jose smoked and rested and wondered at and delighted in her. It was she who had inherited all her father's gaiety and spirit. Jose had none of them, and being slow and simple had always found her a wonder and a strange pleasure. She had indeed been the one bright thing in his life, and even her wilfulness had a charm for him. He always gave way to it and was content. Had she not even once defied the uncle when no one else would have dared to do it; holding her little head up and confronting him in such a burst of pretty rage that the old curmudgeon had been quite quelled for once in his life, and had ever afterwards treated her with a kind of respect, even saying to a neighbor "that the lad was a fool but the little devil had something in her after all."

In all his plannings it was Pepita Jose had thought of first. Madrid to him was only a sort of setting for Pepita—the clean, comfortable cottage a home for Pepita—the roses and lemon blossoms she would wear in her hair; under the fine grape vines she would sit in the evening and play on her guitar. His wages would give her comfort and buy her pretty dresses. And then everyone would see her beauty, and when she went to Mass, or with himself and Jovita to the Prado or the Paseo de la Virgen del Puerto, people would look at her and tell each other how pretty she was, and all this would end in time in a good marriage perhaps. And she would be loved by some fine fellow, and have a home of her own, and be as happy as the day was long. There was only one obstacle in the way of this excellent plan; it was only a small obstacle, but—! it was Pepita herself. Singularly enough, Pepita had a fixed antipathy to marriage. She had early announced her intention of remaining unmarried, and those young men who in her native village had desired to make love to her had been treated with disapproval and disdain. Knowing as little of love as a young bird unfledged, her coldness was full of innocent cruelty. She was willing to dance and laugh and sing, but when she found herself confronting lover-like tremors and emotion she was unsparing candour itself.

"Why should I listen to you?" she had said more than once. "I do not love you. You do not please me. When you wish to marry me I hate you. Go away and speak to some one else."

"I will never marry anyone," she said to Jose. "I will stay with you and be happy. Girls who marry grow ugly and are wretched. Their husbands do not love them after they are married. They must work and slave and take care of the house and the children. Look at Tessa! her husband used to be wild about her. She could make him pale with misery if she turned away from him—he used to follow her about everywhere. Now he makes eyes at Juanita, and beats Tessa if she complains. And, don't we both remember how it was with our mother? I will never love anyone and never be married. Let them love me if they are so stupid, but I will be left alone. I care nothing for any of them."

The truth was that Jose knew it was what she remembered of her mother's unhappiness, and what Jovita had told her which was the foundation of all this. Did he not remember it himself, and remember with a shudder, those first miserable years of their childhood—the great, beautiful, wretched eyes of their mother, their gay handsome father, and his careless cruelty and frequent brutality. Had not Pepita and himself clung together hidden in the loft at night listening to their mother's sobs and often to the sound of blows and curses rained down upon her because she was no longer a beauty, and there were beauties who had smiles to bestow on handsome fellows who were free and even upon those who were not. It was enough to irritate any handsome fellow—this one had thought—to come home to a squalid place after enjoyment and be forced to face poverty, and children, and a haggard wife with large staring eyes, red with weeping. Yes, Pepita and Jose remembered all this and upon Pepita's character it had left curious traces. Young as she was she had awakened quite grand passions in more than one heart, and on two or three occasions the suitors had been of far better fortune than herself—one of them, indeed, being the only son of a rich farmer who might have chosen a wife of much greater importance than this pretty scornful child, and whose family rebelled bitterly against his folly, and at last sent him away to Seville, but not before Pepita herself had cooly trodden him under her small feet.

"I like you less than any of them," she said, fixing her great, direct eyes upon him when he revealed his frenzy. "Go and marry that girl your father chose for you—if she will have you. They have no need to be afraid and speak ill of me. I don't want you. I can't bear to have you stand near me."

To Jose it never occurred to complain of her, but Jovita's sense of worldly advantage was outraged at this time, and she did not hesitate to express herself with much freedom and grumbling.

"God knows, I want no haste," she said, "but this is a chance for any girl. And see what a fool she is. But that is as it always happens. There will come along some worthless fellow and she will be fooled like the rest, and be ready enough to run after him."

THE VICTORIOUS VALKYRIE.

A Brilliant Display of Light Weather Speed—The Times' Comment.

LONDON, May 24.—In the race yesterday with the Irex and Yarana the Valkyrie was exceptionally smart in weathering a steamer in the Nore, not a yard being washed. The day was supposed to be in favor of the Yarana but the wind was light and variable and afforded no chance of showing her best qualities.

The Times calls the Valkyrie's performance a brilliant display of light weather speed. "It was no mean performance to beat the Yarana by upwards of 4 minutes and the Irex by 15 minutes in a dead beat in a light breeze to the Nore. So long as the breeze evenly served out, the Valkyrie was always able to keep the Yarana tight pinned under the lee and she was by far the faster boat with sheets off. Toward the end the Valkyrie was favored to some extent by luck." Time to the Nore:

Athletics v. Beavers at St. Kitts.

ST. CATHARINES, May 24.—The lacrosse season opened here to-day, when the Athletics of St. Catharines and the Beavers of Woodstock crossed sticks in the senior championship schedule of the Canadian Lacrosse Association. At 2.40 p.m. the teams faced off and the rubber was kept flying pretty lively from one end of the field to another for a time, the home team winning in 4 min.

In the second game the Athletics had decidedly the better of the game and played all around their opponents, who were very weak in their attack. Downey made the lucky shot for the home team and scored; time 15 min.

The third was the longest game and occupied 21 min. Good playing was done on both sides. It was also won by the home team. The fourth lasted but 7 min., Fralick of the Athletics scoring.

The Brants Defeated at Paris.

PARIS, Ont., May 24.—Paris defeated Brantford at lacrosse to-day, scoring the first, third, fourth and fifth games in 12, 20, 4 and 4 min. respectively. Brantford took the second in 21 min.

IF A BODY MEET A BODY

the result is a collision, whether "coming thro' the rye," or not. Life is full of collisions. We are constantly colliding with somebody or something. If it isn't with our neighbors it is with some dread disease that "knocks us off the track" and perhaps disables us for life. Women especially it seems, have to bear the brunt of more collisions and afflictions than mankind. In all cases of nervousness, bearing-down sensations, tenderness, periodical pains, sick headache, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration and all "female irregularities" and "weaknesses," Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to the rescue of women as no other medicine does. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money paid for it will be refunded. NOT IN HER DICTIONARY.

THE QUEEN HAS NO THOUGHT OF ABDICATION.

Her Majesty in Splendid Health — Mr. Gladstone Uninjured by His Mishap in Piccadilly – Flogging for Burglars.

LONDON, May 26.—The Queen was seventy Friday. When she went to Sandringham lately some gossips would have it that she was preparing for abdication in view of the present anniversary. As a matter of fact, however, nothing is further from the mind of the Queen. She is in splendid health, and there is not a finer specimen of womanhood in the three kingdoms. She never ails anything, never has a pain or ache, and her mind is probably keener than it has ever been—which is saying a great deal. Abdication is not in the Royal dictionary, and folks who are so anxious to see a new Court arrive—the new court being the Marlboro House set—will have to bide patiently, possibly for another ten years. There is really no apparent reason why the Queen should not reign longer than George the Third.

In Honor of the Queen's Birthday.

LONDON, May 26.—The official state banquet in honor of the Queen's birthday was given yesterday. Lord Salisbury had among his guests at the official residence the Prince of Wales and most of the foreign ambassadors, including Mr. Lincoln, the United States Minister. Lady Salisbury entertained a large and distinguished party at her reception at the Foreign Office. United States Minister Lincoln visited the Queen at Windsor yesterday and presented his credentials. Her Majesty received the Minister very cordially.

Mr. Gladstone Uninjured.

LONDON, May 25.—Mr. Gladstone, replying to inquiries, says that he in no wise suffers from his mishap in Piccadilly, and expresses thanks for the sympathy extended to him.

Of Interest to Burglars.

LONDON, May 26.—The bill restoring the punishment of flogging with the cat-o'-nine-tails and authorizing its infliction upon burglars convicted of having dangerous weapons in their possession has passed its third reading in the House of Commons. Its passage in the House of Lords is assured.

A CLERGYMAN'S SUICIDE.

The Assistant Rector of a Baltimore Church Shoots Himself.

BALTIMORE, May 26.—At 9.30 this morning Wm. L. Glenn knocked at the bedroom door of his friend H. G. Schorr, the handsome young assistant rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Schorr said he did not wish to be disturbed as he was about to take his bath. Half an hour later Rev. Dr. Hodges, the rector of St. Paul's was informed by the housekeeper of St. Paul's, house that she had heard the report of a pistol. The doctor went to his assistant's room—Schorr lay dead upon the floor. Beside him was a 38-calibre self-acting revolver. The ball had passed in at the right temple and out above the left ear. On the table was this note:

"Many will condemn me, God will have mercy. Please tell my dear aged parents, but do it in a gentle manner. Bury me from St. Paul's house and do not send my body to my parents for it would kill them if you do. GREENFIELD SCHORR."

Schorr was aged 29. He was subject to fits of despondency, believed to be because of financial troubles and unrequited affection.

To Be Sent to Toronto.

WINDSOR, May 26.—In all probability the steamer Lakeside will shortly be taken off the Lake Shore route. It is thought she will be sent to Toronto.

THE CHICAGO MYSTERY.

WHAT A MILKMAN SAW ON THE NIGHT OF THE TRAGEDY.

A Detective Under Suspicion—Police Officials in Secret Conference—Who were Cronin's Murderers?

CHICAGO, May 25.—William Mertes, a milkman who lived in the neighborhood of the Carlson cottage, in which it is supposed Dr. Cronin was murdered, tells a story which adds to the evidence leading to that conclusion. On the night of the murder, between 8.30 and 9 o'clock, about the time at which it is supposed the Doctor arrived there in the buggy with the man who came for him, Mertes left his house to visit the grocery at the corner of Ashland-avenue and Otto-street, which is only a short block south of the Carlson cottage. He walked east in Addison-avenue to Ashland, and then turned south on the east sidewalk. As he neared the Carlson cottage a buggy containing two men rolled up to the edge of the ditch. One of the men, whom Mertes describes as a tall and apparently athletic man, sprang from the buggy and ran up the front stairs of the cottage, the door of which was thrown open before he knocked for admission. Scarcely had the door closed again when the sound of loud and angry voices within the cottage startled the milk-dealer. He looked searchingly at the man in the buggy, but the stranger's face was shrouded by the brim of a soft hat, and Mertes was unable to tell whether he was stout or slender, or fair or dark. The fellow whipped his horse into a gallop, drove to Addison-avenue and then turned in the direction of the lake. Mertes says there was a dim light in the front room and that the man who went up the steps—presumably Dr. Cronin—wore a long brown overcoat. Mrs. Conklin, the woman at whose house Dr. Cronin lived, says the doctor wore a long brown coat on the night of the murder.

A morning paper publishes a story which implicates a member of the Chicago police force in the taking off of Cronin. The officer in question is Detective Daniel Coughlin. The paper says that on the morning of the day on which Cronin disappeared Coughlin engaged at a livery stable not far from where Cronin lived a horse and buggy, which he said a friend of his would call for that evening; that the man did call and was given a white horse, similar to the one attached to the buggy in which Cronin was decoyed away; that the time of going and the description correspond minutely, both with the time when he came for Cronin and with the appearance of the man himself; that Coughlin subsequently told the livery stable keeper to say nothing about the matter. Force is added to these revelations by the fact that Coughlin was a member of one or more societies of which Cronin was a member and that they were enemies. The matter was finally brought to the attention of Chief of Police Hubbard, who seems inclined to take a serious view of the matter and promises to probe it to the bottom.

This afternoon a secret conference took place at which Mayor Cregier, States Attorney Longnecker, Chief Hubbard, Chief Detective Elliott, and other officials were present.

The Herald this morning says: "Yesterday's developments give point to the belief that the murderers are not and may never have been residents of Chicago. On the contrary, there is some reason to suppose that his slayers crossed the water from England with designs on his life, and that as soon as they completed their work they made their escape. It will be remembered that one T. J. Kirby, a native of Canada, came to Chicago last year from London, Eng., on a secret mission for The London Times. Kirby knew Cronin when he lived at St. Catharines, Ont., and when he came to Chicago he renewed his acquaintance with the Doctor. It is known that the two met frequently in Chicago when Kirby was doing spy work for The Times. The connection is suggestive, to say the least. When Le Caron was on the witness stand in the Parnell case he refused to give the names of his American accomplices on the ground that it would be as much as their lives were worth to be known. Le Caron was ordered by the court, however, to furnish the name or names privately to the court and counsel, which he did. Might it not be that a detachment of the band that followed Carey to his death followed Cronin to his cruel fate?"

The Times says: The charges that Dr. Cronin and his friends made against Alexander Sullivan, Michael Boland and Dennis C. Feely, the triumvirate that acted as a board of directors for the United Brotherhood, are stronger than mere embezzlement of funds and malfeasance in office. There was a charge not long ago brought against the members of this Board that they had not only misappropriated large sums of the money subscribed for the good of the Irish National movement in the Old Country, but that they, or some of them, either intentionally or otherwise allowed secrets of the order to escape them, resulting in the imprisonment of several emissaries of the Clan-na-Gael and the death of two on British soil. The charges are said to have been based merely on suspicion, but Dr. Cronin was said to have been active in the accumulation of testimony calculated to corroborate the suspicions. In addition to this and more sensational than all, is the undoubted fact that in the possession of Dr. Cronin was an affidavit made by a well-known Irish-American that he heard one of the parties interested in these and other disclosures say that Dr. Cronin must be put out of the way. The name of the man who made this statement is in the possession of the States Attorney and a warrant for his arrest may be looked for at any moment.

Detective Coughlin has explained to Supt. Hubbard his connection with hiring a white horse from livery stable keeper Dinan on the day on which Cronin disappeared. He says that a few days before May 4 a stranger introduced himself to Coughlin as Thomas Smith of Hancock, Mich., a friend of Coughlin's brother. He was on his way to New Mexico, he said, and Mr. Coughlin of Hancock asked him to look up his brother Dan, the detective, while he was in Chicago. Detective Coughlin showed Smith around town. Saturday Smith said he would like to take a buggy ride that evening to the home of an aunt, but he did not know whether the livery stable keepers would trust a stranger with a horse. Coughlin told Smith to go to Dinan's place whenever he wanted a horse, and he would see Dinan during the day and make it all right. Smith got the white horse and rig and Coughlin did not see him again for a week or more, when Coughlin met him on the street and wanted to know why he did not pay for the use of the rig, Dinan having come to Coughlin for the money. Smith gave Coughlin $3 and said he would give him the other $2 later. Coughlin met Smith for the last time one day last week and Smith said he would start for New Mexico the next day.

An evening paper says that the letter turned over to the police by the Carlsons yesterday was from one of the mysterious tenants of the blood-stained cottage. The police refuse to allow the epistle to be copied, but give out enough to indicate that it is of the greatest importance. The letter is postmarked Hammond, Ind., and was received May 20. Inclosed was found $12, another month's rent. It was signed by Frank Williams. He attempted to explain away their hasty exit from the building and the paint daubs on the parlor floor. He said the floor was painted so as to save his sister the trouble of scrubbing the boards. Williams was silent about the fact of there being footprints in the paint. He also neglected to say anything about the blood stains.

Mayor Cregier, at a conference this afternoon impressed on Supt. Hubbard and the Corporation Counsel the necessity of making extraordinary efforts to bring Cronin's murderers to justice. Detective Coughlin was summoned. He told his story and was closely questioned. He became flurried and nervous, it is reported, but said nothing which could be used against him. Coughlin, however, was taken in custody after the conference and locked up. The description which Liveryman Dinan now gives of the man who hired his horse the night of May 4 and the description Capt. Schaack says he first gave are very different. The description Dinan now gives of Detective Coughlin's friend tallies very closely with that given by Mrs. Conklin of the man she saw driving Dr. Cronin away.

A free examination of the Carlson cottage was permitted to-day. It presented a fearful sight, with blood-bespattered floor and walls, and every indication of a terrible struggle. Arrangements for the Cronin tragedy were apparently begun as early as February 1. At that date a person corresponding to the description of the man who rented the Carlson cottage hired rooms across the street from Cronin's office. In one room was placed furniture similar to that found in the cottage. The furniture was removed at about the date when furniture was brought first to the cottage. The furniture which Revell & Co. sold included the trunk which has figured in the case. The purchaser had an extra heavy strap made for the trunk.

It is now generally believed in police circles that the assassins of Dr. Cronin after having completed their fearful crime stole a boat from the boathouse near Fischer's Garden Sunday morning, and rowed out upon the lake until they met a sailing vessel in waiting for them and on that vessel proceeded to some Canadian port, arriving at Toronto in time to meet the reporter Long and "fake" up the fictitious interview with Dr. Cronin which was telegraphed to the American papers. It was evidently the intention of the assassins through this method to throw the detectives and friends of the murdered man off the scent long enough to allow the body in its hiding place in the Lakeview catch basin to become so thoroughly decomposed as to be unrecognizable.

THE FUNERAL.

Attended by a Big Mob of the Morbid and the Curious.

CHICAGO, May 26.—The funeral of Dr. Cronin took place to-day. The corpse had been lying in state in the Cavalry Armory on the lake front, the most central point in the city, and there early this morning the morbid and curious with the dead man's friends made their pilgrimage. Armed sentries from the Rifles stood at rest at each corner of a raised platform on which reposed the catafalque and coffin. A crayon portrait of the dead man draped in black stood near the coffin and there was profuse floral decoration. A crowd that jammed Michigan-avenue stood before the armory. The police kept a passage way open for those who wished to enter the funeral hall and two uniformed riflemen leaning on bayoneted weapons lent the glamor of their accoutrements to the military air of the place. For three hours the procession in double file marched across the platform. Only the picture and the big silver plate on the coffin lid testified that all that was mortal of Dr. Cronin was within the casket. The apparently unending line of sightseers was turned out at the south door and few people remained long inside.

At last the procession stopped and the pall bearers entered. They were Luke Dillon of Philadelphia, Ed. O'Meagher Condon and John Devoy of New York and Thomas P. Tuite of Detroit. Leaving the Armory the casket was placed in a hearse drawn by four black horses and the procession was formed. Marshal Cahill stated that 7170 men were in line. The sable pall and plumes, the bands and drums with their solemn strains made a deep impression upon the thousands of people that crowded sidewalks and windows, that climbed on stoops and boxes, that sat on roofs and the tops of unfinished buildings.

Reaching the Cathedral of the Holy Name an immense crowd was encountered. The vast edifice was packed two hours before the ceremonies began. After the church services the procession was renewed and the way was taken to the Union depot. Trains waited for the crowd and 36 cars were comfortably filled.

No exercises of any sort took place at the cemetery. Among those who followed the bier from the armory to the church and cemetery were Dr. Cronin's sister and brother-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Carroll of St. Catharines, Canada, and his brother John K. Cronin of Arkansas.

Long Sticks to His Story.

TORONTO, May 25.—A. F. Teefer, a Chicago lawyer, is here to inquire into the alleged visit two weeks ago of Dr. Cronin to this city. Mr. Teefer has seen Mr. Long, the reporter who wrote up the interviews with Dr. Cronin in Toronto, and Mr. Long still claims that he spoke to Dr. Cronin. He has made a written statement that up to and after the time he wrote the dispatches regarding Dr. Cronin being seen in Toronto, he had no letter, telegram or any other communication with any one in Chicago or elsewhere regarding Dr. Cronin's disappearance, except with the newspapers to which he sent the dispatches.

Cincinnati the Bad.

CINCINNATI, May 26.—With fewer than a dozen exceptions the saloons here to-day had their front doors locked and blinds down. About one-third of them admitted customers through side or back entrances, while about two-thirds are believed to have been hermetically sealed. The policy seems to be to proceed against the saloons only a few at a time and to let baseball and the theatres go for the present. Three noted concert saloons are open to-night.

The N. Y., O. & W's Bonds.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Co. has issued bonds for $100,000,000, secured by a mortgage to the Mercantile Trust Co. on all its lines of route, equipments and stock. The bonds are redeemable in gold payable in 40 years with interest at 5 per cent. The trust mortgage was recorded to-day.

Five Were Drowned.

MEMPHIS, May 25.—A skiff containing three men and two ladies was caught in a wind and rain storm this afternoon while crossing the river just south of this city and capsized. All the occupants were drowned. They were crossing from West Memphis to Jackson Mound Park to attend a matinee concert. It is impossible to learn their names.

Clearance Fees Reduced.

OTTAWA, May 25.—The Government announces that an order-in-council has been passed reducing the clearance fees charged on American vessels entering and leaving Canadian ports on the great lakes to fifty cents for vessels of any tonnage.

A Family Quarrel.

ABBEVILLE, S.C., May 25.—To-day John T. Lyon, aged 63, shot D. L. Mosby, aged 26, the husband of his stepdaughter. The supposed cause was a family quarrel. Mosby was a lawyer.

THEIR PROGRAM CHANGED

KING HUMBERT WILL NOT PAY A VISIT TO STRASBURG.

Neither Crispi Nor Bismarck Wish to Over-Excite the French at the Present Juncture—The Labor Troubles.

BERLIN, May 25.—King Humbert's projected visit to Strasburg was countermanded after the Italian embassy received telegrams from Paris reporting the disturbance in the public mind. The arrangements at Strasburg included a review of the garrison and a night attack on the citadel. After Signor Crispi had referred the matter to Prince Bismarck it was announced that King Humbert would not visit Strasburg, but would keep on the Baden side of the Rhine on his homeward journey. Neither Signor Crispi nor Prince Bismarck cares at the present juncture to over-excite the French.

The Ass' Kick.

PARIS, May 25.—The announcement that King Humbert would accompany Emperor William to Strasburg to-morrow was the absorbing sensation in the city to-day. La France, commenting on the subject, says: "King Humbert pays us in generous style for the hundred thousand Frenchmen killed in Lombardy to liberate Italy."

The National says: "The visit is the ass' kick of the fable, but in the present instance the lion is not dead, like the one in the story."

The Temps says: "We cannot believe that King Humbert would inflict a gratuitous wound upon France by insulting her. France's sentiments ought to be held sacred by the son of Victor Emanuel."

Humbert Snubbed by the Clergy.

BERLIN, May 26.—King Humbert attended mass privately this morning in the Hedwigskirche. He was not noticed by the clergy although other sovereigns are always received with ceremony.

Labor Troubles.

BERLIN, May 25.—The situation at the Westphalia collieries continues critical. According to Rhenish papers the proclamation of martial law is imminent. Hitherto the miners have held aloof from the Socialists and have resented their approaches. Now there are symptoms of impatience under the passive resistance of the masters. Herr Weber, president of the Bochum strike committee, was arrested after making a speech last night, in which occurred the phrase, "War against capital, victory or death is acclaimed."

The miners in several pits in Bochum, Gelsenkirchen and Aachen will go on strike again, Herr Hammacher having failed to get the assent of the owners at Dortmund yesterday to the concessions demanded. It is understood that they will be granted after the Berlin convention. The men accuse the employers of breach of faith.

The other strikes grow. The 6000 masons in Berlin, who resumed work under the belief that the employers would grant their demands, will strike again on Monday. Nineteen thousand men employed in the building trades are now out here.

The dock laborers and porters of Hamburg threaten to strike. This would cause serious embarrassment in the supplies of grain and coal for the interior. Coal ships have been lying in port for a week undischarged. The companies are trying to import English laborers.

Flight of a Prominent Socialist.

BERLIN, May 26.—Dr. Belles, the leader of the Socialists at Dusseldorf and a prominent barrister, has fled to Zurich, from which place he has written a letter to the High Court of Justice at Leipsig resigning his right to practice before that tribunal. The cause of his flight was the imminence of his becoming implicated in the Socialist demonstrations at Elberfeld some time ago.

Trying to Crush Bushiri.

BERLIN, May 25.—Captain Wissmann, in a report from Bagamoyo dated May 1, refers to the troubles of the missionaries. He says he recommended the English to take and open up the road through Masailand. Dr. Peters placed 100 Somalis at Captain Wissmann's disposal for a month to assist in crushing Bushiri.

Dynamited by Socialists.

BRUSSELS, May 26.—Saturday morning the house of one of the jurymen in the trial of the alleged Socialists at Mons was damaged by the explosion of a dynamite cartridge. It is supposed that the cartridge was placed in the house by some one who wished to intimidate the juryman. The Liberal journals declare that the result of the trial is equivalent to censuring the Government.

Punished for Fomenting Strikes.

MONS, May 25.—The trial of 27 persons accused of fomenting strikes was concluded here to-day. Twenty-four prisoners were acquitted. The three others were sentenced to three months' imprisonment each.

The Big Ditch.

PARIS, May 26.—Le Paris announces that the issue of Panama Canal lottery bonds has been abandoned.

Pork Dealers Abscond.

LONDON, May 26.—Gustav Wolff and Paul Teschuerhave, extensive pork dealers at Leipsig, have absconded with 55,000 marks in cash belonging to their creditors. Their liabilities in Hamburg and the United States amount to upwards of a million marks.

European Marts.

LONDON, May 26.—On the Stock Exchange business was stagnant at the opening of the week, but afterward there was a general rally. The recovery in American railroad securities continued. New York's buying strengthened values more than business here, which was rather restricted. All securities yesterday closed firm with a fractional rise on the day.

PARIS, May 26.—On the Bourse the past week prices were steady till yesterday, when they became irregular and weak, owing to the report that King Humbert would visit Strasburg.

High-Pressure

Living characterizes these modern days. The result is a fearful increase of Brain and Heart Diseases — General Debility, Insomnia, Paralysis, and Insanity. Chloral and Morphia augment the evil. The medicine best adapted to do permanent good is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It purifies, enriches, and vitalizes the blood, and thus strengthens every function and faculty of the body.

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for years. I have found it invaluable as

BOBCAYGEON.

INSTANT DEATH.—A fatal accident occurred at the Little Bob Mill on Monday. Robt. Harlow aged about 15 years was engaged to attend to the sawdust or refuse carriers that run in the basement of the mill. Between three and four in the afternoon he was seen playing with another lad who was engaged on a somewhat similar job and on being noticed he went to his post. Exactly how the accident occurred is not known as no one was present, but a short time after he was last seen Mr. Thos. Gage happening by was startled to find the boy lying dead on the platform. It is supposed that in loosening some pieces of slabs he got caught by the carrier and had his head jammed against a beam near which the carrier passes. The head was crushed on both sides and death must have been instantaneous. He was buried on Wednesday.—Independent.

The Royal Soap Works at St. Boniface Burnt—Other Fires.

WINNIPEG, May 26.—The Royal Soap Works at St. Boniface were totally destroyed by fire last night, supposed to be the work of an incendiary; loss about $20,000, insurance $7000. The works will be immediately located in Winnipeg.

A Bridgewater Blaze.

MADOC, Ont., May 23.—Twenty dwelling-houses, J. H. Roberts' general store, R. W. Miller's general store, G. Sexsmith's general store, the Methodist Church, post-office and Hon. Bills Flint's large Temperance House, comprising nearly the whole of the business portion of the town of Bridgewater, were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The fire originated in the Temperance House about 3 o'clock. The only insurances on the burned buildings are: On the church $2000, and on one of the dwelling houses $800. Very little stock was saved out of the stores. The total amount of the loss is estimated at from $60,000 to $70,000.

The heaviest losers are J. H. Roberts, R. W. Miller and E. Sexsmith, merchants, about $5000 each. The fire was caused by a defective chimney. But a few dwellings are left in the place.

ARRAYED HIMSELF FOR BURIAL.

Love and Lack of Funds Combine to Cause a Suicide at Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 25.—The dead body of George A. Westerkill, aged 25 years, was found in his room at Deacon's Hotel about noon to-day. Westerkill had attired himself in a full dress suit, and his shirt and white necktie had never before been worn. Beside the bed were found two bottles which had contained morphine. He had evidently contemplated suicide for several days and had himself prepared his body for burial.

Lying on a table in the room, in a way to indicate that Westerkill had been looking at it just previous to his taking the morphine, was a photograph of Lydia Thompson, the burlesque actress. Beside it was a letter from her thanking Westerkill for the flowers and many favors he had shown her during her recent stay in Chicago. Persons around the Olympic Theater say that Westerkill formed quite an attachment for the actress, and that he was despondent after she left for the east. His letters speak of financial embarrassment. Westerkill came from a small village near Ashland, Wis., where his parents live.

Yet another phosphate company's prospectus will be issued next week, namely, the Emerald Central Lake and Lievre District Phosphate Company. SENATOR RYAN DEAD.

One of the Oldest Members of the Canadian Parliament Passes Away.

MONTREAL, May 25.—Hon. Thomas Ryan, Senator for the Victoria division of this province, died this morning, after a somewhat long illness, at his residence in this city.

Mr. Ryan was one of the oldest members of the Canadian Parliament. Thirty years ago he had won a foremost position in mercantile affairs as head of the firm of Ryan Brothers & Co. of Montreal and Quebec. He retired on a competence in 1863, in which year he was elected to the Legislative Council of the old Province of Canada for Victoria. His knowledge of the commerce of the country caused him to be selected two years later as government commissioner to the West Indies, Brazil and Mexico, in pursuance of an attempt to secure better trade relations between these countries and Canada. He was also chosen chairman of the Canadian representatives at the Detroit reciprocity convention of the same year. Similar reasons brought about his election as a director of the Bank of Montreal, a post he held for a number of years. In 1867 he was called to the newly constituted Senate of Canada by Royal proclamation. Mr. Ryan in social and business relations was a dignified and courteous gentleman, kindly in his nature and warmly regarded by his intimate friends. The weight of years had lately told on his strong constitution and made it impossible for him to give that attention to public and private business that had been his wont.

Mr. Ryan was born at Ballinakill, county Kildare, Ireland, on Aug. 21, 1804. He was educated at Clongowes College. In 1871 he married Dudine Wilhelmina, daughter of Mr. C. N. F. De Montenach, grand-daughter of the late Baron de Longueuil, and widow of the late Oliver Perrault de Linere. He was a lieutenant-colonel in the reserve militia and for some time a Catholic school commissioner and a member of the Council of Public Instruction.

Crop Prospects in the States.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The weather during the past week was favorable for all growing crops in the Northwest, central valleys and New England, but the drought continues in the South Atlantic and East Gulf States, where the reports indicate that all crops are greatly in need of rain. Cotton and small fruits have been doubtless more or less injured. Insects are increasing rapidly and gloomy prospects are generally reported. The crop prospects have been greatly improved in the states of the Ohio valley by timely rain but some damage resulted to fruits in this section from frosts which occurred on May 23. Throughout the states of the corn and wheat belt the weather for the week improved the condition of the principal crops although frost caused some damage to early corn and vegetables in Minnesota. Excessive rains and cool weather over the Middle Atlantic States injuriously affected small fruits and tender vegetables but generally improved grass and grain.

The prevalence of scrofulous taint in the blood is much more universal than many are aware. Indeed, but few persons are free from it. Fortunately, however, we have in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most potent remedy ever discovered for this terrible affliction.

'A Spring Message'

From the New Firm of

H. LeBRUN & CO.

Sign of the Golden Horse-shoe.

The people of Peterborough and vicinity are all aware of the business change which took place in the CITY CLOTHING STORE on the first day of February last. The new firm beg leave to make their first bow to the public through the columns of the REVIEW, and to request a careful perusal of the following Spring and Summer circular:—

The City Clothing Store

in past years, by long experience in business, by buying always for spot cash, importing direct from the principal houses of the old country and from the leading houses of Canada, and by strict economy in conducting its business, has always been able to force prices down to an exceedingly fine point. The members of which the new firm is composed will form a still stronger "combine," by which the CITY CLOTHING STORE will be even better prepared to procure for its customers a continuation of those superior inducements in the future for which it has been noted in the past.

Men's Clothing.

The magnitude of our stock and lowness of prices gives us a great advantage over all other competitors in the trade. Y.M.C.A. Notes.

The young men's meeting on Saturday evening was an interesting one and enjoyed by those who were present.

The gospel and song service last evening was addressed by Rev. Mr. Fothergill, late of England, who gave a short practical address, which cannot fail to do good to the young men who availed themselves of the privilege of being present.

The singing at both services was led by the Y.M.C.A. orchestra.

A Bible class for beginners will be commenced next Sunday morning. It will be held from 9.30 to 10.15, conducted by the General Secretary. All young men are invited to come.

The Story in His Face.

John Williams was the name given by a weather beaten individual, who had stamped on his countenance the marks of dissipation which told almost without words the story of all his trouble, who walked into the police station this morning and inquired if he could be sent up to gaol for ten days just to recuperate. The man said he was a plumber by trade and had lived in Toronto, Hamilton and London, but had been the possessor of no place that he could call home for the past three years. He said he only wanted ten days to see if he could rid himself of a pain which he complained of in his side and with which it was impossible for him to continue his journey east on the great shoe line. He wanted to get to Ottawa where he had friends and instead of giving him the ten days for which he asked, Mayor Stevenson gave him a pass as far as Tweed and John was duly grateful, and remarked that this was the first time he had ever had to solicit charity.

NEARLY DROWNED.

Mr. A. G. Mortimer and Family Upset in the Little Lake.

This forenoon Mr. A. G. Mortimer, of the Canada Lumberman, and family had a very narrow escape from drowning in the waters of the Little lake. He and Mrs. Mortimer, with their child, a boy four years of age, went down the river to a friend's on Saturday and were returning when the accident happened. They were in a skiff, with a sail, and had run up from the locks. As they were coming into the lake Mr. Mortimer saw that the water was rough and was about to lower the sail when the wind and current struck the boat, throwing its three occupants into the water and completely capsized the boat. Mrs. Mortimer and Artie, the boy, went under the water, and as they came to the surface Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer both caught the boy. Mr. Mortimer threw one arm over the end of the boat and reaching over it to the other side held it steady. Mrs. Mortimer also took hold of the boat with one hand and held to her husband with the other. They raised their voices in cries for help, but the day being unpleasant there were no boats on the lake and for twenty minutes they remained in their perilous position. At last a boat put out to the rescue from Crescent-st, and Mr. Kelly, at the cemetery, also went out in a boat. From Ashburnham, where the cries had been heard, boats went out, and the rescuers were just in time. The rolling waves seemed to be raising Mr. Mortimer in the water, and he was losing his hold and could feel the boat passing from them when the rescuers arrived. They were taken to shore and driven home, and do not appear to be suffering any from the mishap. Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer both showed good presence of mind, and the latter considerable courage as well. In fact it was a remarkable feat to save themselves and the child in such an accident.

A Wife's Troubles and Fears.

Mrs. McMaster, the wife of Wm. McMaster, who has been on a spree lately, was after the police on Thursday night to have her husband arrested as he had threatened to drown himself. Afterwards the troubled woman came back to the police station with the sad news that the deed was done as her husband had been seen by her two children jump into the dark and ever-flowing Otonabee. Not long afterwards a third message arrived at the police station asking that the whole force be sent up to McMaster's house as he was smashing things generally. A laugh was occasioned at the idea of a drowned man smashing anything, and the unhappy couple were up to themselves.

Crop Prospects.

A correspondent of the Toronto Empire who travelled from Cornwall to Goderich writes in glowing terms of the crop prospects. Of this district he says:—"Between Toronto and Belleville, as far back as Peterborough, and all along the Canadian Pacific line from Toronto to Peterborough, which takes in what is commonly known as the Midland district, there has never been known a season when the crop prospects were more uniformly bright and encouraging. Hay will be an abundant crop all through this district. Wheat, both fall and spring, is looking exceptionally well, and promises a large yield, unless some unlooked for calamity in the shape of a continued drought, or an equally distressing calamity in an overfall of rain occurs. Oats will be a large crop in this district. Peas have been sown to a somewhat larger extent than for the past few years, and are also expected to be a paying crop."

A Fire and a Narrow Escape.

A telephone message called the fire brigade out shortly after two o'clock this morning to extinguish a fire which was discovered in the roughcast house on the corner of Macdonnell and Harvey sts. owned by Mr. C. Sawers and occupied by Mr. John Preston, a miller, who is employed with Messrs. Meldrum & Davidson. The brigade made a remarkably quick response to the alarm, but the fire had obtained such a hold on the building that, although not totally destroyed, it is badly damaged. Mr. Preston, who fortunately was alone in the house his family being away from home, had a narrow escape from being cremated and had to jump from his bedroom window. The fire originated, it is supposed, from the cook stove and had burned beneath the kitchen floor to the stairs, so that when the smoke awakened Mr. Preston he found his escape by the stairway cut off, and was forced to drop from the window and in doing so he struck on a fence which was just beneath and injured his back. Had Mr. Preston's wife and family been at home it is probable that he would have experienced considerable difficulty in safely rescuing them. None of the furniture in the house was saved, but Mr. Preston is insured for $300 in the Ætna and $600 in the Agricultural. Mr. Sawers' loss will be about $800 and is insured for $700. After the fire Mr. F. J. Jamieson invited the firemen into his residence and hospitably treated them to refreshments, which, needless to say, were highly appreciated by the men after their hard fight.

STORY OF A CONVERSION.

Rev. Mr. Chiniquy Addresses Two Large Congregations at St. Paul's and St. Andrew's.

Rev. Mr. Chiniquy arrived in town on Saturday evening and preached twice yesterday, in the morning occupying the pulpit of St. Paul's church, and in the evening preaching to a large congregation at St. Andrew's church.

At St. Paul's in the morning Rev. E. F. Torrance conducted the opening services and read the morning lesson from the 66th Psalm.

AN HOUR'S ADDRESS.

Rev. Mr. Chiniquy has not changed a great deal in his appearance since he visited Peterborough before, and has not the appearance of a man of eighty years of age. The rev. gentleman did not preach a sermon, but in an address of over an hour's duration he told of his work as a priest in the Catholic church and of his conversion to the Protestant faith. In opening he said he did not intend to take a text, but he hoped they had listened to that beautiful 66th Psalm of David which had been read and he said the 16th verse had particularly struck him—"Come and hear all ye that fear God and I will declare what he hath done for my soul." The rev. gentleman said the psalmist had remembered what God had done for him and wanted to have the whole world hear what the Lord had done for him. So it was with him—he wished to tell the world what God had done for him and many of his countrymen, and he could say "Come and hear," and he hoped they would be led to understand as they never had before that God was great in the works of creation, but was greater in His works of mercy towards repentant sinners. He then proceeded to tell of his conversion from the Catholic faith and for over an hour his large audience sat most attentive listeners. The story he told is probably familiar to many as he has given it here before. He said he was born in the Church of Rome in 1809—eighty years ago—and was ordained a priest in the Roman Catholic Church in 1833 and for twenty-five years had labored earnestly and had loved that church better than she loved any of her priests. His great ambition at that time was to spread the Catholic church all over the continent. But his heart was sad, for he had to believe that all outside of that church had to be lost, and he looked out upon the vast number of Protestants who could not be saved, and was filled with a desire and anxiety to rescue them. To accomplish this he began to make a careful study of the Bible so as to be able to

and show to them their error, and in Quebec whenever he came upon a Protestant he had set to work to make him believe that there was no salvation outside of the Catholic church and had had considerable success for he had converted ninety-three to the church of Rome. While he was studying the Word, he said, there was a mysterious voice telling him to come out of the Catholic church, that he was deceiving himself and deceiving his people when he told them to invoke the name of Mary and the Saints instead of Jesus. He had at one time made an address in Quebec in which he had told the people of a purifying fire that was called purgatory, and after this address he said God had come to him and asked him if he was not ashamed to preach a purgatory of which Jesus never spoke in his gospel and the voice told him again to come out of the church. He fell on his knees and prayed to God to silence this voice within him, for he could not persuade himself to believe that the Church of Rome was not the true church of God, but with fears and strivings went on fighting against God. He could not tell the details of this long struggle, but he said God was the stronger and he was there in the faith asking them to praise His name. Mr. Chiniquy went on to tell of his conversion, how he had worked with such success in Quebec that the Bishop of Chicoutimi had come to him and said he was doing such a great work that he wanted him to go into the Western States and help to bring the United States into submission to the Pope. He was to go to the Western States and take possession of part of the country and then bring out French and Belgian catholics and so found a colony in the West, while the Irish Catholics were to go into the cities of the East and before long it was hoped they would be so numerous that all the highest offices would be filled by them, and the French catholics would rule the west and the Irish the east. He told of his going to the Western States, procuring the lands, bringing out the emigrants, and he said his exertions were attended with such success that in a short time he found himself

SURROUNDED BY 75,000 CATHOLICS.

He proceeded with the work of building up the church with great success, but the mysterious voice came back to him saying "Come out, come out from the church!" and one day like a hurricane it came to him with such force that he fell on his knees and prayed for over an hour without receiving any light, but at last the hand of God was stretched forth to him and the mountain was rolled from off his shoulders and for the first time he saw the grand gift God had given—Jesus Himself sent by His Father to give him eternal life, the grand gift of the blood of the Lamb, the precious gift of a crown of the Kingdom of God and a throne in eternal life. The Saviour was saying take the gift, and he opened his hands and accepted and no words could express to the joy of his soul when he realized that the Saviour had paid his debt, and he had exclaimed "Is it possible that the Pope has forbidden me to believe that eternal life was not a gift." He had taken his Bible and pressed it to his lips and swore that he would never preach anything but that Book and never invoke any name but that of Jesus, for he saw there was no need to go to Mary or the saints when Jesus had paid the debt. He had also sworn to do all in his power to help to break the yoke of the Pope and save the people by showing them the grand and precious gift. This conversion took place on a Saturday afternoon and the speaker told of his meeting with his large congregation the following Sabbath morning and the cries and anguish of the people when he told them he had left the Church of Rome. He described the scene in the church and gave the language he used towards the people, telling them that as he had left their church he must cease to be their pastor, but when he had asked them if he would remain with them and preach the gospel of the gift they had all without exception expressed their desire for him to remain. This he had done and the first day there were one thousand converts and at the end of six months two thousand and at the end of the first year four thousand and to-day there were between thirty-five and forty thousand converts, among whom were forty-seven priests, several nuns and a good number of monks, and the work was still going on all the time. The rev. gentleman told them that as Protestants they had been guilty of a great sin in not loving the Roman Catholics and giving to them the Gospel of the gift. The Ontario people, he said, had not done their duty or Quebec would have been won long ago from the Church of Rome. He said the Catholics were increasing in power and if all Protestants did not help in the work there was a danger of the Roman Catholics ruling the country. He had given $30,000 towards the work of rescuing the French-Canadians of Quebec and he urged them to go into the fight unfalteringly and with the determination to win the battle. They could fight Rome with the Gospel, with their prayers, with the example of an exemplary life and with the laws of the country.

The rev. gentleman addressed another large congregation in the evening at St. Andrew's and will lecture in that church to-night on "Rome and Education by Jesuits."

Personal.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Mrs. James Hanlon of Iowa City, Iowa, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John O'Brien of this town. Mrs. Hanlon left Peterborough forty years ago."

It was feared Mr. M. M. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon was not getting better, says the Post, and Wednesday Drs. Thorburn and Strange, of Toronto, came down and held a consultation with Dr. Degrassi. The treatment of the attending physicians was approved. Mr. Boyd is improving, but it will be some time before he can expect restoration to good health.

ENGLISHMEN AT CHURCH.

Rev. G. Warren, of St. Luke's, Preaches to the Sons of England.

It is a custom generally observed by the Sons of England all over the world to attend divine worship on the Sunday which falls nearest the 24th of May, the anniversary of the birth of Her Majesty Queen Victoria, and yesterday, in accordance with this time-honored custom, the members of the two local lodges of the Sons of England marched in a body to St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, when Rev. G. Warren preached an able discourse appropriate to the occasion. The Sons of Albion turned out in large numbers, over one hundred of them being in line. The beautiful Ashburnham sanctuary was filled to its fullest capacity, the Englishmen occupying the centre pews in the church.

THE SERMON.

The beautiful and impressive service of the Church of England being over, the Rev. Mr. Warren delivered a very interesting and appropriate sermon, taking for his text the words:—

"Behold, I have taught you statutes and judgments even as the Lord my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to possess it. Keep therefore and do them, for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations."—Deut. iv, 5-6.

The rev. gentleman said it had been remarked that the highest act of man was worship, and it was easy to believe this, for to worship a man had to realize several important things. He was glad to see the Sons of England present on this occasion to worship, as in so doing they were perpetuating one of the sublimest and highest customs. It would not be hard, the preacher said, to read their thoughts as they were assembled, for during the year they had experienced success, seventeen new charters had been issued, they had been blessed both numerically and financially and had come to return thanks to God, to hear the exhortation of the Word and to ask for a continuance of the success of the past year. But he impressed upon them that more than all this there should be present in their thoughts the recognition of the fact that the strength of the bands of union which bound them together as a society must come from God, for it was only when they placed their trust in Him that they were the recipients of His divine blessing and could expect to prosper and reap a harvest. They were united for the laudable object of alleviating the sufferings of their fellow-countrymen and to make preparation against adversity, but their object of unity was not confined to themselves, but went out to the widows and orphans. For these and other good objects were they united, but, the rev. gentleman said, he had not spoken of the most important, one which spoke of reverence and respect, of liberty and virtue, and of everything that commended itself to the soul of man, the commemoration of the name of Old England. This object was also commendable, for patriotism was a laudable sentiment in the breast of man. The preacher then referred to the development of the principle of personal liberty, of which the name of England, wherever heard, was always suggestive, and which was recognized over six centuries ago when England was first to assert the rights of man as man and to recognize the rights of all classes. The result of this was that England had prospered, and he went on to speak of the religious history of the nation and pointed out several lessons which were taught them as Sons of England by the history of their country. He asked them if they would not perpetuate the religiousness of their nation and exhorted them to cling closely to that God who had blessed their ancestors, and they surely would be blessed. God had blessed their ancestors as a nation and he would bless them as a society.

After the service the procession was again formed and the brethren marched back to their lodge rooms.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The Merchants and Bankers vs. the Professions—A Baseball Match—A Trotting Race.

The first cricket match of the season between two elevens of local cricketers is announced for Wednesday afternoon and a good game is anticipated. The merchants and bankers will see if they know more about the game and can handle a bat better than the professional men, and it is said that betting is about even, although neither side think it wise to risk much on the game, as it will be anybody's game until the last wicket falls.

BASE BALL.

A practice game of baseball will be played on the P.A.A.A. grounds some night this week, probably Thursday, between the Association nine and the Athletics.

A baseball match was played on Saturday between the Collegiate Institute club and the Atlantas, Mr. F. C. Colbeck being umpire. The runs made were as follows:—

The Collegiate team play well together and will make a strong team in time. The catching of Armstrong was especially fine. The boys will probably meet again in a few weeks.

TROTTING IN THE RING.

A trotting race is now on the tapis which, if it comes off, will excite some interest among the local horsemen. There is a difference of opinion among the owners of some of the local flyers as to whose horse can move the fastest, and the outcome of this difference has been that a race will probably be arranged for this week for a sweepstake. The horses that will be in the contest will be Potvin's "Puzzler," Daly's "Willie W.," Brown's pacer, Elliott's "Lady B.," Pettit's "Jerry" and Thompson's "Indian Billy." Each owner will deposit fifty dollars and the purse will be divided into a first and second prize. "Mayflower" and "Royal Jim" are barred from the race.

LACROSSE

The opening game of the Riversides in the Eastern District championship will be played a week from Wednesday, when the Norwoods will play here.

The Toronto Mail of this morning says:—"The West Torontos played a drawn game in Peterborough with the Riverside club of that town on Friday, each club scoring two games. A fifth game was claimed by the home team, the ball having been put through the West Torontos' goal after time had been called, one of the Peterborough men having badly injured the point player of the West Torontos. A good game was played, the teams being very evenly matched, and the best of feeling prevailed." The Mail and other Toronto papers on Saturday had a correct report of this match, and it is not easy to see why the Mail published this incorrect paragraph. The West Torontos did object to the fifth game being allowed, but time had not been called—in fact there was no reason for calling it—and the referee allowed the game.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

MONDAY, MAY 27, 1889.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c., &c.

. . said Pepita, who stood in the doorway. "I!" And she opened her dark eyes in genuine anger and amazement.

"Yes, you," answered Jovita. "And you will be worse than any of them. Girls who think themselves too good to be spoken to are always easiest to coax when they find their match. Let him come and you'll drop like a ripe grape."

"He will never come," said Pepita. "Never!" And there was not a shade of doubt in her look—nothing but cold indignation at Jovita's ill-humour. "I am not afraid of men. They are all stupid. They think they can have anything they want, and they can have nothing. They have to ask, and it is the girls who can say 'No': and then they are miserable, and beg and beg until one detests them. If any one said 'No' to me I would not let them see it hurt me. They should think I did not care."

"You will not always say 'No,'" grumbled Jovita. "Wait until the day for 'Yes' comes. You'll say it fast enough. That's the way with women."

A bewitching little smile slowly curved Pepita's lips and crept into her eyes.

"I am not a woman," she said, looking out at the sun-warmed vineyards. "He said so himself. Filippo said 'You are not a woman—you are a witch, and no one can touch your heart or conquer you.' I will be a witch."

Secretly she had liked these words better than any of the adoring praises she had heard before. She liked the suggestion that she was invincible and safe from all danger—to be a witch—to be free from all this disastrous folly—to be unconquerable. Yes, that pleased her. It was not her fault that they would fall in love with her. What did she do to them? Nothing. She never allowed them to come near her or touch her—she never gave them tender glances or words. She laughed and was Pepita—that was all. Then it was no fault of hers.

And yet her little heart was warm enough. She loved Jose passionately—she loved Jovita—she loved little children and animals and they loved her in return—old men and women adored her because of her simple, almost childish kindness and her readiness to help those who needed her young strength and bright spirit. It was only men who made love who were shown no mercy. She did not understand, that was all. It was as Jose had known it would be. When on the first holiday he took her to the public gardens with Jovita, every one who passed them gave her a second look, many turned to watch her, certainly there was not a man who did not glance over his shoulder at the bewitching girlish figure with the small round waist, at the piquant radiant face, at the well carried little head with the red rose blooming in its cloud of soft black hair. It was not long before two or three who were Jose's fellow workmen sought him out and greeted him with great warmth. They had, it appeared, a great deal to say and many attentions to lavish upon him. Such a fine fellow, this Jose—such a good fellow—such a workman as was seldom seen in Madrid. And what a fine day for pleasure. And the Paseo de la Virgen Puerto—there never were such gardens for sport. And all the time each one looked at Pepita, and lucky indeed was the man with mother and sisters to help him to make friends. And never had old Jovita met with such civilities and encountered such deference.

Pepita had the joy of a young bird in its first flight. The air of gaiety enlivening everything, the people in their holiday clothes, the blue sky, the sunshine, the cheap simple pleasures of the day were intoxicating delights to her. She made friends with the girls and their parents, and was even gracious to the young men who hung about Jose and somehow seemed to find his neighborhood more attractive than any other. It was from one of these young men—his name was Manuelo—she first heard of Sebastiano—the gay, the wonderful, the renowned Sebastiano. He had asked her, this Manuelo, if she was going to the Plaza del Toros to see the bull fight the following week, and when she said she did not know—that she had never seen a bull fight, he found a great deal to say. He described the wonders of the great bull ring, where twelve thousand people be accommodated, and where grand and beautiful ladies richly dressed and surrounded by their lovers, and husbands, uttered cries of joy and excitement as the fight became more dangerous and both bulls and toreadors showed greater courage and fire; he described the costumes, the music, the picadors dashing in upon their horses, the banderillos with their darts and ribbons—the matador with his reckless daring, his nerves and muscles of steel, and his lightening leaps. And then he described Sebastiano. Never before, it appeared from his enthusiasm, had Madrid known such a matador as Sebastiano. Never one so handsome, so dashing, so universally adored. When he appeared in the ring what a roar of applause went up. When he made his proud bow to the president and said, "I go to slay this bull for the honor of the people of Madrid and the most excellent president of this tourney," and threw his hat away and moved forward, waving his scarlet cloak, what excitement their was awakened. Songs were sung about him on the streets, fans were ornamented with pictures of his daring deeds, there were stories of great ladies who had wept their eyes out for love of him, and as to the women of his own class there was not a girl in Madrid who did not dream of him.

"Why?" said Pepita, in her cold soft voice and with the simply cold and curious look in her great richly lashed eyes.

"Because they are all in love with him—all of them," replied Manuelo, sweepingly.

"Why?" said Pepita again.

DARING TRAIN ROBBERY.

An Express Car on the Texas and Pacific Railroad Rifled.

ST. LOUIS, May 26.—The Post Dispatch has a telegram from Dallas, Tex., which says: As the east bound passenger train on the Texas and Pacific Railroad reached the outskirts of the city at 9.30 last night two masked men with drawn revolvers entered the express car, beat Messenger Wray till he was insensible, took his keys and robbed the safe of $1500, pulled the bell cord and when the train slowed up jumped off and escaped.

Winnipeg Wire Whispers.

WINNIPEG, May 26.—The body of Keller, who was murdered near Rainey River, has not yet been interred, the settlers not knowing what to do. Strong feeling exists owing to the inaction of the authorities.

The report concerning the raiding of Superintendent Perry's wine cellar by mounted policemen at Prince Albert is totally unfounded. Some one put up a job on The Regina Leader.

John Kerr, a laborer, died suddenly yesterday from heart disease.

Thirty commercial travelers from the East are in the city.

Lady Macdonald is here.

Suicide at Limehouse.

LIMEHOUSE, Ont., May 26.—The body of Mr. Joseph Snider was found in the creek by his house at Limehouse by Mr. Chas. Meredith. Snider's relations with his second wife were not pleasant and he wandered about from place to place, only returning to his farm at intervals. It is supposed that these things preyed on his mind and caused him to commit suicide.

Then he clasped her with emotion,
Drew the maiden to his breast,
Whispered vows of true devotion,
The old, old tale,—you know the rest.
From his circled arms upspringing,
With a tear she turned away,
And her voice with sorrow ringing,
"I shall not see my bridal day."

This dramatic speech broke him up badly; but when she explained that her apprehensions were founded on the fact of an inherited predisposition to consumption in her family, he calmed her fears, bought a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for her, and she is now the incarnation of health. Consumption fastens its hold upon its victims while they are unconscious of its approach. The "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured thousands of cases of this most fatal of maladies. But it must be taken before the disease is too far advanced in order to be effective. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, it will cure, or money paid for it will be refunded.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

A SUMMONS FOR THE DUKE

HIS GRACE OF CAMBRIDGE CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Mrs. Maybrick Remanded on the Charge of Murdering Her Husband — A Serious Political Riot in Belgrade.

LONDON, May 27.—On application of George Simms, the author and journalist, a summons for the Duke of Cambridge, cousin of the Queen and Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, and Inspector of Police Robinson has been issued requiring them to appear in court and answer to a charge of assault. Mr. Simms complains that while reporting a review of the fire brigade at Whitehall Saturday there was a rush by the crowd and he was unavoidably pushed against the Duke of Cambridge. The Duke caught him by the throat and tore his collar, then Robinson took hold of him and hustled him about and accused him of being drunk.

A Soft Answer, Etc.

LONDON, May 27.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Gill asked Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, whether it was true that a league was forming for the purpose of placing Protestants on farms in Ireland from which Catholics had been evicted. Mr. Balfour replied that there was nothing blameworthy in finding tenants for vacant land even if they were Protestant.

Another Conflict at Falcarragh.

DUBLIN, May 27.—There was another conflict at Falcarragh to-day between evictors and tenants. Twenty-five policemen were injured, several seriously. The superior forces of the besiegers prevailed and the evictions were finally accomplished.

Mrs. Maybrick Remanded.

LIVERPOOL, May 27.—Mrs. Maybrick, accused of poisoning her husband, was too ill to appear in court to-day. The chief of police visited her in jail and accused her of murdering her husband. Under advice of her solicitor she made no reply. She was remanded.

The Surprise Floated Off.

LONDON, May 27.—The British man-of-war Surprise, which went ashore on the Island of Syracuse after collision with another vessel, has been floated off.

Scotland's First Electric Railroad.

LONDON, May 27.—The first electric railroad ever built in Scotland has just been completed. It is the Carstairs Line, running from Carstairs House to the Caledonian Railway in connection with the lines at the former place. The whole length is 1½ miles. The source of power is a waterfall three miles distant. The conductors are rectangular rods of very pure iron, arranged the positive on one side, the negative on the other, about a foot outside of the rails. They are attached to specially designed insulators by an elastic steel fastening which allows of no side shake, but allows the rods to expand freely, and which can be easily replaced if any insulator is broken. The insulators are supported by iron rods raised about ten inches above the sleepers to which they are fastened. The gauge is thirty inches. It is said in the report of the trial trip that a speed of 25 miles was easily attained and might have been surpassed. The motion was smooth, and everything about the new road was satisfactory.

Tolstoi's Reforms.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 27.—The late Count Tolstoi's proposed reforms have been finally elaborated and will be laid before the Council of the Empire with a view to their promulgation on Thursday. The scheme will first be tried in six provinces.

Political Riots in Belgrade.

BELGRADE, May 27.—Serious rioting took place yesterday. Last night a mob of anti-Progressists attacked the house of ex-Premier Garashanine and smashed the windows and doors with stones. The crowd then visited several club houses and printing offices of the Progressists and demolished everything upon which they could lay their hands. The gendarmes were powerless and the regular troops were called out. The soldiers charged, killing three rioters and wounding a number of others. The excitement to-day is intense and it is feared the rioting will be renewed.

THE REMOVAL OF CRONIN.

DETECTIVE COUGHLIN CHARGED WITH THE MURDER.

Yesterday's Developments in the Chicago Mystery—A Strong Array of Evidence Against McGeehan.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A Chicago despatch to The Sun states that the police have been put in possession of startling facts concerning Dr. Cronin's murder. It has been clearly shown by the dead man's friends that his removal was ordered by a committee representing the Clan-Na-Gael Society. Charges of traitorous conduct were preferred against him at a meeting of the Clan-Na-Gael camp. He was found guilty and his death was ordered. The charge was based on the statement of the British spy LeCaron that there were four more spies in America. When LeCaron made that statement on the stand before the Parnell Commission he was ordered to give the names of the spies. He said he dared not do it, because if they were known they would be murdered. Justice Hannen then took him into an ante-room, and in the presence of Sir Richard Webster Le Caron gave the names.

Within 48 hours after this news was cabled from London, nearly every Clan-Na-Gael Camp in America had met and passed resolutions declaring in favor of a rigid hunt for the four spies. Suspicion, justly or unjustly, was pointed to Dr. Cronin. A committee was appointed to try him. He was convicted without having a chance to make a defence, and his assassins were brought here from other cities to carry out the mandate of the committee. The latter were chosen by secret ballot. Positively nothing is known of the evidence that was produced to bring about the conviction, but it is said on the best authority that it was furnished by men who were unfriendly to Dr. Cronin. It consisted of telegrams, letters and affidavits. It seemed almost overwhelming, and Cronin was declared a traitor. His death was ordered under the clause in the Clan-Na-Gael bylaws which says that a man can be "removed" for traitorous conduct. The word "removed" simply means death.

It is asserted that the murderous conspiracy would not have ended with Dr. Cronin's death had not his mutilated body been found. There were other Irishmen on the condemned list and they would all have shared Cronin's fate had the chance to dispose of them safely arisen. It is asserted that W. J. Hynes, the well-known attorney, Father Gleason, Captain J. P. O'Connor, John Devoy and two others had been tried, convicted and their death sentence signed.

The Evidence Against McGeehan.

CHICAGO, May 27.—The police claim that the chain of circumstantial evidence tending to show that McGeehan was concerned in the assassination of Dr. Cronin is tightening around him. The real estate agent who leased the room in Clark-street opposite Cronin's office to-day identified him as the man who rented it. The police say McGeehan was missing from his room in McCoy's Hotel on the night of the murder, and it was because he could give no satisfactory account of himself on that night that he was arrested. T. T. Conklin informed the detectives that Cronin had been warned by friends that McGeehan had told three or four people that he was going to remove Cronin.

Harry Jordan, a man who came from Philadelphia some time ago and who is said to have been an intimate friend of McGeehan's, has been arrested to be held as a witness.

Coughlin Committed for Murder.

CHICAGO, May 27.—To-night an examination by a justice was held at the police station where Detective Daniel Coughlin was confined. Afterwards the magistrate ordered a commitment and Coughlin was taken to the county jail. The warrant was sworn out by John Cronin, brother of the dead doctor. Coughlin is charged directly with the murder.

Luke Dillon, who came here from Philadelphia to assist in finding out the murderers of Dr. Cronin, says he has received a telegram saying the Clan-na-Gael of Philadelphia have sent him $1000 to forward the work.

The report that McGeehan was identified as the man who rented a room opposite Dr. Cronin's office is denied. The few people who saw the man who hired the horse at Dinan's livery stable and drove Cronin to his doom are so uncertain in their descriptions that his identification is very doubtful. Extraordinary efforts have been made, it is said, to get a statement from Coughlin. It is asserted that Coughlin has not been allowed to see his lawyer nor even his wife. King, who was arrested last night on the strength of Woodruff's story, was released to-day. It is announced that the police believe King is all right. Liveryman Dinan and Frank Scanlon, a friend of Cronin, both saw the man who drove Cronin away and they say Peter McGeehan, who has been arrested, was not the man.

Captain Schaack and Lieut. Wing conferred for several hours this afternoon. Capt. Schaack afterwards announced that the police had P. O. Sullivan, the ice man, under arrest. Sullivan was at the conference for a few minutes. Detectives and Justice Mahoney who introduced Sullivan to Cronin were examined at the conference.

Cronin a Ladies' Man.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—A statement which may possibly throw light on the Cronin mystery at Chicago is furnished by Professor A. C. Eimer, organist at the Jewish Temple Emanu-El and St. Mary's Catholic Cathedral, in this city. When Cronin reached St. Louis from Canada in 1869 Professor Eimer gave him a position in the chorus, and for ten years the two men were very intimate. Professor Eimer said in an interview yesterday:

"Cronin had a wonderful tenor voice. I think his murder was due less to politics than to his relations with women. He was a ladies' man. When in St. Louis he frequently told me he feared death at the hands of people who were jealous of him. He told me stories which he said would serve as a clue to his fate in case he should mysteriously disappear. Those stories related to women, not to Irish politics."

Belleville Briefs.

BELLEVILLE, May 28.—Dr. Rogers of Montreal and Dr. Wilson have been in consultation over the case of Mr. A. Ryan, who was injured at Corbyville, and whose condition is serious.

The bridge bylaw was carried in Ameliasburg on Saturday by 179 majority.

Some vandals entered the Canifton-road school house on Saturday night and did a considerable amount of damage.

The Sons of England had a large turnout to their church parade Sunday. The Rev. Bro. A. L. Green preached.

Mr. Sexsmith of Bridgewater, whose store was burned on Friday, was in town yesterday purchasing goods. Mrs. James, postmistress, and others have been, he says, left totally destitute. A private subscription of $100 was raised here for the sufferers and the mayor has telegraphed Senator Flint at Bridgewater, asking what assistance is needed.

An Embezzler in Knickerbockers.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A 13-year-old embezzler, a son of Alfred Spear, President of the New Jersey Wine Company, decamped Saturday evening with $800 in cash and a lot of checks intended to pay off the vineyard hands and other employes of the company at Passaic, N.J. Young Spear wore knickerbockers.

A DEACON'S ELOPEMENT.

He Skips Out With a Pretty Young Lady Bookkeeper and Comes to Canada.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 27.—Canada has afforded refuge for another enterprising citizen of the great Republic. This time it is a highly respectable citizen of advanced age, a deacon of the Congregational Church, and his pretty but unscrupulous lady bookkeeper. Winter and spring have gone off together, to the scandal of the entire good State of Connecticut. Deacon Asher P. Smith resided in Lebanon, and did the largest general produce business in the State, his daily receipts of flour averaging from four to five carloads. He is the father of a large family, and is also a grandfather, being 70 years of age. He is a brother of the noted Roswell P. Smith of The Century Magazine Company, New York, a millionaire.

Deacon Smith two years ago took into his employ, as assistant cashier, Miss Josephine King, a pretty brunette, aged 21 years. She proved herself such an excellent hand at figures that she was made confidential bookkeeper. Their relations soon began to attract attention. Miss King's people were most respectable, but she seemed determined to completely captivate her aged employer, and succeeded. They were finally discovered in a rather embarrassing situation, which led to the pair taking flight to avoid ridicule. Mr. Smith called in all the payments he could, mortgaged everything, and, after borrowing a large sum, started a few days since for Montreal, in the vicinity of which he and his paramour are now located. He took away with him a large sum of money, the extent of which has not yet been discovered. His son has assumed charge of the deserted business and promises all the victimized creditors full settlement with interest inside a year. Deacon Smith's action has nearly broken his old wife's heart.

LYNCHING IN MICHIGAN.

Albert Martin Taken from the Jail by a Masked Mob and Hung.

PORT HURON, Mich., May 27.—Albert Martin, the mulatto who so brutally outraged Mrs. John Gillis, the wife of a farmer living near the city, about two weeks ago, was taken from the county jail about 2 o'clock this morning by a masked mob and lynched.

The doors of the corridor were beaten in with sledge-hammers, a rope put about Martin's neck and he was dragged along the street to the bridge and swung off. He was probably killed by the terrible injuries received while his body was being hauled over the pavements.

There have been no arrests.

Riotous Strikers at Braidwood.

BRAIDWOOD, Ills., May 27.—In response to an appeal by the Sheriff, Governor Fifer has authorized the Illinois National Guard to protect property and persons endangered by the riot here. Adjutant-General Vance ordered a regiment to the sheriff's aid. About 500 strikers from adjoining mining villages, armed with guns and revolvers, marched to the J shaft here this afternoon. About 15 employes were marched away at the end of the strikers' guns. The mob then filled the shaft with pit cars and debris and wrecked things generally. They finally left saying they would return and burn the shaft. Serious times are expected.

REPENTANCE AFTER DEATH.

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott Believes There Is No Limit to God's Mercy.

BROOKLYN, May 27.—That part of the Presbyterian creed in which it is declared that God has foreordained a certain part of the human race to eternal life and the rest to eternal destruction was read by Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott yesterday morning in Plymouth Church, and was made the text of the most notable sermon Dr. Abbott has delivered since he became the successor of Henry Ward Beecher. The sermon was remarkable as containing an outspoken declaration from an eminent Congregational clergyman, and the editor of Christian Union, of a belief in the possibility of repentance after death. God's mercy is not subject to any limitation of time, said Dr. Abbott. He found nothing in the Bible to lead him to believe that the offer of divine mercy was limited to a man's lifetime. If he had found that doctrine in the gospel, it would have been no gospel to him. God's mercy is eternal. If in the far reaches of eternity some wretched beings have forgotten God, it will not be because the door of His mercy is not wide open.

At the Police Court yesterday Edward Stowe, the young comedian who fired off a revolver at Manager William S. Cleveland of the Haverly Minstrel Company, in the Grand Opera House entrance on Friday evening, was up for trial. Mr. Cleveland stated that Stowe came up in the entrance and wanted to talk with him, asking him to look at a letter he held in his hand. Witness replied, "Ed, this is no time for you to be in the front of the house; you ought to be on the stage now; go back and I'll talk to you after the performance." Stowe persisted and commenced to swear, so prosecutor went into the theatre to see if there was a policeman. Stowe followed and fired off the revolver at him. In cross-examination, Mr. Cleveland stated that the revolver was stage property and usually loaded with blank cartridges. It was fired off in one of the acts by three members of the company, of whom Stowe was one. Stowe made a statement in his own defence, stating that he was a little late for the evening performance owing to the difficulty he had in procuring cartridges. The trouble was caused by a letter he had just received stating that his brother had died in Chicago. Several telegrams had been sent him to different places, and he believed that Mr. Cleveland had opened them and had not told him about them. He asked Mr. Cleveland to read the letter and on his refusing he had lost his temper. He intended scaring him with the revolver but it went off in his hand. The Magistrate imposed a sentence of 60 days' hard labor in jail without the option of a fine.

TUESDAY, MAY 28, 1889.

A SUMMONS FOR THE DUKE

HIS GRACE OF CAMBRIDGE CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Mrs Maybrich Remanded on the Charge of Murdering Her Husband—A Serious Political Riot in Belgrade.

LONDON, May 27.—On application of George Simms, the author and journalist, a summons for the Duke of Cambridge, cousin of the Queen and Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, and Inspector of Police Robinson has been issued requiring them to appear in court and answer to a charge of assault. Mr. Simms complains that while reporting a review of the fire brigade at Whitehall Saturday there was a rush by the crowd and he was unavoidably pushed against the Duke of Cambridge. The Duke caught him by the throat and tore his collar, then Robinson took hold of him and bustled him about and accused him of being drunk.

A Soft Answer, Etc.

LONDON, May 27.—In the House of Commons to-day Mr. Gill asked Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, whether it was true that a league was forming for the purpose of placing Protestants on farms in Ireland from which Catholics had been evicted. Mr. Balfour replied that there was nothing blameworthy in finding tenants for vacant land even if they were Protestant.

Another Conflict at Falcarragh.

DUBLIN, May 27.—There was another conflict at Falcarragh to-day between evictors and tenants. Twenty-five policemen were injured, several seriously. The superior forces of the besiegers prevailed and the evictions were finally accomplished.

Mrs. Maybrich Remanded.

LIVERPOOL, May 27.—Mrs. Maybrich, accused of poisoning her husband, was too ill to appear in court to-day. The chief of police visited her in jail and accused her of murdering her husband. Under advice of her solicitor she made no reply. She was remanded.

LONDON, May 27.—The British man-of-war Surprise, which went ashore on the Island of Syracuse after collision with another vessel, has been floated off.

Scotland's First Electric Railroad.

LONDON, May 27.—The first electric railroad ever built in Scotland has just been completed. It is the Carstairs Line, running from Carstairs House to the Caledonian Railway in connection with the lines at the former place. The whole length is 1½ miles. The source of power is a waterfall three miles distant. The conductors are rectangular rods of very pure iron, arranged the positive on one side, the negative on the other, about a foot outside of the rails. They are attached to specially designed insulators by an elastic steel fastening which allows of no side shake, but allows the rods to expand freely, and which can be easily replaced if any insulator is broken. The insulators are supported by iron rods raised about ten inches above the sleepers to which they are fastened. The gauge is thirty inches. It is said in the report of the trial trip that a speed of 25 miles was easily attained and might have been surpassed. The motion was smooth, and everything about the new road was satisfactory.

Tolstoi's Reforms.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 27.—The late Count Tolstoi's proposed reforms have been finally elaborated and will be laid before the Council of the Empire with a view to their promulgation on Thursday. The scheme will first be tried in six provinces.

Political Riots in Belgrade.

BELGRADE, May 27.—Serious rioting took place yesterday. Last night a mob of anti-Progressists attacked the house of ex-Premier Garashanine and smashed the windows and doors with stones. The crowd then visited several club houses and printing offices of the Progressists and demolished everything upon which they could lay their hands. The gendarmes were powerless and the regular troops were called out. The soldiers charged, killing three rioters and wounding a number of others. The excitement to-day is intense and it is feared the rioting will be renewed.

THE REMOVAL OF CRONIN.

DETECTIVE COUGHLIN CHARGED WITH THE MURDER.

Yesterday's Developments in the Chicago Mystery—A Strong Array of Evidence Against McGeehan.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A Chicago despatch to The Sun states that the police have been put in possession of startling facts concerning Dr. Cronin's murder. It has been clearly shown by the dead man's friends that his removal was ordered by a committee representing the Clan-Na-Gael Society. Charges of traitorous conduct were preferred against him at a meeting of the Clan-Na-Gael camp. He was found guilty and his death was ordered. The charge was based on the statement of the British spy LeCaron that there were four more spies in America. When LeCaron made that statement on the stand before the Parnell Commission he was ordered to give the names of the spies. He said he dared not do it, because if they were known they would be murdered. Justice Hannen then took him into an ante-room, and in the presence of Sir Richard Webster Le Caron gave the names.

Within 48 hours after this news was cabled from London, nearly every Clan-Na-Gael Camp in America had met and passed resolutions declaring in favor of a rigid hunt for the four spies. Suspicion, justly or unjustly, was pointed to Dr. Cronin. A committee was appointed to try him. He was convicted without having a chance to make a defence, and his assassins were brought here from other cities to carry out the mandate of the committee. The latter were chosen by secret ballot. Positively nothing is known of the evidence that was produced to bring about the conviction, but it is said on the best authority that it was furnished by men who were unfriendly to Dr. Cronin. It consisted of telegrams, letters and affidavits. It seemed almost overwhelming, and Cronin was declared a traitor. His death was ordered under the clause in the Clan-Na-Gael bylaws which says that a man can be "removed" for traitorous conduct. The word "removed" simply means death.

It is asserted that the murderous conspiracy would not have ended with Dr. Cronin's death had not his mutilated body been found. There were other Irishmen on the condemned list and they would all have shared Cronin's fate had the chance to dispose of them safely arisen. It is asserted that W. J. Hynes, the well-known attorney, Father Gleeson, Captain J. P. O'Connor, John Devoy and two others had been tried, convicted and their death sentence signed.

The Evidence Against McGeehan.

CHICAGO, May 27.—The police claim that the chain of circumstantial evidence tending to show that McGeehan was concerned in the assassination of Dr. Cronin is tightening around him. The real estate agent who leased the room in Clark-street opposite Cronin's office to-day identified him as the man who rented it. The police say McGeehan was missing from his room in McCoy's Hotel on the night of the murder, and it was because he could give no satisfactory account of himself on that night that he was arrested. T. T. Conklin informed the detectives that Cronin had been warned by friends that McGeehan had told three or four people that he was going to remove Cronin.

Harry Jordan, a man who came from Philadelphia some time ago and who is said to have been an intimate friend of McGeehan's, has been arrested to be held as a witness.

Coughlin Committed for Murder.

CHICAGO, May 27.—To-night an examination by a justice was held at the police station where Detective Daniel Coughlin was confined. Afterwards the magistrate ordered a commitment and Coughlin was taken to the county jail. The warrant was sworn out by John Cronin, brother of the dead doctor. Coughlin is charged directly with the murder.

Luke Dillon, who came here from Philadelphia to assist in finding out the murderers of Dr. Cronin, says he has received a telegram saying the Clan-na-Gael of Philadelphia have sent him $1000 to forward the work.

The report that McGeehan was identified as the man who rented a room opposite Dr. Cronin's office is denied. The few people who saw the man who hired the horse at Dinan's livery stable and drove Cronin to his doom are so uncertain in their descriptions that his identification is very doubtful. Extraordinary efforts have been made, it is said, to get a statement from Coughlin. It is asserted that Coughlin has not been allowed to see his lawyer nor even his wife. King, who was arrested last night on the strength of Woodruff's story, was released to-day. It is announced that the police believe King is all right. Liveryman Dinan and Frank Scanlon, a friend of Cronin, both saw the man who drove Cronin away and they say Peter McGeehan, who has been arrested, was not the man.

Captain Schaack and Lieut. Wing conferred for several hours this afternoon. Capt. Schaack afterwards announced that the police had P. O. Sullivan, the ice man, under arrest. Sullivan was at the conference for a few minutes. Detectives and Justice Mahoney who introduced Sullivan to Cronin were examined at the conference.

Cronin a Ladies' Man.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—A statement which may possibly throw light on the Cronin mystery at Chicago is furnished by Professor A. C. Eimer, organist at the Jewish Temple Emanu-El and St. Mary's Catholic Cathedral, in this city. When Cronin reached St. Louis from Canada in 1869 Professor Eimer gave him a position in the chorus, and for ten years the two men were very intimate. Professor Eimer said in an interview yesterday:

"Cronin had a wonderful tenor voice. I think his murder was due less to politics than to his relations with women. He was a ladies' man. When in St. Louis he frequently told me he feared death at the hands of people who were jealous of him. He told me stories which he said would serve as a clue to his fate in case he should mysteriously disappear. These stories related to women, not to Irish politics."

A DEACON'S ELOPEMENT.

He Skips Out With a Pretty Young Lady Bookkeeper and Comes to Canada.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 27.—Canada has afforded refuge for another enterprising citizen of the great Republic. This time it is a highly respectable citizen of advanced age, a deacon of the Congregational Church, and his pretty but unscrupulous lady bookkeeper. Winter and spring have gone off together, to the scandal of the entire good State of Connecticut. Deacon Asher P. Smith resided in Lebanon, and did the largest general produce business in the State, his daily receipts of flour averaging from four to five carloads. He is the father of a large family, and is also a grandfather, being 70 years of age. He is a brother of the noted Roswell P. Smith of The Century Magazine Company, New York, a millionaire.

Deacon Smith two years ago took into his employ, as assistant cashier, Miss Josephine King, a pretty brunette, aged 21 years. She proved herself such an excellent hand at figures that she was made confidential bookkeeper. Their relations soon began to attract attention. Miss King's people were most respectable, but she seemed determined to completely captivate her aged employer, and succeeded. They were finally discovered in a rather embarrassing situation, which led to the pair taking flight to avoid ridicule. Mr. Smith called in all the payments he could, mortgaged everything, and, after borrowing a large sum, started a few days since for Montreal, in the vicinity of which he and his paramour are now located. He took away with him a large sum of money, the extent of which has not yet been discovered. His son has assumed charge of the deserted business and promises all the victimized creditors full settlement with interest inside a year. Deacon Smith's action has nearly broken his old wife's heart.

LYNCHING IN MICHIGAN.

Albert Martin Taken from the Jail by a Masked Mob and Hung.

PORT HURON, Mich., May 27.—Albert Martin, the mulatto who so brutally outraged Mrs. John Gillis, the wife of a farmer living near the city, about two weeks ago, was taken from the county jail about 2 o'clock this morning by a masked mob and lynched.

The doors of the corridor were beaten in with sledge-hammers, a rope put about Martin's neck and he was dragged along the street to the bridge and swung off. He was probably killed by the terrible injuries received while his body was being hauled over the pavements.

There have been no arrests.

Riotous Strikers at Braidwood.

BRAIDWOOD, Ills., May 27.—In response to an appeal by the Sheriff, Governor Fifer has authorized the Illinois National Guard to protect property and persons endangered by the riot here. Adjutant-General Vance ordered a regiment to the sheriff's aid. About 500 strikers from adjoining mining villages, armed with guns and revolvers, marched to the J shaft here this afternoon. About 15 employes were marched away at the end of the strikers' guns. The mob then filled the shaft with pit cars and debris and wrecked things generally. They finally left saying they would return and burn the shaft. Serious times are expected.

REPENTANCE AFTER DEATH.

Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott Believes There is No Limit to God's Mercy.

BROOKLYN, May 27.—That part of the Presbyterian creed in which it is declared that God has foreordained a certain part of the human race to eternal life and the rest to eternal destruction was read by Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott yesterday morning in Plymouth Church, and was made the text of the most notable sermon Dr. Abbott has delivered since he became the successor of Henry Ward Beecher. The sermon was remarkable as containing an outspoken declaration from an eminent Congregational clergyman, and the editor of Christian Union, of a belief in the possibility of repentance after death. God's mercy is not subject to any limitation of time, said Dr. Abbott. He found nothing in the Bible to lead him to believe that the offer of divine mercy was limited to a man's lifetime. If he had found that doctrine in the gospel, it could have been no gospel to him. God's mercy is eternal. If in the far recesses of eternity some wretched beings have forgotten God, it will not be because the door of His mercy is not wide open.

At the Police Court yesterday Edward Stowe, the young comedian who fired off a revolver at Manager William S. Cleveland of the Haverly Minstrel Company, in the Grand Opera House entrance on Friday evening, was up for trial. Mr. Cleveland stated that Stowe came up in the entrance and wanted to talk with him, asking him to look at a letter he held in his hand. Witness replied, "Ed, this is no time for you to be in the front of the house; you ought to be on the stage now; go back and I'll talk to you after the performance." Stowe persisted and commenced to swear, so prosecutor went into the theatre to see if there was a policeman. Stowe followed and fired off the revolver at him. In cross-examination, Mr. Cleveland stated that the revolver was stage property and usually loaded with blank cartridges. It was fired off in one of the acts by three members of the company, of whom Stowe was one. Stowe made a statement in his own defence, stating that he was a little late for the evening performance owing to the difficulty he had in procuring cartridges. The trouble was caused by a letter he had just received stating that his brother had died in Chicago. Several telegrams had been sent him to different places, and he believed that Mr. Cleveland had opened them and had not told him about them. He asked Mr. Cleveland to read the letter and on his refusing he had lost his temper. He intended scaring him with the revolver but it went off in his hand. The Magistrate imposed a sentence of 60 days' hard labor in jail without the option of a fine.

A DANGEROUS DOCTRINE.

Those who have stood firmly by the doctrine of the unity of the Dominion and who have done much to strengthen Canada as a united country, should be careful not to be drawn at this time into a position that might weaken them in a continuance of that policy and that might even prove dangerous to the existence of the Dominion. A strong country must be a united country; if they wish to be prosperous a people must not pull in different directions. Canada is composed of different Provinces which agreed to form a confederacy, and this agreement was sanctioned and made binding by an act of the Imperial Parliament which established a central government for the Dominion and Provincial governments in the Provinces to control local affairs. The fathers of confederation, who might be called the fathers of their country, saw the necessity for a strong national government in order that there might be unity of purpose, for without this efforts to build up a prosperous country would meet difficulties and might be thwarted. If the Dominion Parliament—in which every province had representatives—adopted one policy as being for the best interests of the country, and one or more provinces acted on a different policy, there would be, if the matters dealt with were important, jarring and a confusion natural in a house divided against itself. Under such circumstances progress and development would be retarded and the union would, to a considerable degree, be one in name only. To guard against such a contingency the power of disallowance was vested in the Governor-General. It is a power to be used guardedly and carefully as an important trust, yet a power that the Dominion Government should exercise when it is plain that duty requires it.

These remarks are called out by a resolution recently adopted at a Conservative Association meeting in the east wherein the duty of the Dominion Government is said to be "simply declaratory as to whether or not measures passed by the Provincial Legislatures come within the scope of the British North America Act," which we understand to mean that the Dominion Government's duty is to see whether the acts passed deal with matters within the jurisdiction of the Legislature, and that if they are they must be left to their operation. This has been argued by a set of politicians in Canada of late years, although the same politicians when in office took a different view, but it is a doctrine that is fraught with danger to the unity of purpose, progress and even political union of the Dominion. If an act is not within the competence of the Legislature that passes it—if it is unconstitutional—the courts can so decide; they have the power and authority to do so. Then why should the constitution give the same jurisdiction, the same duty and power, to two different bodies? The Dominion Government can disallow a Provincial bill if it is unconstitutional, but it can do so even if it is not ultra vires. Even a superficial reading of the British North America Act should make this plain to anyone, and the reason why this power is vested in the central government is easily understood. The doctrine that the veto power is simply a declaratory power as to constitutionality would be an unfortunate one for the country if it was taken hold of by the people, and a wrong step such as the one referred to should be guarded against. This has been the the view of the Conservative party and still is of Sir John Macdonald. Last session Sir John used these words in the House:—

"If within the competence of the Legislature it must, as a matter of course, be allowed to go into operation (I know some hon. gentlemen will not agree with the exception laid down in the report of 1869 and carried out since) unless in the opinion of the Government of the Dominion the Act, however much within the competence of the Province, was injurious to the Dominion as a whole. Of course, it is a great responsibility for any Government to take that course and to decide that any Provincial measure is against the interests of the Dominion. But the provision was put in the British North America Act to meet such cases, so that if in any case the Government of the Dominion should believe that an act within the competence of a Province was injurious to the whole Dominion, it was their duty as well as their right to disallow that measure."

The maintenance of principles necessary for the unity of the country is too important a duty to be trifled with.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

PRICES AND PROSPECTS.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, May 28.—St. Lawrence market was dull. The supply was small and the demand poor. The cold weather has sent the price of green stuffs up. No pork was offered.

Receipts of hay and straw were small and the demand poor. Hay sold at $13 to $15 and straw at $10.

Flour—Quiet as usual. Straight rollers are quoted at $4.65, extras at $4.35, and patents at $4.75 to $5.35.

Wheat—Very little doing. On Call No. 2 fall was offered at 94 cents outside, and 96 cents here, with no bids. None was offered on the street.

Barley—Is quiet. On the street one load sold for 51 cents. Holders still ask 55 cents.

Peas—There is a fair demand. Sales outside are reported at 54 cents.

Oats—No change in prices. Light are quoted at 29 cents and heavy mixed 30 and 30½ cents on track. On the street one load sold at 31½ cents.

THE CROP OUTLOOK.

From all over Ontario come cheerful reports of the growing crops, and the outlook is very bright. The warm weather, with rain and cool nights and occasional cold days, has been just what was needed. The hay crop will be larger than ever before. It is so far advanced now that nothing can hurt it. The only contingency that can cause loss to the farmer will be continued wet weather when hay-making time is on. With good weather all the grains will yield a rich harvest. From now on the state of the weather will be a factor in the business situation of Ontario, and will be watched with interest.

Making a Hog Happy.

We were sitting in front of Taylor's grocery on a summer day, when a big black hog came nosing along the gutter and started a new train of thought. In the crowd of loungers was a man from St. Louis, and, after watching the porker for awhile, he remarked:

"I wonder if that hog ever had a real good time in all his life?"

"Hogs allus have a good time, I guess," remarked the village cooper, who had knocked off work and come over to hear some politics.

"I doubt it," said the other. "He must feel his degraded position in life, and so he can not be happy. I wish I could do someting to make him feel that life is worth the living."

"Fust man I ever saw who pitied a hog!" grunted the blacksmith, who ought to have been tacking a shoe on a waiting mule.

"Yes, I do pity him. I have been down myself and know how it is. Taylor, have you got any cherry whisky?"

"Mighty little, if any. More cherries than whisky, I guess."

"If you've got two quarts of cherries which have been in liquor, bring 'em out, and I'll give you half a dollar. I'm going to make that hog happy for two hours."

The grocer got the cherries, which had been lying in liquor for a couple of years, and the St. Louis man poured them out into the gutter for the hog. They were devoured with astonishing avidity, and the porker stood and looked at us and hungered for more. It was doubted by some if the liquor would affect him, but after a few minutes he began to frisk and play, and was evidently under the influence.

"That does me good," said the donor of the cherries. "He is becoming light-hearted, and life will now take on new charms to him. Hang a man who won't give a hog a show!"

Just then the animal uttered a hoarse "woof!" and charged for the crowd. We scattered, and he entered the grocery, took two or three turns, and shot out and down the street. Esquire Smith was coming up, and the hog charged and upset him. He then headed for a house and [illegible] in front of Snider's, crashed against the horse's hind legs, and in another moment there was a runaway. The widow Watkins was sailing along with a can of kerosene in her hand, and the hog rolled her off the walk as if she had been struck by a locomotive. He then charged a double team and started them off, drove into Gaylor's dry goods store and out, and the old man [illegible] turned in from Elm street just in time to be lifted three feet high and rolled into a puddle.

Fifty men were out and after the porker by this time, but he started another runaway, upset a baby carriage, and knocked the register of deeds over his pins before we cornered him and got a rope around a hind leg. Then everybody was mad and wanted vengeance, but when they came to look for the St. Louis man he had skipped. He, however, left a message for the public, saying to a boy who had climbed up an awning-post to be out of danger.

"My son, if you haven't adopted a motto yet, let me throw out one for your digestion. It is: 'Give everything a fair show.'" —[illegible]

To Save the License Fees.

On Thursday next a deputation of the Town Council composed of Councillors Davidson, Cahill, E. H. D. Hall, Rutherford and Mayor Stevenson, will in company with a delegation from the Brockville council, proceed to Toronto to interview the Ontario Government in reference to the amendment to the Liquor License Act, whereby Brockville and Peterborough were the only two towns affected in the Province.

Three Times this Week.

Twice this week the firemen have been called out by alarms of fire and on both occasions they promptly responded. They will be out once more before the week closes and wish all the citizens to be with them at the P.A.A.A. grounds to witness the grand display of fireworks which will be given under the auspices of the brigade. They will be grand, the music that will be rendered by the brigade band will be the most choice and a person who spends fifteen cents to enter the grounds will get double his money's worth.

After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we issue our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. The First Under the Crook's Act.

The first case for violation of the Crook's Act came up at the Police Court this morning before Magistrate Dumble. Chief Rossel laid an information against Mr. T. Cavanagh, charging him with having sold liquor on Sunday last contrary to the provisions of the Crook's Act. Four witnesses had been summoned by the prosecution, but only two responded to their names when they were called. The Magistrate remarked that he intended to have no trifling in these Crook's Act cases and that the witnesses must understand that they had to appear when summoned. He would issue a warrant and they would be locked up and confined in the cells until the case came up and he would not release them, no matter who it was. The two witnesses who were present gave their evidence, but one swore he was not in Mr. Cavanagh's on Sunday but only passed the house, and the other man had been in the hotel but had received nothing intoxicating to drink. The case was enlarged until to-morrow morning to allow the prosecution to have all the witnesses present. Mr. E. B. Edwards appeared to prosecute and Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C., was present for the defence.

TEACHINGS OF THE JESUITS.

Rev. Father Chiniquy Speaks on "Rome and the Jesuits."

It was dark, chilly and disagreeable last night and in consequence there was not a large audience in St. Andrew's church to listen to the lecture on "Rome and the Jesuits" which was given by Rev. Mr. Chiniquy under the auspices of the local lodge of True Blues. Mr. John Carnegie occupied the chair and Councillor J. J. Hartley and Rev. Messrs. Parker and Davis were seated on the platform.

The meeting was opened with a hymn, after which Rev. Mr. Davis read the second chapter of Thessalonians and Rev. Mr. Parker offered up a short, earnest prayer. With only a few words the chairman then introduced the lecturer.

THE ADDRESS.

Rev. Mr. CHINIQUY said he had been invited to speak on a very strange and solemn subject, a subject which it was very difficult to deal with in an address of one or two hours, viz., the teachings of the Jesuits and the dangers ahead from those teachings. The rev. gentleman commenced his address by referring to God's creation of man in His perfect image, and giving to the man and woman His teaching in the Garden of Eden. Under this teaching they were both unspeakably happy, but then the serpent approached Eve and gave her a lesson which was in opposition to God's teaching and unfortunately Eve accepted the subtle teaching of the devil and lost eternal life and happiness and brought desolation and misery upon mankind. But then Christ was sent as the gift to man to save the world and He entrusted the Gospel to the church, which he called the pillar of truth, and commanded that church to preach the Word which was sent to save the world. This was done and there was a period of light. But, then, the speaker asked, what did they see? The teachings of Christ were suddenly stopped and they saw the enemy of God and the enemy of men come in under the form of a man called the Pope of Rome to preach against the Gospel and give the lie to Christ. The rev. gentleman said the disciples had enquired of Christ which of them should be the head, the Pope of the church, but He had answered that in His Church there should never be a head never be a Pope, for He would remain always as the only Head, and gave His promise that He would send the Holy Ghost to guide the Church. But they saw a Pope, an instrument of the devil, who preached that Christ had said that Peter should be the corner-stone,

THE FOUNDATION OF THE CHURCH

throughout the world, which the lecturer branded as the greatest lie ever given to the world. He said they saw nations receiving the false teachings of the Pope and rejecting the light, the Word of Christ, in order to receive the teachings of the Pope, who said, "I am the descendant of Peter, I am the ruler of the Church, and I, the Pope, say if you read the Book you will be put to death." The Church of God, against which He had said the gates of hell could not prevail, the speaker said, was concealed from the eyes of the world, buried beneath mountains of errors and abominations heaped upon it by the Pope, and it seemed as if it had perished. But God remembered the promise He had made to man that His Church should never perish, and He gave the world new apostles, new giants to save the Church from the tomb into which it had been consigned by the Pope. Luther, Knox and Calvin came and their voices rang through all the world and spread again the truth and the Church of Christ again came out of the tomb bright and beautiful. In France, in Scotland, in England and in Spain the voice was heard and the work accomplished was marvellous, and it seemed that the time of victory had come. But suddenly, he said, these great lights went out and the devil came, not as a serpent nor in the form of the Pope, but came incarnated in a new society known as the Jesuits. To this society the devil gave a power so irresistible and marvellous that again the work of God was prevented. The Jesuits began first to stay the march of the reformation by public discussion, but, he said, the nations saw which was the light and which was the dark and continued in the light. Seeing they could not prevail by discussion the Jesuits took up the sword and the Pope proclaimed that every man who read the Bible and who did not subjugate himself to the Pope should die. Mr. Chiniquy then described the scenes of persecution and martyrdom which followed and said

THE TEACHINGS OF THE JESUITS

destroyed the teachings of Christ. The former said that in the presence of the Pope every man must kneel and have or make no use of his conscience, his mind or his common sense, must, in fact, be like a brute. The teachings of Christ always appealed to a man's intelligence, but the Jesuits said a man had not the right in the presence of his superior to follow his own intelligence or common sense but must be like a corpse. In presence of his superior, the rev. gentleman said, a man could not believe his own eyes and Mr. Chiniquy read a few lines from a book he has published on the Jesuits, where it said that if his superior asked a Jesuit if black was white the man would have to say it was if the priest so signified. One of the teachings of the society was that a young man who had a rich father committed no sin if he wished his father dead, provided it was only to get his inheritance. Another one of their teachings was that it was not a sin for a Roman Catholic to kill a Protestant. Another one was that a Roman Catholic would commit no sin if, for instance, he had witnessed a murder and in court he was asked if he was there when the deed was committed, he answered "I was not there," at the same time putting his foot forward indicating a place on the floor. He said he could keep them all night telling them of the teachings of this society, but it would chill the blood in their veins to listen to them. That was the reason that all the

COUNTRIES HAD TURNED THEM OUT.

France had said "We cannot allow the Jesuits to remain in France as they are teaching immorality," and they were turned out of the country, their colleges confiscated and the French said they would never allow a Jesuit to teach a Frenchman again. Spain, he said, had turned out the society as public enemies of morality and even Catholic Italy had declared she could not allow the Jesuits in the country, and these were the men who were admitted to this country by the traitors, sold to the Pope, who had been entrusted with the government of this country. These were the men to whom had been given $400,000 to educate the young in their teachings in this country. He could not give the details of their teachings, he said, as they were of such a vile character, but he told them the Jesuits were ruling them to-day, the Queen had lost her crown in this land. He was a French-Canadian but his heart was sad for he saw a dark cloud in the future, and he came to warn them that the main object of the Jesuits was to drive the Protestants from the country. "For God's sake," he said, "open your eyes. I do not come to tell you that you must attack the Jesuits or the Church of Rome with the bloody sword of persecution, but you must destroy the Church of Rome, break down that wall of error, for if you do not the Church of Rome will destroy you." He said the plan of the Jesuits was to bring Catholics from France and Belgium and in this way by numbers drive the Protestants from the country. He earnestly urged them to contribute towards the funds for the French evangelization work in Quebec and told them he had given his all, $25,000, towards the work and was now trying to raise $3,000 to increase the schools in Quebec for the education of Catholic French. He said many children had been turned away because of the lack of room and impressed upon them the duty of Ontario Protestants in sending the Gospel to the French-Canadians in Quebec. Mr. Chiniquy had several of his works which he offered for sale at the close of his lecture.

The meeting was closed with the benediction pronounced by the Rev. Alex. Bell.

Rev. Mr. Chiniquy delivers another address in St. Paul's Church to-night.

CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE.

A TWO DAYS CONVENTION IN THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Doctrine of Sanctification as Held by the Divine Healers—A Lady and Others Speak.

The convention of the Christian Alliance was opened this morning in the Baptist church. There was a fair attendance of townspeople. The delegates present were Rev. J. Salmon, Mr. J. W. Fenton, Captain Fisher, Dr. Zimmerman, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Hatch, Mrs. Harris, of Toronto, Mrs. Walker, of Philadelphia, and Miss Mattie Gordon, of Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Hawkins, of Peterborough, also occupied a seat on the platform, and Prof. Seward presided at the organ.

Rev. JOHN SALMON, of Toronto, presided at this forenoon's meeting. A couple of hymns, from a collection used by the Divine healers, were sung. After a few minutes spent in silent prayer, Rev. Mr. Salmon engaged in prayer. A hymn was sung and a further time spent in silent supplication, followed again by singing.

SANCTIFICATION.

Rev. Mr. SALMON said they had come to hold a convention on "Sanctification" and "Divine Healing." He was glad that they had been able to come to present these subjects. Salvation, of course, came first, and a sanctified life after, with Christ as the Divine healer. He read from Psalm xl., 8:—"Yea, thy law is within my heart." He dwelt upon the importance of waiting on the Lord, and one who had His law in his heart could do so. God was inclining His ear to hear their cry, and would set their feet upon the rock. Their lives should be lives of calm confidence in God. God did not want to have them looking at the law as written on tables of stone, but would write it on the tables of their hearts. There was deliverance from condemnation, and they could have the testimony of it and live in communion with God. They could have the consciousness that they were pleasing God, by keeping his commandments and doing only that which was pleasing in His sight. They could be delivered also from the law of nature in their members that dragged them down. They could obtain that deliverance by yielding all to God and working for Him, when He would come into their hearts and sup with them. The law in the heart was Christ. He would dwell there, and if they admitted Him and gave Him full possession they would delight in doing His will. Christ dwelling in the heart by faith—that was the doctrine of sanctification they wished to bring before them.

Capt. FISHER said he had been converted fifteen years ago, but he had not understood the doctrine of sanctification. He had from a child known the way of salvation, as he had a godly mother, but by his stubbornness he had kept God out, until his heart was broken and he let Christ in. His life and being was completely changed, yet he at times felt condemnation. Five years ago he was led by testimony to entirely yield himself to God, and there came a calm, sweet, joyous consciousness that God had accepted him. His life had been different since, because he had been kept by the power of God.

A QUESTION.

Rev. J. B. HUFF, of Smith, said he felt a great deal of interest in the subject brought before them this morning. There were those who believed that when a person was sanctified he was free from all sin and was holy. He would like to know if that was the position taken by the delegates.

Mr. J. W. FENTON said he was happy to have an opportunity to answer the question. He had been converted twenty-two years ago, but had lived an up and down life and had felt that that was a true Christian experience. But it was not, as he was not "saved from his sins," or, sanctified. During the last two and a half years, however, he had had the indwelling of Christ, having been led into that experience by the healing of his body. In his flesh there was no good thing, but he had died unto sin. God had made provision for them to live in victory over sin. He had died in the person of Christ, his substitute, and was freed from sin. God, by the power of the Holy Ghost within him, was able to keep him from sin.

Rev. Mr. HUFF said that to him the Word of God was an evidence of faith. Experience without the Word of God was not sufficient. If a man was pure and holy, there must be nothing bad or sinful in him. He read I John i, 8—"If we say that we have no sin we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." The apostle included himself in that. By the following verse it was necessary for believers to confess their sins. The truth of God's word was that they needed a constant cleansing. In the Lord's prayer they were taught to pray, "Forgive us our debts." If they had done no wrong, why should they thus pray? There was sin in nature and sin in act, and though they might not sin in act they had a nature that if given way to, would lead them into wrong.

Dr. ZIMMERMAN said his position was embodied in I. John iii., 6:—"Whosoever abideth in Him sinneth not."

Miss MATTIE GORDON, a tall lady, who spoke fluently and with very clear enunciation, said the Lord's prayer was given to the apostles before Christ's crucifixion, before Peter's denial and before the Holy Ghost had come upon them. After receiving the Holy Ghost Peter did not deny Christ. If she was asked whether she had felt angry or said a cross word since being sanctified, she would have to say she had. She was so sorry that she had not yielded to God as she should, and died to sin slowly. Christ was a man, and was tempted on all points, yet He died unto sin, and they could do so also. God would not only hold their hands to keep them from falling, but would lift them up and keep them from stumbling. She referred to I. John iii., 9, and other passages. In the passage "If we say we have no sin," the apostle referred to the natural state. By the new birth the devil is cast out of the heart and Christ becomes the ruling power.

The meeting was closed with the doxology and benediction.

A meeting is being held this afternoon and another will be held this evening.

A Slight Accident.

This morning Wm. Sanders, a young man employed in Councillor J. D. Baptie's planing mill met with an accident which happily did not result seriously. He was engaged working one of the saws when a piece of board flew from the saw and struck him in the breast with terrible force. Sanders fainted, but fortunately no bones were broken, and, although compelled to quit work, it is expected he will be all right in a day or two and be able to resume work.

To Attend in a Body.

The local lodge of True Blues will attend the lecture in St. Paul's Church to be given by Rev. It is expected that the True Blue Lodges from Cavan and Smithtown will also attend in a body. The procession will be headed by the fife and drum band which has been organized in connection with the local lodge of True Blues and will leave the hall on Simcoe-st. at 7.30.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE GRANTS.

The County Committee Meet Representatives of the Peterborough and Norwood Boards.

The committee of the County Council, consisting of the Warden and the Reeves of the different townships, which was appointed at the last meeting of that Council to meet delegations from the Boards of Education of Peterborough and Norwood, to confer with them in reference to the county grant to the Collegiate Institutes met in the Council Chamber this morning. Mr. John Burnham Chairman of the County Committee, presided at the meeting. Warden Brown and the following reeves were present:—Messrs Geo. Stewart, M. Sanderson, Jos. Forster, J. Finlay, F. Elmhurst, Wilson, J. Moloney, Shaw, Wm. Crough, A. R. Kidd and Jas. Moore. Messrs. Dumble and English were present from the Peterborough Board of Education and Messrs. W. E. Roxburgh and A. R. Anderson represented the Norwood Board.

The committee first discussed the question as to the advisability of dividing the county into two High School districts, Peterborough and Norwood, and it was finally decided as not advisable.

NO SPECIAL GRANT.

Then the question of making a special grant was considered.

Mr. DUMBLE addressed the committee at some length, pointing out that the Collegiate Institute of Peterborough by its course of instruction was more adapted for the education of teachers for county schools than for the education of town pupils, for which latter purpose it was really intended. This he held rendered the Institute less effective for town school purposes and therefore the town should be given some equivalent for the loss of effectiveness caused by the education of the county pupils.

Mr. ROXBURGH, of Norwood, also spoke on behalf of his Board He said their school district was small, but they accepted pupils from any part of the county without fees and, therefore, he claimed that they were entitled to county support.

Several of the members of the committee spoke, the general report being that the ratepayers in the county were opposed to any grant to the Institutes.

Finally Mr. FINLAY moved, seconded by Mr. A. R. KIDD,—that the County Council be recommended to make a special grant to the Norwood Collegiate Institute of $700 and to the Peterborough Institute of $800.

This motion was lost on the following vote:—

YEAS.—Messrs Brown, Burnham, Elmhurst, Finlay, Kidd and Moore.

NAYS—Crough, Shaw, Moloney, Wilson, Sanderson, Stewart and Forster.

The meeting then adjourned.

A Supposed Horse Thief.

A man, who gave the name of Gallagher, was arrested by Chief Rossel to-day in a bad state of intoxication and was locked up. It is supposed that Gallagher is not the fellow's right name, but that he is the man, Burke, who is wanted in Teeswater for the stealing of a horse and buggy. The police here received information from Teeswater, stating that Burke was making this way. This man, Gallagher, arrived here on Friday last with a horse and side-bar buggy which he sold to Mr. John Halpin for $60. A description of the horse and buggy has been telegraphed to Teeswater and it is expected that this will prove to be the man wanted. When arrested Gallagher had a bottle of horse medicine and another of arsenic, in his pocket. A telegram was received this afternoon from Teeswater stating that a constable would be down to identify the horse and buggy.

Howorth's Double Show.

"Howorth's Double Show," which is illustrative of Ireland and the Irish character, entertained an audience of six hundred persons in Breed hall Saturday evening. It was a variety show of the best class and comprised almost every species of theatrical entertainment—a panorama of some fifty landscapes; a comedy in which the twin gossoons, Dan and Dis, appeared alternately as the same individual to the predicament of themselves and the confusion of their acquaintances; solos and choral songs and able renditions upon the flute, piccolo, banjo, bagpipes and cornet; and the most difficult dances, tripped with an accurate ability seldom rivalled in Breed hall. "Howorth's Double Show" is a model of conspicuous merit, and worthy of abundant patronage.—The Bulletin, Norwich. The Double Show will give one night's entertainment in the Opera House, Peterborough, on Tuesday evening, June 4th. 1d124

She Stole Ten Dollars.

Lizzie Davis is a young woman who came from Belmont a week ago last Friday and went to the Grand Central Hotel where she was engaged as a kitchen girl. But Lizzie was not destined to remain long in her new situation, for on Thursday last she left the Central without asking for her week's wages or informing any one of the cause of her sudden leave-taking. Yesterday afternoon, however, suspicions as to the cause of her sudden departure were aroused when Ada O'Brien, a fellow-servant, missed ten dollars from her trunk. Chief Rossel was informed of the suspected theft, and he hunted the Davis girl up, and after a great deal of questioning she admitted that she had stolen the money. The Chief made inquiries and found that Lizzie had been making good use of the ten dollars, having purchased two rings, taken a drive to Lakefield and had a good time generally. The rings were found in the possession of a young man, an acquaintance of the girl's, to whom she had given the two finger ornaments. Lizzie was locked up last night and was brought before the Magistrate this morning, when she pleaded guilty to the charge. Her young man was present in the court and offered to make restitution and pay all the costs of the court if the Magistrate would only deal leniently with the girl. Magistrate Dumble said he knew nothing about the girl's previous character and did not wish to give her a sentence which might injure her for life if she had previously born a good character, and he therefore remanded her to gaol until to-morrow morning, and in the meantime her young man will enlighten the court as to Lizzie's past history, and judgment will be given in accordance therewith to-morrow morning.

REVIEWS.

THE METHODIST MAGAZINE (Toronto: William Briggs.)—The June number completes the 29th volume of this popular Magazine, which manifests increasing interest and literary and artistic attractiveness with each volume. It has four illustrated articles, the first being another of Mr. Bond's clever "Vagabond Vignettes," this one describing the Holy Sepulchre. The Rev. S. P. Rose continues his well-written sketch of "Home Life in Holland," with characteristic engravings. "Studies in Art" gives a number of beautiful illustrations, among them one of Turner's famous painting of the Slave Ship, and a portrait of the eccentric painter. Of very special interest is the article of "The Mountain of the Monks," one of the most singular communities in Europe. The account of the almost inaccessible monasteries, where the visitor is drawn up by a rope to the door, nearly 200 feet in the air, is extremely diverting. Senator Macdonald continues his sketches of Early Methodism in Toronto. Dr. Carman continues his important studies of the Itinerant System, and S. P. Dunn concludes his remarkable series of Etchings of Shakespeare. Two capital stories—Mrs. Barr's "One Wrong Step," and "Adelita, the true story of a Woman's Life and Work"—are also given. The 30th volume will open with important contributions by Dr. Stafford, Miss Daniels, an accomplished new contributor, and other features of special interest. The numerous illustrated articles will be a very special feature.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE, in its June number, pays a graceful compliment to the men who in recent years have borne a large share in sustaining the reputation of its pages for artistic excellence. It publishes an essay by Henry James reviewing the work in black and white of F. D. Millet, Edwin A. Abbey, Alfred Parsons, George H. Boughton, George du Maurier and C. S. Reinhart. Accompanying the article are portraits of these artists, and several views of Broadway, the old English village "in a hollow of the green hills in Worcestershire," where Mr. Abbey and Mr. Parsons have made their home. This number of Harper's is also notable for two "first appearances." Miss Nannie Mayo Fitzhugh, of Kentucky, contributes a short story, "Fother Miss Mandy," and the English psychologist James Sully, his initial effort in fiction "Friendly Rivalry; a story of the Twentieth Century." Professor George Howard Darwin, son of the late Charles Darwin, explains "The mystery and the charm" of "Saturn's Rings;" Joseph Jastrow, Ph. D., gives a clear, scientific estimate of "The Problems of 'Psychic Research.'" In a compact article entitled "The Negro on the Stage" Laurence Hutton makes a beginning in what has hitherto been lacking—a history of negro minstrelsy in America. In his second paper upon "Social Life in Russia" the Vicomte Eugene Melchior de Vogue follows the summer flight of the Russian seigneurs from St. Petersburg to their great estate in the interior. C. H. Farnham is the author of a richly illustrated paper upon "Montreal," of particular interest to Canadian readers, and the famous war correspondent, Dr. William Howard Russell, of an account of "An Incident in the Irish Rebellion." Instalments of "Jupiter Lights," by Constance Fenimore Woolson, and "A Little Journey in the World," by Charles Dudley Warner, together with poems by A. B. Ward, Harriet Prescott Spofford, and an anonymous author complete the list of contributions. In the Departments of the Magazine, George William Curtis quotes a hitherto unpublished letter of Motley to a young literary aspirant; William Dean Howells treats of a much-disputed point in the theory and practice of fiction; and Charles Dudley Warner touches upon the fashion and the art of "social screaming."

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE.—The issue for June marks the beginning of a new enterprise not less notable than the Railway Series commenced a year ago. It is the series of popular articles on The Practical Applications of Electricity, a subject which has become of chief importance in the scientific, commercial and industrial worlds. The opening article, by Professor C. F. Brackett, of Princeton, is entitled "Electricity in the Service of Man." It is an introductory paper which sets forth, in a clear and precise way, some of the common methods by which the more important electrical phenomena are produced, the laws which they reveal, and the principles involved in measuring electrical quantities. The principles so lucidly explained in this article will be fully applied in the rest of the series, which will describe Modern Telegraphy, Electric Lighting, Household Devices, etc. The illustrations in Professor Brackett's paper show some of the best apparatus in a thoroughly equipped modern laboratory, and include a number of rare portraits and several figure-pieces. Among the writers already secured for this series are announced C. L. Buckingham, chief electrical expert of the Western Union, President Henry Morton of Stevens Institute, Dr. M. Allen Starr, a prominent authority on electricity in medicine, and A. E. Kennelly, chief electrician in Mr. Edison's laboratory. Each paper will be elaborately illustrated from special sketches and photographs, which it has been possible to make through the unusual privileges granted this Magazine by the leading electrical companies. Other departments of this excellent magazine are fully up to the high standard already achieved.

PROTESTANTS AT OTTAWA.

Principal MacVicar and Others Address the Open Meeting.

OTTAWA, May 27.—An open meeting of Protestants of all denominations was held in the Grand Opera House this evening. Despite the rain the house was densely packed. Alderman Henderson occupied the chair. On rising after prayer he read this telegram from L. H. Dawson of Montreal:

"Meeting now in session here wishes you success in the struggle for constitutional rights, one law for all Canadian citizens and no state endowment for any church."

Rev. Principal MacVicar of Montreal, who was enthusiastically received, referred to the significant fact of this meeting coming so close on Her Majesty's birthday. Canada was a portion of Her Majesty's domain and the question now before the people was who is to rule this Dominion—Her Majesty the Queen or a foreign alien potentate?

Rev. Hugh Johnston, D.D., said that it had been said as ministers they had no right to step down from their height and take part in this agitation. What! The Jesuits — the Roman Catholics—can go on from day to day, dictate to even the Parliaments of Canada, and must we as Protestants be silent? He for one was going to divest himself of his clericall calling and as a man—a free man—he meant to speak, cut yes and if necessary fight, for our civil and religious equality.

Rev. Dr. Moore made a few remarks and Hon. William MacDougall said that he was quite positive as to the illegality of the act.

Resolutions denouncing the Jesuits Estates Act and appointing a citizens' committee were adopted.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c., &c.

"'Why,'" Manuelo echoed, somewhat bewildered by the frank, indifferent ignoring of all natural reasons in this question. "'Why?' Because he is so tall and strong and well made, because he is more daring and graceful than any of the others—because he is Sebastino."

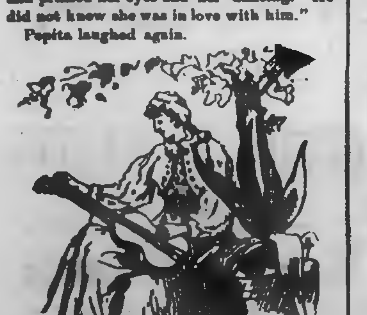
Pepita laughed, and opened and shut her fan quickly.

"Why do you laugh?" inquired Manuelo.

"I was thinking how he must despise them," she answered.

"Oh, no," said Manuelo, who was not very clever, "he is always good to women. There was Sarita—a poor little thing who had always lived in the country. She saw him at her first bull fight and was never happy afterwards. She could think of nothing else and she was too innocent to hide it. She used to slip away from home and contrive to follow him when he did not see her. She found a woman who knew someone who knew him and she gave her all her little savings in presents to bribe her to be her friend and talk to her about him. Once or twice she met him, and because she was such a pretty little one he spoke kindly to her and praised her eyes and her dancing. He did not know she was in love with him."

Pepita laughed again.



"Why do you do that?" Manuelo asked.

"He knew," said Pepita. "He would think she was, even if she cared nothing for him, and since she did not care he would know before she did and would be proud of it, and make it as much worse as he could."

Manuelo gazed at her a moment in silence, twirling his rather small mustache. This beautiful, cool, mocking little person, the melting softness of those eyes and lips should have promised such feminine tenderness and emotion, bewildered him greatly—it was plain that she was wholly unmoved by the glories of Sebastiano and saw no glamour in his romances. What other girl would have asked "Why,"—and in that tone? It was difficult to go on with his story.

"He could not help it that she was in love with him," he said, "And she could not help it."

"Why?" inquired Pepita for the third time, and with a prettier coolness than before.

"'Why,'" stammered Manuelo, "because—because that is the way with all of them."

Pepita showed all her little gleaming teeth, and then put the stem of a rose between them and held it there like a cigarette as she looked under her eyelashes at the people. The rose was not as red as her scornful little mouth.

"He was always kind to her when he saw her," continued Manuelo. "Once he gave her his devise. When she died she held it in her hand and would not let it go. It was buried with her. She was a pretty child—Sarita—but she had always lived in the country and knew nothing.

I have always lived in the country and I know nothing," said Pepita, mocking him with her great eyes, "but I can help anything I choose. It should be the others who cannot help it."

She thought him dull and tiresome, and soon wished he would go away, but he could not help it, and lingered about with all sorts of stupid excuses. The more she bewildered him the more he was fascinated. It was almost enough to stand and stare at her and hear her voice as she talked to the others. How pretty she was—that girl—how she held her head as if she was some high-born lady instead of a peasant. When some passer-by, more bold than the rest, made (loud enough to be heard) some comment upon her beauty, it did not disturb her in the least, it was as if it were nothing to her. Was it possible that there could live a girl who did not care that she was so pretty? But to imagine that she did not care was to make a great mistake—she cared very much. Ever since she had been a tiny child her little mirror and the water of the fountain had reflected back to her this pretty face with its soft rose of cheek and mouth, its dark liquid eyes and soft babyish rings of hair curling on the forehead. She had always heard too that she was pretty, and as she had grown older she had found out something else, namely, that she had a power more strong and subtle than that of her beauty—a power people did not even try to resist. She did not call it by any name herself or understand it in the least. She often wondered at it, and often had a childish secret terror lest the Evil One might have something to do with it; particularly when without making any effort, when simply standing apart and looking on at the rest, with a little smile she had drawn to her side the stupid love-making for which she cared nothing. It was not so with Dolores and Maria and Isabella, who were pretty too. Somehow, handsome as they were, they must use their eyes on their lovers they must laugh and dance and talk to be adored, while she need do nothing but be Pepita.

When, late that evening, she sat with Jose under the vines, the air about them heavy with jasmine and orange and lemon blossoms, she asked a great many questions about the bull fight. It must be a grand thing to see—so many people, such gay colors, such music. Jose could describe it better than Manuelo. He must tell her all about it.

BELGIANS COMING TO CANADA.

A Syndicate Ready to Settle a Colony on the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

QUEBEC, May 27.—M. E. Herreboudt, a prominent Belgian advocate and leader of the delegation which recently interviewed Premier Mercier regarding the settlement of a Belgian colony in this province, has returned to town in consequence of a demand from the Government to be more fully informed respecting the details of the proposed colonization scheme.

M. Herreboudt told me to-day that the deputation which he headed represented a large Belgian company, with a capital of 2,000,000f., which had been formally recognized by the Belgian Government. The company offers to bring out to this country at least 200 families within the next two years and to settle them here in the county of Bonaventure as the nucleus of a Belgian colony, providing the government will give them free lands and the necessary means of communication with it in the shape of roads and bridges. The land asked is on the south shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, well adapted for agriculture and running to the bank of the river, for the proposed settlers are expert fishermen as well as farmers. The company, for its part, proposes to assist the new settlers in the erection of necessary buildings and also to furnish them with cattle, provisions for the first season, fishing nets and other supplies. As a guarantee that they will execute their part of the contract the promoters of the scheme offer to deposit 200,000f. with the Government. M. Herreboudt thinks that the population of Belgium is so rapidly outgrowing the limits of the country and the means of support that it has to offer them that the success of this scheme would certainly be followed by an immense Belgian immigration to Canada. The Government is favorably considering the proposal, the agricultural and fishing interests of the province being still capable of tremendous development. There is every reason to believe that the delegation will deem unnecessary its contemplated visit to South America in the interest of Belgian immigration.

Uneasy Lies the Head.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 27.—Since the recent plot against the Czar's life was discovered extra precautions have been taken to guard the members of the imperial family. The number of secret police has been strengthened and vigilance has been increased at the approaches to the imperial residences. No group of persons is allowed to collect in proximity to the Czar. The review of troops which the Czar had arranged in honor of the Shah of Persia's visit has been countermanded owing to the fear of the Nihilists.

CUPID'S HARNESS.

Most women naturally look forward to matrimony as their proper sphere in life, but they should constantly bear in mind that a fair, rosy face, bright eyes, and a healthy, well-developed form, are the best passports to a happy marriage. All those wasting disorders, weaknesses, and functional irregularities peculiar to their sex, destroy beauty and attractiveness and make life miserable. An unfailing specific for these maladies is to be found in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrappers, and faithfully carried out for many years. $1.00 per Bottle, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

ORANGEMEN AT GODERICH

THE SUPREME GRAND LODGE IN ANNUAL SESSION.

New Warrants Issued—The Jesuits' Estates Act and French in the Schools to be Discussed.

GODERICH, May 28.—The Supreme Grand Orange Lodge of British North America met here to-day for the transaction of annual business. Most Worshipful Grand Master Clarke Wallace occupied the chair. At 4 o'clock Mayor Butler and the Town Council of Goderich attended the meeting in a body, and the Mayor on behalf of the town presented an address of welcome.

Most Worshipful Grand Master Wallace replied thanking the mayor and council for their address of welcome and speaking highly of the beautiful appearance of the town.

During the afternoon the report of the Grand Secretary was read, which showed that the order had made good progress and was steadily increasing in numbers and influence. Twelve new warrants had been issued in Ontario West, 4 in Ontario East, 2 in Manitoba, 1 in Prince Edward Island and 1 in Nova Scotia.

The Grand Secretary's report also had the following:

"Since our last annual session the Jesuits' Estates Act passed by the Quebec Legislature has been allowed by the Dominion Government. I will not take up your time in going into the matter in detail, as you are all aware of the commotion that the allowance of the act has caused, and your Grand Master, who was one of the noble thirteen who voted and spoke for disallowance of the same, will deal with the matter in his address to you to much better advantage than I could do. I would also call your attention to the subject of the French language in the schools of Protestant Ontario, which was brought up on the motion of Mr. Craig, M.L.A., in the Ontario Legislature."

The address of the Grand Master dealt very fully with the Jesuit question, and it is expected that the discussion on this subject will be one of the leading features of the meeting.

CRACKS AT GRAVESEND.

Civil Service Wins the May Stakes and Marauder the Cup.

GRAVESEND, L.I., May 28.—The card to-day was a good one, including the Cup and the May Stakes. Results:

First Race, ¾ mile, $1000, for maiden 2-year-olds—Onway won.

Second race, 1¼ miles, sweepstakes for 3-year-olds and upwards, $1000 added—Bella B won.

Third race, The May Stakes, for 2-year-olds, ¾ mile, $1250 added—Civil Service won.

Fourth race, The Brooklyn Cup, 1½ miles, for 3-year-olds and upwards, $2000 added. Marauder won.

There was very great interest in this race and the betting was very heavy. There was a tip that Hanover had gone 1½ miles Sunday in 2.36, and he was backed heavily. They got the flag at the first offer and darted off in this order: Elkwood, Glen Echo, Eurus, Hanover and Marauder. Taylor pushed Hanover to the front on the first turn and he came into the stretch nearly a length before Eurus, who was a couple in front of Elkwood. Passing the stands Eurus was a neck before Hanover and was edging him toward the rail. Elkwood was third, two lengths behind Hanover. Elkwood and Eurus were lapped at the quarter post. Going up the back stretch Elkwood went to the front and at the old club house he was a neck before Hanover, who was the same distance in front of Eurus. Hanover labored on through the heavy going on the upper turn and Marauder came up on the outside with a rush. Elkwood led Marauder a length into the home stretch and Hanover was at his flank running so gamely that even his friends were surprised. At the last furlong post Marauder was a length in the lead with Hanover next. Marauder, splendidly ridden by Garrison, won by a length and a half over Hanover, who beat Elkwood half a length. Eurus and Glen Echo were close behind. The time was 25¼, 50¼, 1.20, 1.46¼, 2.14¼ and 2.42¼. Many believe this race shows that Hanover is coming back to his old form and that he will regain his speed at a distance.

Fifth race, 1⅛ miles, handicap sweepstakes, $1000 added—J. A. B. won.

Sixth race, 1 1-16 miles—Raymond G. won.

The America's Cup.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The America's Cup Committee met to-day. It is said they are determined on adhering to the conditions of holding the cup under the deed of gift, to which the Yacht Squadron objects. There may therefore be no race this season.

THE MAYBRICH TRAGEDY.

DAMAGING EVIDENCE AGAINST THE PRISONER.

Nurse Japp Produces a Letter Which Creates a Sensation—"Poison for Cats"—General Cable News.

LIVERPOOL, May 28.—The inquest over the body of Mr. Maybrich, who is supposed to have been poisoned by his wife, was begun to-day. Michael Maybrich testified that he had visited his brother during his illness and had warned Mrs. Maybrich that he suspected his brother was receiving improper treatment. The wife insisted upon her right to nurse her husband. Witness thereupon summoned two doctors and a new nurse. He also seized a bottle containing brandy and extract of meat. At a later visit witness found Mrs. Maybrich changing the contents and labels of medicine bottles. He remonstrated and asked how she dared do such a thing. She replied there was sediment in the bottles. Witness again caused a change of nurse to be made. Notwithstanding his precautions his brother died in a short time. After his death the nurse gave witness a parcel labelled "Arsenic—poison for cats." It contained several bottles in which was a white fluid from which the labels had been erased.

Sarah Japp, a nurse, who had charge of the Maybrich children, produced a letter addressed to one Brierly in Liverpool, and which was given to witness to post by Mrs. Maybrich. While on her way to do this witness dropped the letter in the mud. The envelope was soiled and witness opened the letter with the intention of placing it in another envelope. She noticed that the letter contained endearing words. The following sentences attracted her attention:

"Dearest, my husband is sick unto death. All depends upon how long his strength can hold out. Darling, relieve your mind of all fear of discovery now or in the future. In any case do not leave England until I see you once again."

Witness gave the letter to Edwin Maybrich. After Mr. Maybrich died witness found in the linen closet a chocolate box rolled up in a sheet. The box belonged to Mrs. Maybrich and contained a package of powder labelled poison.

Evidence was given to the effect that Mrs. Maybrich bought a quantity of arsenical fly papers and that she apparently tampered with the patients' food and medicine. On one occasion the deceased reproached his wife saying, "How could you do it?" Other witnesses testified to the wife's hatred of the deceased and to her threatening to give it to him hot for publicly upbraiding her.

Local Government for Ireland.

DUBLIN, May 28.—The Irish Times (Cons.) says a government commission of experts which will have no connection with politics will be appointed to enquire into the existing system of Local and Imperial Government with a view of drafting an Irish local government bill.

The Parnell Commission.

LONDON, May 28.—The Parnell Commission will adjourn Friday until June 18. The imprisoned members of Parliament—Condon and John O'Connor—will come to London to testify. Mr. Reid, counsel for Mr. Parnell, produced before the commission to-day the league books.

Burns Had No Sympathy.

LONDON, May 28.—At a meeting of the London council to-day it was proposed that a resolution be adopted expressing sympathy with the Prince and Princess of Wales because of the behavior of the crowds at the Whitehall review Saturday. Mr. Burns, the Socialist member, strongly objected to the proposal and the matter was dropped.

An Uproar in the French House.

PARIS, May 28.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day M. Laguerre gave notice that he would interpellate the Government in relation to the delay of the Senate in making a report in the case of Gen. Boulanger.

President Meline replied that while he was desirous to protect the liberty of the tribune it would be impossible to allow M. Laguerre to make such interpellation. The Senate, he said, was entirely independent in this matter, as the issue was of a judicial character. The Chamber had no right or power to interfere.

M. Laguerre referred to recent interpellations made in the Chamber concerning the slowness of a certain judicial action. The President of the Senate while sitting on a case like that of General Boulanger was similar to an examining judge and the Government had a right to inform him that the procedure was slow. If no debate was permitted on his interpellation public opinion would severely judge parliamentarism and the Chamber would exhibit a fear of universal suffrage.

These remarks caused an uproar. When it subsided M. de Cassagnac declared that M. Meline had taken it upon himself to assume the guardianship of the majority. He asked the Republicans to show some decency and denounced the President's decision as an ignoble mockery of justice.

Here there was a renewal of the uproar. M de Cassagnac in conclusion said if the deputies retained any feeling of shame, courage or duty they would vote to allow M. Laguerre to proceed with his interpellation.

The Chamber, after passing a vote censuring M de Cassagnac, proceeded with the order of the day by a vote of 308 to 216.

Sailed for Sitka.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The United States steamship Thetis sailed yesterday from Tacoma, W.T., for Sitka, Alaska.

Admiral Kimberly has reported to the Navy Department under date of Auckland, May 27: "Samoan natives disbanding. Peace prevails."

In Honor of Sir Julian.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The postponed excursion given by Secretary Blaine in honor of Sir Julian Pauncefoote, the British Minister, took place to-day. A number of cabinet officers, diplomats, representatives, high officials and others boarded the Dispatch and sailed down to Mount Vernon.

A Mind Diseased.

NEW YORK, May 28.—In the Bishop inquest to-day Dr. Briggs testified that a portion of the mind reader's brain was diseased and that Bishop had Bright's disease.

The doctor believes hemorrhage of the brain was the cause of death. Dr. J. A. Irwin said he had felt Bishop's pulse and advised him not to go on with his performance at the Lamb's Club. He did not believe in the cataleptic theory. The symptoms were hystero-epilepsy. Of the death there was no doubt. It was a case where an autopsy should be made as soon after death as possible.

INDICTED FOR MURDER.

The Coils Tightening Around Cronin's Slayers—A Detective's Story.

CHICAGO, May 28.—The Times says Patrick O. Sullivan has made a full confession, and has given the names of every one he knew that was implicated in the murder of Dr. Cronin.

Mayor Boldenwick of Lakeview said this morning that the statement that P. O. Sullivan had made a full confession was not true.

P. O. Sullivan was brought before Justice Kersten this morning and held without bail until June 10. He was committed to the county jail. Frank Woodruff, the horse thief, was brought before Judge Williamson this morning to plead to the charge of larceny as bailee. He entered the plea of not guilty, and was taken back to jail.

A Private Detective's Story.

CHICAGO, May 28.—The Daily News says: Detective Robert Bruce, who had been conducting a private agency in this city, walked into Lieutenant Elliott's office this morning and said several months ago Alderman McCormack had offered him $1100 to kill Dr. Cronin. Bruce, who has just returned from Texas, says McCormack paid him $100 in advance and agreed to pay the remaining $1000 when the job was done. Bruce declares McCormack told him to feign sickness in his office and then send for Dr. Cronin and kill him. Bruce says he took the $100, spent it for liquor and never made a move towards carrying out the contract. Bruce bears an unsavory reputation and the police do not place much reliance on the story.

Before the Grand Jury.

CHICAGO, May 28.—The coroner's jury to-day inspected the blood-stained cottage and other places connected with the Cronin case. The inquest was adjourned until to-morrow.

States-Attorney Longenecker went before the Grand Jury to-day with a number of police officials and that body took up the Cronin case. Iceman Sullivan himself and the officials high and low positively deny that Sullivan made a confession laying bare the details of the plot for the murder of Cronin. An afternoon paper states that Sullivan merely admitted that one of the men who hired the cottage sought work from him, had been frequently about his place and could have secured one of Sullivan's cards if he had desired. It is now said Jordan the bartender, was not arrested as stated yesterday.

Three Indictments.

CHICAGO, May 28.—Detective Daniel Coughlin, Patrick O. Sullivan, the iceman, and Frank J. Black, alias Woodruff, were indicted by the Grand Jury this evening for the murder of Dr. Cronin. This result was reached after an investigation which lasted seven hours, during which two dozen witnesses were examined. The three prisoners were included in one indictment to which there were three counts charging them with killing Cronin with a blunt instrument, the second alleging the use of a sharp instrument and the third instruments and means unknown. No evidence was introduced to prove a conspiracy and Cronin's private papers were not placed before the Grand Jury. The witnesses who were called were those whose stories have been told in general outline if not in detail in the press. Judge Longenecker thought it advisable to tighten the coils into which the three prisoners had already been drawn and fasten them with indictments probably to prevent any attempt to secure the release of one or more of them on bail.

A FRIEND OF CRONIN'S IN TOWN.

The Result of His Interview With Mr. C. F. Long, the Reporter.

TORONTO, May 29.—Saturday there arrived in Toronto Mr. Armand Teefy of Chicago, who is a well-known lawyer in that city and an old graduate of Toronto University, being a brother of Rev. Father John R. Teefy of St. Basil's College, and of Mr. R. B. Teefy. Mr. Teefy was an intimate friend of Dr. Cronin, for whom he had the most kindly regard.

"My only object in coming to Toronto just now," said Mr. Teefy, "was to have an interview with Mr. C. F. Long, the reporter who sent the despatches to the American papers. I saw Mr. Long and had a talk with him. He still maintained that he had seen Dr. Cronin in Toronto on Friday, May 10. My only object in coming here was to see Mr. Long in the hope of vindicating parties such as Alexander Sullivan, who had been maligned. Mr. Long gave me this written statement, which I shall take back with me, and which he wrote at the Rossin House last Saturday afternoon:

TORONTO, May 25, 1889.

To whom it may concern:

This is to certify that up to the time I wrote the despatches regarding Dr. Cronin having been seen in Toronto I had no letter, telegram or any other communication with anyone from Chicago or elsewhere regarding his disappearance excepting the newspapers to which I sent the despatches. (Signed) C. F. LONG.

"I am certain," said Mr. Teefy, "that Dr. Cronin was a dead man by 9.30 o'clock on the night of Saturday, May 4. I do not believe that Mr. Long was influenced by anyone to send the reports he did, and anyone who says so does a great injustice to him. His motive may have been otherwise, but no one in Chicago believes that Dr. Cronin was here after May 4."

Mr. Teefy further said that he had come to Toronto on his own hook and was not representing any society, but as a friend of the dead doctor he wanted to have the matter sifted thoroughly.

A Forger in the Toils.

MONTREAL, May 28.—J. W. Morgan, who is said to belong to New York, and Wm. H. Watson, two alleged confidence men, have been arrested. Morgan was to-day indicted for forgery and for attempting to obtain money under false pretences at the Springfield House where he had stayed. He had registered as P. W. Brown and in his possession pawn tickets issued at New York in favor of John Lewis were found. He is also being charged with highway robbery last week on Owen Sweeney, a Nova Scotian youth whom he and Watson fleeced out of $25. Watson admitted to the police that he had taken part with Brown in the Sweeney affair and offered a settlement this morning. Enquiries at the Merchants' Bank elicited the fact that three other bogus checks in favor of J. W. Morgan, signed by O. N. Chanyard and endorsed by J. W. Morgan, 326 St. James-street, a fictitious number, had been received at the bank last week.

The Daily Smash.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 28.—Two freights collided near Bull station on the Housatonic Railroad this morning. Both trains are a wreck. Engineer Wm. B. Look of Great Barrington was crushed to death. Chas. Olds, a brakesman on the same train, was terribly crushed and died in a few minutes.

St. Paul Earnings.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The St. Paul Railroad statement issued to-day excited much attention. It reports an increase in net earnings for April of $126,987 compared with April, 1888. The net earnings for 10 months of the fiscal year which ends June 30 were $7,095,431.

A Fatal Conflagration.

VIENNA, May 28.—A conflagration in the town of Podhajce, Galicia, has destroyed 600 houses, a church and a synagogue and caused the loss of many lives. Twelve corpses have been extricated from the ruins.

SHOCKING CRUELTY.

An Inhuman Stepmother Drives a Lad Out of the House.

HAMILTON, May 28.—Inspector Hamilton, of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, brought a shocking case of cruelty before Police Magistrate Cahill this morning. Joseph Beddoe, a shoemaker, living at 59 Steven-street, was charged with cruelty to his son. Beddoe said he was not responsible; that his wife was the boss, and not only turned his children out of the house, but sometimes served him in the same way. William Beddoe, a half-starved and poorly dressed lad about 15 years old, gave evidence in the case. The woman is his stepmother. He swore that she knocked him around and abused him. She drove him out of the house, and he was compelled to sleep in the woodshed for several nights until a family living near by took pity on him and gave him shelter. The woman refused to give him food. He told Inspector Hamilton that if somebody did not give him something to eat he would have to steal. Beddoe has another son who is dying in the house. The doctor attending him requests the father to send him to the hospital, but Beddoe would not consent to his removal. Beddoe acknowledged that his wife ran the house to suit herself. The magistrate told the defendant that he should have the dying boy sent to the hospital, where he would receive proper care and attention. The other lad will probably be provided with a home at the House of Providence, Dundas.

HAMILTON, May 28.—Frank E. Nims, a well known traveling man of Minneapolis, was one of the victims of the Junction Cut disaster.

Lost a Leg and an Arm.

MONTREAL, May 28.—A man named King, while attempting to board a passing freight train at St. Henri, near Montreal, this morning, fell between the cars and had a leg and arm cut off.

The Storm King at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, May 28.—The storm that raged last night was one of the severest that has visited this district for many months. Trees in various parts of the city were blown down, and this morning the sidewalks were strewn with branches. At the beach the storm was particularly severe. Four yachts dragged their anchors and were driven down the bay and beached. A stonehooker was also blown onto the beach. At times the spray was driven clear over the beach, and the residents were in momentary dread that the water would wash over too.

Mrs. Wren Was Provoked.

MONTREAL, May 28.—The man John Wren, who had his head cleaved with an axe in the hands of his wife last night, is doing very well, although not yet out of danger. The neighbors state they have heard husband and wife quarrelling on several occasions, and Mrs. Wren says that her life has been unbearable and she feels that she was under great provocation.

Three Barges Ashore.

PICTON, May 28.—James Burlingham, the keeper of the Point Peter light, reports that three barges loaded with lumber went ashore and are going to pieces. They broke loose from a tug this morning. It is feared that the crews will all be lost. A telegram has been sent to the life-saving station at Wellington asking for assistance.

Oshawa Notes.

OSHAWA, May 28.—The County Council will meet at Whitby on Monday next. At its January session a committee was appointed to inquire into and select a location for a house of industry, and of its probable cost. The committee have now reported and the great topic of conversation is the poorhouse. While a majority of the people would favor the scheme others are opposed to it. The coming session will be a warm one on the subject.

Mrs. Frank Cassidy of Cedardale died suddenly yesterday.

The General Assembly.

NEW YORK, May 28.—In the Presbyterian General Assembly to-day Rev. Dr. Crosby offered a resolution setting forth that the action taken by the General Assembly on the temperance question must not be construed as an endorsement of any political party. This was unanimously adopted. The reports of the standing committee on education and of the special committee on the supply of and demand for ministers for the church were discussed. Rev. Dr. Thompson, chairman of the centennial fund committee, announced that $616,000 had been raised for disabled ministers. A resolution offered by Rev. Dr. Stryker of Chicago calling the attention of President Harrison to the evils of the slave traffic in Africa was adopted.

Ex-Mayor Murison of Hamilton Dead.

HAMILTON, May 28.—Ex-Mayor George Murison died shortly before midnight last night. He was a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, where he was born 69 years ago. When quite a young man—forty-five years ago he came to Canada to push his fortunes, and settled at once in Hamilton, establishing himself in business as a builder and contractor. For several years Mr. Murison did public duty as an alderman, and was in 1870 elected mayor of the city. Of late years he has been in the service of the city as building inspector. While still young Mr. Murison married Miss Farquhar, who, with their seven daughters survives him. Of the daughters all are married but one, who lives at home. Two reside in Chicago, one in Buffalo and three in Hamilton.

The Braidwood Riot.

BRAIDWOOD, Ill., May 28.—Eight companies of the Fourth Illinois National Guards pitched their tents on the Chicago, Wilmington and Vermillion coal lands at the "J" shaft this morning and are now scouting the Italian quarters. Twenty-five strikers who approached the camp were surrounded and arrested. On them were found knives and revolvers. Several of the prisoners were identified as participants in yesterday's rioting. It is asserted the Italians are rallying at Godley, Coal City, Clark City, Gardner and Braceville for an attack. Colonel Bennett's plan is to attack the Italian settlements in detail before they can rally. Great activity is noted in the Italian quarters and crowds are seen gathering to rescue their arrested brothers. The residents say the Italians mean fight. Serious trouble is expected.

Luggacurran Evictions.

DUBLIN, May 28.—Eight tenants on the Luggacurran estate were evicted to-day. Many English and American visitors witnessed the eviction.

High-Pressure

Living characterizes these modern days. The result is a fearful increase of Brain and Heart Diseases — General Debility, Insomnia, Paralysis, and Insanity. Chloral and Morphia augment the evil. The medicine best adapted to do permanent good is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It purifies, enriches, and vitalizes the blood, and thus strengthens every function and faculty of the body.

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for years. I have found it invaluable as for Nervous Debility caused by an inactive liver and a low state of the blood." — Henry Bacon, Xenia, Ohio.

"For some time I have been troubled with heart disease. I never found anything to help me until I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I have only used this medicine six months, but it has relieved me from my trouble, and enabled me to resume work." — J. P. Carzanett, Perry, Ill.

"I have been a practicing physician for over half a century, and during that time I have never found so powerful and reliable an alterative and blood-purifier as Ayer's Sarsaparilla." — Dr. M. Maxstart, Louisville, Ky.

The charge against Mr. T. After a Calm Comes a Storm.

So it is in this case. We know that the farmers have been busy for the past few weeks, so we have left them at their laborious task without getting them roused to such a state of excitement that they would have to quit their work and rush to receive the bargains we have been offering; so now we issue our manifesto—don't compare other houses with us. We carry larger stocks than all other pretending houses, we buy in larger quantities and buy for cash, and for the next few weeks will cause a panic among all other grocery houses by offering for sale our entire stock of fine teas to make room for our importations of new teas which will arrive in a few weeks. Those who desire bargains call. W. J. Morrow, 340 George-st.

Could Not Rest Himself Working.

Charles Johnston was a burly, bearded fellow of unusually large proportions, who was charged at the Police Court this morning with being a vagrant and having no visible means of support. Johnston is the friendly tramp who was given a night's lodging at the cells on Monday night and then dropped around the next day when it threatened rain and borrowed Constable Stewart's water-proof coat when that officer was not looking. Chief Roszel arrested him last night as a vagrant and at the Police Court this morning the man told the Magistrate that he had worked in Port Arthur for four months and then came to Toronto where he "got broke" and had to sell his clothes and since then he had been unable to secure employment. The Magistrate said he would give him a month at hard labor in the gaol so that he might have a rest.

The Horse and Buggy Identified.

The man who gave his name as Gallagher, alias Burke, when arrested yesterday, is probably the Teeswater horse thief all right. Mr. Geo. Hardy, the livery man of Teeswater from whom Burke hired the horse and buggy, arrived here last night and identified the property as his, and a constable will be down to-night with a warrant for Burke who will be held here in the meantime. Mr. Hardy says the rig has been gone since a week ago Monday, and he feels duly grateful for its capture here. The way the man came to be detected was this: When he sold the horse and rig to Mr. J. Halpin he received a five dollar bill and a note for $85 in payment, and in offering this note for $45 cash to Mr. D. Conroy aroused that gentleman's suspicions and he inquired if the police had any information of a horse thief. Chief Roszel had received word from Teeswater and immediately arrested the man who proves to have the stolen property, whether he is the man who stole it or not.

An Authority in Woollen Manufacturing.

We take the following from the columns of the American Wool Reporter, and add the comment that the subject of the essay contributed by Mr. Masson was "General process of manufacturing low class of goods." "Some time ago the proprietors of the Textile Manufacturer, Manchester, England, offered a prize premium for the best essay on manufacturing, any subject: competition open to the world, and each competitor to select his subject. The premium has just been awarded to Mr. James M. Masson, superintendent of the Blythe woollen mills Peterborough, Ontario. In his essay Mr. Masson took up the whole process of manufacturing, beginning with the selection of the stock, and treating each process separately, giving what he considered the best process in each department. Mr. Masson is to be congratulated in thus securing the prize ahead of the English, French and German competitors who are generally supposed to lead the world in manufacturing. According to the Canadian Journal of Fabrics, Mr. Masson has already won a reputation as an authority in woollen manufacturing, many of his articles being copied into European textile journals, and are read with great interest by the manufacturing people, which is proven by his receiving many letters from manufacturers in England and throughout the States, asking more information about some of his new processes and discoveries."

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL.

Civil Service Examinations — The Behring Sea Matter.

OTTAWA, May 28.—Promotion examinations for the Civil Service were held to-day in the House of Commons. There were 60 candidates present.

Sir John Macdonald, Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. J. A. Chapleau and Hon. John Costigan have left for Montreal to attend the Taillon banquet to-morrow. Owing to the illness of his brother, Sir Hector Langevin will be unable to attend.

Considerable surprise is manifested here at the action of the American Government in sending three cruisers to Behring Sea. This is regarded here as an implied declaration that the United States will maintain her alleged exclusive sovereignty in those waters. A Cabinet Minister, talking to me to-day, said: "I am hopeful of a peaceable settlement. Negotiations were progressing favorably before the Republicans assumed office. Mr. Bayard had gone so far as to propose an international convention to take steps for the protection of the fur-bearing animals in Behring's Sea and the Sea of Okhotsk. Russia and England have agreed to send representatives. I do not anticipate trouble this year, even though British war ships proceed to Behring Sea. Their presence there is only natural. The Canadian sealers venturing north will be warned of their dangers as usual and will be advised to submit in case of seizure. Canadian seamen cannot expect protection from British men-of-war, unless some flagrant outrage were committed. After seizure the vessel owners can seek compensation through diplomatic channels."

FROM HAYTI.

Legitime's Generals Deserting—The Condition of Port au Prince.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Advices received at the Haytian consulate deny the reports of the late victories by Hippolyte. Minister Preston declares the Dominican Government has virtually recognized Legitime.

According to advices received yesterday by steamer, Port au Prince was in a condition of complete anarchy on May 21. Gen. Piquant had evacuated Dessallines some days before and with only a remnant of his army fled to Port au Prince. Fearing the anger of his commander, he took refuge in the building of the French consulate. As quickly as possible he sailed for Cuba. Another of Legitime's officers, Gen. Proplisto, has also deserted the post he commanded and turned up at Port au Prince. On the day that the steamer left Port au Prince the city was in the hands of a mob. The army of Hippolyte was then reported to be nine miles away, and it was daily expected he would descend upon the city. The people were in an ugly temper. An attack upon the palace might be made any time. Gen. St. Fleur is now reported to be the only officer of Legitime's army outside of Port au Prince. He has only 200 men. There are two French and two English gunboats in the harbor, on which the English and French citizens of Port au Prince are making arrangements to take refuge in case the troops of Hippolyte attack the city. The cruiser Boston will probably be ready to start from New York for Port au Prince on Thursday.

Allowed to go Under Suspended Sentence.

Lizzie Davis, the girl who stole the ten dollars from a fellow servant's trunk while working at the Grand Central Hotel, was allowed to go at the police court this morning under suspended sentence, and the two rings and the two dollars which is all that she has to show for the stolen ten dollars will be returned to the O'Brien girl from whom the money was stolen. The ladies of W. C. T. U. and officers of the Salvation Army have interested themselves in the girl and Mr. Eliss Burnham was also at the court to plead for leniency in the case and offered to loan the girl enough money to make restitution and pay costs. The Magistrate thought this being the girl's first offence that it would be better for her future not to pass sentence upon her and, after giving her some excellent advice, he allowed her to go. The W. C. T. U. will look after the girl.

The Citizens' Committee.

The Citizens' Committee, which was appointed at the meeting in the Opera House on Thursday night last with instructions to see that this town and county are properly represented at the convention to be held in Toronto on the 11th and 12th of June next, to circulate petitions praying for the disallowance of an Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuits' estates, and to take any other action that may be deemed necessary, met in the the Y.M.C.A. rooms yesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance of the members of the committee, and the work of organizing was proceeded with. The first business was the election of permanent officers, which resulted as follows:—

CHAIRMAN.—John Carnegie.
TREASURER.—W. J. Mason.
SECRETARY.—James Davidson.

The delegates to the convention in Toronto were not all appointed and the list will not be published until completed. The petitions praying for the disallowance of the Jesuit Bill were drawn up and are now in circulation for signature. The meeting adjourned until Saturday. A meeting of the committees of the townships of Smith, Monaghan and Otonabee is called for three o'clock on Saturday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. rooms for the purpose of appointing township delegates. At this meeting the town list will also be completed.

CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE.

TESTIMONIES REGARDING CURES THROUGH FAITH AND PRAYER.

The Scripture Quoted—Mr. Wm. Gooderham Cured of Heart Disease—Paralysis and Other Diseases Healed.

The afternoon session of the Christian Alliance convention yesterday was opened with devotional exercises, Miss M. Gordon leading in prayer. There was a larger attendance than at the morning session.

A LADY FRIEND.

MRS. WALKER, who for a time was pastor of a church in Providence, Rhode Island, and who is a Friend or Quaker, said there were two scriptural doctrines that everyone should receive and carry out. One was "Come unto Me," and the other was "Abide with Me." She told of her search for light as to the higher life and how she found it was an act of faith. The question for them was whether they were ready to fully accept Christ. The depressions in their Christian experience resulted from their hearts not being filled with the Spirit of Christ. They should never have a vacation in their Christian life. The soul that abided in Christ would be satisfied with Christ and would not want the pleasures of the world. Lack of faith was the reason that prayers were not always answered—because they had not been abiding in Christ. They should wait upon God—pray to Him and, remembering that they were in His presence, wait for His answer and He would not disappoint them. It was the joyful Christian that was the faithful and successful Christian, and the Christian who abided in Christ was in a position of safety.

DR. ZIMMERMAN told of his difficulties in seeking for the higher life and said he was led into it by watching the life of another. He had been like a sailing vessel, tacking to fight the winds, but since the Sanctifier came in He had put steam power, His Spirit, in the vessel, and tacking or turning aside was not necessary. They were under the reign of the Holy Spirit, when Christ took possession of the weakest vessel and made it walk aright. He related the case of a mother whose prayers for her sick son led to his conversion, and all eyes on the platform and many in the audience were bathed in tears.

The CHAIRMAN, after a hymn had been sung, called upon Mrs. Fletcher, of Toronto, to relate her experience in Divine healing.

DIVINE HEALING.

MRS. FLETCHER, who said this was her maiden effort in public, told of her diffidence in responding to the call to come to Peterborough for this purpose. For years her health had been very poor. Five years ago she was taken seriously ill, but got around again. However, the attacks returned and for two years she suffered in this way though able to be about the house. Then it was discovered that she had a tumor and additional medical aid was summoned. The doctor told her they could not do anything for her for the present, and that she would become worse, and so she did. She took the matter to the Lord and asked, if it was His will that she might be healed, to reveal it to her. She opened the Bible and the passages she found assured her that she would live. She rested upon God's word. For two years she lay in bed, growing worse. In the spring she was weaker than she had yet been; and the doctor asked her if she would call in others to see if anything was possible to be done. When he was gone she took it to the Lord, being led by Him alone. Another consultation was held, and further trouble was discovered, but until she got further strength an operation could not be performed. She did not send for them again, because she believed the Lord would raise her up. She began to improve and the tumor, which had been perciptible, became smaller. She waited until the message from the Lord told her she was free from her infirmity, and then she got up and walked across the room. For four days she got up, but was sore, and returned to bed for a time, always taking her orders from God. She progressed and got well, and only once since, caused by disobedience, had she had one of the spasms of pain. Still for a year and a half she was miserable, and Satan was getting the advantage. She went to the Christian Alliance convention and saw what it was to open her heart for the Saviour as a Sanctifier, and He had made her whole, since which time she had been a marvel to her friends.

Miss Mattie Gordon sang a solo, Rev. P. Clifton Parker led in prayer, and after the doxology had been sung Rev. J. B. Huff pronounced the benediction.

Evening Session.

At the evening session the attendance was still larger, the church being filled to the doors. Rev. Mr. Salmon again presided, and Capt. Fisher led in prayer in the opening exercises.

A collection was then taked up to assist in defraying the travelling expenses of the delegates.

THE TENNESSEE LADY ORATOR.

MISS MATTIE GORDON was the first speaker of the evening. After a prayer she read Miss Havergal's poem "Trust and Distrust." Miss Gordon, by the way, is a good reader and good singer, as well as a good speaker. She then read Galatians v., 13 18. The law, she said, was a strict taskmaster, and the sacrifices typified the great offering of Christ. Not only did Jesus come to save them and was grace free, for the old order of "Do this, and live" was reversed and now was "Live, and do this." Now it was not their works, but the new life principle Christ put in them that was their salvation, and works were the outcome of it. They were called unto liberty and if they were willing to do Christ's service, He would give them a new nature capable of its performance, and in illustration of this she related a personal experience. In the proportion that they would distrust themselves and trust God, they would be made partakers of his Nature. Was it possible for man, with his natural faculties, to live without sin? Adam and Eve were made and lived without sin before the fall, and Jesus was made in the likeness of sinful flesh, was tempted as they were, and lived without sin. Some might say it was because Jesus was the Son of God and could continually appeal to the Father. That was the point. If they had the renewed nature they would be children of God, as He was, with the human nature. If they had faith the Father, Son and Holy Ghost would be with them. They must obey no human call, but always the will of God. Lazarus had life while still bound with the grave clothes, and they needed not only conversion but freedom. Their old nature—the child of the bondwoman—must be not merely kept in subjection, but must be cast out. He asked them to study the Scripture on this subject, and, having obtained the freedom, to stand firm in it.

TWICE HEALED.

Mr. J. W. FENTON said the truth of Divine healing was precious to him, not only because he had received bodily benefit, but because through that he had received sanctification. While travelling through Bruce many years ago he came to a section where a disease, a species of spinal minengitis, was prevalent and very fatal. After returning home one night he was seized with it, but he and his wife united in prayer and he was restored. Yet, strange as it might seem, it did not occur to him that this was a truth that Christians might appropriate. After moving to Toronto he had a number of severe trials. Then he was taken with hemorrhage, went to Bermuda, but returned unrestored, and had an attack of appoplexy followed by an affection of the brain. He went to New York, and on the way the words in James regarding healing came to his mind. He went to a meeting where Rev. Dr. Simpson expounded the truth. He went forward on a general invitation, was anointed and prayed over by Dr. Simpson and his elders and was healed.

MR. GOODERHAM'S EXPERIENCE.

Mr. WM. GOODERHAM, of Toronto, said he endorsed all that had been said that night. The first address, though given by a Presbyterian in a Baptist church, was good Methodist doctrine. To work for God they needed physical strength and mental power. Was it not reasonable that when God made the body His temple He would build it up? Well, he had attended the Alliance convention in Toronto with his mind open to receive truth. He expected in doing so to be called a crank. Before he went out to work for Christ he was considered to be one of the best business men, but now he was said to be a crank and mentally weakening. But he did not care. Let them make a bargain with him and they would see if he was mentally sound. He had been seriously troubled with his heart, and when the invitation was given he went forward and was prayed with. He felt rather worse afterwards, but he still trusted in the Saviour, and the next day the pain was gone, he had new power, even to his finger tips and felt like a boy. That was three weeks ago and he was still free. And with that he received a great spiritual blessing. Shouldn't he be grateful? It was the joy of his life to tell what Christ had done for him. They should exercise constant faith in Christ and they would receive physical strength. Why not? Could not the God who took care of the soul also take care of the body?

MR. SALMON asked all who had full salvation and were sanctified to stand up, and many did so. He then asked those who wished to be brought into the consciousness of an abiding God to rise and a number responded. In response to an invitation to sinners others responded.

The meeting was concluded with prayer and singing.

This Morning's Session.

After the opening exercises this morning in which Dr. Zimmerman led in prayer, Miss Gordon sang an excellent solo.

SCRIPTURE QUOTATIONS.

Mr. J. W. FENTON said that while experiences were profitable, the best proof of the doctrine of the Divine healing was the proof found in the Scriptures. There was much about Divine healing in the old and new despensations. All evil, including sickness, was brought into the world by sin—Deut. xxviii, from the 15th. All had been brought under the curse of a broken law—Gal. iii, 13; James ii, 10. What provision had been made?—Gal. iii, 13; Exodus xv., 26. Throughout the whole history of the Jews they found the people of God going to Him for the healing of their diseases—Psalm vi., xxvii., 214; xxviii., 7; xxx, 1; xli., 1.7; xci; ciii; cxvii, 17-18; cxix; Proverbs ix; 2 Kings xx. There was not a passage in the Old Testament recommending the people to go to earthly physicians. Turning to the New Testament he referred to Matt. iv., 23; viii, 14-15. Their bodies were dear to God as well as their souls. Christ died to save their whole beings, body, mind and soul. There was a deliverance from all the consequences of sin. When Christ sent out the seventy disciples they were commissioned to preach and to heal the sick, and he believed that commission still had force. John xiv., 12; xvi., 23; Acts x 37; James v., 13.

HEART DISEASE CURED

Mrs. Harris, of Toronto, said it was a little over two years since she had taken the Lord as her physician. She had been afflicted with heart disease for years, and had tried many physicians, but was not cured. The last physician she went to said there was a growth on the valve of the heart, and did not hold out any hope to her. Mr. Fenton told her he had been healed and read the Scriptures to her and she was convinced. She knew she was not worthy of favors from God, but after a time she rested on God's promises and was healed immediately. She had been ill of other diseases since, but had been raised up by prayer, having called in Mr. Salmon. Her spiritual blessings, however, had been greater than the physical ones.

AFTER YEARS OF SUFFERING.

MRS. HATCH, also of Toronto, said she was taken ill in January, 1869. One side was paralyzed so that she could pierce it with a needle and not feel it, and her brain also was affected. For years she suffered, although consulting Canadian and United States physicians and visiting England for medical aid, until she heard of Divine healing and rested on the promises of God, when she was healed. After ten days she became discouraged, the enemy got an advantage and she returned to her bed for several months, but again she trusted in God and for three years past she had enjoyed robust health.

MRS. EASTLAND, another Toronto lady, said she had suffered from ill-health, and at an Alliance meeting took Christ as her Healer. She received no immediate benefit, but that night her room was filled with glory and she was healed. She afterwards, not being watchful, had a relapse, but called again on God and had not been ill since.

The convention then adjourned until after dinner.

In a Well for Two Hours.

This morning a peculiar accident happened to a horse which is owned by Mr. J. Wolstenholm, who keeps a grocery at the corner of Aylmer and Murray-sts. The horse had just been harnessed to a wagon in the yard in rear of the shop and in being backed up to turn around the animal stepped upon some planks which covered a well which was not in use. The horse's feet got between the planks and pushed them apart and before anything could be done to save it the animal had fallen backward into the well, breaking the harness and the shaft of the wagon. The well was about twenty feet deep and was just about large enough to receive the horse. For two hours the animal was in the well, but finally, by the efforts of a large number of men with the aid of a windlass, it was extricated from its perilous position apparently uninjured. How the horse escaped death or serious injury is a mystery.

DANGERS FROM ROMANISM.

The Lecture Given by Rev. Mr. Chiniquy in St. Paul's—Local Speakers.

Last night the True Blues, under whose auspices Rev. Mr. Chiniquy has been lecturing in town, turned out in a body, and, headed by their fife and drum band and accompanied by representatives from Jubilee Lodge of Prentice Boys and Orange Lodge No. 49 of town and Lodge No. 178 of Smithtown, escorted the hack in which rode Rev. Mr. Chiniquy to St. Paul's church, where the rev. gentleman was to deliver a lecture on "The Dangers ahead from Romanism." The church was well filled and the audience sat and listened to the lecturer's two hour address apparently with the most intent interest.

Mr. Robt. Weir occupied the chair and Councillor J. J. Hartley and Rev. Messrs. Torrance, Bell and Pearson were seated on the platform. The meeting was opened with a hymn and a short prayer by Rev. Mr. Torrance, and then the chairman in a few words of introduction called upon the lecturer of the evening whom he said required no eloquent words from him as he was known the world over.

THE OCTOGENARIAN'S ADDRESS.

Rev. Mr. CHINIQUY said the subject upon which he was to speak was a more solemn one than many of them supposed—"The Dangers ahead from Romanism." They all knew that not many years ago their ancestors had been all Roman Catholics, and there had been great darkness over the hills of Scotland and the valleys of England. At that time, the lecturer said, their ancestors did not comprehend that they had been saved by the blood of Christ, and instead of going to the blood of the Lamb to cleanse their sins and instead of invoking the name Jesus they went to the feet of Mary. They believed that they had to go and spend millions of years in a prison of fire, called purgatory, and were told that the only way to escape this fire was to give a great deal of money to the priests who would bridge this gulf with their masses. So their ancestors had been, but the God of heaven looked down in mercy and a voice had been heard on the hills of Scotland and on the plains of England saying "Take My Book and read it and let it be a lamp to your feet." And their ancestors had taken the Book and read it and great was their joy when they saw that God had paid the debt and that salvation was a gift and that purgatory was a fraud. But then the voice of the Pope was heard from Rome asking the Bishops why they did not take that Book from the people. But the Bishops had answered that the people loved the Bible and they could not take it from them. Then the Pope wrote to the Emperors and Kings of Europe and told them to take up the sword and to seach for and destroy all Bibles, and where a person refused to give it up he was to be put to death. Then bloodshed and persecution followed and the lecturer dwelt on the scenes of martyrdom which was witnessed at that time. But, said the lecturer, there were heroes, mighty giants, in Scotland in those days who said it was better to than be enslaved by the Pope and they took up arms and met the armies of Rome. There were mighty battles and determined fightings, but after many long battles, he said, God looked down and Jesus came to the help of his redeemed ones and at the battle of the Boyne the armies of the Pope were broken and from that day till the present no Pope or bishop dare put a Britisher to death for reading his Bible. Mr. Chiniquy said some might ask him why he came to address them and tell them of these things in history of which they all knew, and why did he wish to arouse feelings amongst the Protestants against the Catholics for the Church of Rome to-day was not the bloody church of the past. But, he said, that was a big mistake. He came to tell them of their terrible mistake and to warn them that the Church of Rome was not changed, could not change, but was the same bloody church of their ancestors. To-day, he said, it was the wish and desire of every Catholic that the Protestants should be put to death, and, perhaps, before they (the Protestants) expected that desire might be carried out. There were too many Orangemen for Rome to do this now, but she would bide her time. Some people might think he was exaggerating, but he said he had a witness there to prove to them that it was the wish and desire of the Church of Rome to exterminate all Protestants, and that witness was himself. He had been a priest of that church for twenty-five years and when he had left that church the Bishop in Quebec had told him to his face that he would be killed. He had answered that God was his guardian and he intended to fight the Church of Rome until he died. He came to tell them of this danger ahead from the Church of Rome and he had with him one of the text books of the Jesuits which is now being secretely taught in all the schools in Rome in which they were told of the duties of Roman Catholics towards Protestants. The book was printed in Latin and Mr. Chiniquy asked Rev. Mr. Torrence to translate a paragraph in the book which said that was first to admonish the heretic, and then if the latter did not accept the teachings of the Church of Rome, he should not only be excommunicated but exterminated. Rev. Mr. Chiniquy told his hearers not to think this a joke, for it was a serious matter. They might think the priests very agreeable and friendly fellows, but, he said, every one of them were in duty bound to do all in their power to exterminate the Protestants. He referred to the twelve young men who were sentenced to death in Spain only some twenty-nine years ago for reading their Bible, and were only saved when the people of England and the Queen petitioned to have them released. He had seen and taken by the hand these very martyrs. He said the Jesuits when they came to this country when the French ruled had brought a law with them which said that no Protestant could stay longer than ten days in the country under penalty of death, life imprisonment or exile. Such were the laws of the Jesuits and the Church of Rome, and they had never been repealed. A Catholic could murder a Protestant that night and go to confession and tell his priest and the father confessor would tell him that was the best act he could do. The lecturer then went on to relate his own experience, telling of attempts that had been made upon his life by Catholics, who, he said, were inspired in their acts by the priests, of his many narrow and thrilling escapes and of the many plots that had been laid to have him incarcerated in the penitentiary. He said he had lived for sixteen years a prisoner on bail and had stood his trial before many criminal courts, but his innocence had always been proven, and in one case a priest, who had bribed seventy-two witnesses to perjure themselves in order to convict him, had been himself sent to penitentiary for fifteen years for his conduct. In those times of danger, he said, the Orangemen had always been his protectors and he would always pray for the Order. He said he told them these things to show them the dangers and not to arouse their feelings against Roman Catholics. He told them they should love the Catholics, and should destroy the Church of Rome by converting them and sending to them the Bible. In closing he urged them to aid in the French evangelization work in Quebec, where he was doing a great work.

LOCAL VOICES HEARD.

Councillor J. J. HARTLEY then rose to move that the thanks of the meeting be tendered to the rev. lecturer for his able address, which, Mr. Hartley said, he believed had been highly appreciated. He hoped it would be taken to heart, for he felt satisfied that they should have their eyes open and know where they were.

Rev. ALEX. BELL in seconding the resolution of thanks said he supposed they all knew he was not a Canadian born, and that his younger days had been spent in closer relation to this system to which the lecturer referred and he knew consequently considerable about it, and had often thought that some people, if not asleep, must be dozing and did not realize the danger of the encroachments of the Roman Catholic church. He did not, he said, regret what had come upon Canada for he hoped it would awaken many who had been sleeping to the true state of affairs. A great many said there was no necessity for stirring up hard feelings but, he said, while charity was a good thing, yet they might find that the grip had become too tight and they might not be able to shake it off. He was glad that the stirring up had come, but he hoped that men when stirred up would act calmly and advisedly and not do anything hastily. He hoped the agitation which had been begun would not be stayed.

Rev. Mr. PEARSON supported the resolution with a few remarks in which he referred kindly to the rev. lecturer and said he was glad with Mr. Bell that there had been a stirring among the dry bones and he said he believed all that Mr. Chiniquy had said and ten times more.

Rev. Mr. CHINIQUY acknowledged the resolution and the meeting closed with the benediction.

A petition which is in circulation asking the Governor-General to take action to disallow the Jesuit Bill, was at the door of the church and was largely signed by the voters present.

After the lecture the procession was again formed and Rev. Mr. Chiniquy was escorted to the residence of Rev. Mr. Torrance where he is staying.

It is probable that Rev. Mr. Chiniquy will lecture here again on Thursday evening next.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 29, 1889.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c., &c.

He described it as well as he could, and in spite of his slow speech made quite an exciting picture for her; or rather she found it exciting, as she found all things just now in their novelty. Before Jovita and she had arrived, while he was making his small preparations for them, he had seen a bull fight or so, and no point of detail had escaped his deliberate mind. He always remembered things—Jose.

"But you shall go," he said; "you shall go and see for yourself the very next time. It comes next week. We will go and take Jovita."

Pepita clapped her hands for joy. She sprang up and danced a few steps in her childish delight.

"That will be happiness," she said. "What happiness! Perhaps the King and Queen will be there."

"You will see Sebastiano," said Jose soberly.

"I do not care for Sebastiano," cried Pepita petulantly.

"You do not care," said Jose in blank amaze, "for Sebastiano! You do not care!"

Pepita shrugged her shoulders.

"They talk too much of him," she answered, "and he is too vain. He thinks all women are in love with him, and that if a girl comes from the country she knows nothing and will die of love if she only sees him."

"I did not know that," said Jose staring. "I never heard them say so. They call him a fine fellow."

"I never heard them say so," Pepita answered scornfully; "but I know it. I am sure he is a fool," which remark caused Jose much bewilderment, and led him to reflect long and deeply, but did not, however, lead him to any conclusion but that Pepita was ruled by one of her caprices. He was rather afraid to admit that he himself had enjoyed the magnificent honor of seeing this great hero out of the ring, that through a quite miraculous favor he had even been allowed to speak to him, and to hear him speak as he stood, the centre of a circle of admirers in a wine shop. He had been saving this to tell Pepita, but now he thought it well to save it a little longer.

But when the day of the bull fight arrived it was not possible to conceal it.

Ah! the wonders—the splendours of that day from the first hour! At its very dawning Pepita was up and singing. Jovita must take her rest that she might be in her best humour to enjoy the festivities, and not spoil them by grumbling. Pepita needed no rest—her little feet danced as she moved—as she made her preparations for the morning meal she chatted incessantly to Jose, asking a thousand questions. Everything conspired to add to her joys. The sky was deep brilliant blue—but there was a light breeze to make the heat bearable—the birds sang until their little throats throbbed, the flowers in the garden seemed to have flung out new masses of bloom to make the small world about them brighter. In her chamber, near the roof, Pepita's gala dress lay upon her bed, her new little shoes upon the floor; she had seen them in the moonlight each time she had awakened in the night. A year ago it would not have seemed possible that such pretty finery could ever be hers, even in dreams; but now almost anything seemed possible in this new and enchanting life.

And when she was dressed how bewitching she was—how her rose of a face glowed and dimpled—how enchanting was the velvet darkness of her eyes, how airy the pile of her little black head, with its brilliant flower tucked in at the side of the knot of curly hair. Jovita stared at her and made a queer half-internal sound of exclamation—it was not her way to express approval at all freely, and she had no opinion of people who wasted time in telling girls they were pretty. But Jose looked at the girl as he might have looked at some rare tropical bird which had suddenly flown into the house. He looked and looked again, pulling his moustache, his not always alert face warming.

"Yes, yes," he said, "it all looks very well; that dress is pretty. None of the other girls will look better. Even Candida——"

Pepita laughed. Candida had been considered a great beauty in the village they had left, but she knew she was prettier than Candida.

Jose laughed also, though he scarcely knew why. Then with rather a cautious and uncertain air he produced a gay fan—a cheap one, but brilliant with color.

"This——," he began.

Pepita caught it from him, and unfurled it with a quick turn of her wrist. On one side was a picture—a dashing, erect figure in a richly hued costume.

"It is Sebastiano," said Jose, guiltily.

Pepita nodded her head and smiled.

"I knew it," she said; "I knew he would look like that."

"There is no other man who can slay a bull as he can," said Jose.

"Let him slay them," answered Pepita. And she stood and waved her fan in the prettiest inscrutable air in the world.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Trouble Between Two Jocks—The Coming Local Elections.

TORONTO, May 29.—Dick O'Leary, who piloted Colonist to victory for the Queen's Plate at the Ontario Jockey Club's meeting on the 24th, yesterday morning lodged a complaint against Charley Phair, another jockey, for threatening him. There has been bad blood between these two since last spring, when Phair was arrested for the alleged maiming of Harry Cooper, the winner of the plunger on that occasion, and which horse O'Leary was training.

An inmate in the Toronto Asylum named Jean Nicolet escaped yesterday morning while out with a working party, and has not been recaptured.

Lieutenant-Col. Dawson and Major Dalamere, of Toronto, have been detailed as examiners in Toronto in connection with the Royal Military College examination.

The report that at a meeting of the Ontario Reform leaders yesterday, at the Reform Club, it was decided to bring on the local elections in October next is discredited in circles where matters of that kind find interest, though an early session of the House next year is highly probable.

About twenty-five plasterers' laborers are still on strike. One more firm signed the agreement with the men yesterday, leaving ten firms still holding out. The strike can last only a short time longer.

The Master Bakers' Association has agreed to meet the Executive Committee of the Journeymen Bakers' Union on Thursday evening to hear their statement of the grievances, on account of which notice was given yesterday that there will be a strike on Monday next.

The standing of the two Toronto medical schools in the recent examinations of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons, so far as could be learned yesterday, was as follows: In the final examinations the medical faculty of Toronto University sent up 58 candidates, of whom 42 passed and 16 were rejected (27 per cent). In the primary, out of 63 candidates 36 passed and 27 were rejected (42 per cent).

As far as could be gathered last night from Dr. Geikie, Dean of Trinity Medical School, it would appear that that school passed 30 or 40 of her candidates in the final exams and in the primary between 25 and 40 passed.

It is worthy of note that Mr. Sutherland, a Trinity man, was the only candidate who took honors.

For the past four or five days there have been rumors along the Esplanade that a woman had been drowned in the bay on the morning of the 24th. A water dog owned by Daniel O. Brooks, 264 Jarvis-street, is responsible for the story, which Esplanade Constable Williams will investigate by dragging the Jarvis-street slip to-day. It would appear that the dog in question when taken down for its morning swim acted so curiously at this point that Mr. Brooks believed that there was a tragedy concealed beneath the waters of the bay.

The Canadian Institute was largely attended yesterday and many were the praises bestowed on the work of the Ontario Society of Artists. In the evening the annual meeting was held. The report showed that a very satisfactory year had been experienced both in the production and demand for the works of the members. The Art Union drawing will take place on Wednesday, June 5.

These officers were elected:

President—Hon. G. W. Allan.
Vice-President—W. Revell.
Secretary—R. F. Gagen.
Executive Committee—Hamilton McCarthy, M. Matthews, W. A. Sherwood, G. Bruenech, James Smith, J. C. Forbes, J. W. L. Forster.
Art Union Committee—M. Matthews, J. W. L. Forster, G. Bruenech, M. Hannaford, James Smith, J. Massey, J. Spooner, J. Payne, F. L. Stewart, J. Henderson.
Auditors—James Smith, M. Hannaford, J. Payne.

The exhibition, which has been very successful, remains open until June 8.

HEALTHFUL EXERCISE.

Only a few months ago these romping, rosy-cheeked lasses were puny, delicate, pale, sickly girls. By the aid of Dr. Pierce's world-famed Favorite Prescription, they have blossomed out into beautiful, plump, hale, hearty, strong young women.

"Favorite Prescription" is an invigorating, restorative tonic and as a regulator and promoter of functional action at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, it is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is carefully compounded, by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system. It imparts strength to the whole system. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been faithfully carried out for many years.

THE ORANGE GRAND LODGE

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SECOND DAY'S SESSION.

The Brethren Enjoy a Lake Excursion in the Morning and a Banquet in the Evening—A Stormy Discussion.

GODERICH, May 29.—The annual session of the Supreme Grand Orange Lodge of British America was continued to-day. The number of delegates was largely augmented. This morning at 9 o'clock the brethren met at the Court House and headed by the town band marched to the harbor, where arrangements had been made by the town authorities for a lake excursion of the members of the Grand Lodge and their friends on the Campana. The party enjoyed a 3 hours' sail.

The session met at 2 o'clock and discussed the Jesuits' Estates Act and the vote in the Dominion House. A stormy time was had and at 6 o'clock, as no sign of closing the debate was apparent, an adjournment was had until 10 p.m.

A 8 p.m. the banquet to the Grand Lodge was held in the Palace Roller Rink, the attendance being large. The chair was occupied by County Master Floody. This was the toast list: "The Queen," "The Governor-General," M.W.G.M. Bro. N. Clarke Wallace; "Grand Lodge of British America," Bros. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and Parkhill; "The Town of Goderich," Mayor Butler; "Provincial Grand Orange Lodges," Bros. W. W. Fitzgerald, T. B. Collins, C. R. Gordon, Major Armstrong, Stewart Mulvey, J. L. Hughes, M. E. Cochrane, M.P., Mr. John White, M.P.; "The Press," Messrs. Creighton of The Toronto Empire, McGillicuddy of The Huron Signal, Mitchell of The Goderich Star and Doran of The Orange Sentinel.

At 10 o'clock the Supreme Grand Lodge met according to adjournment and resumed the debate on the Jesuits' Estates Act.

A GIDDY YOUNG GIRL.

Her Extraordinary Matrimonial Adventures—One Taken, the Other Left.

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—On Saturday afternoon J. S. Pritchett, a young man from Idaho, and Miss Bammie Imel, a young lady residing near Carthage, called at the office of the County Recorder for a marriage license, after which they went to the office of the Probate Judge, by whom they were married. A few minutes after they left the Recorder's office a young farmer named Ulmer entered in an excited manner and asked for them, and after commanding the Recorder not to record the marriage license just issued, rushed out. The newly-married couple had gone to a dry goods store, and there the wife was left while the husband stepped out to attend to some business. During his absence Ulmer made his appearance and, informing the young wife that her mother was waiting outside, seized her by the arm and hurried her out into the street. The couple went several blocks, the lady stopping now and then to offer a protest, but she was silenced in a tone of authority by her companion and led hurriedly along. They finally entered a grocery and, after some earnest conversation, they entered Ulmer's buggy, standing near, and drove rapidly away. In the meantime the husband returned to the dry goods store and, finding his wife gone, started in search. Supposing she had returned home in company with Ulmer he started there shortly after dark, vowing vengeance on the man who had stolen his wife. He returned to the city, being unsuccessful in finding the runaway couple. What course he will next pursue he does not know. He and his stolen bride are cousins. Receiving an invitation to the wedding, the Idaho lover suddenly put in an appearance, and the wedding with its sensational denouement was the result.

THE DRIVER CONFESSES

WOODRUFF'S STORY OF THE NIGHT OF MAY 4.

He Saw Cronin Enter the Cottage and Waited for His Dead Body to be Brought Out—Chronology of the Plot.

CHICAGO, May 29.—Woodruff has made a confession. He claims that he was not directly connected with the murder of Cronin, but simply acted as the driver of the wagon which disposed of the dead man's body in the catch-basin where it was found. Woodruff went round with detectives and located all the places where the chief acts of the tragedy occurred. He said he was directed by persons, whose names Capt. Schaak reserves, to go to Dinan's stable and obtain a horse and wagon. He was instructed to drive to the neighborhood of the cottage and he also knew for what purpose he was to go there. Woodruff arrived at the cottage 20 minutes before Cronin was driven up, and placed his horse and wagon at a point where he could keep his eyes on the front steps. He saw the white horse rig containing Cronin and his conductor arrive, and ¾ of an hour thereafter the man known as Williams opened the door of the cottage and gave the signal by stamping on the porch.

Woodruff drove up, and, assisted by the third man, the trunk was loaded in the wagon. The two men followed the trunk and directed Woodruff to drive eastward to the lake to a point which Woodruff has designated. The wagon headed for the lake, and in its depths the trunk and its contents would have been deposited had not an interruption come from policemen. The men got out of the officers' way by taking a circuitous route, which again brought them to the Evanston-road.

They had been driving for nearly an hour with their ghastly load when one man suggested the sewer. They stopped and took off the top of the manhole. It was found to be impossible to drop both trunk and body into the manhole. The key to their trunk had been lost and so they could not unlock it. Williams therefore kicked in the lid. The three lifted the body out and deposited it in the sewer as it was found. The trunk was again placed in the wagon. It was intended to take it back to the cottage and burn it, but hearing the noise of wagon wheels, one of the men threw the trunk out and they drove rapidly away. At Fullerton-avenue the men bade Woodruff good night.

The remainder of the confession is devoted to Woodruff's wanderings with the horse and wagon in his attempt to sell them. He states there is nothing in the woman story he told. The enormity of the crime never dawned upon him until he had taken part. King and Fairbairn had nothing to do with the case.

Willard J. Smith, at the suggestion of Chief Hobbard, to-day visited the jail and was confronted with Detective Coughlin. The latter denied that this was the Smith for whom he had ordered a carriage at Dinan's livery stable on the day of Dr. Cronin's murder. The chief said to Smith: "I guess this ought to settle it." Smith is not under arrest.

As the days go by the evidence of the conspiracy becomes more and more apparent. The police have now got all the scraps of evidence into something like an intelligible shape. The puzzle is becoming clearer and when a few missing pieces are supplied he who runs may read. All who wish to try to solve the puzzle should look at these few facts. First, take the mere sequence of events and see how one fits into the other to prove the plot. Here is the chain of events:

Feb. 19—A room is hired by "J. B. Simmons" at No. 117 Clark-street, directly opposite Cronin's office, whence his every movement could be watched.

Feb. 21—"Simmons" buys furniture and a trunk, which are taken to his room.

March 19—"Simmons's" room is found unoccupied and all his furniture taken away.

March 20—Frank Williams, thought to be J. B. Simmons, hires a little house in Lakeview from the Carlsons.

April 29—P. O. Sullivan, ice-dealer, living near Carlsons, has a large number of cards printed.

May 1—Sullivan makes a contract with Cronin by which latter is to attend ice-dealer's men whenever one of those cards is sent to him.

May 4—Cronin is sent for to attend one of Sullivan's men and is never seen alive again by his friends. Subsequently his friends made inquiries, and reports were received from various cities that Cronin had been seen alive, but his friends insisted that he had been made away with.

May 5—A bloody trunk is found in Lakeview.

May 10—Charles Long claims to have talked with Cronin in Toronto.

May 11—F. T. Woodruff is arrested for horse stealing, and says that on the night of May 4 he was hired to take a trunk out of Chicago, and that it contained the body of a woman. He added that Dr. Cronin was present when he took the body away.

May 22—The body of Dr. Cronin, bearing marks of a fearful crime, found in a sewer in Lakeview.

May 24—It is discovered that the house in Lakeview hired by Frank Williams was the scene of the murder. The trunk is identified as that bought in February by J. B. Simmons. The furniture in the house was also bought by him at the same time and moved before March 19 from the rooms in Clark-street. Daniel Coughlin, a detective, is suspected of complicity, or at least of trying to lead the police off the scent.

May 26—King, described by Woodruff as an accomplice, captured in a disorderly house.

May 27—Several other suspects are arrested, but nothing new of any importance is discovered. P. O. Sullivan arrested. King discharged; not the King wanted.

May 28—Coughlin, Iceman Sullivan and Woodruff indicted by the grand jury for murder.

May 29—Woodruff confesses to having driven the wagon with Dr. Cronin's body in it.

If one wishes to go further now, let him look at the list of men concerned in the whole terrible affair, and then he knows as much as the police excepting many little details, any one of which may of course lead to the detection of the murderers, but which are not necessary to a full understanding of the general story. Here they all are:

Under Indictment.

COUGHLIN, DANIEL.—Detective, who made arrangements for hiring of horse and buggy supposed to have been used by murderers.

SULLIVAN, P. O.—Iceman with whom Cronin had contract, and to visit whose men Cronin was lured away on fatal night.

WOODRUFF, F. T., alias BLACK—Horse-thief; drove wagon for murderers.

Under Arrest or Surveillance.

JORDAN, HARRY—Of Philadelphia: a bartender at hotel where McGeehan lived; thought to have information of McGeehan's movements.

McGEEHAN, PETER—Of Philadelphia: alleged to have been a spy upon Cronin and to have threatened to kill him: suspected of participating in crime.

SULLIVAN, A. M.—Irish leader of world-wide fame, ex-President of Land League in United States; watched by the police.

WHALEN—Detective; thought to have aided Coughlin in covering up crime; under surveillance.

Wanted by Police.

SMITH, TOM—Said to have hired carriage in which body was removed.

WILLIAMS, FRANK, and his brother—Hired house in which murder was done.

SIMMONS, J. B.—Bought trunk in which body was removed, and the furniture found in the house.

All these three names are probably false:

FRAWLEY—Acted mysteriously in Chicago; by some said to be Monsroff, the dynamiter.

KING, W. L.—Accused by Woodruff of having hired him to drive wagon; a young man same name was arrested but discharged.

All Quiet at Braidwood.

BRAIDWOOD, Ill., May 29.—Everything is quiet here to-day. No further serious trouble is feared. Four armed strikers were arrested by the troops this morning. The troops have confiscated what weapons they could find in the neighboring mining settlements.

EXCITEMENT AT VICTORIA, B.C.

British Warships at Esquimalt Ordered to Behring Sea.

VICTORIA, B.C., May 29.—Great excitement exists here consequent on orders just received by the naval fleet at Esquimalt to prepare to sail for Behring Sea early in June. The fleet consists of the war ships Amphion, Icarus and Swiftsure, and these three will be joined in a few days by the Champion, which has sailed from England. All preparations are being pushed forward in a hurry. Two torpedo boats are now being refitted at the dockyard.

The expedition will sail under the command of Admiral Heneage, and it is thought here that a rupture is imminent unless the United States should fall back from the position she has assumed in declaring her absolute sovereignty over the sealing fisheries in Alaskan waters. This fear is heightened by the recent action of the United States Government in sending men-of-war to Behring Sea.

A number of sealing vessels have left this port during the present month for these fisheries under the direct assurance of the naval authorities that they would be protected in case of necessity. The Amphion arrived here a fortnight ago. She is considered the finest warship on the Pacific coast. She steams twenty knots an hour and is thoroughly equipped with the latest improved machinery and armament. Many people here think that the fleet will leave at the earliest possible moment, and further developments are anxiously looked for.

The News Received at Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Nobody to-day at the State and Navy Departments expressed alarm at the news that the British North Pacific Squadron had been ordered to Behring Sea. Commodore Walker said none of our war vessels had been ordered to Alaska except the Thetis, which has been patrolling the Alaskan coast for several summers. He did not think Great Britain and the United States would war about the seal fisheries.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL.

The Grand Trunk's Short Cut From Suspension Bridge to Toronto.

OTTAWA, May 29.—There has been no meeting of the Railway Committee of the Privy Council for some time past, but it is understood that the application of the Grand Trunk Railway for building a spur line as a near cut from Suspension Bridge to Toronto via Burlington Beach has been granted by the committee. It was decided at last meeting when this subject came up that the report of Mr. Bell, solicitor of the Grand Trunk, and that of the city solicitor for Hamilton should be received before any action was taken, but whatever may have been the nature of these reports there is no doubt but the application of the railway company has been granted. In fact, I have it on good authority that the application was granted before ever the reports of the solicitors in question reached Ottawa.

Mr. Daly, M.P., who has been here for some days past in connection with Government lands to the Northwest Central Railway, will leave for home to-night. Daly says that everything has been arranged satisfactorily for the company, and that the deal between them and the Northern Pacific and Manitoba is all but completed.

ALLEGED FRAUD.

A Hamilton Real Estate Agent Charged With Altering a Receipt.

HAMILTON, May 29.—Yesterday afternoon Detective MacKenzie, arrested Joseph S. Ralston, real estate agent, on a warrant charging him with altering a receipt from $50 to $500 with intent to defraud. A preliminary examination took place before Police Magistrate Cahill. The complainant in the case is Artemesia Winslow, St. Louis, Mo. In her evidence she swore that Ralston had been doing business for her for the past three years. He collected rents and moneys on her account. In February, 1888, he gave her a check for $50 in St. Louis, and she gave him a receipt for the same amount. A receipt was shown to her, and she said the handwriting was hers; but when she signed it the amount was $50 and not $500. She understood from her lawyer that the defendant claimed that he had paid her $500, but she was positive that he had given her only $50. No further evidence was taken. The hearing was adjourned until Thursday, the prisoner being released on furnishing bail in $1000 and two sureties in $500 each. Mr. Ralston emphatically and unreservedly denies the charge, and says that he will have no difficulty in disproving it.

What Two Honey Harbor Men Found.

MIDLAND, May 29.—Two young men from Honey Harbor, Arthur Finch and Andrew Simons, were in town the other day, exhibiting part of a collection of ancient relics which they had dug out of a grave in that vicinity. They had found two or three skeletons—whether the remains of red men or white men has not been determined—and along with the bones were three silver crosses, four silver bracelets, four ear-rings, a dagger handle bearing a curious inscription, a necklace of fifty silver rings, about twenty buckles and similar articles. The bones had lain in the resting place for many years, as was shown by the roots of a neighboring tree having penetrated one of the skulls. The latter will be brought to town, and our surgeons will determine whether it be that of an Indian or a white man.

The place where the find was made is the site of a whilom Indian village, and boasts of some rough attempts at fortification. The goods are of Montreal manufacture, and were without doubt bartered to the Indians for furs, etc.

ALL MAY BE LOST.

Marine Disaster on Lake Ontario—List of the Missing Crew.

KINGSTON, Ont., May 29.—The schooner Valencia, one of the Calvin's tow, was picked up by the steamer Armenia and arrived at Garden Island this morning. The crew is safe. The Bavaria, also one of the Calvin's tow, is ashore on Galloo Island. The crew left the vessel in a yawl and it is feared all are lost. She was commanded by Capt. John Marshall, of this city; Felix Campeau, mate. She carried a crew of eight in all, the others being: John Snell, Wm. Owens, Arthur Boileau, Alexander Berry, Elias King, Bella Hartman.

Mining Operations in Sudbury.

NORTH BAY, May 29.—Mining operations at Sudbury are assuming increased activity. The Canada Copper Company has sold 600 tons of nickel and copper and its manager has received orders to introduce two more smelters immediately. The re-opening of the Stoby mine, which has been closed during the past winter, and the steps being taken to open up other claims held by the company, plainly indicate its purpose to prosecute its industry with increased vigor. The Dominion Mining Company, recently formed with a capital of $100,000, commences operations in the township of Dennison this week. John Ferguson, the business manager of this company, left North Bay on Thursday, with a staff of laborers and mechanics, to erect buildings and develop a claim near Vermillion crossing.

The gold mine of Wahnipitae, from which a large quantity of ore was, some time ago, shipped to Toronto for analysis has proven to be very valuable, and the owners are preparing to operate their claim on an extensive scale.

WAR SEEMS IMMINENT.

EXTENSIVE MILITARY PREPARATIONS IN RUSSIA.

Alexander's Jealousy of the Triple Alliance—Muscovite Intrigues in Servia—Railway Passengers Burned to Death.

LONDON, May 29.—The military preparations throughout Russia are more extensive now than at any time within the past seven years, being on a scale to suggest that war is imminent. The military party profess to believe that peace will be maintained till the end of the year, although it is admitted that Russia is watching with jealous concern the development of the triple alliance, and it is even asserted that commanders have already been designated for service in the event of war. It is generally believed that this warlike attitude of Russia is partially due to King Humbert's visit to Berlin, and the close political relations believed to have been furthered thereby between Germany and Italy. It is quite likely, however, that other causes contribute quite as largely to this activity. The riots reported from Belgrade are undoubtedly cutting out work for the Russian soldiery, and it is only a question of time when active Russian interference in the affairs of Servia will supplement the intrigues of Russian diplomatic agents. The hand of Russia is plainly discernible throughout these complications. The immediate cause of yesterday's rioting was the offence taken by the Russian party at the Progressists proclaiming the justice of the dismissal of the Metropolitan Michael. Russian influences are at work to bring about a state of anarchy in Servia, with a view to making this the pretext for open interference.

Burned to Death.

LONDON, May 29.—A sleeping coach on an express train between Bostburg and Weltaa caught fire yesterday while the train was running at a high rate of speed, and before the passengers could be rescued two of them were burned to death.

False Rumor of the Pope's Death.

ROME, May 29.—The public was startled to-day by a report of the death of the Pope. The rumor reached the Houses of Parliament and caused much excitement among the senators and deputies. On enquiry it was learned that there was no foundation for the rumor. His Holiness is enjoying good health and attends daily to his duties.

Empress Frederick's New Estate.

LONDON, May 29.—The Empress Frederick has bought the vast Forsteinbeck estate near Kiel for 1,500,000 marks.

The Luggacurran Evictions.

DUBLIN, May 29.—Seven families were evicted at Luggacurran to-day. More evictions will follow Friday.

Why Lord Lytton Was Absent.

LONDON, May 29.—In the House of Commons last evening Mr. Edmund Robertson, Liberal member for Dundee, moved to reduce the Foreign Office vote, the purpose of the motion being to take the judgment of the House in the matter of the absence of Lord Lytton, the British Ambassador to France, from the opening ceremonies of the Paris Exhibition. The withdrawal Mr. Robertson thought, was the result of a pre-arrangement, in view of the simultaneous action of the other Powers in ordering their representatives to hold themselves aloof from the ceremonies.

Sir James Fergusson, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, denied that Lord Lytton's absence was due to any pre-arrangement with the continental Governments. The House, he said, was of the opinion that England should not take part in the celebration of the centenary of a revolution regarding which parties in France remained bitterly divided. When a nation was unanimous in celebrating a great event there was no impropriety in the Queen's representative being present, as in the case of the celebration of the centenary of the Independence of America. But there was no analogy between France and America. Furthermore, there was no dissatisfaction in France at the absence of Lord Lytton from the opening of the Exhibition.

Mr. Gladstone said he acquitted the Government of acting in concert with the other Powers in the matter, but thought the Government was blamable for its error of judgment. Lord Lytton ought to have been present.

The motion was rejected by a vote of 263 to 190.

Stormy Scene in the Belgian Chamber.

BRUSSELS, May 29.—In the Chamber of Representatives to-day Prime Minister Beervaert made a long speech in which he strenuously denied that the Government was plotting the ruin of citizens through the agency of police spies. He accused the Opposition of making political capital of the recent trials at Mons, a charge that elicited applause from the Right.

M. Bana accused the Prime Minister of organizing a conspiracy. He demanded an inquiry and moved a vote of censure against the Government. The motion was rejected.

A resolution expressing confidence was then adopted by a vote of 78 to 52. When the ministers left the Chamber the crowd outside hissed them and shouted "Resign! resign!" Several persons conspicuous in the demonstration were arrested.

Guelph Ex-Aldermen Quarrel.

GUELPH, May 29.—Mr. Jos. Carter is the complainant and Mr. W. H. Cutten will be the defendant in an assault case which will be tried before His Worship this week. The fracas took place on the steps of the Montreal Bank this morning. Mr. Carter lost $1000 by Mr. Cutten's failure and lost it under most aggravating circumstances, it seems. He has not felt very kindly towards Mr. Cutten over it and, when meeting him, would take occasion to refer to the old trouble. This morning the parties renewed their differences outside the Bank of Montreal, when Mr. Cutten got angry and brought his stick down for Mr. Carter's head, but the latter received the blow on his arm.

Arrested on the Eve of His Wedding.

BRANTFORD, May 29.—Marsden Whitely, a young Parisian, was lodged in jail last week on a capias issued by Mr. Thos. O'Neall, miller, of that town. It appears that the accused, who is a weaver by occupation, has latterly been carrying on the business of a baker in Paris, and that he is in debt to Mr. O'Neall for flour to the extent of $182. Great preparations had been made for his wedding, which was to have taken place the day after his arrest, the honeymoon comprising a trip to Philadelphia. The young man, whose parents are spoken of as well-to-do, is naturally much cut up at the turn affairs have taken, but has since been released and got married.

THE JESUITS' ESTATES.

A Complication Arising Out of Quebec's Recent Legislation.

MONTREAL, May 29.—A sub-committee of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction waited upon Premier Mercier to-day in regard to the Jesuits' estates. The estates have heretofore been administered as a trust, the revenues of which were devoted altogether to educational purposes within the Province of Quebec. The last legislation in regard to the Jesuits' estates is regarded as breaking the trust and the deputation desired that it should be continued. The Premier promised to lay the matter before his colleagues.

High-Pressure

Living characterizes these modern days. The result is a fearful increase of Brain and Heart Diseases – General Debility, Insomnia, Paralysis, and Insanity. Chloral and Morphia augment the evil. The medicine best adapted to do permanent good is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It purifies, enriches, and vitalizes the blood, and thus strengthens every function and faculty of the body.

"I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for years. I have found it invaluable as for Nervous Debility caused by an inactive liver and a low state of the blood." —Henry Bacon, Xenia, Ohio.

"For some time I have been troubled with heart disease. I never found anything to help me until I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I have only used this medicine six months, but it has relieved me from my trouble, and enabled me to resume work." — J. P. Carzanett, Perry, Ill.

"I have been a practicing physician for over half a century, and during that time I have never found so powerful and reliable an alterative and blood-purifier as Ayer's Sarsaparilla." — Dr. M. Maxstart, Louisville, Ky.

SIGNS OF AN ELECTION.

THERE has been activity among Liberal politicians in Toronto and at the headquarters of the Liberal club that signify that something is in the wind. It would not be surprising if the Ontario Government was preparing to spring a general election upon the Province. It did so last time, and the excuse put forward in December, 1886, could be pressed into service again. The plea of the Liberals then was that there had been an extension of the franchise and that an election was thus made necessary. There has since been another extension and the lists for this year are being made up under the new law, so that if an election was a constitutional necessity in 1886 it will also be necessary when these lists are completed. But the Government did not wait in 1886 until all the lists throughout the country were ready before they issued the writs. It may go further in the same direction this time and bring the elections on earlier. At any rate it would be well to be prepared for an appeal to the people in this Province. Mr. Mowat and his colleagues must see that public opinion is going against them, and if they think they can gain anything by hurrying on the elections they will do so. The Liberals are making preparations in different constituencies, and the Conservatives would do well to brush up their armor.

BRIDGENORTH JOTTINGS

The Corner Stone of the new Methodist Church Successfully Laid on 24th May.

Correspondence of the Review.

OUR little village presented a very lively holiday appearance on the Queen's birthday. The occasion of the unusual stir was the laying of the corner stone of the new Methodist church which is in course of erection, and it may be safely said that at few places elsewhere was the holiday more enjoyably or profitably spent.

The interesting ceremony took place shortly after 11 o'clock in the presence of a numerous company of visitors, Mr. W. B. Kelly of Bridgenorth laying the stone in response to the hearty invitation which had been extended him. The indispensible silver trowel presented to Mr. Kelly by the Building Committee was used, and with this and a check of $100.00, Mr. Kelly amid applause, firmly set the stone in its place. The Foresters brass band from Lakefield then led the way to Mr. H. Dence's beautiful park where the ladies had provided dinner, which was disposed of by the large and representative gathering with great relish. The afternoon passed pleasantly the band rendering many appropriate selections, while at a platform meeting Revs. J. B. Huff S. J. Shorey and M. L. Pearson gave short but very pleasing addresses. The spirits of many were dampered for a little while it is true by a gentle shower of short duration, nevertheless everybody appeared to be happy, and after partaking of a tea of rare excellence the company dispersed feeling well satisfied with the day's entertainment.

The net proceedings amounted to $237.67 which after the few expenses were met placed a very substantial sum at the disposal of the Building Committee. It is expected that the church will be ready for dedication about the middle of September.

PROGRESS.—Out of the success of the year past and bright prospects for the future of enlarged borders the Quarterly Board of the Bridgenorth Methodist church has determined to request conference to devide the circuit and establish the Bridgenorth and Lakefield circuits as two separate fields. It is almost certain that the request will be acceded to and after conference the resident pastor will be appointed. Rev. Mr. Johnston, the present incumbent has done and is doing earnest work, and is ably seconded by the assistant pastor, Mr. Coon.

A. PROTEST.—The people of this village are indignant that some of the worshippers of Bacchus who hail from Peterborough, are already, this summer, beginning to violate the Sabbath's sanctity by taking the steamboat here for a trip up the lake, away from the gaze of Christian Peterborough. After the shameful spectacle of a crowd passing through our streets, screeching and howling, just as the quiet worshippers were leaving the house of prayer, Sabbath before last, many are expressing themselves very strongly about taking steps to have such outrageous work stopped.

APSLEY AFFAIRS.

The Celebration of the Queen's Birthday – Other Notes.

Correspondence of the Review.

MAY 28th.—The football match by home teams and the pic-nic under the auspices of the club was a decided success. The game was won by Mr. C. Webster's team, 1 to 0. Time was called in one hour. The boys did some good kicking, both sides handling the ball in good team play. Mr. P. W. C. Shewen acted as referee, to the satisfaction of all parties. On the pic-nic grounds, racing and other sports were carried out, while many passed a pleasant time tripping the light fantastic to music by local talent. The various races were keenly contested, notably the half-mile race, which was won by C. Webster and H. Anderson, tie, and D. Anderson, third, all three coming in in good form. Another tie was scored by Misses May Shewen and Emma Clegg in a 100 yd. race. A wheelbarrow and an obstacle race caused much merriment and the former a brisk flank movement by the spectators. Only one canoe race came off on account of the heavy rain which set in just before the boats got under way. Messrs. Rinett and Walsh led in the double canoe race, D. Maher and H. Anderson coming in second. All the events of the day passed off pleasantly, every one enjoying all but the drenching rain storm. The fun was continued into the night by a hastily arranged, but successful "hop."

PHOTOGRAPHY.—Mr. May, of Peterborough, has completed his arrangements for a photographic art studio here and is prepared to serve the public in that capacity. We wish him every success in his venture.

BUILDING.—A large gang of men have been busy working at Mr. T. G. Eastland's new store. We hope soon to speak of its completion.

DIVINE SERVICE.—It has been announced that the usual services under the charge of the Presbyterian church will begin here on Sunday next, June 2nd.

TO CLEAR the throat and invigorate the system try a 5lb. caddy of Tea from M. R. Kidd.

STRUCK WHILE PREACHING.

An Evangelist Hit and Blinded by Lightning.

DANVILLE, Ill., May 29.—The people in the country near Hillsboro', Fountain County, Ind., have just erected and dedicated a new church. Rev. J. C. Meyers, a prominent evangelist, residing at State Line, Ind., has been conducting a revival. Last evening the church was crowded to suffocation and the windows were all thrown open. About 8 o'clock, as Mr. Meyers was in the midst of his sermon, a small rain cloud passed over the church. It only discharged one bolt of lightning, which first struck and completely destroyed the church chimney, and then, dividing into branches, ran down the stove pipes, melting and destroying the stoves and tearing up the floor before it entered the ground. All the congregation were more or less affected, but none of the injuries were serious. The main branch of the bolt, on leaving the chimney, descended the pulpit chandelier, directly over the head of Mr. Meyers. He jumped high in the air, and, turning a somersault, fell heavily, face downward, on the floor. He was thought to be dead and it was more than half an hour before he showed any signs of life. On the back of his head, where the bolt struck, is a seared place an inch in diameter. The face is burned, eyelids badly puffed and eyesight gone. His friends brought him to Danville this morning for treatment, and although able to distinguish large objects, the oculist thinks blindness will be perpetual.

CUT DOWN BY FROST.

Fruit, Vegetables and Grain Damaged in Some Ontario Counties.

ELORA, May 29.—A very heavy frost prevailed here last night. It formed half an inch thick. Corn and potatoes are badly damaged, and it is feared the fruit crop has been almost entirely destroyed. Barley and other grains have also suffered severely.

HARRISTON, May 29.—Heavy frost here last night. Ice formed from ½ to ¼ of an inch thick on standing water. All the early garden vegetables are badly frozen and it is thought the fruit is gone also. Barley and peas, especially on low land, are frozen. This morning, being cloudy, will be in favor of the crops generally.

CHESLEY, May 29.—Last night's frost has dispelled all prospects of anything like an average fruit crop this season in this locality; barley, peas and corn are badly cut down on low lands and it is feared that the hay crop has been considerably damaged. All kinds of vegetable and root crops have suffered more or less.

HAMILTON, May 29.—The frost of last night did considerable damage. From the surrounding country very unfavorable reports are received. The greatest damage was done to the grapes, tomatoes, potatoes and beans, and all the vegetables that are above the ground. The tomatoes are seriously affected. Everything was well advanced and looked promising, and the frost came at an unpropitious time. At Burlington it was particularly severe and the grape vines were badly bitten. The grain was not so seriously affected. The frost touched the barley and the rye, but the wheat was not injured much.

ST. DAVIDS, County of Lincoln, May 29.—Thermometer registered 5 below freezing last night. Potatoes, corn, beans, tomatoes, are cut down. Grapes appear to be hurt, but cannot definitely report thus early.

GUELPH, May 29.—In this locality garden stuff has been severely frosted, flowers, grapes, vegetables and bushes all being extensively damaged. The barley on low lands has been badly nipped, while that higher sown escaped better, though somewhat injured. The wheat crop is not far enough advanced here to suffer. The full damage cannot be known as yet, but this cloudy weather will favor the grain after the frost more than a bright sun would do. In exposed places ice a quarter of an inch thick was formed in the water barrels.

The McAll Mission.

The American McAll Association, whose annual meeting was held in Philadelphia recently, originated in Philadelphia. Six years ago, in 1883, the Philadelphia auxiliary sent out a call to the other two auxiliaries, Washington and Baltimore, inviting them to send delegates to organize a national association. This was done and the organization effected. Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes was elected president and Mrs. J. A. Garfield first vice president, the latter office being still filled by Mrs. Garfield. At the end of the year Mrs. Hayes declined re-election, and Mrs. Marine J. Chase was elected to the presidency, and has been re-elected each year.

The association holds its annual meetings in cities to which it is invited. It has already met in Washington, New York, Springfield, Mass.; Baltimore, Brooklyn, and this year it comes to Philadelphia. Instead of three auxiliaries there are now sixty-five, located in all the large cities, from Portland, Me., to Chicago, and in St. Louis, Louisville, Florida, and in many smaller cities and towns intervening. Its work is the evangelization of France. Its yearly receipts amount to something over $35,000. It has twenty-seven vice presidents, representing the different states. Its board of directors numbers twelve, all of whom, except four, reside in Philadelphia, where the board meetings are held monthly.—Christian Union.

A Tragedy in Two Words.

A cablegram from Madras, India, to the Missionary office conveys this brief but sad intelligence: "Wife dead. Winter." This is from the Rev. A. E. Winter, one of our missionaries, and brings sad news of the desolation of another missionary's home. We have no particulars; the fact is sad enough. Let the prayers of the whole church go out for this dear man of God in his sorrow and bereavement.—Christian Advocate.

My Shepherd.

"He leadeth me!"
And so I need not seek my own wild way
  Across the desert wild;
He knoweth where the soft, green pastures lie,
  Where the still waters glide,
And how to reach the coolness of their rest
  Beneath the calm hillside.

"He leadeth me!"
And though it be by rugged, weary ways,
  Where thorns spring sharp and sore,
No pathway can seem strange or desolate
  Where Jesus "goes before."
His gentle shepherding my solace is,
  And gladness yet in store.

"He leadeth me!"
I shall not take one needless step through all,
  In wind, or heat, or cold;
And all day long he sees the peaceful end
  Through trial manifold.
Up the fair hillside, like some sweet surprise,
  Waiteth the quiet fold.

RELIGIOUS GLEANINGS.

Said a heathen to a missionary, "There must be something in your religion which makes you come all the way out here to tell us of it. I am sure I would not go so far to tell you of mine."

The Southern Baptist Foreign Mission board has decided to start a mission in the southwestern part of Japan.

Five million dollars are spent annually for foreign missions in the United States, and $1,000,000,000 for strong drink.

If it cost $1,220,000 to Christianize the Sandwich Islands, and now we receive back about $5,000,000 a year in commerce, what have we lost?

The usual weekly prayer meeting of St. Paul's Church was made unusually interesting last evening by a pleasing and bright address which was given by Miss Mattie Gordon, of Nashville, Tenn., who is one of the delegates attending the convention of the Christian Alliance.

All About a Chain.

Michael Bolton charged Edward Flaherty with the larceny of a chain at the Police Court this morning, but as Flaherty had neither lawyer or witnesses present the Magistrate enlarged the case until to-morrow morning, to allow him to summon his witnesses. There seems to be some misunderstanding between the two men out of which the case has arisen, and Flaherty seemed to think that it was not a serious matter. Flaherty says that one day he was drawing a load past Bolton's house when his whiffle-trees broke and, knowing Bolton so well as he did, he went into his yard to borrow his whiffle-trees and a chain so as to finish drawing the load. He says Bolton's boy came out and gave him the chain and whiffle-trees which he took away but brought back afterwards. Bolton, however, holds that he never brought the chain back and hence the case in court.

A Comedy of Blunders.

Howorth's Hibernica Company will appear in the Opera House, for one night only, on Tuesday evening, June 4th. Of the company the Index-Appeal of Petersburg, Va., says:—"One of the most enjoyable and instructive entertainments of the the season was given at the Academy of Music last night by Howorth's great double show Hibernica Comedy and specialty company. The grand tour of Ireland, made through a succession of superb panoramic views, in which the most interesting spots of the Emerald Isle were visited, was worth many times the cost of the admission. In this part of the exhibition many ingenious and pleasing mechanical effects were introduced, such as sunset and moonlight on the Lakes of Killarney, and a terrific thunder storm at sea. The Comedy of Blunders was exceedingly funny, and was rendered with side splitting effect. Every character was well sustained and the audience thoroughly delighted. In their special line every member of the company is an artist of the first order. The audience was large considering the season, but by no means commensurate with the merits of the company. We hope Petersburg will have another opportunity to see Mr. Howorth's combination." 1d126

HEALED THROUGH FAITH

TESTIMONIES REGARDING REMARKABLE CURES FROM DISEASE.

The Proceedings at the Christian Alliance Convention—An Anointing Service Held—A Number Join the Alliance.

Yesterday afternoon's session was opened with the usual devotional exercises.

ANSWERING QUESTIONS.

In response to an invitation a number of questions were sent to the platform.

Rev. Mr. SALMON, in answer to a question based on Gal. ii., 11-14, said that they did not teach that a person could not get out of communion with God. Answering another he said it was not necessary that one should die of cancer or consumption, but the Lord could take them when their work was done. If people were sick they took medicine, without enquiring whether it was God's will that they should die, and in the same way they should appeal to the Divine healer and leave the result with Him.

Mr. FENTON, in answer to another question, said God could banish death if He desired, but He had not chosen to do so, for it was appointed for us once to die and after death the judgment. Death was not a calamity to the Christian.

Miss MATTIE GORDON, replying to another, said they must submit to the guidance of God as revealed to them by the Spirit and in the Bible. If wanting guidance in a personal matter regarding which the Bible had not directions, they should ask God to remove all prejudices and predelictions from their hearts and to guide them by His Spirit.

Mrs. WALKER emphasized, in answering a question, the importance of waiting on God—waiting on Him after prayer, and not hurrying from devotions without waiting for His reply or blessing.

TESTIMONIES REGARDING HEALING.

Capt. FISHER, after some remarks regarding the value of testimony, said he had not believed in Divine healing, but while reading the Bible on a train on the way to Europe he accepted God as his healer, and on the vessel he and Dr. Zimmerman were not sick, though others were on every side. Afterwards he was seized with fever and was racked with pain. He sent for Mr. Salmon, who followed the directions in James and anointed him and prayed. He knelt down racked with pain and burning with fever, and rose free from both. He spoke further in support of the Divine healing doctrine.

Dr. ZIMMERMAN quoted and dwelt upon Jeremiah xxxii., 27. He said the devil once had possession of him, and sin used his body as an instrument, but satan had been cast out, then Christ had taken possession and his body was an instrument of righteousness. Sin in the body—sin in the temple of God! No, away with such a doctrine. God wanted the body thoroughly purged from sin. Three years ago he was troubled with bronchial affection and indigestion. He saw the truth of the doctrine of Divine healing and threw out the medicine he had been taking. He was healed and had been healed of other diseases since. His child had also been healed, and several members of his family, including his wife and himself, were healed from diphtheria. He also told of a child afflicted with consumption of the bowels that had been cured by prayer and anointing.

Miss MATTIE GORDON described, with considerable minuteness, the growth of her religious impressions from the time she was four years old, and told of her conversion. Her health was bad, being naturally delicate and weakened by society gayeties, and she became an invalid. Her brother was taken sick, and the doctors were unable to help him, but her parents took him to Dr. Simpson's faith home in New York and he was cured, and she herself was healed through faith. Since at her home they had taken God for their guide, and many cures had taken place in that vicinity.

Mr. SALMON then announced that they would hold an anointing service (the healing service) in the basement, to which any who desire the ordinance or who desired to take part in it were invited.

The meeting then adjourned.

At the anointing service about twenty persons received the ordinance.

The Evening Session.

At the evening session, notwithstanding the down-pour of rain, the church was filled and the testimonies and addresses were listened to with great attention, the audience all appearing to be deeply interested. Several hymns were sung at the opening and Mrs. Walker, of Providence, Rh. I., offered up a beautiful and impressive prayer.

PAUL'S THORN IN THE FLESH.

Rev. Mr. SALMON then rose to answer a question which had been handed him, asking him to explain, under the principle of Divine healing, why the Apostle Paul was not healed of the thorn in his flesh spoken of in II. Cor., xii, 7-9, after he had besought the Lord thrice. Mr. Salmon said he had wondered why this question had not been asked before. He read the verses referred to and said most people stopped at the words, "My faith is sufficient for thee," but the the answer came in the words following, "For my strength is made perfect in weakness." Whatever that messenger of Satan that was sent to buffet Paul was, the speaker said, it did not prevent Paul from performing his work, and to his mind this was a precious passage, because Paul gloried in the fact that the hand of God was laid upon him, but was not shaken in his faith.

Rev. Mr. SALMON said he wished to explain that what they had been preaching at that convention was not faith cure, but the power of the Divine to cure spiritual and bodily ailments or infirmity. They did not speak against doctors, but they believed that the doctors and medicine was the imperfect way, but God was the perfect way. Neither was it Christian science, spiritualism or anything of that kind, but that God as he bore their sins had borne their sicknesses and they were healed by the power of the atonement.

DOCTORS THE IMPERFECT WAY.

Rev. P. CLIFTON PARKER then asked Rev. Mr. Salmon how he would explain that passage in the 5th chapter of Timothy—"Drink no longer water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities."

Rev. Mr. SALMON answered this question by saying that it was well known that the wine in the East in Paul's time was unfermented and was drank as we drink tea or water, and that often we found water affected us injuriously because of the presence of alkali or something else, and were told to drink tea or mix the water with milk, so it might be in the case of Paul addressing Timothy.

Rev. Mr. PARKER asked if a person was ill would it not be right to put himself under the care of a Christian doctor who had asked God to guide him in his treatment of patients.

Rev. Mr. SALMON said that doctor's in many instances were gifted of God and the medicines that were found in the barks of trees and herbs had been given by God for man's beneficence, and they did not wish to quarrel with anyone who preferred to follow this way. He said a doctor prescribed for a man and then that man asked God to direct the doctor's medicine so that it would have the desired effect, so that here was an interference of God between the doctor and his patient, and he preferred to go directly to God and he always found He kept him well and whole. He said he could not be expected to explain all the little quibbles in the Bible but he liked to take his stand upon the solid statements in the Book such as "I am the Lord that healeth Thee." He had taken this doctrine as his all in all and had lost his pulpit and living by so doing but it was a blessed reality. He then went on to tell of the different links in the chain which had in the doctrine of divine healing. The thought had been first brought to him by reading of the work of an old German woman who had worked marvellous cures by anointing and prayer and he had afterwards attended a meeting in London and had been much struck by some of the testimonies. His first experience had been on board ship when coming out from England when he had been threatened with an old enemy of his, inflammation of the eye, but he had prayed to God to heal his eye and the eye had been healed and had never since been inflamed to any extent. He had after this thought that he would be anointed at the first opportunity and he had attended a convention held at Buffalo, was anointed and prayed over according to the law in James' epistle and the Lord had healed him of an internal disease from which he had never suffered since. Shortly after he began meetings in his own house and many were blessed, but his congregation objected to the testimonies in the prayer meetings and the Lord called him out of the church. When he resigned his pastorate he said it got into the papers and he was called a crank, but he said it was a sweet experience to know that he was doing just what the Lord wanted him to do. Since he had had colds, but he had always been healed and he loved to tell it to the world and give the praise to God.

A collection was taken up to defray the expenses of the delegates, who were brought here on condition that their travelling expenses would be paid.

CURED OF A CANCER.

Mrs. WALKER, the Quakeress, of Providence, Rhode Island, followed with her testimony. She told of the shrinking from and prejudices against the doctorine of Divine healing which she had felt and how she had been persuaded to attend a convention and had at first only been interested but after hearing the doctorine set forth from the Scriptural standpoint she had searched her Bible and read the different passages asking God to remove all prejudices from her mind and to enable her to view the passages from His standpoint. After diligent and long searching she had been convinced. Mrs. Walker said she had studied Christian science and any person who said that Divine healing and Christian science was the same knew nothing about it. Divine healing was of God, but Christian science were a fraud of the devil, and if the latter was true the Bible was untrue. She proceeded to tell of her experience of the power of Divine healing. She told of having a cancer come on her breast, from which she had suffered greatly and which was always increasing. About three weeks ago when she came to Toronto she met Miss Gordon and told her of her great affliction and, after waiting until the pain became almost unbearable, about two weeks ago Mr. Salmon and Miss Gordon had anointed her and prayed over her. She said she would never forget the sensation she experienced when they laid their hands on her. It seemed as if a thousand needles were piercing her head, then it passed to her neck and then to the diseased part. She had felt no change and had retired that night with Miss Gordon after their usual devotions. About two o'clock in the morning a voice awakened her out of her sleep saying "I am the Lord that healeth thee." She had answered "Yes, Lord." The question was repeated and she answered as before and then the voice said "Test me, put thy hand to the place." She did so and found that the hard bunch which had given her so much pain was gone and the skin was as smooth as any other part of her body. She could have shouted for joy and awakened Miss Gordon to tell her the good news. Mrs. Walker then read Mark xvi, 15-19, and told them she did not want them to go away and talk about divine healing among themselves, but to go right to the Lord and talk about it with Him.

Rev. Mr. SALMON then corroborated what Mrs. Walker had said in reference to her anointing, and asked if it was any wonder that he loved his work when he heard such testimony.

ABOUT THE ALLIANCE.

Mr. FENTON, of Toronto, then gave some information in reference to the formation and objects of the Christian Alliance. It was the Christian Alliance on the four-fold Gospel—Christ the Saviour, Christ the Sanctifier, Christ the Healer and Christ the coming Lord. He said they should always by self-judgment find out why God was chastising them if they were afflicted, and if they knew of no sin then they should take God by faith, but if they knew of any sin, then there should be a confession. If any person was afflicted they should never say that it was on account of individual sin of the person afflicted, for this was contrary to Scripture. Speaking further of the Alliance, he said it was not opposed to any other religious or church organization, but was formed on a similar basis to a Bible Society. In every place where conventions had been held branches of the Alliance had been formed, and he said that the meetings in Toronto had been the cause of a great spiritual blessing to all the churches, and he expected to hear reports of great blessings resulting to Peterborough. He explained what was constituted in being a member. Those who became members were supposed to give their adhesion to three of the truths they had been teaching—Christ the Saviour, Christ the Sanctifier and Christ the Healer, while the truth of Christ the coming Lord was left an open question.

Cards were distributed to the audience so that those who wished to become members of the Alliance could put in their names, and about thirty-five did so.

It was decided as there had been such manifestations of the workings of God in the meetings, and the spiritual blessing which they had been proven to continue the convention another day.

This Morning's Session.

At the opening of this morning's session nearly an hour was spent in devotional exercises. Mr. J. W. Fenton and the lady delegates were present, but the Rev. Mr. Salmon, Capt. Fisher and Dr. Zimmerman had returned to Toronto.

Mrs. WALKER, basing her remarks on Romans viii, 32, urged her hearers to open their hearts to Christ, that he might enter and abide with them.

Miss MATTIE GORDON conducted a Bible reading on the spirit and nature of prayer. She referred to Genisis xxxii, 24, et seq., and emphasized that the angel of God wrestled with Jacob, not Jacob with the angel. God wished to impress upon Jacob his weakness so he would take all that the angel brought him. Sickness was sent as at chastening and, if the lesson were learned, a blessing would follow. When Jacob's strength was reduced he received heavenly strength that enabled him to say "I will not let Thee go until Thou hast blessed me." If Jacob had yielded to God at once his thigh would not have been dislocated and he would have received a new name. Real prayer was not wrestling with God, but God wrestling with them for a full surrender. True prayer consisted, not in begging, but in taking in faith which had been promised. The blessing was not always given immediately, because the Lord might see that they were not prepared to receive it—because patience had not had its perfect work. She referred to other passages bearing on the subject.

Mrs. HATCH again told of her long sickness, seven years and three months, to show that when she took God at His word, was emptied of self and accepted the blessing she was healed and, trusting in Him, she had been sustained. When tried they should rely on God.

The meeting then adjourned until 2.30 o'clock.

There will be another session this evening.

Municipal Meetings.

The Fire Water and Light, Street and Bridge and Charity Committees of the Town Council will meet to-night. The Council holds its regular meeting on Monday night next.

If the Prophet is Correct.

It has been prophesied, and may the prophesy prove correct, that we are to have fine weather after this rain and that this fine weather will in all probability commence to-morrow. If this proves correct, the people of Peterborough can celebrate the return of the sun by attending the grand display of fireworks which the firemen are to give at the P. A. A. A. grounds. The display will be grand and the music by the brigade band excellent, and no one should miss the grand spectacle.

A Runaway Team.

This morning a team of horses attached to one of the delivery waggons of Messrs. Meldrum & Davidson took flight and ran away, but fortunately no damage was done. The team were standing in front of Deane's flour and feed store and the driver was just carrying in the last bag of a load of flour he was delivering when the wind blew the water-proof covering, which had covered the load and which was lying on the front of the waggon, upon the horses' backs and the animals started at a terrific rate. They turned down George-st. and ran at a furious gait until near Lake-st., when they were caught, without doing any damage.

KILLED WITH A STONE.

A FORMER RESIDENT OF PETERBOROUGH SLAIN.

The Death of James Scott near Orangeville A Dispute and its Fatal Results—His Assailant Under Arrest.

Mr. James Scott, a former resident of Peterborough and a native of Ashburnham, has met his death in a tragic manner in the township of Mono, near Orangeville. He was struck by a stone thrown by Henry Atkinson, and the blow resulted in death. Mr. Scott was a brother of Mrs. Fraser, wife of Mr. John Fraser, of Peterborough. He was born in Ashburnham and resided here until about six years ago. He was last here about two years ago, when he paid a visit to his friends. He was a man of quiet disposition and respected.

A despatch from Orangeville to the Globe gives the following account of the fatal quarrel:—A quarrel over the right to fish in Nottawa Creek at Glencross, Mono Township, has ended in the death of James Scott and the indictment of Henry Atkinson, a well-to-do farmer, for manslaughter. On Monday morning, May 13th, Atkinson with a friend named William Carson, of Toronto, came to the creek to fish and they selected a spot just below the dam at Glencross where small speckled trout are numerous. The creek at this point runs through the farm of Daniel Markle, and he a short time ago gave his son-in-law, James Scott, the right to collect a fee of 25 cents from those fishing on his property. When Atkinson and Carson came along they were met by Scott, who asked for the 25 cents. They refused to pay anything, and threatened to duck him if he insisted. A scuffle ensued, Scott, it is said, hitting Atkinson with a stick he had in his hand. Scott retreated to secure help, when Atkinson picked up a large stone, weighing nearly fifteen pounds, and threw it after him. It struck him on the head, behind the left ear, felling him to the ground. Just as Atkinson was throwing the stone, Scott's father-in-law and brother-in-law, who were working in an adjacent shed, came out and witnessed the occurrence. They assisted Scott to his feet and took him home, Atkinson being arrested for common assault, but afterwards allowed out on bail. After living for seven days Scott died on Monday night at 10.30. He was conscious to the last and able to sit up occasionally, though suffering a great deal from a fracture about the size of a copper immediately behind his left ear. During his illness he explained several times in detail the altercation with Atkinson.

THE SCENE OF THE TRAGEDY.

A Globe reporter visited Glencross this afternoon and saw the place where the row occured. It is a very picturesque spot, about seven miles northeast of Orangeville, and is right in the heart of the hills. The roads leading down to it remind the visitor of a toboggan slide in their steepness. Mr. Daniel Markle's farm of about 200 acres lies in this valley, and as the creek running through his property has been extensively dammed up and a waterfall built, the fishing naturally is better than in any other part of the creek. About the end of March last Mr. Markle's son-in-law, James Scott, a moulder by trade, came from Detroit to live with him, the agreement being that he should have the management of the fishing grounds, with all the profits. No charge had been made up to this year, and Mr. Scott had only made two or three dollars out of the enterprise up to the time of the fatal dispute. He was a tall, well-developed man, 30 years of age, and was married two years ago. His early home was in Saginaw and his mother is said to be at present visiting Toronto. When the news of Mr. Scott's death reached Orangeville Coroner Henry and County Crown Attorney McMillan drove out and opened and inquest at two o'clock. A jury was sworn in, and after viewing the body they adjourned to the neighboring church, where the evidence of the relatives of the deceased was taken. A post-mortem examination was also made by Dr. Carbert, after which an adjournment was made until to-morrow morning at ten o'clock in Orangeville.

THE ACCUSED.

Henry Atkinson, the accused, is one of the best know residents of Mono Township, and was at the last municipal elections a candidate for Deputy Reeve. He owns a farm of from 250 to 300 acres, said to be worth about $10,000. He is about 30 years of age and is very tall and muscular.

The Empire's despatch says that Atkinson is under arrest on a charge of manslaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser went to Mono last night.

In unloading this car one valuable stick was accidentally broken.

He was a prominent citizen of our village and had lived in the place from boyhood, where he carried on a general store and business of some large extent. His aged father and mother are residents of the village. Deceased left a wife, son and three daughters. In politics he was a staunch Conservative and was ever genial and popular.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowls, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c., &c.

The journey to the Plaza del Toros was almost as delightful as the bull fight itself to Pepita. The streaming crowds of people all bent in one direction, and all in their gayest dress and mood, laughing, jostling each other, chatting, exchanging salutations and jokes, the grand carriages rolling by with fine ladies and gentlemen in them, the rattling old diligences, omnibuses and tartanas whose passengers seemed more hilarious than the occupants of the more splendid equipages, the ringing of mule bells, the shouts of drivers, the cracking of whips, the sunshine, the color, the very dust itself, all added to the excitement of the hour. And as they made their way through the throng, it was again as it had been that first Sunday at the Paseo de la Virgen del Puerto, heads turned and exclamations were uttered when Pepita went by. And somehow it seemed that Jose was better known than even he himself had imagined, he received so many greetings. The truth was that already those who had seen the girl had spoken of her among themselves and to others, their readily-fired Spanish natures aflame and elate. And those who had not seen, but only heard of her, were in as susceptible a condition as the more fortunate ones. She had been graphically and dramatically described again and again, so that by many a one she was recognized as "the pretty sister of Jose."

That was what they called her—"the pretty sister of Jose." She heard it half-a-dozen of times, but never once even so much as lifted her long lashes. She was so used to admiration that it was as if they spoke of some one else, and it moved her not in the least, as she sat watching the bulls, to know that bold or languishing eyes dwelt upon her face, and that efforts were being constantly made to attract her attention.

It was a magnificent day—everyone said so; there were splendid bulls and splendid dresses, and the fighters were in superb condition. The people were in good spirits, too—the little breeze tempering the heat had, perhaps, something to do with it; everything pleased them; they applauded wildly, and uttered shouts of encouragement and delight to bulls and toreadors alike. The grand people were richly attired; beautiful ladies watched with excited eyes the bulls, wearing their colors in rosettes of satin and glittering tinsel; the thousands of waving, brilliantly-hued fans fluttered like a swarm of butterflies; the music filled the air. Pepita sat in a dream of joy, the color coming and going on her cheeks, her rapture glowing in her eyes. She was a Spanish girl, and not so far in advance of her age that the terrible features of the pastime going on before her could obscure its brilliance and excitement. Truth to tell, she entirely forgot Sebastiano, not even recognising him in the pageant of the grand entry, she was so absorbed in its glitter and blaze of color.

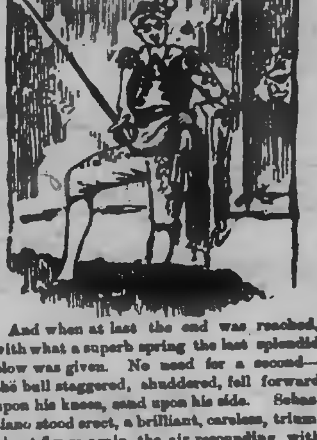
But at the killing of the bull that was different. Just a moment before she had awakened to the fact that Manuelo was near her—near enough to speak; he had been staring at her, and growing more restless every moment, until he had at last attracted the attention of Jose and Jovita, and his first words to her came amid shouts of applause and delight.

"Sebastiano," he said; "it is Sebastiano."

Pepita turned to look. With what a proud and careless air he advanced; with what a strong light step; how he held his head and shoulders; how his gold and silver garnishings glittered; how the people called to him with a sort of caressing ecstasy. They adored him; he was their idol. Yes, there was a thrill in it, even for her cold heart. She felt a quick pulsation. To be so proud and triumphant and daring—to be the central point of everything—to be able to awake this exultant fervour—was something after all. And he was beautiful too; though she cared nothing for that, except as she could see that it added to his triumphs and made them more complete.

"It is Sebastiano," said Jose.

But Sebastiano was addressing the president of the games. He extended his glittering sword, and made his announcement in a clear, rich voice. Pepita listened as he spoke. And then the most thrilling excitement of the sport began. It was no child's play Sebastiano had before him. The fierce black bull glaring at him with bent head and fiery eyes, uttering low muttering bellowings of rage, as he tore at the earth throwing up the dust in a cloud, was a foe worthy of his mettle. He was a bull with vicious points and treacherous ones; already goaded to fury by the play of the picadors and banderilleros, he must be watched, studied, excited, baffled; not one of his movements must be lost or even regarded as trifling—wariness, quickness, magnificent daring, the subtlest fore-thought, all were needed. What play it was—what a match between brute cunning, power and ferocity, and human courage, adroitness and calculation. The brilliant, graceful figure, was scarcely a moment in repose; it leaped and darted, the bright cloak waving, inviting, the bright sword glittering in the sun—it toyed with death and peril, evading both with an exultant grace and swiftness marvellous to behold and rousing the onlookers to shouts of joy and triumph. Even old Jovita wakened to a touch of fire which seemed like a renewal of her long past youth. Jose and Manuelo joined their cries with the rest. Pepita felt again—yes, more than once—that sudden throb and thrill.



And when at last the end was reached, with what a superb spring the last splendid blow was given. No need for a second—the bull staggered, shuddered, fell forward upon his knees, sand upon his side. Sebastiano stood erect, a brilliant, careless, triumphant figure again, the air resounding with deafening applause.

QUEBEC CONSERVATIVES.

The Convention at Montreal—Sir John on the Uses of Adversity.

MONTREAL, May 29.—The first representative gathering of the Conservatives of the Province since the advent of the Mercier regime occurred to-day, the occasion being the convention which was opened at St. Lawrence Hall at 10 o'clock this morning. Hon. Jean Blanchett, M.L.A. for Beauce and a prominent member of the Ross-Taillon ministry, occupied the chair. Among those present were Sir John Macdonald, Hon. J. A. Chapleau, Sir Adolphe Caron and Hon. Mr. Taillon. There was a large and enthusiastic attendance of the leading Conservatives of the province.

Resolutions were adopted that Confederation should be maintained with all the rights and liberties of the different provinces; declaring in favor of the continuance of the National Policy, as being based upon the interests of Canadians, and to oppose all attempts to hand over the regulation of our tariff to a foreign power;

To approve the railway policy of the Government as a bond of Confederation and a profitable expenditure. To approve the supporting of the railway policy by the subsidizing of a line of fast steamers, thus making the shortest route between Europe, Asia and Australia.

It was decided to make four electoral districts—Montreal, Quebec, Three Rivers and Sherbrooke—each having an electoral association with a general committee who shall deal with questions of a general character.

Resolutions of confidence in Sir John Macdonald and Hon. Mr. Taillon, and denouncing various acts of the Mercier Government in Quebec, particularly the administration of the license laws, were also adopted.

Sir John Macdonald was then introduced and was enthusiastically received. He said he felt proud at the confidence expressed in him by his friends of Quebec. The adversity of the party in local affairs for some time past had its good side, for in adversity true men were formed and short adversity was now about to be turned into a long period of unbounded prosperity. He then referred in eulogistic terms to Mr. Taillon, whom he qualified not only as an able but a thoroughly honest man, and if under his leadership victory was not secured it would certainly not be his fault. It was their sacred duty to redeem the province. They must put their shoulders to the wheel and stop the system of bribery and corruption.

Sir Adolphe Caron and Hon. Mr. Chapleau also spoke.

MR. TAILLON BANQUETTED.

Nearly 1000 Persons at the Tables—Speeches by Mr. Taillon and Others.

MONTREAL, May 30. The banquet to Hon. L. O. Taillon, leader of the Opposition in the Quebec Legislature, was held in Victoria Rink last night. There were nearly 1000 persons seated at the tables. Joseph Tasse presided.

Hon. Mr. Taillon, in reply to the toast of his health, gave an elaborate review of provincial politics. He was also presented with an address from the electors of Montcalm.

J. J. Curran proposed the health of the Old Chieftain, Sir John Macdonald, and the veteran Premier made one of his characteristic speeches. He was presented with a handsome Celtic cross of flowers by the Conservative ladies of Montreal.

Among the other toasts were "The Parliament of Canada" and "The Quebec Legislature." The gathering did not disperse until after 2 o'clock this morning.

The Late Senator Ryan's Successor.

MONTREAL, May 29.—The appointment of Edward Murphy to the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of Hon. Thomas Ryan will be gazetted on Saturday and will be well received generally on account of the wide esteem in which he is held.

FRIDAY, MAY 31, 1889.

THERE WAS NOTHING IN IT.

THE BRITISH WARSHIPS NOT ORDERED TO BEHRING SEA.

A Hundred Arrests, including That of an ex-Premier, Made in Connection With the Belgrade Riots.

LONDON, May 30.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir James Fergusson, Parliamentary Secretary to the Foreign Office, denied the report from Victoria, B.C., that three men-of-war in the Pacific had been ordered to proceed to Behring Sea in June to protect British sealing vessels from interference by American men-of-war.

Dufferin Remembers Canada.

LONDON, May 30.—Sir Charles Tupper took part in the presentation of the freedom of the City of London to the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava yesterday. Lord Dufferin was most cordially received, and repeated reference was made to his success in Canada. He learnt from Sir Charles Tupper with keen interest of the gratifying condition of the Dominion, and expressed the lively concern that he and Lady Dufferin still felt in everything Canadian.

President Harrison as a Parnellite.

LONDON, May 30.—At a meeting of the Parnell Commission to-day the first witness was Arthur O'Connor, M.P., who testified that while he was in Indianapolis last year Gen. Harrison, now President of the United States, said that every honest man and lover of liberty would rather share the company of Wm. O'Brien in Tullamore jail than that of the Viceroy in Dublin Castle. Mr. O'Connor said that when he took office in the League, he found many of the books fragmentary and in arrears. It was impossible to do anything with them. He did not know whether the books which the Government seized during the administration of Chief Secretary Forster had been destroyed. Presiding Judge Hannen ordered that inquiries be made about these books.

Mr. O'Connor repelled as a calumny the suggestion that the tenants understood his advice to boycott land-grabbers as a hint to murder or use violence.

Justin McCarthy, M.P., testified to the horror and dismay the Phoenix Park murders caused among the Parnellites.

George Lewis, Mr. Parnell's solicitor, examined with reference to the missing books, said he had no knowledge of any books except those of the English branch of the league. These were produced in court.

Justice Hannen: "We must have all the books."

Mr. Lewis had not enquired what became of the league's letters, nor had he taken steps to trace payments of money.

The Parnell Libel Suit Postponed.

LONDON, May 30.—On the application of The Times the Parnell libel suit has been postponed.

And the Earth Quaked.

LONDON, May 30.—A prolonged shock of earthquake was felt in the Channel Islands to-day.

The Samoan Treaty.

BERLIN, May 30.—The substance of the treaty agreed upon yesterday by the Samoan Conference is as follows: Malietoa is to be reinstated as King and the status quo ante restored. Germany accepts a nominal indemnity. The government of the islands is to be purely by natives, with an Advisory Council composed of one representative of Germany and one of the United States with an English representative, who will act only as an arbitrator or umpire when the other two cannot agree. A land court to settle disputed land claims is to be established. The municipal Government of Apia is to be native, with advisory provisions similar to the general government. The absolute autonomy of Samoa is guaranteed, with native predominance in all departments of the Government. A tariff schedule is included in the treaty. Each of the three powers is allotted the use of a coaling station with all privileges therein except sovereignty.

Wholesale Arrests in Belgrade!

BELGRADE, May 30.—A hundred arrests have been made in connection with the riot here Monday. Among those arrested is ex-Premier Marachine. He is also accused of having incited the Progressists to attack the opposing party.

To Discuss the Jesuits Bill.

OSHAWA, May 30.—A meeting will be held here shortly to discuss the Jesuits Estates Bill and to appoint delegates to attend the Toronto meeting.

THEY CENSURED THE M.P.'s

BUT LET THE ORANGEMEN IN THE HOUSE DOWN EASY.

The Grand Orange Lodge of British America Concludes Its Labors at Goderich—The Officers Elected.

GODERICH, May 30.—The Supreme Grand Orange Lodge resumed its sittings at 11 last night and continued in session until 3 o'clock this morning. The debate on the Jesuit question was continued, and the Grand Lodge was split into hostile camps on the matter. The report of the special committee was the fighting ground of the contestants, and the bone of contention was whether the Orange members of Parliament who voted with the majority should be condemned or not. The first clause of the report was laudatory of the action of the noble thirteen, and was approved of by the entire gathering. The second clause was condemnatory of the Protestant members, "especially those who are Orangemen," of the Dominion Parliament who had voted with the majority on the question when it was before the House.

The entire lodge was in favor of censuring the Protestant members, but the special mention of the Orange members caused a division. In the afternoon John White of Hastings and Stewart Mulvey of Winnipeg had thrown bombs into the camp of the Orange members and their friends, and when the lodge met last night the excitement was at fever heat. Strong addresses in favor of censuring the Orange members were made by Major Armstrong, St. John, N.B.; C. R. Gordon, Sherbrooke; J. L. Hughes, Rev. W. P. Wilson, Ald. McMillan and Ald. Wm. Bell of Toronto, and the defence was taken up by George Taylor, M.P. for Leeds, Edward Cochrane, M.P. for East Northumberland, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, A. McKay, M. G. Hamilton, Robert Birmingham and Rev. Mr. Helliwell.

The vote was in favor of censuring the Protestant members of Parliament, but in the report furnished to the reporters the phrase "especially those who are Orangemen" was eliminated. The result of the vote was greeted with rousing cheers and singing the National Anthem.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Grand Master—N. Clarke Wallace, Woodbridge (re-elected).

Deputy Grand Master—E. F. Clarke, Toronto (re-elected).

Grand Chaplain—Rev. J. Halliwell, Ameliasburg (re-elected).

Grand Secretary—Thos. Keyes, St. Catharines (re-elected).

Grand Treasurer—Mr. Anderson (re-elected).

Grand Lecturer—James Kelly, St. John, N.B.

Grand Director of Ceremonies—E. Floody, Clinton.

Deputy Grand Chaplains—Rev. Rural Dean Cooper, B.D., Invermay; Rev. James R. Dill, Merritton; Rev. Wm. Walker, Port Robinson; Rev. Mr. Mingst, Arthur; Rev. E. W. Sibbald, Lloydtown; Rev. W. H. Wilson, Toronto; Rev. R. Hazzard, Blackstock; Rev. F. A. Rooney, Garden Hill; Rev. Wm. M. Pattyson, Fenelon Falls; Rev. W. P. Flewellyn, Lakeville, N.B.; Rev. Dr. Smith, M.A., Montreal; Rev. David Carscadden, Forest; Rev. F. M. Finn, Chater; Rev. Thos. Argue, Mainton; Rev. W. H. Barnes, Barrie; Rev. Rural Dean Highland, Watford; Rev. Wm. Donagh, Strathroy; Rev. Chas. E. Perry, Angus; Rev. J. R. Wilson, Dunnville; Rev. R. H. Leach, Eldorado.

Deputy Grand Secretary—A. J. Van Ingen, Newcastle.

Deputy Grand Treasurer—Frank D. Stewart, Carmen.

Deputy Grand Lecturers—(Ontario West) Capt. Witmore, Burford; (Ontario East) John McCaughey, Cobourg; (New Brunswick) Wm. Roxborough, South Bay, N.B.; (Quebec) R. McGloughlin, Montreal; (Manitoba) J. Morrow; (Northwest Territories) J. Nibleck, Alberta, J. H. Mill, Calgary; (Nova Scotia) John C. Gass, Shubenacadie; (British Columbia) Wm. Johnston, New Westminster.

Auditors—T. C. McAvoy, Balsam, and W. H. Stewart.

The work of the session was concluded this afternoon and the evening trains were crowded with departing brethren.

The next meeting of the Supreme Grand Lodge will be held in St. John, N.B.

A Big Brewery Deal.

DETROIT, May 31.—The large brewery of E. W. Voigt of this city has gone into the hands of an English company. This negotiation was the oldest of the American brewery deals worked by the English investors and their agents, and Mr. Voigt himself has been in London for some time, evidently dispensing largely with the services of middlemen. The new joint stock company has a capital of $525,000, and in addition thereto $375,000 in first mortgage bonds will be floated. Mr. Voigt retains an interest of $180,000 in the company's stock, will probably take half of the first mortgage bonds in part payment for his property, and gets the residue, about $60 0,000, in cash. He will remain as manager of the property on a royalty of 10 cents per barrel of beer sold, the company proposing to double the present capacity of 57,000 barrels. Mr. Voigt guarantees a dividend of 13 per cent. on the stock of the company after a 5 per cent. fixed charges is paid as interest on $375,000 of bonds. Mr. Voigt and Col. John Atkinson, a prominent lawyer of this city, are the home directors with Durant E. Cardinal of Manchester, England; Percy C. Reid of Hatfield; Thomas Young of Eastbourne and Edward H. Cousens as the English directors. The latter gentleman is an attorney and the first three are themselves managers of large English-brewing concerns. The saloons which Voigt established and controlled in various parts of this city, about twenty-five in number, all selling the brewery's product, go over to the new company on leases of varying terms of continuance. The stock of the company was placed on subscription in London for about two full days, and was all subscribed within that time.

Brethren in Collision.

COLUMBUS, O., May 31.—A decided sensation was created on High-street by an encounter between Rev. Fred Bell, the singing preacher, formerly of Brooklyn and other cities, and Rev. Mr. Foster, a Methodist minister. Bell has, according to his own confession, led a checkered career, and was until recently pastor of the Central Christian Church. He sought to secure a divorce from and abandon his wife, now in Manchester, England, but in this has been checkmated, she having filed a counter suit. He was, a few months ago, allowed to resign as pastor of the church, but more recently has been expelled. He has been preaching Sunday nights in one of the opera houses, and because of his notoriety and theatrical bearing drew large audiences. A card was published signed by Thomas E. Foster, in which Bell was referred to as "the British ministerial freak," and the intimation was made that Bell could not hope to win the confidence of people so long as he courted the applause of disreputable women and drank beer with them. Bell, while on a street car noticed Brother Foster in a buggy on the street, and jumping off, Brother Bell proceeded to do up Rev. Mr. Foster by attempting to jerk him from the conveyance, and, as he said, "giving it to him in the neck." The belligerent Bell was nabbed by a burley policeman, and much to his chagrin and mortification, hustled into the patrol wagon and taken to the city prison, where he was soon after released on bail.

A Virginia Cyclone.

MARTINSBURG, Va., May 30.—A cyclone swept through a portion of the valley to-day. At Falling Waters John W. Criswell's barn was blown down, killing J. K. Powell and injuring John Vegle. Vegle died. Wheat was beaten to the ground, trees uprooted and much fencing destroyed.

BINGHAMTON, N.Y., May 30.—Garrett Wheeler, night watchman of the village of Oxford, was shot and fatally wounded by Cornelius Beuchett, an employe of Olcott's stone quarry, at that village to-night. The ball entered near the heart. Wheeler returned Beuchett's fire without effect. [illegible] Beuchett is in custody.

SUICIDE AT MONTREAL.

A Young Woman Shoots Herself Without Any Apparent Cause.

MONTREAL, May 30.—A tragic and as yet unexplained suicide took place in the city today. Adele Lafrance, 22 years old, had been engaged for some time past as general servant at a saloon kept by P. A. Elliott at the corner of Aylmer and Mayor-streets and her character had been above reproach. She was a Roman Catholic and this morning attended the Ascension Day service at St. Patrick's Church. Immediately after the service she locked herself in her bedroom. In a few moments the loud report of a firearm was heard and on the inmates bursting the door open they found that the girl had shot herself just under the left breast. She was still alive but groaning in agony though she was unable to speak. In her hand she grasped a six-chambered revolver of heavy calibre, from which one bullet had been discharged. She died an hour later without being able to offer any explanation of her act.

Shot Himself.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Captain C. H. Witthams to-day committed suicide at his house here by shooting. The captain was very wealthy and 35 years old.

MANITOBA RAILWAYS.

Proposed Extension of the Northern Pacific—Charges of Civic Boodling.

WINNIPEG, May 30.—President Oakes and Henry Villard of the Northern Pacific will visit here Sunday to complete arrangements for the purchase of the Northwest Central and make traffic arrangements with the Manitoba and Northwestern. It is said the Northern Pacific system will be extended beyond Saskatchewan and to the Pacific coast on the old Mackenzie line.

An injunction has been issued restraining the city from signing the scavenging contract with Reid & Co. on the ground that the by-laws of the city have not been complied with. Charges of boodling are made.

The Haytien Commission.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 31.—The Haytien Commission continues to be the chief topic here. A reporter found Gen. Beverly Tucker at breakfast with his brother, Judge Randolph Tucker, at Chamberlain's. "I have not seen Mr. Blaine," he said. "He was down the river yesterday, you know, and I have not been to the State Department to-day, so I know nothing about the situation. I do not know the reason for the withdrawal of the appointments of the commission nor what is contemplated in the matter. It will be only surmising to attempt to discuss it, and I cannot, of course, do that. As to the sensational stories, my being associated with conspiracy, etc., the whole thing is without an iota of truth. All that was answered in my address to the people during Johnson's administration. The only positions I ever held under the Confederate Government were a perfectly legitimate mission abroad to purchase quarter-master's stores and a mission to Canada to exchange cotton for meal. I had nothing whatever to do with any of the military operations of the confederacy, their guns or their soldiers or their military plans in any way, and I was in absolute ignorance of them. I was in Canada to trade cotton for meal. President Lincoln and Secretary Ward were aware of my mission, knew its character, and all about it." "The fact appears," broke in Judge Randolph Tucker, "that some enemies of Mr. Blaine are trying to hit at him over my brother's shoulder. It is a feeble attempt to hurt Mr. Blaine."

Attempted Burglary.

CALUMET, Mich., May 31.—Last midnight two men entered the express office by the window, having first attempted to pry open the door. The agent was awakened by the noise, stepped outside and got help. The burglars jumped outside the window and when ordered to halt by Henry Fleige fired two shots at him and escaped. One of the burglars cut his hand terribly in breaking the windows of the office. The fellows had powder and tools with which to crack the safe. There is no clew to the robbers.

Runaway Match Thwarted.

KINGSTON, May 30.—On Wednesday a couple of young lovers reached Farmersville from Smith's Falls. They seemed anxious to be married, and were equally anxious to avoid irate parents, who had been chasing them for days, and followed closely enough to prevent the performance of the marriage ceremony. After a meal at the Gamble House, the couple were on the point of driving off when the fathers arrived and took possession of the lovers. Despite all her father could do the girl jumped out of his buggy and contrived to have a parting embrace on the sidewalk with her baffled admirer. The youth is a son of a prominent citizen of Smith's Falls, and the would-be bride is a daughter of a former resident of Farmersville.

Mr. Baines' Successor Appointed.

ORILLIA, May 30.—Mr. W. Schreiber, purchasing agent of the Northern Railway for the past twenty-five years in this district, has been appointed keeper of stores at London for the Grand Trunk. Mr. Schreiber says the company has for years been spending $200,000 annually among the farmers of this division for supplies. The loss of the wood trade, caused by the growing scarcity of timber and the necessity of substituting coal, was a more serious item than was generally recognized. The Grand Trunk Company sent $1,000,000 to Pennsylvania for coal. This would be saved to Canada if the road were extended to James Bay and the coal fields there proved as extensive as supposed. Many will regret the departure of Mr. Schreiber from this district.

Cute But Heartless.

DUNDAS, May 30.—A rather cute but heartless robbery occurred at the G.T.R. station here the other night. A daughter was visiting her father, who lives in town. She had her little child with her, and the proud grandparent took out his wallet and presented his daughter with a dollar bill for the youngster. The daughter asked him to let her count the contents of his pocket-book, and, although he knew she had been guilty of pilfering his hard-earned savings before, he allowed her to do so. When he again opened it he found that six $10 bills had been replaced by six $1 bills. She had substituted the one for the other while counting the money. It was a heartless trick for any daughter to play on her father, and is particularly hard in this instance. For the old man's sake, as his grief and shame are already poignant, the names are suppressed.

Political Ambition Ruined Him.

OTTAWA, May 30.—While planting potatoes at Massena Springs, N.Y., W. E. Brown, Ottawa's absconding boot and shoe merchant, was arrested by a Montreal detective, assisted by a local officer. It is alleged Brown disposed of his goods with intent to defraud his creditors. The damages are laid at $16,000. Brown is held pending bail, which has been fixed at $7000. Brown's liabilities are heavy. Among the things which assisted in his financial ruin was a large outlay in an endeavor to become Mayor of Ottawa.

Lost His Shirt But Saved His Life.

WEST LORNE, May 30.—A man named Jennings, while equalizing staves in Waugh's factory, happened to come in contact with a shaft in front of him. As quick as a flash the bosom of his shirt commenced to wind and in an instant he was left standing shirtless, except the wrist bands. The shirt was sacrificed and the man's life saved. Monday Joe Lemon, working in the same mill, had the ends of two fingers cut off by the stave knife.

Bitten by Frost.

OSHAWA, May 30.—The most severe frost ever known here at this season of the year was that of Tuesday night. It damaged the potato crop, tomatoes, beans, strawberries, grapevines, corn, [illegible] but slightly damaged. [illegible]

TOPICS FROM TORONTO.

THE VICTORIA UNIVERSITY FEDERATION TANGLE.

Bakers to Go On Strike—The New Law School—A Farewell Banquet to a Baptist Educationist.

TORONTO, May 31.—John Harrison, the boy who was struck on the head by a stone Wednesday, was too ill to appear in court yesterday morning to prosecute his assailant.

Geo. Adams was sent to jail for 60 days yesterday morning by the Police Magistrate for a savage attack on a woman named Lily Kelly.

The Board of Regents of the Victoria University and the Advisory Board met here to try and straighten the tangle in the federation scheme yesterday morning. Doctor Carman occupied the chair. Dr. Potts explained that he had now $69,000 on deposit and a promise of $264,000, also a letter of credit from a bank manager, through Hon. John Macdonald, for $26,000 and $4000 from Irving and Fred. Walker. A resolution was passed requesting the Senate to withdraw their opposition, 10 members declining to vote and the vote standing 24 to 0. Afterwards the Senate sat and by a vote of 26 to 3 passed this resolution:

> That having heard the request of the joint meeting of the Board and Advisory Committee and in view of the perils of further delay both to the harmony of the church at large and to the financial and educational interests of the college, this Senate do now comply with the request of the Board of Regents presented to our meeting Nov. 11, and the Senate are willing and do hereby concur with the Board of Regents in giving the necessary notice to federate with Toronto University and pray the court to relieve the Board of Regents from the injunction in so far as it is granted on our behalf. That the Chancellor and Registrar be directed to lay a copy of this resolution properly attested before the court.

It is claimed by those who did not vote that the Senate has no power to meet outside of Cobourg.

On Wednesday afternoon the friends of a gentleman whose name they refused to have published, informed Esplanade Constable Williams that he had been missing for several days. He was accompanied by a liver and white retriever, and seeing in the papers the curious actions of a dog on the Esplanade, they connected his disappearance with it. Mr. Williams called at the residence of Mr. Brooke, No. 261 Jarvis-street, to see if he could learn anything about the animal. He was there told that it was a gentleman of the same name as Mr. Brooke who had been interested in the dog, and further that it was not his but one that had followed him home. The officer cannot find the Mr. Brooke wanted.

York-street circles were plunged in grief yesterday when it became known that Harry Dalton, Tom Jones' partner, had died the night before in the General Hospital. Dalton, though but 29 years of age, had a record in police circles, and was the faithful chum of Paddy Rats, Tom Buckley, the murderer of Bertha Robinson, and others of that ilk. The immediate cause of his death was inflammation of the lungs. His funeral expenses are being paid by his old associates and he will be buried on Sunday. The police held a warrant for his arrest as a vagrant.

There was a large attendance of the benchers in Osgoode Hall yesterday when gratifying progress was made in reference to the important question of legal education. Mr. Æmilius Irving, Q.C., presided, and the muster numbered a score. At the last meeting a committee was appointed to report on rules for the proposed Law School. This report was presented and fully discussed yesterday. Substantially it was on the basis of the propositions, the tenor of which had been approved at previous meetings of the Benchers. With a few slight amendments the report was adopted. The rules will be promulgated and the Law School may now be considered an accomplished fact. The result of the meeting was regarded as highly satisfactory. The legal profession generally are to be congratulated on the realization of a scheme which has long been discussed and which is calculated to place the legal education of the district on a more satisfactory basis.

A farewell banquet was given to Rev. Dr. J. H. Castle, the ex-President of McMaster, last night. Speeches were made by Hon. Oliver Mowat, Sir Daniel Wilson, Principal Caven, Dr. Thomas, Chancellor Boyd and others.

The crisis in the trouble between the journeymen bakers and the masters has been reached and to-morrow night the former will go out on strike, the two parties not being able to agree. Last night the executive committee of the Toronto Journeyman Bakers' Union met the executive committee of the Master Bakers' Association in Richmond Hall and sought to make an amicable settlement, but the masters refused to even read the proposed agreement of the journeymen, which was to this effect: That the Journeymen Bakers' Union be recognized as a body; that the foremen be paid $14 a week and journeymen $12 a week, instead of $12 and $10 respectively as at present; that 10 hours constitute a day's work, with one hour for meals, work to commence at 4 a.m. 5 days in the week and at 3 a.m. on the sixth day; that none but union men be employed; that one apprentice be allowed for every three journeymen; that the agreement should remain in force till June 1, 1890; and that a uniform hour for starting should be recognized whether labor was employed or not. The masters would take no stock in this proposal and the journeymen went up stairs where their union was in session and reported, the result being a unanimous resolve to strike. The journeymen number 160 and there were 128 present.

Halifax News.

HALIFAX, May 31.—Ezekiel Foster who has been living with his son at North Kingston was found dead in a small brook which runs through the meadows. It is supposed that he attempted to cross and stumbled, striking his head on a stone which probably stunned him and rendered him unable to get out in which position he drowned, his face when found being in the water. His age, 88 years would prevent his putting forth any great effort to extricate himself.

Mr. Gerrard, owner of the fishing craft which was run down and sunk off Spry Harbor by the steamer William, has retained counsel to take proceedings against the owners of the steamer. The amount claimed for actual damage done is $800.

On Monday evening a young girl named Mary Bonang, belonging to West Chezzetcook, who has been in service at a house on Pleasant-street for a couple of years, left the house where she has been living and has not since been seen. Her employers fear something serious has happened to her.

THE OFFICIAL REPORT.

Some days ago the REVIEW quoted from the New York papers' reports of Mr. Erastus Wiman's evidence before the United States Senate committee. Mr. Wiman had denied the correctness of the Associated Press report and gave an explanation of what he did say. Now we have the official report, and, although we believe Mr. Wiman came into Canada carrying false colors and making use of a political decoy duck, we have no desire to make anyone believe he said what he did not say.

The official reports show that the New York papers did not report his exact language, but that their reports were nearer correct than the version of his evidence that Mr. Wiman sent to Canada. What the Staten Island monopolist tells his United States hearers is of interest to Canada, because he was the father of the Liberal policy of commercial union, but we will only make a few brief quotations from this official report bearing on the question of annexation. Mr. Wiman said:—

"The Canadians are a very loyal, and a very peculiar people in regard to their American relations. The tendency or the disposition toward annexation was much stronger in 1849 than it has ever been since. There is said to be a growth in favor of annexation now, but no man who understands the real conditions that prevail can suppose that a Parliament could be elected for twenty-five years that could give effect to such a movement. It would take at least a gradual process of five general elections of five years each to get a sufficient number of votes in Parliament to extinguish itself and merge itself into the United States Congress, and it is also by no means certain that it ever could be accomplished."

Mr. Wiman evidently thinks that under the present conditions annexation is in the distance, but that it might be hastened by commercial union, as further on he said:—

"If the custom duties could be entirely abolished, if manufacturers of the United States could have free access to all the vast region I have described, accommodating the emigration that is pouring in here and troubling you just now so much, and if these should become customers for you, American commerce would be enriched and benefitted by the productive forces of that region just as it was enriched by the productive forces of Michigan and Minnesota. The results you speak of might in the shape of annexation be attained."

He further said that under commercial union Canada would be far more likely to grow "independent of British connection," and he also expressed the opinion that Canada "can't remain forever in its present position," that is, as a part of the British Empire. Again he said:—

"Commercial union is regarded by some as a short cut to annexation. Others regard commercial union as a preventative of annexation. If you have faith in the attractiveness of the institutions of this country, perhaps you can thus win Canada; they may want to govern themselves."

Thus without directly saying that commercial union was a short cut to annexation Mr. Wiman held the idea out to those United States Senators that by that policy they could bring political union about. One more quotation:—

"If one realizes the fact that that country is larger than this, and a great deal richer; if you realize that forty states can be made just as well on that side of the line as this, and that in fifty years there might be thus created a republic as promising as this, that would solve all the questions pending between the English speaking people on this Continent. There is no question of the extent and value of that country, as contributors to the greatness of the United States."

That is Mr. Wiman's idea of commercial union—to sever Canada from Great Britain by getting the Dominion to form a commercial combination with the United States against the Empire, to bring about political union with the Republic, and to make these provinces "contributors to the greatness of the United States."

LAKEFIELD LOCALS.

The 24th of May—An Entertainment—Court of Revision and Other News.

Correspondence of the Review.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. D. V. Beacock, of Brockville, is the guest of her sister, the Rev. Mrs. Johnston.... Miss Schofield has gone to Whitby on a visit to friends.

HOW OUR CITIZENS SPENT THE 24TH.—The following places were visited by a goodly number:—Peterborough, Bridgenorth and Stoney Lake. The rest of the inhabitants remained home and either played football, baseball or cricket. The football match was between Warsaw and Lakefield and Warsaw club was too much for Lakefield. The baseball match was between the married gentlemen and the young gentlemen who are not blessed with a helpmate. The boys without the helpmate did up the helpmate men, proving marriage to be a failure.

ENTERTAINMENT.—The Lakefield branch of the Woman Foreign Missionary Society connected with the Methodist Church gave an entertainment in the church on Monday evening. The programme was well carried out. The Rev. Mr. Johnston was in the chair. He called on the choir for the opening piece, then the chairman gave his address, which was short and sweet. Mrs. J. C. Sheris read a most interesting report of the work that is being carried on in Japan. Master Theo. Hendren then sang a solo in very sweet voice, and greatly pleased the audience. Next was a comic reading by Mrs. Fisher entitled "Hezekiah and I." Misses Leonard and Fisher favored the audience with a duet. Mrs. Johnston read a good report of the work in China. The choir then gave a selection and Miss Nina Sheris gave a good reading. Mrs. Harper displayed a good many curiosities sent her by Miss Munroe, of Peterborough, now a missionary in Japan, which interested the audience a great deal. In fact they would make a good subject for a lecture. Mr. Hull moved, seconded by Mr. Sheris, that a vote of thanks be tendered the ladies for the most enjoyable evening and stated that he had enjoyed the evening so much, and it was quite evident the ladies had completely captivated him, and to show his appreciation of the ladies' work he handed them $[illegible] for life membership for Mr. and Mrs. Hull. Of course the ladies were delighted and thought Mr. Hull just the thing the doctor ordered, and looked around for another gentleman to do likewise, but met with no response. The meeting was then brought to a close.

THE BRIDGE.—Mr. Wade has the contract for re-planking the bridge over the Otonabee river at Lakefield.

CHEMICALLY Pure Boiled Linseed Oil, White Lead, Turpentine, Varnish and Dry Colors, for sale at Henderson's Drug Store at prices that cannot be beaten.

AN ANNOYING TRICK.—On Sunday evening the members of the congregation of St. John's church, were surprised and annoyed to find that there was something wrong with the ventilators, which have lately been put in at considerable cost. It appears that a precocious youth slipped in just before service commenced and closed them. Somebody suggests that the sexton should be provided with a good flexible cane for the benefit of such intruders in future.

COURT OF REVISION.—On Tuesday evening last the Village Council sat as a Court of Revision on the assessment roll of the municipality for 1889. Present: W. H. Casement, reeve, Couns. Nelson, Hull, Moore, and Henderson. Mr. Jno. Crickmore appealed against the assessment of lots, 8, 9, 10, 11, north of Ermatinger Street, containing 4½ acres, and assessed at $600. On motion of Coun. Henderson, seconded by Coun. Moore, Mr. Crickmore's assessment on the lots mentioned was reduced $100. Mr. J. C. Sheris appealed against the $2,300 assessment on his new residence, Mr. Sheris claimed that his property was assessed at nearly its full cash value, and mentioned several other properties in the village he thought were as valuable as his that were assessed lower. On motion of Coun. Hull, seconded by Coun. Nelson, the assessment was confirmed. Mr. Jno. Hull appealed against the $5500 assessment on his mill property. On motion of Coun Moore, seconded by Coun Henderson, Mr. Hull's assessment on mill property was reduced to $6,000. Moved by Coun Hull, seconded by Coun Nelson,—That the Assessment Roll for the year 1889 as now amended, be and is hereby accepted and confirmed. The Court then adjourned sine die.

Douro Picnic.

The annual picnic in connection with St. Joseph's Church, Douro, will be held on Thursday, June 13th, in that beautiful grove on the farm of Mr. Dennis O'Brien, one mile south of the paris church. Prof. Doucet's orchestra will furnish music for dancing and there will be an interesting programme of sports and games. Admission to the ground, including dinner, 50 cents. Father Keilty, who is a host in himself at picnics, is assisted by an able committee, and an enjoyable day may be expected.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Trouble in a Smith-st. Family.

There has been trouble in a family by the name of Dawson who reside on Smith-st. Several times the police have been called by the neighbors to quiet disturbances which have taken place in the house, and this morning Chief Roszel was again sent for. It appears that the quarrels, or disturbances arise between the mother and a step daughter but the latter always refused to give any information against her step-mother. This morning, however, she admitted that her step-parent has on several occasions ill-treated and abused her. Chief Roszel gave the mother a warning and it is hoped peace may reign in the household hereafter.

It Was Only Neighborliness.

The charge of larceny which Michael Bolton laid against Edward Flaherty was dismissed at the Police Court this morning. Bolton and his son both gave evidence which went to show that Flaherty had broken down with a load at Bolton's house and had gone into the yard and borrowed a whiffle-tree and the chain, and in a few days returned the whiffle-tree, but Bolton says he has never seen the chain since. The Magistrate did not finish hearing the evidence, as he said he thought it was a case for the Division Court. He did not think that Flaherty had any felonious intent when he took the chain, but was simply presuming on his acquaintance and borrowed it. If he had not returned it, then Bolton could sue for its value in the Division Court.

An Appropriate Present.

The local St. Andrew's Society has been the recipient of a very handsome and appropriate present from the well-known firm of Messrs. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, through the hands of Mr. Wm. Walsh, of town. The present is a neatly framed colored picture about 22x28, named "The Clans of Scotland," and showing the chief representatives of each of the different clans dressed in full Highland costume. The figures in the group are well portrayed, the colors and patterns of the respective tartans being clearly brought out. The picture is framed with a heavy deep pressed gilt moulding which gives an effective and finishing setting to the attractive group of Highlanders. The picture will, undoubtedly, ornament the walls of the new St. Andrew's Hall.

To Clear the throat and invigorate the system try a 5lb. caddy of Tea from M. R. Kidd.

THE HIGH LICENSE MONEY.

The Municipal Deputation Interviews the Ontario Government—Hopeful of Success.

The deputation of the Town Council which left yesterday morning for Toronto to interview the Ontario Government in reference to the amendment made at the close of the last session of the Legislature to the Liquor License Act, returned home last night. Those gentlemen who represented the corporation were:—Mayor Stevenson, Councillors Davidson, Cahill, E. H. D. Hall, Rutherford, Mr. E.B. Edwards, Town Solicitor, and Mr. J. McGill, Town Treasurer. Mr. J.R. Stratton, M.P.P., also accompanied the deputation. It was expected that the town council of Brockville, would also send a deputation at the same time, as that municipality is also affected by this piece of legislation, but the Brockvillians failed to materialize. The chief object of the deputation was to impress upon the Government the unfairness of the amendment and ask it to refund the $2,200 which by the amendment the Government pockets out of the high license fees over and above what they did under the act prior to its amendment.

THE INTERVIEW.

The members of the cabinet who were present when the deputation were introduced were:—The Attorney General, Messrs. Hardy, Gibson, A.M. Ross and Chas. Drury. Mr. Stratton introduced the deputation.

Mayor Stevenson, Councillors E. H. D. Hall and Rutherford and Town Solicitor Edwards addressed the members of the Government and the Empire reporter, who accompanied the deputation, reports the proceedings as follows:—

The Mayor explained the facts of the case. He laid stress on the fact particularly that they did not seek to limit the number of licenses. They felt that the legislation bore very heavily on them. He went into a brief history of the Crooks Act and the Scott Act administration in the municipality. They were an individual case, and they felt that the $2,200 should be refunded.

The Attorney General—But that would affect the province.

Mayor Stevenson—It would only affect two towns. The others have not come in.

Councillor Hall followed, and said if the Government wanted revenue they should have put the increase on the $70 or on the $80, which would affect the whole province and no one would have particular reason to complain beyond others. The legislation, he showed, would have the effect of preventing the imposition of high license, as the municipalities would never enact a by-law for the benefit of the province.

Councillor Rutherford said the people were disgusted with the action taken by the Government. The time that had elapsed and the fact that no other places put on the high license, showed that the cases of Peterborough and Brockville would stand as unique exceptions to the rest of the province.

Town Solicitor Edwards said as the amendment might be taken as not being retroactive, the municipality had a good claim to the $2,200.

The Attorney-General—There seems to be considerable force in what you have said, and we will consider the matter very carefully.

A FAVORABLE RESULT.

A point which was particularly emphasized by the deputation was that the high license by-law was adopted on the 25th of February prior to either the introduction or passing of the amendment to the Act, and they claimed that such being the case, they having framed their by-law under and with an eye to the unamended License Act, they should be refunded the money this year at least. The deputation are confident that their mission has not been in vain, for although no encouraging word was spoken or promise made other than that of "careful consideration," they believe they have good grounds for thinking that their case has favorably impressed Mr. Mowat and his colleagues, and that the money will be refunded this year.

A Motion to Quash the By-law.

Mr. A. P. Pousette, Q. C., on behalf of the hotel men went to Toronto to-day to move at Osgoode Hall for an order to quash the High License By-law.

Postponed Indefinitely.

A Boom in Bicycling.

The season which is just opening promises to be a brisk one for sports in Peterborough, the P.A.A.A. being in a flourishing condition, the lacrosse club having several good games on here during the season, the baseball clubs being numerous and enthusiastic, the canoe club having arranged fortnightly regattas and now the bicyclists are heard from. The wheelsmen in town are going into the sport with an enthusiasm and energy which means success, and the season will probably be the brightest in the history of 'cycling here. Last evening the first meeting of the club was held in their new hall, over the saleroom of the Ontario Canoe Company, corner of Water and Brock-sts. The hall at present is unfurnished, but it is large and well lighted and when nicely fitted up will make first class quarters for the wheelmen and will tend to keep the club together during the winter. At the meeting last evening it was decided to hold a meet on the P.A.A.A. grounds on Thursday evening every other week and a meeting is called for next Thursday evening to arrange the programme, etc., for the following Thursday evening when the first meet will be held. The funds which it is expected will be raised by these fortnightly meets will go towards furnishing the new hall.

Obituary.

The Lindsay Watchman says:—"It is with feelings of profound regret that we this week record the death of Mrs. Barr, wife of Mr. C. D. Barr, of the Canadian Post, which event took place at the family residence on Bond-st. on Saturday last. For several months previous it was generally known that Mrs. Barr was suffering from a most distressing malady, from which she could not possibly recover. The announcement of her death, therefore, on Saturday last was not unexpected. To say that the profoundest sympathy of a large circle was with the deceased lady during her long and painful illness, is to but poorly express the feelings that have moved this community for the past few months. The high esteem in which Mrs. Barr was held by every one to whom she was known, renders her early death the subject of the deepest regret throughout a large circle of acquaintances. Socially her death is a loss which will be widely felt; to her afflicted husband and family that loss must be extreme. We unite with the community at large in tendering to Mr. Barr and family the assurance of sincerest sympathy in their great sorrow. The funeral, which took place on Monday to the English church, and thence to the Riverside cemetery, was largely attended.

CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE.

THE CONVENTION CLOSES WITH A GOOD MEETING.

Several Testimonies of Healing by Divine Power by Local Persons—Testifying to Spiritual Blessing—Parting Texts of the Delegates—A Local Branch Formed.

The afternoon meeting of the Christian Alliance in the Baptist church was well attended yesterday afternoon, and the meeting proved interesting, several local testimonies being given.

FURTHER TESTIFYING.

Miss Gordon, after the usual opening exercises, referred to the lesson of the morning which had been to show that there was nothing to be gained by vain repetitions and said in calling upon those who had already testified to again speak a few words in reference to their experience they did not do so for the repetition of the testimony but in order to present a new phase of the ever-bearing and abiding presence of God.

Mr. J. W. Fenton, was the first called upon and he said there were many present who had received that solemn and impressive ordinance laid down in the epistle of James, and he, therefore, proceeded at some length to speak to them of the way in which, as God's people, they might be tried or tested. He referred to Abraham's great test and also related how he himself had been severely tested in his faith but had always been victorious by placing his faith in God and had finally experienced a flood of the Holy Spirit such has he had never realized it was possible for a man to receive.

Mrs. Fletcher, of Toronto, who related yesterday her experience of divine healing in the removing of a tumor, gave some further testimony of the sanctifying and healing power of God, and spoke words of encouragement to those who thought their burdens in this life were so heavy that they could not bear them urging them to get Christ within as the life, and when they had accepted Him fully he would heal them in body and soul.

PERSONS IN TOWN HEALED.

Miss Gordon said they had been told that there were persons in Peterborough who had been healed by faith in God, and, after making reference to the doctrine of Christian science believers in which they did not say could not be saved, she asked any who might have been healed by trusting in God to give their testimony.

Mr. Fred Winch was the first to respond. He said he had experienced this spiritual healing. One morning he had awakened to go to an early prayer meeting in the Methodist church but had a strange ringing in his head. He had prayed God to take away this feeling and He had answered his prayer. On several other occasions he had had direct answer to prayer and sweet and glorious manifestations of the spirit.

A THUMB CURED.

Mrs. Smith, a lady who has passed the meridian of life, next rose and testified that God was her great physician. She said many of them knew she had to toil for her living. Some time ago she had a very sore thumb which continued getting worse until one day the pain became so great that she felt that she would have to stop in her work. But she had raised her voice to God in the prayer "Oh, God, you know how much I need this money for which I am working, and if you see fit heal my thumb." She said immediately the pain had left her thumb and she had gone on with her work and was now rejoicing in God as her Great Physician.

THE CASE OF A TUMOR.

Mrs. Hawkins also had experienced the healing power of God by faith. She had for years been troubled with a tumor which the doctor's had told her could not be cured. She had searched the Scripture and had found those passages where God promised to heal their infirmities and after praying the tumor had decreased visibly and she was better then ever she had been for years. But her faith had slackened and the tumor began to increase again. Then she had gone to God and asked Him to show her why it was that the tumor did not entirely disappear, and He had given renewed faith and her trouble was now decreasing. She said she was a believer in Christ as a healer and her health was wonderfully improved.

BLESSED EXPERIENCE.

Mr. J. C. Turnbull then told those present of the spiritual blessing he had received at the convention he had attended in Toronto and said he had never been at a meeting where God's Spirit was so manifestly present. He had been anointed and had been greatly blessed. He had wondered how he could testify before the people of Peterborough but he had prayed to God and he had sent him strength through the messages in His Book.

AN OTTAWA LADY HEALED.

Mrs. Spencer Jones, a lady from Ottawa who is visiting friends in town, next rose and said she had told her friends in Ottawa before she left that she was coming to Peterborough to be healed but she did not know who the great physician was to be. She had attended the meetings, had been anointed and had received the Great Physician as her healer and was there to rejoice and tell them she had been healed.

Mrs. Sim testified that she had received the Lord as her Saviour, her sanctifier and her healer and had been greatly blessed by the meetings of the convention.

TWO SALVATIONISTS HEALED.

Capt. Hinder, the captain of the local Salvation Army corps, in a very bright manner told of her experience in Divine healing. She had attended a meeting in Toronto and had been led to realize that Christ was her healer as well as her Saviour. She was suffering at the time from an ailment and had been unable to attend to her work, but she had trusted in the Lord and He had healed her. But she did not fully realize that it had been the Divine hand than raised her up, and she had fallen away, until about two weeks ago when she had been thrown out of a buggy and her left limb was severely injured. She was ill as well, and was confined to her bed, being unable to rise. But she had a meeting she was expected to attend that night, and as she lay on her bed the thought came to her that God would heal her if she trusted Him and she had prayed, and God had sent His Spirit and she had risen from her bed and driven eight or nine miles to attend the meeting, and in a couple of days was doing her usual work. She had been tested again since, but she had experienced great blessing and received much light while attending those meetings and felt that Christ was her all in all, her Healer.

Capt. Black, another officer of the Salvation Army, said he could thank God that he had been subject to Divine healing. He said he had experienced convulsions and had often fallen from the platform in these fits. The doctors had ordered him to go into the country. He had done so, but there was no change, the attacks were as bad and as frequent as ever. But he had lain himself at God's feet and prayed that He would heal him, promising that if he was healed he would do more work for Him. God had heard him, and he felt the disease leaving him when he rose from his knees just as, at his conversion, he had felt his sins leaving him. That was five months ago and he still remained well and had never had a return of the attacks.

Miss Gordon then in a lengthy address dwelt on the testing which their faith was certain to receive, taking as her illustration the life of Job.

OTHER TESTIMONY.

Several ladies then rose and told of the blessing which the meetings had proven to them spiritually.

Mrs. Seward said she had accepted the Lord as her Saviour, her Sanctifier and her Healer.

Mr. Seward also spoke, giving his experience in Divine healing. He said many knew how he had suffered. On the advice of Dr. Wilson he had visited New York and gone to the faith cure institute. There he had seen many wonderful things, but he had returned not much better. He said he could not doubt the wonderful cases of healing he had seen, but he had thought that he must be more wicked than those who had experienced the healing or that he lacked faith. So he had continued to believe until the convention had been opened here, but now he saw that it was his faith that was at fault. He thanked God that the convention had been held, for he now saw that he was not shut out from the Divine healing. He said he felt that the meetings would be the means of much spiritual good to the churches.

The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. E. F. Torrance.

The Evening Meeting.

The rain that was falling in a downpour did not prevent a large turnout of people to the closing meeting of the convention last evening. There has been considerable interest manifested in the doctrine which has been set forth at the meetings during the three days of the convention, and people were anxious to be present at one of the meetings, and as this was the last, it probably accounts for the crowded church. After the singing of several hymns in opening and Miss Walker had offered an earnest prayer a collection was taken up. Miss Gordon, who, by her pleasant manner, clear and fluent speaking and excellent singing has made herself a favorite with all those who have attended the meetings, then sang a beautiful solo.

DOCTORS AND MEDICINE.

Miss Gordon then answered a question which had been handed in enquiring if it was against the rules of the Alliance for a member to consult a physician or to take medicine at any time. In answering the question Miss Gordon spoke at considerable length, dwelling on the doctrine of divine healing as they taught it, and which has already appeared in the reports of the meetings. Summed up, her answer to the question was that the Alliance could not make any rules, but that a person who had such questioning as this in his mind was not in a fit condition to accept their doctrine. She said a Christian physician was a good way, but God was the perfect way. They could not point to an earthly physician who was perfect, who had never misjudged a case or lost a patient, but God was a perfect physician and so a person accepting this four-fold doctrine of Christ the Savior, Christ the Sanctifier, Christ the Healer and Christ the coming Lord, as he did not in accepting Christ as his Saviour or Sanctifier require to call in any person, so when they had Christ as their healer they would not desire to call in a physician any more than in the first two cases. If they were satisfied with the physician they had they did not call in another, so if they were satisfied with Christ as their physician, they would not call in another. Then Miss Gordon read Numbers xxi., 7-9, and spoke for nearly an hour on the faith which was exercised in the Lord by Moses and the children of Israel when the latter had been bitten by the serpent, and her words were listened to with the greatest attention.

Mrs. Walker, of Providence, Rhode Island, then earnestly addressed the audience, urging all to open their hearts and allow God's spirit to enter, and before closing she made an appeal to all the unsaved who wished to start a new life to rise, and several did so.

PARTING TEXTS.

As that would be the last meeting Miss Gordon said that each of the delegates had a verse of Scripture which he or she would like to leave with them to ponder over.

Mr. Fenton, of New York, was the first. His verse was 1 Cor. ii, 5—"That your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men but in the power of God." He said he hoped God would impress this truth upon each of them.

Mrs. Fletcher, of Toronto, said she knew there were wounded hearts there and she wanted them all to mark this verse in their Bibles—"Men groan from out the city, and the soul of the wounded crieth out, yet God layeth not folly to them."—Job xxiv, 12.

Mrs. Eastman, of Toronto, gave as her parting text John xiv., 1 2—"Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you, I go to prepare a place for you."

Mrs. Walker, of Providence, Rh. I., also gave two verses.

Mrs. Harris, of Toronto, gave Isiah 53, 5—"With his stripes we are healed."

Miss Gordon gave as her last passage Hosea ii, 19-20, and said a few words of kind farewell to the people and thank them for their kindness and courtesy and also specially thanked the newspapers for their true, considerate and kind reports.

Mr. Fenton said he had also intended to thank the reporters for their reports, which had been faithful, and as detailed as could be expected. The meeting closed with the hymn "We shall meet Again" and the benediction.

A Local Branch Formed.

After the close of the meeting those who had handed in their names signifying their intention of becoming members of the Christian Alliance met in the church for the purpose of organizing a local branch of the Alliance. There were some eighty members in all, which is considered a most encouraging and unusually good commencement. The election of officers resulted as follows:—

President.—Mr. J. C. Turnbull.
First Vice-President.—Mrs. Smart.
Second Vice-President.—Mrs. Hawkins.
Secretary-Treasurer.—Mr. J. Braden.
Executive Committee.—Mr. G. J. Early, Mr. and Mrs. John Sawers, Mr. F. Mason, Mr. Routley, Mr. Fairburn and Mrs. E. M. Smith.

The gentlemen who interested themselves and were instrumental in having the convention held here are greatly pleased with the spiritual blessings which have resulted from the meetings and are elated with the promising circumstances under which the local branch has been formed. Weekly meetings will be held every Tuesday evening the first being held Tuesday evening next at eight o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

WEDDING BELLS.

Miss Minnie Cox United in Marriage to Mr. A. E. Ames, of Lindsay.

To-day's Globe has the following in reference to a happy event which will be of interest to the many friends of the interested parties in town:—"A quiet wedding took place last night at the residence of Mr. George A. Cox, Sherbourne-st., when Miss Minnie, youngest daughter of Mr. Cox, was united to Mr. Alfred Ernest Ames, Manager of the Ontario Bank at Lindsay. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. F. H. Wallace, of Victoria University, assisted by Rev. W. Ames; after which the guests sat down to a wedding dinner. The bridesmaids were Miss Mercer, Peterborough; Miss Donnelly, Belleville, and Miss Morrow, Peterborough, the groom being supported by Mr. Fred Scott of this city. Among those present were Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Darling, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Plummer, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Jaffray, Mr. B. E. Walker, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Stafford, Rev. The bride and groom, who both have many friends in town, will be the objects of the congratulations and best wishes for a felicitous and prosperous future of all their Peterborough friends.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c. &c.

"You have seen him," cried Manuelo to Pepita, "you have seen Sebastiano?"

"Yes," she answered, a little breathlessly, "I have seen him."

And even as she spoke she knew that he had seen her; he knew it even before Manuelo spoke again in great excitement.

"He looks this way—he looks at us—at you."

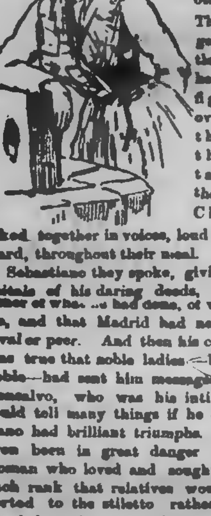
It was quite true. Something had attracted his attention to the tier of seats in which they sat, some cry—who knows what?—perhaps some subtle magnetic influence. He turned his head with a quick movement, and his eyes fell and fastened themselves instantly upon the brilliant little face glowing like some bright flower among those humbler and less blooming.

"He looks at you, Pepita," said Jose.

"He looks at you and at Jovita," Pepita answered. And she laughed and turned her face away.

But not before Sebastiano had seen it well. It was Fate. Yes, he knew that. He had been loved often; he had had romantic adventures, but it had always been he who had received and the others who had given; he had always remained Sebastiano, the hero, the adored. And now he stood and looked at a little head half concealed by a fan, and forgot for a moment where he was, and that the people were still shouting their applause in deafening tumult.

CHAPTER II.



PEPPITA and the others, Manuelo with them, ended their gala day with still another festivity. They dined together at a little cafe, and heard the bull fight fought over again by those around them. At a table near them sat three Chulos, who talked together in voices, loud enough to be heard, throughout their meal. And it was of Sebastiano they spoke, giving dramatic recitals of his daring deeds, telling each other of what he had done, of what he could do, and that Madrid had never seen his rival or peer. And then his conquests. It was true that noble ladies—beautiful and noble—had sent him messages and tokens. Gonsalvo, who was his intimate friend, could tell many things if he chose. Sebastiano had brilliant triumphs. Once he had even been in great danger because the woman who loved and sought him was of such rank that relatives would have resorted to the stiletto rather than allow her infatuation to continue.

"But it is said truly that he had no love for her—that he has little for any of them," said one. "They run after him too much, these women!"

"But there was one to-day——" began one of the others. "I heard it of Alfonso—he saw her at the bullfight—Sebastiano—and tried to find out——"

He made a movement at this moment which brought Pepita directly within his view. She had been hidden from him before by the figure of Jovita. He stopped with his wine untasted and stared at her. A moment later he bent forward and spoke in a lower tone to his companions, who turned to look also. Alfonso had pointed her out to him as she left the Plaza del Toros, and he had recognized her again.

"The little one is there," was what he said, "behind you. He asked if any of us had seen her; if we knew her name."

Pepita did not hear him and did not know that from that hour they would all know her, or that at least there would be few who did not. For Sebastiano to show an interest in a woman—to even go so far as to ask her name was such a new thing that it must be spoken of and attract attention to her. And that she was not a fine lady but only a pretty unknown girl with a rose in her hair, made the matter all the more exciting. When she fell asleep, tired and happy that night, already she was on the way to fame. Sebastiano—who was the adored of his order—who in spite of his adventures had sought no woman—had asked her name, had made efforts to discover it, and had learned that among those who had had the good fortune to see and speak to her she was known as "the pretty sister of Jose."

A week from this time Jose came home one evening, bringing Manuelo with him. Manuelo was often with him—in fact he had many friends—almost every day some gay or grave young fellow managed to attach himself to him, and somehow the acquaintance always shared itself soon afterwards with Pepita. But Manuelo appeared oftener than the rest, having a timid obstinacy and seeming only puzzled and not discouraged by the indifference which sometimes ignored his very existence.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

The Hamilton Real Estate Agent Charged With Fraud Held Without Bail.

HAMILTON, May 30.—The hearing of the charge against Joseph S. Ralston for unlawfully changing a receipt from $50 to $500 with intent to defraud Mrs. Artemesia Winslow of St. Louis was continued before Police Magistrate Cahill this morning, who decided to commit the prisoner for trial. The magistrate refused an application for bail, referring the counsel for the prisoner to the county judge.

A lad named Harmon Morley placed a burning cracker in a playmate's pocket on Queen's Birthday, where it ignited two bunches of firecrackers. The practical joker was fined $4 this morning, half of which will go to replace the damaged coat.

John Cook, a 14-year-old boy, ran away from his home in Woodstock and was taken charge of at the station here until his friends can be communicated with.

On Tuesday a young son of Levi Buckingham, hotelkeeper, Stuart-street, was riding on a street car when the driver scared him off and the little fellow fell under the car. The wheels went over one of his arms, crushing it very badly and breaking the bone in several places.

Peter O'Reilly was sent to the Central Prison for six months by the Police Magistrate this morning for stealing Antoine Moran's silver watch.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL.

Doctors Fined—The Behring Sea Matter Causes Considerable Talk.

OTTAWA, May 30.—The remains of the late D. J. Rose, who was found dead in his bathroom in the Russell last evening, were forwarded to his late home in Chatham by the evening train. The nut lock patent which he was endeavoring to sell to the Intercolonial and the Canadian Pacific was said to be a very good one, and the sale was almost completed.

Geo. Whitfield, arrested at Cornwall for stealing a typewriter from Holland Bros., was brought here to-day.

In the Police Court this morning Provincial Prosecutor Webb, of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons, had Dr. Deborald of Ottawa fined $20 and costs for non-registration. Dr. Wm. Mullen, an herbalist, was fined $10 costs for falsely assuming the title of doctor. The case of F. Roscoe, for practising medicine, was held over until to-morrow.

Sir John Macdonald returned to-day from Montreal where he was attending the Tailloo banquet.

S. J. Ritchie of Akron, O., has been here several days and says that the Interstate Commerce Commission will hold a sitting in Montreal, and afterwards make a trip through Ontario and the Northwest.

J. J. Henry, excise officer here, has retired on account of ill-health.

The Behring Sea dispute continues to cause no little talk in department circles. The Cabinet met to-day, but whether the situation was discussed has not transpired. The members of the Cabinet laugh at the idea of war.

THE BAVARIA'S CREW.

Hardly Any Doubt That They Were All Drowned—The Yawl Picked Up.

KINGSTON, May 30.—The yawl of the Bavaria has been picked up on the south shore of Horseshoe Island. It has suffered little damage. No trace of Captain Marshall or the missing crew has yet been discovered. That they found a watery grave seems now certain. It is thought the Calvins' loss will not be over $3000.

Gilmore Knocks Out Paul.

HAMILTON, May 30.—Last night there was a ten-round prize fight held on the outskirts of the city under the auspices of the society of sports who are encouraging the fistic art in this vicinity. The executive committee of the society secured Harry Gilmore and Paul Patillo, the veteran light weight pugilist of Toronto. There has been bad blood between the two men for some time, and by paying them a lump sum the society was enabled to secure their services to fight to a finish with thin kid gloves for the delectation of about 200 assembled sports. Patillo had never fought before with kid gloves, it is said, but Gilmore is the hero of 100 scraps. The fight was a good one and resulted in Gilmore knocking out Patillo in ten rounds and punishing him badly. The participants in the affair are very reticent about it, but the principals are not so clamorous. Patillo returned to Toronto this morning with two beautiful eyes and a face that looked as if it had been used as a target by a south-paw pitcher who could get 'em over the plate. Gilmore engaged in celebrating his victory by getting a magnificent jag on. He was not punished to any extent. In the first round Gilmore knocked Patillo down with almost the first blow, but he came up gamely, and it was a lively mill up to the end of the sixth round, when Paul's punishment began to pall on him, and he tapered off to the tenth and threw up the sponge.

KATIE DUNBAR'S FATE.

A MILDMAY GIRL'S UNTIMELY END IN TORONTO.

The Damage to the Ontario Fruit Crop—A Strange Honeymoon—The Smashup near Oakville—Toronto Topics.

TORONTO, June 1.—On a slab in the Morgue last night lay the remains of 19-year-old Katie Dunbar, a girl with pretty blue eyes, an abundance of light brown hair, and in life of somewhat comely appearance. The rain pattered incessantly against the window panes of the dismal little charnel-house at the Esplanade and Frederick-street and lent additional loneliness to the scene. The police patrol wagon had just driven up to the front door, and a couple of stalwart officers carried the lifeless bundle inside and deposited it on the slab, while a little crowd of curious men stood outside in the rain and eagerly asked each other for news concerning the policemen and their burden.

The remains were robed in ordinary habiliments of night, the brown hair was done up in a knot behind, the head rested upon a pillow, the blue eyes were half open, as was also the mouth, a white napkin covered the face, a chased gold ring was on the third finger of the left hand, and a sheet was thrown over the slab. The body had been brought to the Morgue about 9.30 o'clock from a cottage at No. 122 Queen-street east, where the girl had died early yesterday morning from inflammation superinduced, it is said, by the administration of medicine for an unlawful purpose. The poor girl's death is but another chapter in the history of crime which is continually coming to light in a large and growing city. It is also but another illustration of the dangers which ensnare young girls coming from country homes to the city, only to go down to death in dishonor. Katie Dunbar's career in Toronto seems to have been very rapidly downward, and there is no doubt that there is much mourning in her circle of friends and acquaintances in Mildmay, up in East Bruce, where she came from a little over a year ago to battle with the fortunes of the town.

About three hours after her remains were left at the Morgue, Ellen Wright, a married woman aged 39, was brought to the Wilton-avenue station by Detective Alf Cuddy and locked up on a charge of furnishing the medicine which is supposed to have caused Katie Dunbar's illness and death. The woman Wright had been arrested by the officers three-quarters of an hour before midnight in a house in Carlaw-avenue, across the Don. The police are now after the despoiler of the victim, but up to last night had not got onto to his track.

On Friday, May 17, Katie Dunbar was visited at 122 King-street east by Mrs. Wright, a nurse and alleged baby farmer who told her that she had heard that she was in trouble and would help her out of it. She produced a bottle of medicine which she offered to let her have for $3. Miss Dunbar accepted the medicine and used a certain portion of it. On May 20 (the Monday following) she was taken seriously ill and Dr. Pollard of Shuter-street was sent for. He attended her and by Thursday she was able to get around again. On Thursday night she again took sick and was put to bed, an old woman named Annie Clarke sleeping in the same room with her. At 3 yesterday morning Mrs. Clarke woke up to find the girl dead at her side.

When as the people in the house found that the girl was dead they rushed up to Dr. Pollard to get a certificate of death. That physician, after consulting with other members of the profession, determined to inform Coroner Powell of the circumstances. The result was an order for the removal of the body to the Morgue and for the holding of an inquest some time to-day.

The coroner, after issuing his warrant for an inquest, told the police the story of the death. A warrant was at once issued for the arrest of the woman Wright, who has already passed through the hands of the police in connection with a case of child desertion in Simcoe-street. Detectives McGrath and Alf. Cuddy were detailed to secure her capture, and all afternoon a still hunt for her was kept up. She had changed her place of abode first from Elizabeth-street to 19 Portland-street, and thence to Carlaw-avenue, in a house on which last thoroughfare she was arrested. She took her arrest very coolly.

Katie Dunbar, the victim, was a country bred girl. She came to Toronto from Mildmay fourteen months ago, and secured work almost immediately in Coleman's, in King-street. She remained there for two months, having to work in a boarding-house at Wellington and John-streets. Two months later she returned to Coleman's, but after two months was again allowed to go, her conduct not being satisfactory. Her last place of employment was in McConkey's. Although somewhat flighty she was generally quiet in her demeanor and well liked by her girl friends.

Mrs. Ellen Wright, the prisoner, has quite a reputation in the city as a baby farmer and worse. It is alleged that she is in the habit of peddling medicine around, and when she hears of a girl being in trouble is by no means backward in seeing her through. In the present case, the bottle which contained the medicine she furnished the unfortunate girl bore a label with the name of May & Co., druggists, Queen-street west, on it with the prescription signed by Dr. Hazel. This prescription turns out, according to the books of the druggist, to be an old one and perfectly harmless in its nature. It is, therefore, surmised that Mrs. Wright secured the bottle and used it as a blind for her nefarious business. The contents of the bottle as given the deceased are to be analysed.

Yesterday afternoon at 3.30 Policeman Sam Mitchell, who was on duty at the Union Station, was called over to the Crosby Hall Hotel, where in the reading room was seated a man in a drunken stupor. The man, whose name is John Connell, belongs to St. John, N.B., and arrived in Toronto by the C.P.R. train yesterday morning with his second wife, to whom he was married in St. John on May 4, and with a 10-year-old son by his first wife.

Connell went into the Crosby Hall Hotel shortly after noon and was very full, so full that Landlord Frank Wismer refused to give him a drink. He displayed a large roll of bills and was advised to keep his money away. Three tough looking characters who were in the bar volunteered to take Connell into the reading room to sleep. They were leading him in when Mr. Wismer, who was coming down stairs, observed the tallest of the three trying to get his hand into the drunken man's pocket. He told them that he would look after the fellow and the trio got away as quickly as they could.

Connell was a few minutes later found on the Esplanade by Constable Mitchell, who arrested him on a charge of drunkenness. He was very obstinate and saucy and refused to say much about himself. But his wife, who was present, went to the station with him in the patrol wagon and when examined there it was found that he had $341 in his pocket. His wife said that when they were married his mother gave her $500. They started west and during the trip he abused her and got hold of the money. When Constable Mitchell and Detective Burrows confronted him with his wife yesterday he said he didn't know her and didn't want to know her. In short he gave her the grand shake.

Mrs. Connell was totally without money, but was given enough to provide for herself and the boy over night.

The Canadian Packers' Association held a meeting yesterday, Mr. W. Boulter, President, in the chair. In view of the large sales recently and the probabilities of a light crop, it was decided to advance canned corn, making the minimum price 92½c. per dozen. Reports were made by members on the damage to their crops by the recent frost. After taking into consideration the damage done, it was decided that it would be very inadvisable to offer the new pack of goods for sale until the season is further advanced.

Mr. W. A. Ferguson, Delhi, reported that corn and tomatoes had been scorched and killed and apples seriously injured, all small fruits seriously injured, and he feared that they would be a total failure.

Mr. A. E. Carpenter, Hamilton, said that he had not seen the effects, but had been told that all the tomato plants had been ruined. He had seen beans cut to the ground.

Mr. Innes, Simcoe, reported that he took from several apple trees quantities of young apples and found only two which were perfect. He is satisfied that the apple crop in Norfolk will be a failure—cherries the same. He was not so sure about pears, and strawberries, he thinks, will not be one-quarter of a crop. Peas he thinks safe. Grapes all destroyed. All the corn and tomatoes that had sprouted were cut to the ground.

Mr. Teskey, Welland, reports cherries 80 per cent. destroyed, grapes frozen and lost and tomatoes all cut to the ground.

Mr. Boulter, Prince Edward County, reported that before the frost grubs destroyed many tomato plants and many were broken off by high winds. The frost had cut them off in spots. Some few fields were not injured. Strawberries in some sheltered places were not materially injured, and other probably half crop. All corn that was up was completely cut off.

Mr. Fenton, St. Catharines, reported of the frost on Tuesday night that at points down near the lake the ice was ½ inch thick. Thermometer registered 28°, or 4° below freezing. Grapes very seriously damaged; one vineyard of 60 acres and other large vineyards are totally destroyed. Plums will not be more than ten per cent. of a crop. Some fields of tomato plants entirely destroyed and very few plants are left for resetting. All corn that was standing has been cut; also beans. Strawberries are more or less injured. Some of the late settings may produce fruit, but it will be very light. He had learned nothing definite about peaches and apples.

Mr. A. J. MacMillan, agent of the Manitoba Government in Toronto, yesterday received this telegram from Premier Greenway:

"The reports coming into the department from all points of the province contain no word of damage of any kind to the fruit crop. I hear nothing of the affects of frost. The reports are all that could be desired. There is a very large area under crop."

There was a bad smash-up of two freight trains Thursday night at Clarkson's Siding, 3 miles east of Oakville. Fully sixteen freight cars were smashed and a great deal of damage done. A freight train from Hamilton had the right of way and at Clarkson's ran into a west-bound freight which was just pulling out from the siding. The smash was so bad that traffic was delayed all morning, the first trains going around by Georgetown. The trains from the west due here at 12 o'clock did not arrive till 2, but after that the incoming and outgoing trains were on time, the track having been cleared. Engineer John Clifton and Brakesman Joseph Elliott were hurt and were taken to Oakville.

THE SLAYERS OF CRONIN.

AN ACCOMPLICE WHO WANTS TO TURN INFORMER.

Luke Dillon Talks—"Mack" Tells a Story Which May Lead to a Discovery—The Clan-na-Gael Oath.

CHICAGO, May 31.—It is reported that negotiations are pending between the state attorney and a well-known Chicago lawyer in behalf of a man, not yet arrested, but guilty of complicity in the murder of Cronin, in which he proposes to surrender himself to the authorities, tell the whole story, and bring all concerned to justice. The proposition was not rejected, but, as reported, was taken under consideration, and a conference between Judge Longenecker and Chief Hubbard was held in regard to it. Their decision, if they reached any, has not been made known. It is hinted that the man who is willing to turn informer in order to save his own neck resides in an eastern city, and that he has been induced to make the effort from a fear that the work undertaken by Luke Dillon, whereby the Clan-na-Gael organization is to reveal the plot will prove successful.

Dillon, who represents the Clan-na-Gael, made an important statement last evening, in reference to the investigation of Cronin's murder. "I think," he said, "that the ban of secrecy is now considered removed so far as it affects members of our organization and the detection of the murderers of Dr. Cronin. The oath of secrecy must never conflict with the duty which we owe as citizens to the republic. In a crime of this magnitude it would be unpardonable for any class of citizens to withhold their assistance from the authorities in enforcing the law. Justice must be done. Any member of the Clan-na-Gael organization who assists the authorities in this case—oaths or pledges of secrecy to the contrary notwithstanding—is doing his duty both as a citizen and as a member of the organization."

It is inferred from this statement that Dillon has the authority of the executive committee for removing the ban of secrecy. Dillon also said in reference to the police:

"I think they are doing their full duty. I feel better to-night about the matter than at any time since I came here. I am satisfied that Judge Longenecker especially is doing good work and that we are on the right track. We have got some of the criminals. We are going to get others. I am fully satisfied from the investigation which I have made that the crime was plotted and planned by persons who now reside or have resided here. Outsiders have had nothing to do with it."

"How about McGeehan?"

"Well, to tell the truth I think that the persons who plotted the affair were too deep to take him into their confidence."

This statement seems to confirm the story that McGeehan has all along been in the confidence of the Philadelphia Clan-na-Gael leaders and that he was a looker-on in the camp of the hostile faction. Mr. Dillon said he did not expect many new developments in the case for some days except what the press should bring forth.

MACK'S STORY.

A Woman Who Said She Would Get Even With the Doctor.

CHICAGO, May 31.—An evening paper says some valuable information in the Cronin case has been gathered from the man "Mack," alias Williams, alias McWilliams, who was arrested in a cheap lodging house. Mack claims to be a carpenter. He told the following story: On May 2 he was working for a Mrs. Wilson in North Ashland-avenue, scarcely a block from the Carlson cottage. Mack was putting in screen windows. A lady whose name he understood to be Mrs. Dudley came into the room where Mack was and talked with Mrs. Wilson. Mrs. Dudley, who is stout and fleshy, talked very bitterly against a physician who attended her husband. Mack heard the name "Dr. Cronin" mentioned but did not know whether the physician complained of was the Cronin referred to or not. Mrs. Dudley seemed very much excited and frequently remarked, with great spirit, "I will get even with him." Mrs. Dudley said she was working in an orphan asylum in Burling-street, but she was going to leave the asylum and she daily expected to go to live with her two brothers in a cottage near by. Mrs. Dudley pointed in the direction of the Carlson cottage in referring to the place into which she was going to move. At the Chicago Nursery on Burling-street it was found that a Mrs. Dudley had been there but had gone away. It is believed Williams is one of the men who rented the Carlson cottage.

The Indicted Plead Not Guilty.

CHICAGO, May 31.—O'Sullivan the iceman, Frank Woodruff and Detective Coughlin were arraigned before Judge Williamson this afternoon charged with the murder of Dr. Cronin. After pleading not guilty they were taken back to jail. Very few spectators were present and only Sullivan had an attorney in court. Lawyer David, for Sullivan, entered a motion to quash the indictment, but no date was set for argument. Each prisoner was furnished with a copy of the indictment against him.

THE CLAN-NA-GAEL OATH.

Members Declare That They Are Not Sworn To Commit or Conceal Crime.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Recent developments in the mystery attending the murder of Dr. Cronin in Chicago, and the publicly expressed suspicion that the tragedy was devised and consummated by a branch of the Clan-na-Gael in that part of the country, have given rise to considerable comment among members of that organization in this city.

I saw several members of the order yesterday but found few who were disposed to allow their names to be used. One of these in speaking of Luke Dillon's reported assertion "that the bar of secrecy is now considered removed so far as it affects members of our organization and the detection of the murderers of Dr. Cronin," said:

"I am not prepared to assert that the murder was not committed by members of the Clan-na-Gael, but I am positive that it was not ordered by any lodge of the order. My pledge forbids me to be more explicit, but I can go so far as to say that every candidate for membership in the Clan-na-Gael, on being taken into the lodge room and before being sworn in, is warned by the presiding officer in these words: 'The oath we require you to take before admission to our order does not conflict with the duty we owe to God, to our country or to our neighbor. With this explanation are you prepared to take this oath and to perform the duties it imposes? Answer yes or no?'

"The candidate is then at liberty to accept or decline. If he declines he is allowed to go free, simply pledging his word of honor not to reveal anything he may have learned about the organization. A member is privileged to resign his membership at any time on coming to the meeting of his lodge, explaining his reasons and pledging his word of honor that he will not reveal any of the secrets of the brotherhood. Many have resigned from the conscientious scruples of belonging to a secret society, and have never been troubled. Expulsion is the severest punishment known or inflicted by the Clan-na-Gael. The word 'removed' occurs only in this way.

"Officers may be suspended or removed for absence from three consecutive meetings, neglect of duty or other sufficient cause. Those so removed remain members in good standing. They are simply reduced to the ranks, and it is a malicious torturing of the natural meaning of the words to make 'remove' mean 'kill' or anything else but deprivation of office."

FIRES OF A DAY.

Grist Mills and Grain Warehouse Near Simcoe Burnt.

SIMCOE, May 31.—The Lynn Valley grist mills and grain storehouse two miles from here, owned by A. McCall and run by Dalrymple & Shrubsole, were burned this morning. The origin of the fire is unknown. A large quantity of flour and feed was destroyed, but the loss is fully covered by insurance. The mill had lately been rebuilt and was worth $8000, insured in the Royal Canadian and Canadian Millers' Mutual for $5500.

Incendiary Fire at Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, May 31.—About two o'clock this morning Warmington & Elliott's livery stables were burned, with all the horses. It is impossible to estimate the loss at present, as there were ten horses burned, besides a number of cutters, double sleighs, hacks, band wagons and robes. Insurance on building, $500, and $1000 on the contents, which will not nearly cover the loss. One of the horses burned was a fine running horse belonging to Mr. James Foy. The fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary.

IN THE LAND OF THE FREE.

Boodler McGarigle Surrenders, Pays a $1000 Fine and Is Released.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Wm. J. McGarigle, ex-warden of the Cook County Hospital, who leaked through a bath tub and escaped from Sheriff Matson on the night of July 24, 1887, while under sentence to three years in Joliet for defrauding the county, who subsequently arrived at Point Edward on board the schooner Edward Blake and has spent the last two years at Toronto, Banff and other places on the Canadian side of the line, appeared in the Criminal Court here to-day and pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy. A fine of $1000 was imposed. At the same time the States Attorney dismissed the case against Ed. MacDonald, engineer of the asylum, convicted of crookedness with McGarigle. McDonald has been in jail for 1½ years and the State was willing to drop further proceedings. The orders were made, the fine and costs paid and McGarigle and McDonald were free.

THE ATLANTIC MAIN SERVICE.

Mr. Anderson of London, Eng., at the Capital on Negotiation Intent.

OTTAWA, May 31.—At a meeting of the Privy Council to-day the directors for the Northwest Central Railway appeared, accompanied by Mr. Daly, M.P., to urge that the land subsidy in aid of that road be located at once in order that the proposed deal with the Northern Pacific Company may be completed. A difficulty has arisen in consequence of the lands along the route of the Northwest Central being covered for some distance by the grants to the Canadian Pacific and Manitoba and Northwestern roads. Judge Clark is here in the interests of the Canadian Pacific Company. A satisfactory settlement is anticipated.

Mr. W. R. Anderson of London, Eng., arrived here at noon to-day to negotiate with the Government for the construction of the Atlantic 20-knot steamship service, the subsidy for which was passed at the recent session. With regard to the statement cabled here that he had found difficulty in raising money to carry on the work owing to the feeling among English capitalists that by the time the 20-knot vessels were finished there would be demand for a still faster service, Mr. Anderson said: "I think my being here is a sufficient denial. If," he said, "people were to go on the principle of not going into an enterprise because something better would be attempted later on, nothing would be accomplished."

Mr. Anderson said that if his negotiations were satisfactory the vessels would be launched in 16 months. He will see the members of the Government to-morrow.

Naughty Girls at Hamilton.

HAMILTON, May 31.—This morning Detectives McKenzie and Reid arrested Lottie Wilson and Maggie Oxtable, two 16-year-old girls. They skipped out from Brantford and were arrested on information received from the authorities there. The girls are good-looking and are neatly dressed. Detective Hickey arrived this morning to take the girls home.

Rachael Shelley, a 16-year-old girl who is in the habit of patronizing the "tough" dances here, was this morning sent to the Home of the Friendless on suspended sentence.

The Customs receipts at this port for May were $66,572, an increase of $257 over the same month last year.

Seized by the Vigilant.

NORTH SYDNEY, C. B., May 31.—An American schooner, the Mattie Winship, Captain Oliver, owned by Dennis Noyre of Gloucester, was seized yesterday morning while fishing inside the limit at Cape North, by the Dominion cruiser Vigilant, and brought in here this morning. UNDER CONSIDERATION.

MR. MOWAT has won a reputation for taking matters into his consideration—and keeping them there. By an amendment made to the license law last session over $2,000 is taken from the people of this town for the benefit of the Provincial treasury. The law is a bare-faced injustice and imposition. Only two towns are affected by it, and the people of these two places, Peterborough being one of them, are compelled to increase their taxes for the benefit of the whole Province. When the matter was placed before the Ontario Government by the civic deputation Mr. Mowat promised to give it consideration. How long that process will take no one can tell, but in the meantime the money goes to Toronto.

But did not the Government know when the law was passed what effect it would have? The license by-law had been adopted here before the amendment was passed by the Legislature. When Conservative members protested that this was another assessment upon the municipalities, Mr. Hardy replied that it would not take anything from them that they then had. That is, the municipalities effected had not at that time licensed houses. They had made provision for a revenue, and they expected to obtain it and would have done so if the Ontario Government had not stepped in and taken it, yet a miserable quibble was the only defence Mr. Hardy had to offer, while the Liberal representatives of the towns effected sat silent and allowed the iniquitous measure to pass.

The whole Province not being effected by the measure makes it unjust to the towns that are bled by it. But if it had been another general levy upon the municipalities how could it have been justified if the Government has such a surplus as it professes and if the financial affairs of the Province are in the prosperous condition it pretends? The Government has so long been in the habit of treating the municipalities with contempt that it probably thought it could do anything it chose, but there are signs that give good ground for the hope that such impositions are about at an end.

NORWOOD NEWS.

A Growing Industry—An Interesting Magistrates' Court.

THE "HUB" OF NORWOOD.—A couple of years ago a description was given in the REVIEW of the large hub and bent stuff factory of Messrs. Finlay & Son in this village. It was then a large establishment and a growing industry, and under the energetic management, push and enterprise of the proprietors it has since been enlarged and is still growing. Some time ago a storehouse, made necessary by the growing business, was erected on the west side of the street, but this has been found inadequate and another addition has gone up which makes this storehouse an L shaped building 140x80 feet and two storeys high. But a more important addition to the large establishment is being erected at the north end, over the creek. It is 60x33 feet and three and a half storeys high. This building is being put up to accommodate a new departure, the manufacture of wheels, and hereafter the firm will turn out for their customers and the trade wheels ready-made prepared for use. On one corner of this new building a tower is being built, and in the tower, which will be 65 feet high, there will be a tank that will hold 150 barrels of water. Believing in being thoroughly protected against distruction by fire, the firm will have a fire protective service of its own, for from this tank there will be laid pipes to conduct the water to any part of the large establishment. The number of hands employed in the factory has been nearly doubled within the last couple of years, and when the new building is completed, about the first of August next, the force of workmen will again be increased. Mr. Wm. Finlay is in Quebec Province in the interest of the firm, and on Monday Mr. John Finlay, the senior member, leaves for the west. It is satisfactory to know that the enterprise of this firm is meeting with success, as shown by the repeated enlargements of the factory necessitated by the expansion of its business.

A CHARGE OF FALSE PRETENCES.—A Magistrate's court was held in the Town Hall yesterday that created considerable interest. Mr. James King and his son, Joseph G. King, of Asphodel, appeared before Messrs. H. Drain, J. Breckenridge and J. Finlay on a charge laid against them by T. G. Cooper of having obtained possession of three promissory notes by false pretences. Mr. John O'Meara, of Peterborough, appeared for the complainant, and Mr. G. Edmison, of Peterborough, for the Kings. According to the evidence given, on the 8th of May last Wm. Ford and J. G. King agreed to buy the patent right of a washing machine for the townships of Asphodel, Dummer and Percy from A. G. Burk, of Toronto, paying therefor $130 for each township. An agreement to this effect was signed, but Wm. Ford withdrew and his name was erased from the agreement. Then King signed three notes for $130 each. The next day King's father told Cooper, Burk's agent, that his son was not of age. Cooper tried to discount the notes, but failed. Then, according to Cooper's evidence, Mr. King, sr., agreed to endorse one of his son's notes, his son keeping the right for one township, if Burk would give up the other two notes. To carry out this Cooper met the Kings in Norwood. A suggestion having been made to draw a new note, Cooper produced one ready filled and filled in the date. He cancelled two of J. G. King's notes and threw them down, and the young man picked them up. He handed the other to James King, when his son took it also, and the father and son then left with the notes and leaving the one Cooper had prepared unsigned. Cooper thought this a sharp trick and appealed to the law. After hearing the case, the Magistrates decided that J. G. King had not actually been in receipt of any value for the notes and that the case was one that should go no further, and accordingly they dismissed it.

THE COW BY-LAW.—On the same day C. Doughty was charged by Wm. Bailey with having ill-used his cow while taking it to the pound. This case was also dismissed.

BUSINESS CHANGE.—Mr. J. C. McConkey has sold his livery business to Mr. Daniel Coughlin, of Hastings. The sale took effect yesterday. Mr. Coughlin knows how to run a business and will no doubt do well.

This Morning's Rain.

The rainfall early this morning was the heaviest that has visited this district in a long time. Between two and three o'clock the rain fell in sheets and if it had not been for the police officers who were on duty George-st. would have been in a bad state this morning, as the sewer became blocked and it kept the officers busy keeping them clear. How much water fell on the level is not accurately known, but one man says he had a pail standing out in the rain and there was an inch and a half of water in it this morning. The creek raised some eighteen inches during the rain and incidents of the storm are coming in from all quarters. A washout on Crescent-st. has blocked the road to the cemetery, so that it is impossible for conveyances to pass this morning. The heavy rain washed the earth from the inside of the crib-work and the roadway caved in.

A Milk Man's Misfortune.

An accident occurred at the George-st. crossing of the C. P. R. about eight o'clock this morning, which narrowly escaped resulting fatally. Mr. George Scully, a milk vendor, was driving up George-st. and had in his light waggon with him Mrs. Jackson, a little boy and three cans of milk. When he neared the railway crossing he saw an engine standing on the track, and, thinking he could cross safely, drove ahead until just as he approached the track the locomotive gave a puff which frightened Scully's horse, so that the animal wheeled around into the ditch, and in doing so upset the buggy and the man, woman, boy, milk and cans were thrown out upon the ground, while the horse also fell, damaging the harness. The milk was spilled and mingled with the mud and water of the ditch. Mrs. Jackson's face was cut, but otherwise the occupants of the buggy were uninjured. Mr. Scully talks of bringing an action against the railway company for damages.

Cassels, Q.C., for the defendants, appealed from the judgment of Robinson, J., who tried the action at the last Peterborough Chancery sittings. The learned judge delivered judgment after the trial in favor of the plaintiff. The defendants contend that the Peterborough and Chemong R. W. Co. are liable, if any one is, and not the defendants. The Subject Explained.

As the subject of Dr. Clark's lecture on June 10th is at first sight a mysterious one, we give a brief explanation of it. The book "Water-Babies" was written by the late Charles Kingsley (the author of "Hypatia," "Westward Ho!" etc.) for his youngest son, and was styled by its gifted author "A Fairy Story for a Land-Baby." Under the guise of a prettily-told story of wonderous adventure it was evident that deeper things lay hidden, though no one seemed able to discover what these deeper things were. Attracted by this puzzle and by the extreme beauty of the book Dr. Clark made it a subject of careful study. His labour was amply rewarded. For soon under his searching eye the book came forth from its fairy disguise and stood revealed as an accurate parable of human life ascending from its lower to its higher stages. After this discovery Dr. Clark was invited to explain the mysterious book at drawing-room assemblages in London, whence sprang the delightful lecture which he has since been called on repeatedly to give both in England and Canada. Among the many congratulatory letters which the lecturer called forth was one from Canon Kingsley acknowledging that Dr. Clark had found the key to a literary secret which he had never disclosed himself.

"My daughter was greatly troubled with Scrofula, and at one time it was feared she would lose her sight. Ayer's Sarsaparilla has completely restored her health, and her eyes are as well as ever, with not a trace of scrofula in her system."—G. King, Killingly, Conn.

Land Slides on the Junction.

Conductor Stanton's train on the Grand Junction which is due here from Belleville at 8 15 did not arrive until a few minutes past twelve, and Conductor Morris' train for Belleville which leaves here at 8 20 did not get away until the arrival of the Belleville train at noon. The delay was caused by a couple of bad landslides on the line, one of which happened a short distance the other side of Hastings and the other and worse one was about three quarters of a mile this side of Keene. The slides were caused by the deluge of rain which fell last night and this morning. The one at Hastings delayed the passenger train about three-quarters of an hour, but the Keene slide held the train at that station for over two hours. A car of timber was derailed at this point by the slide. A freight train was passing through the cut when the jar of the moving cars started the already loosened embankment at the side of the track and an immense boulder came rolling down the bank and struck a car loaded with timber which was near the centre of the train and sent it from the rails. This caused a long delay, and the boulder, which lodged on the track, was only removed when the engine was attached to it. There were several small washouts along the line but these two were the only serious ones. A man who was on Conductor Stanton's train remarked that if they had not had the air brakes the train would most surely have been into the slide at Hastings, for as it was they just stopped in time to save themselves.

Lakefield Cricketers Defeated.

A cricket match was played on the P.A.A.A. grounds this morning between the third eleven of the Peterborough cricket club and an eleven from Mr. Sheldrake's private school, Lakefield. The boys had a good game, which resulted in a victory for the local players by a score of 12 to 32. The Lakefield's went to bat first and only managed to secure a dozen runs. The Peterborough boys however ran their score up to 32 and felt highly elated over their victory. The local team was composed of B. Boucher, P. Goldsmith, L. Dunsford, B. Orde, R. Grubbe, V. McGill, C. Halliday, T. Rogers, S. Smith, P. Rogers and C. McKee.

A Forester's Excursion.

An excursion under the auspices of the Foresters of Alnwick came up on the steamer Golden Eye this morning. There were about one hundred on board and the members of the Order were met by some of the local brethren and taken to the hall and hospitably entertained. They were shown around town and made to enjoy themselves generally. They report that the rain of this morning has done considerable damage in their vicinity, several small bridges have been washed away and big washouts damaged the roads, so much so that it was with difficulty that the steamer was reached this morning. The excursionists returned at four this afternoon.

Manufacturers in Town.

When the deputation of the Town Council was in Toronto on Thursday they met two manufacturers who were looking for a suitable place in which to locate their industry, and as Peterborough is not antagonistic to manufactories being established here, the councillors induced the two manufacturers to come to Peterborough to see for themselves the splendid facilities that the town possesses for an industry of almost any description. The two gentlemen arrived here yesterday and were met by Mayor Stevenson and Councillors Cahill, Davidson and Langford and driven around town. They expressed themselves as greatly pleased with what they saw and left most favorably impressed. They may be heard from again.

In the "Rescue Home."

The following letter has been received by the W.C.T.U. which tells its own story. It refers to a young girl who was sent to gaol here and upon being released was taken in charge by some of the ladies of the W.C.T.U. and sent to the "Rescue Home" in Toronto. With the letter was a greatful acknowledgement of the receipt of $1.50 from the local W.C.T.U. The letter read as follows:—

"Rescue Home,"
SALVATION ARMY.
TORONTO, May 28th, 1889.

W. C. T. U., Peterborough.

DEAR FRIENDS,—I am sure you will be glad to know how Frances is doing. She has been in a situation, but she was not very well suited, and is now staying at "The Home" until we procure a place for her. Last Friday night I had the intense joy of leading her to the feet of Jesus. Since then there has been such a marked change in her in every way that we are very hopeful for the future.

May you keep close to the dear Master and may He bless you abundantly.

Yours, to rescue the fallen,
NELLIE COOMBS, M.

Can it Be?

In our telegraphic columns to-day there is given an account of the sad death in Toronto of a girl named Katie Dunbar. The Toronto World adds that the cottage at which the girl died, 122 Queen-st. east, was rented about two months ago by a young man giving his name as Robert Nisson, who said he was an officer of the Typographical Union. A singular coincidence is brought to mind by this. About three months ago a compositor named A. C. Nisson, from Toronto, came to work in the REVIEW office. About the first of May he went to Toronto without leave of absence, and a few days after a letter was received, dated May 8th, purporting to be written by his mother and signed Mrs. A. L. Nisson. It said that "Alfred" was sick with congestion of the lungs and that his brother wished to send down a substitute to hold his position. The peculiar thing about it is that this letter is dated from "Ivy Lodge," 122 Queen-st. east, Toronto, the house in which Katie Dunbar died. A few days after a printer from town who was in Toronto saw Nisson on the street. He was written to—or rather his mother was addressed—and a reply from Nisson came, dated May 14th, saying he was not well enough yet to return. Last week Nisson was again written to, addressed 122 Queen-st. east, and a reply came, dated May 29th, saying he would be down Sunday (to-morrow) night. Further developements in the case will be watched for with interest.

Canadian and American Opinions.

It is rarely that the press of Canada and the States express the same opinion on an individual subject, unless the merits of the case under discussion prove to be so good that criticism is disarmed. This seems to explain the view taken by two papers, published at a wide distance apart. The Guelph Herald says:—"Every time Howorth and his excellent Hibernica Company have paid Guelph a visit they have been greeted with a crowded house. The highly refined and moral character of the performance, the rich Irish brogue of such a comedian as Bryan O'Lynn, and the many side splitting situations in the Two Dans, all command the approval and enlist the support of the public. Then there are the beautiful scenes. The Lakes of Killarney by moonlight, with Luna sitting in her starry throne and casting her brilliant rays through the windows of the castle on the sparkling water, is probably a realistic and pretty a scene as could be presented. There is everything in the Hibernica to enable and make happy, and all who see it must go away taking a brighter and more hopeful view of life's picture." Then we have the Yankee opinion, the candid view of good judges. The Messenger, of Owensboro', Ky., says:—"A good audience greeted Howorth's excellent company at the Opera House last night, and it was an uproar of laughter from the time the curtain rose until it went down on the last scene, except when viewing the magnificent panoramic views, which were introduced at intervals during the performance. There is no plot in the play of the two "Dans," but the lack of it is in no way detracts from the entertainment, for the interest is thoroughly sustained by the sterling merit of the players, who are all first-class performers. There is not the least thing objectionable in the performance and it may be, and ought to be, attended to-night by a large audience of ladies as well as gentlemen. The Panorama alone is worth the price of admission." The company appears at the Opera House here on Tuesday evening, June 4th. 1d128

AN ANTI-JESUIT MEETING.

Clergymen Give Addresses on the Subject at the East Riding's Capital.

A meeting was held in the Town Hall, Norwood, last evening to discuss the Jesuit question. The notice of the meeting had been short, but there was a fair attendance.

Mr. W. Brethen was, on motion, called to the chair, and on the platform were Rev. M. L. Pearson, of Peterborough, Rev. J. S. Clarke, Rev. J. Carmichael, and Rev. W. Peer, of Norwood.

The Chairman in opening the meeting, briefly explained the object of the meeting.

Rev. Mr. CARMICHAEL was the first speaker. He said they knew the cause of the present agitation—the incorporation of the Jesuits and the bill passed at the last session of the Quebec Legislature. The Jesuit Society, he said, was inimical to all civil and religious liberty, and in no country could it obtain incorporation except in the one in which their lot was cast. Quebec was the most Roman Catholic country in the world, and he referred to the history of the Province to show how that was. This meeting was not aimed at the Roman Catholics—he had none but the kindliest feelings towards them. But he objected to Jesuit Society and to its encorporation, and many Roman Catholics did so too. He moved the following resolution:—

"That in the opinion of this meeting, the incorporation of the Society of Jesus by the legislature of the Province of Quebec in 1887, and the non-disallowance of said act by the Federal Government were grave political mistakes, tending to endanger most seriously the true well being of our country.

"That while we desire to respect the great boon of equal rights to all we emphatically protest against the action of the Legislature of the Province of Quebec in passing the act entitled an 'Act respecting the settlement of the Jesuits Estates,' as said act gives to a foreign potentate, viz., his holiness the Pope, a right to interfere in the legislation of a province of this Dominion, a prerogative which alone belongs to our most gracious Majesty, the Queen."

Proceeding the speaker referred to the abolition of the Society by Pope Clement XIV., to their expulsion from countries of Europe and said of the 200 or 300 members in Canada only one-third were natives of the country. He spoke of the principles and teachings of the Society to show that it was an evil to society generally, and objected to it also on account of its political aims. He believed that God had allowed the Society to be incorporated in Quebec in order to arouse the Protestants from their lethargy, and the time had come when they should take a firm stand. The condition of France, Italy and Spain was referred to to show that the results of the teachings of the Jesuits were evil. The speaker then took up the Estates bill and argued that it constituted an encroachment upon the Queen's prerogative and that the Jesuit having been abolished another Society of the same name had no right to the estates. Mr. Mercier acknowledged that there was no claim, but he found himself, as a Reform leader, losing power and took these means of retaining support. He condemned members of both political parties for sinking their principles to save their parties. He had all his life time been a Reformer, but but he was sorry to see the Reform leaders and Conservatives leaders bowing to the Cardinal of Quebec.

Rev. Mr. CLARKE, in seconding the resolution, said the sentiment of Canada was equal rights to all and special privileges to none. Their fathers fought and won that principle, but to-day they were face to face with the difficulty of a Legislature in this country departing from this principle. The Orangemen had asked incorporation from the Ontario Legislature and Dominion Parliament, but it was refused, yet the Jesuit Society had been incorporated. He was a friend of the Roman Catholics, but he demanded equality and fair play.

The resolution was carried nem con by a standing vote.

Rev. Mr. PEARSON said he feared there was more apathy among the people in this section than there should be upon a question of such vast importance. Canada had never, he believed, been so agitated by any question so much as it was on this. The politicians avoided it, and it was a movement of the people. It had been objected that ministers should not take a part in the agitation. Well, he would be pleased to sit still and listen to the representatives of the riding in Parliament and the Legislature giving them views on the question. But although he was a minister he had not ceased to be a citizen of the country. This was not an anti-Papal crusade; they had no desire to interfere with Roman Catholic doctrines or freedom of worship. Neither was it an attack upon the politicians; he believed that among the 188 there were men who were conscientious and honest, and he would not say that all of the 13 had been actuated by any higher motives than the 188. But they lifted up their voices against politicians who voted at the bidding of Rome. They did object to the Jesuits. It was an organization that did not withdraw from the world, but mixed with the world to advance the church in an underhand manner. He referred to the principles of the Society, and argued that its incorporation was unconstitutional. He also contended that the Estates Act was unconstitutional because it diverted the funds from the purpose for which they were given to the Province, and because it made the operation of the Act dependent upon the Pope. The ground they took was that if the Act was ultra vires, it should be disallowed; and if it were intra vires, it should be disallowed, because it was contrary to the general weal of the country. It would be ruinous to the confederation if any Province could adopt a law, even though within its power, that would be inimical to the general interests of the Dominion, and the Dominion Executive therefore possessed the power of disallowance. The Jesuit estates were said to be worth $2,000,000, and if the Jesuits had any right to the $400,000 they had the same right to the two million, and if they saw that the Protestants remained apathetic they would claim and obtain the remainder of the two million. He was afraid of the influence of Jesuitism in Ontario as well as in Quebec. They cared not who were in power in Toronto or at Ottawa so long as they ruled by the grace of the Jesuits. It was a sad thing that a man of the greatest political influence in Ontario a short time ago was an Archbishop, and at Ottawa there were sycophants who held their positions in that way. He loved Canada, he loved the Queen, and if they were true to themselves their future would be bright.

Rev. Mr. PEER moved, seconded by Mr. ROBT. SCOTT,—That Rev. Mr. Carmichael and Mr. W. E. Roxburgh be appointed delegates to attend the convention at Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Clarke's name was added and the motion was carried.

After further remarks from Rev. Mr. Carmichael, a vote of thanks was tendered the speakers on motion of Mr. J. Davidson, seconded by Mr. Roxburgh.

Mr. Roxburgh was appointed Secretary, and the meeting adjourned.

SATURDAY, JUNE 1, 1889.

PRETTY SISTER OF JOSE.

By FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT.

Author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "That Lass O'Lowries," &c., &c.

On this particular evening he was moved from his usual calm, and so was Jose. They had seen Sebastiano—they had spoken to him—in the presence of a circle of his friends and admirers he had drunk wine with them.

"We were passing the wine shop and we saw him," explained Manuelo, "and we went in to look on a little and hear him talk. One of the chulos who stood near spoke to him quickly when he saw us—as if he knew us—and presently the same chulo came and spoke to Jose, and soon Sebastiano came and spoke too. The one who approached us first was one of the three who drank at the table near us on the evening after the bull fight. Once, in his boyhood, Sebastiano lived near the village you have left—he knew Padre Alessandro and some others—he was pleased to see Jose and speak of them—it was as if they were friends at once."

"He has a good heart," put in Jose; "they all say that of him. He remembered everything—even old Juan, who lived to be a hundred and was bent double. He asked if he lived yet. It seems strange that he was once so near us, and was a little lad, ill-used and poor. He is not too proud to remember it. He would be a good friend to one in trouble—Sebastiano—though he is rich and spoken of by the whole world."

So great a celebrity Jose was convinced must be known to the entire universe.

That night as Pepita made ready for her bed old Jovita, who had already retired, lay and looked at her.

The girl stood in the flood of brilliant white moonlight, which bathed part of the bare room—her round dimpled arms were lifted as she unwound the soft dusky coils of her hair to which there yet clung a few stars of jasmine. There was the shadow of a smile on her lips and she was humming a tune.

"What does he want with Jose—this Sebastiano?" said Jovita, grumblingly.

"Who knows?" said Pepita.

"He wants something," Jovita went on. "They don't make friends with those beneath them for nothing—these fine ones. They all talk of you, these foolish fellows, and he has heard, and makes friends so that he can see you."

"What do they say of me?" asked Pepita, without deigning to look up.

"Men are all fools," grumbled Jovita; "and they think girls are fools too. They say you have a pretty face; and he thinks he can make a fool of you if you are not one."

"Does he?" said Pepita, with a dimpling cruel little smile. "Let him come to-morrow—to-night. Let him begin."

"He will begin soon enough," Jovita answered. "You will see. Be sure he does not play the old game with you as he did with Sarita."

Pepita shook the small stray blossoms out of her hair and began to retwist the coil, breaking into singing in a clear voice—

White, white is the jasmine flower,
Let its stars light thee
Here to my casement,
Where I await thee.
White, white is the jasmine flower,
Sweet, sweet is the heart of the rose,
Sweet my mouth's blossom,——

She stopped short and dropped her arms.

"See," she said, "Let him want what he will—let him come a thousand times and I will never speak to him."

In the gardens the next Sunday they met him. Pepita was talking to a young girl whose name was Isabella, and whose brother Juan was following in the footsteps of Manuelo and the rest. It was Isabella who first saw the Matador, and uttered an exclamation.

"Your brother is coming," she cried "with—yes, with Sebastiano."

Jose's simple face was on fire with delight, but Sebastiano looked less gay, and his step was less carelessly buoyant than it had been in the bull ring. As he approached the group he looked only at Pepita. But Pepita looked only at Jose, her eyes laughing.

"Jovita is cross," she said, "she has been asking for you. She wishes to go home."

Sebastiano's eyes were fastened upon her face—upon her red lips as she spoke. He had heard that she was like this—that she gave her glances to no man—that she was prettier than the rose in bloom, and as cruel as a young hawk. And his heart beat when he found himself near to her. Since the hour he had seen her he had thought only of how he might see her again, of how he might find her. He had made one bold plan after another, and had been forced to abandon each of them, and then mere chance had thrown Jose in his path. And now the instant he approached her she was about to elude him.

He spoke a few hurried words of Jose. It was too early to go away, the pleasure of the day was scarcely at its height, he wished to entertain them, they must not go.

"I will go and speak to Jovita," said Jose, and he went, leaving the four together.

The two simpler ones were somewhat abashed by the splendour of the dashing figure; they gazed at it with mingled curiosity and joy. To be so near it was enough without effort at conversation. Sebastiano moved to Pepita's side. A Spanish lover loses little time.

DROWNED BY HUNDREDS.

AWFUL CATASTROPHE IN A PENNSYLVANIA CITY.

A Reservoir Above Johnstown Gives Way—Over 200 Dead Bodies Seen Floating Down the River.

PITTSBURG, May 31.—A sudden freshet in the North Forks River at Johnstown in the Allegheny Mountains has resulted in an awful catastrophe. The reservoir above the town broke about 5 o'clock this evening and the immense volume of water rushed down to the city carrying with it death and destruction. Houses with their occupants were swept away and hundreds of people were drowned. There is no communication with Johnstown, but a telegraph operator in the Pennsylvania Railroad tower at Sag Hollow, 12 miles this side of Johnstown, says at least 75 dead bodies have floated past. The wires are all down and no trains are running east of Blairsville, which is about 25 miles west of Johnstown. There is no way to get to the scene of the disaster and full particulars can hardly be obtained to-night although every effort is being made to do so.

A later despatch says: The latest reliable information received from Johnstown comes through Pennsylvania Railroad officials, who aver that over 200 dead bodies have been counted floating down stream at Johnstown alone.

The Town Submerged.

PITTSBURG, May 31.—A special from Greenburg says a report has reached there that the greater portion of Johnstown has been flooded and hundreds of lives have been lost. Houses are floating around and the people who are free are panic-stricken and are fleeing to the mountains. At a point near New Florence 25 persons have been seen floating down the river on drift wood. A report comes that but two roofs of the houses in Johnstown can be seen. The Covetown and the New Florence bridges have been washed away, and all the buildings along the Covemaugh between New Florence and Johnstown have been carried away. The railroad towers have been abandoned by the operators.

Houses Afloat by the Dozen.

PITTSBURG, May 31.—Another special from Greenburg says the loss of life cannot be estimated. Houses are going down the river by the dozen and people can be seen clinging to the roofs. At Cokestown, a village of 700 inhabitants, the houses are almost entirely covered and a great many dwellings at Blairsville are submerged. Scarcely a dwelling in the vicinity of Sag Hollow can be seen.

Incidents of the Calamity.

PITTSBURG, May 31.—A despatch from Latrobe says: The Associated Press train from present appearances will not be run nearer than six to eight miles of that part of Johnstown where the flood was worst.

A despatch from Braddock says: At 7.45 a boy was rescued by men in the signal tower. He said that with his father, mother, brother and two sisters he was swept away in the light frame house which was their home. He was washed away from the building, but said the other members of the family were in it when it was swept over the breast of the new stone railroad bridge at Johnstown, that it capsized a few seconds later and they were all drowned so far as he could see.

The railroad operator officially reports that before dark they were able to count 119 persons clinging to buildings and wreckage or drowned and floating in the current.

The Havoc General.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—Despatches from various parts of the state report great havoc wrought by the heavy rains. Washouts and landslides are occurring hourly, trains are suspended on all the roads and death and destruction are busy on every hand. The situation is hourly growing worse.

THE PEASE'S CREW SAFE.

No Truth in the Story of a Great Loss of Life in Saginaw Bay.

SAND BEACH, Mich., May 31.—The steamer E. S. Pease, reported lost with all on board, is aground two miles north of Port Hope but is not thought to be damaged much yet. The crew are safe and are trying to release her without the aid of a tug. She is loaded with iron ore, from Escanaba for Cleveland.

The Pease is the old California, built in 1873 and rebuilt in 1883 at an expense of $18,000. She was bought by her present owner when at the bottom of Lake Michigan, having gone down with 19 people. She is an A 2 vessel valued at $25,000.

8000 LIVES LOST.

THAT IS THE LATEST REPORT OF THE GREAT CATASTROPHE.

Thirty-Five Thousand People in a Battle With the Rushing Waters—Fire Adds Its Horrors to the Calamity of the Flood.

SANG HOLLOW, Pa., June 2.—The first accounts of the Johnstown disaster are far below the estimates now placed upon the extent of the calamity, and instead of 2000 or 3000 it is probable the death list will reach 8000, many say 10,000. The property loss may reach $11,000,000. It is now known that two passenger trains, two sections of the day express on Pennsylvania Railroad, have been thrown into the maddened torrent and the passengers drowned. These trains were held at Johnstown from Friday at 11 a.m., and were lying on a siding between the Johnstown and Conemaugh stations.

The awful torrent came down the narrow defile between the mountains, a distance of nine miles, and with a fall of 300 feet in that distance, sweeping away the villages of South Fork, Mineral Point, Woodvale and Conemaugh, leaving but one building standing and a woolen mill, where but an hour before had stood hundreds, and dashing on with the roar of a cataract and with the speed of the wind upon the fair city at the foothills.

The plain in which but yesterday was Johnstown sits in the mountains like a jewel in the Queen's diadem. The great Gautier Steel Works sat in this plain and the city below it, the railroad tracks bounding it at the base o the mountains on the north. Here is where the trains where standing when the tide of water like a catapult came down upon them with such resistless force that the heavy trains, locomotives, Pullmans and all, were overturned and swept down the torrent and were lodged against the great stone viaduct, along with forty-one locomotives from the Johnstown round-house, the heavy machinery and ponderous framework of the Gautier mill, the accumulated debris of more than a thousand houses, furniture, bridges, lumber, drift and human beings. The low arches of the stone viaduct choked up immediately and the water backed back over the entire level of the valley upon which the city stood to a depth of what, from the water marks, indicates about thirty-eight feet. In the great [illegible] thus formed hundreds, perhaps thousands of people, were struggling for life.

The scene to-day is one of the most harrowing possible for the imagination of man to conceive. The accumulated drift gorged up at the viaduct to a height of forty feet and then took fire from the upsetting of stoves or lamps. Then were strong men made sick at the sight. As the flames crackled and roared among the dry timber of the floating houses, human bodies were seen pinioned between the house roofs, locomotives, iron beams, freight, passenger, Pullman and baggage cars, heavy iron beams, the greedy flames licking with haste their diet of human flesh. The scene was horrible beyond description. From infancy, a few days old, to the wasted figures of age, were burned before the eyes of the beholders, and no rescue from such a fate was possible. Strong men turned away with agonized expressions and women shrieked at the horror of the scene.

The dead are computed at not less than 3000, and the number may even exceed this estimate. This seems incredible, but until the waters abate and the work of removing the dead from this tremendous mass is completed it will be impossible to tell how many lives have been lost.

The Associated Press correspondent was the first man to cross the Johnstown proper by means of a basket suspended from a cable, as passengers are removed from wrecked ships. Here the scenes were magnified in their horror.

Here were the residences of the little city's most wealthy and intelligent people. Here were found the body of John Dibert, the banker, and his entire family, consisting of a daughter and two grandchildren; W. Overbeck, J. Dowdy of Depew & Co., tobacconists, Philadelphia, and one of the most popular traveling men on the road; Dr. J. C. Cooper and wife; J. O. Benshoff, bookseller; Mr. Wm. Gilmore, wife and family; Jas. Howard, Neil McAuley and wife; Mrs. Drolling and family of three; Mrs. Cyrus Elder, wife of the general superintendent of the Cambria Iron Company.

Many other women and children cannot be identified. Police officers and others were rendering all possible aid, but the number of the dead seems greater than the number of the living.

Cinder, Market, Main, Locust and Washington streets have been swept clean and bare of all buildings of whatever character and their inhabitants seem to have fled into the streets at the first warning of danger, and others rushed to their deaths, for those who remained in their houses had an opportunity to flee to the upper stories. When the houses were frame they were floated from their foundations and many were saved. The Hotel Hulbert, a brick structure, had sixty-five guests, and sixty-three of these were killed by the falling in of the floors and walls. The Morell library, the school house, Alma Hall, general stores and offices of the iron company and one other brick building are all of probably 2000 buildings that have not been floated from their foundations or caved in.

The stone viaduct is forty feet high from the river bed at low water, and over this the water rushed in a resistless flood. On this, or the west side, are the Bessemer and rail mills of the Cambria Iron Company. Although warned to flee to the hillsides, many of the men resting in a fancied security loitered about the mills and were engulfed in an instant. To-day their bodies are strewn along the Conemaugh, Kiskiminetas and Allegheny Rivers and are being caught as far down the Ohio River as Rochester.

Below the mills is Cambria, a sub-borough, in which district reside probably 2000 people. The scenes here are but a repetition of the other parts of the flood-wasted city. In St. Columbia's Church, a new structure, which had been flooded to a depth of six feet in the auditorium, the water had receded and the floor was covered with a slimy ooze to the depth of seven or eight inches. On boards stretched along the top of the pews were thirteen bodies which had been snatched from the stream by Fr. Thomas Darlin and some of his parishioners whom he had impressed into service.

While in the awful presence of the dead and amid the solemn surroundings of a desolated fane, the representative saw Joseph Smith, a man of extraordinary size and strength enter. He said not a word, but quietly went from corpse to corpse, lifting the stained and mud covered coverings of the dead. At last he came to the corpse of a child about nine years old, his daughter. He looked at the swollen and blood-stained features a moment, and then with a voice of the most unutterable agony cried, "My Maggie, my little Maggie," at the same time pressing the inanimate form to his bosom and giving expressions to alternate caressings and ejaculations of grief. The man took his child and ran with it to what had been his home. He placed it beside those of his wife and two other children, all of whom had been drowned.

It is impossible to narrate the many pathetic incidents that occurred on all sides.

At Morell forty-three bodies were laid out waiting to be identified. Eight of them were children, one that of a child which a physician said had been born while the mother was fighting for her life in the raging flood.

At Nineveh, nine miles down the stream, 106 bodies, mostly women and children, were laid out in a sawmill, and additions were being made by wagon loads at a time, which were being picked up on the meadows over which the great tide had surged with the fury of a demon. Many were found with their hands yet clinging tenaciously to the branches of trees and shrubs. In one case a young couple were found locked in each other's arms. In another case a mother was found with a child clasped in each arm and held closely to her bosom.

There is no possibility of telling just who has been lost, as thousands are missing. The survivors, many of whom tell of the most startling escapes from collections of [illegible], house roofs, car doors and planks, seek the banks and gaze with stupor, born of paralyzation of their mental faculties, from the fright and horror they have been subjected to.

The number of people who are visible from the banks are so few in contrast with the population of the various little boroughs which constitute the city that the question "Where are the people?" is asked on all sides. The impression is gaining that the disclosures yet to come where the gorge collected, and which is now burning over an area of several acres, is yet more ghastly. The awfulness of the scene defies language to depict, as it does the imagination to conceive of. Without seeing the havoc created no idea can be given either of the area of the desolation or the extent of the damage.

The number of bodies thus far recovered is about 500. How many lie beneath the great bed of fire, underswept by a raging torrent, the uncovering of their bones can alone determine; but from all appearances there are thousands. The agonized cries and lamentations of the friends who have not been able to learn any tidings of their loved ones are most deplorable and pathetic. When a form is seen to drop down deeper into the flames, from the burning away of supports, shrieks pierce the air like a wail from a lost soul.

Food, clothing and money is needed by the inhabitants of the stricken city. They need shelter also. The citizens of Pittsburg and Allegheny have started a relief fund, which is growing rapidly, but the sum needed is more than any one community can give. Food has been forwarded from the cities and towns along the lines of the road.

Johnstown is a city of 40,000 inhabitants in Cambria County, Pa., at the junction of Stony Creek and the Conemaugh River, on the Pennsylvania Canal and Railroad, 78 miles east of Pittsburg. It is in a sort of hollow between the two streams, upon which look down the heights of the Alleghenies. The city had a lively trade, extensive iron works and manufactories, several banks, one daily and four weekly newspapers.

The reservoir at South Fork which burst is described as an immense body of water, formerly used as water supply for the old Pennsylvania Canal. It has been owned for several years by a number of Pittsburg gentlemen, who used it as a fishing ground.

On the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad there was much damage also, but there was no such torrent to devastate as that which swept down from the South Fork reservoir with a rapidity incredible and a destruction unparalleled in the annals of American history.

The actual loss of life cannot possibly be ascertained within less than a week or ten days.

J. G. Gill and thirty-five men started in a wagon to go up the mountain and all were drowned by the torrent which overtook them. Gus McHugh, an engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad, who lived in Conemaugh, was asleep when the torrent rushed down the valley. His wife was away from home at the time. Her husband and four children were drowned.

Just above New Florence is the little town of Nineveh. It was here that I found the first charnel house; 100 dead were here, the larger proportion of whom were women. Here it was that the awful work of the freshet could be realized. What have been fertile farms look like worn-out brickyards. Great trees have been twisted and torn like weeds and the broken household goods of hundreds of houses line the shores for miles. Thieves of the vilest sort, those who steal from the dead and the unfortunate, have been busily at work robbing the trunks, boxes, articles of furniture, and there is nothing worth taking left except lumber. Every now and then ghastly outlines could be seen in the water being swept down stream. Two miles from "S.Q." tower is the "S.X." tower of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and here is that the greatest railroad in the world ends suddenly in the river. For more than 1000 feet the entire track is wiped out, rails, ties and even ballast. The north track is entirely washed away.

This is the nearest telegraphic point to Johnstown, and the delay in getting off news dispatches has been fairly maddening. The Associated Press expedition was the first in the field and was ready with thousands of words of specials, but no wires could be had from 11 a.m. until almost 2 p.m. No special trains could be hired, no locomotives were to be bought and the situation could hardly be appreciated.

A MATTER OF CONJECTURE.

Impossible to Estimate the Number of Lives Lost.

PITTSBURG, June 1.—It is stated at the office of the Pennsylvania Railroad at an early hour this morning that the deaths would run into the thousands rather than the hundreds, as was at first supposed. From private dispatches received it is said that the stream of human beings that was swept before the angry floods was something most pitiful to behold. Men, women and children were carried along frantically shrieking for help, but their cries availed them nothing. Rescue was impossible. Husbands were swept past their wives, and children were borne rapidly along, going at a terrible speed to certain death before the eyes of their terrorized and frantic parents.

It was said at the depot that it was impossible to estimate the number whose lives were lost in the flood. It will simply be a matter of conjecture for several days as to who were lost or who escaped. The torrent of surging waters from the flooded rivers is rapidly making its way toward this city, and it is predicted that by noon to-morrow there will be thirty feet of water at the wharves. The river men had all heard of the heavy washouts and late last night numbers of them were about the wharves discussing the matter and the probable extent of the rise of the waters at this point. No serious damage is apprehended, as it is not believed that the flood is strong enough to go over the incline to the streets. There is, however, considerable apprehension felt among the people who live further up the river, and all possible precautions are being taken against a recurrence of the fatal washout at Johnstown.

Measures for relief were promptly taken by thoughtful men. The mayors of both Pittsburg and Allegheny issued calls for mass meetings, which were responded to by throngs of Pittsburg's wealthiest men. At 1 p.m. $60,000 was in hand, and at 5 the sum was swelled to $100,000. The American Republican Club met, and a committee to take charge of aid for the sufferers was elected. One thousand three hundred dollars was subscribed by the club.

RELIEVING THE SUFFERERS.

The Estimates of the Loss of Life Apparently Within the Mark.

JOHNSTOWN, June 2.—Yesterday's estimates of the loss of life do not seem exaggerated. Six hundred bodies are now lying in Johnstown and a large number have already been buried. Four immense relief trains arrived last night and the survivors are being well cared for. There is an absence of pillaging. Communication has been restored between Cambria City and Johnstown by a foot bridge. The work of repairing the tracks between Sang Hollow and Johnstown is going on rapidly and trains will probably be running by to-morrow morning. Not less than 15,000 strangers are here.

THE JOHNSTOWN DAM.

Terrible Power of the Artificial Lake at That Point.

PITTSBURG, June 1.—"We were afraid of that lake," said a gentleman who had lived in Johnstown for years. "We were afraid of that lake seven years ago. No one could see the immense height to which that artificial dam had been built without fearing the tremendous power of water behind it. The dam must have had a sheer height of 100 feet, thus forcing the water that high above its natural bed and making a lake at least three miles long and a mile wide out of what could scarcely be called a pond. I doubt if there is a man or woman in Johnstown who, at some time or other, had not feared and spoken of the terrible disaster that has now come. People wondered and asked why the dam was not strengthened, as it certainly had become weak, but nothing was done and by and by they talked less about it, as nothing happened, though now and then some would shake their heads as if conscious that the fearful day would come some time, when their worst fears would be transcended by the horror of the actual occurrence.

"Johnstown is on the site of a hollow between two rivers, and that lake must have swept over the city at a depth of forty feet. It cannot be, it is impossible, that such an awful thing could happen to a city of 40,000 inhabitants, and if it has thousands have lost their lives and men are to blame for it, for warnings have been uttered a thousand times and have received no attention."

A DISMAL GREETING.

The People Left in Johnstown Actually Starving—Beggared in an Hour.

SANG HOLLOW, Pa., June 1.—As the first train proceeded eastward from New Florence to-day the passengers would rush to the places where the bodies were being taken on board to see if they could recognize relatives in the bloated corpses. At Sang Hollow a long stop was made and some men from across the river called out: "Conemaugh is laid low; Cambria City is gone; Johnstown is utterly demolished and not a house stands in Colville." As this dreadful news came, one poor woman wailed: "My God, my babies are gone!" and fell in a faint. Then the cries and shrieks of the passengers became more terrible, and when the train stopped at its destination it was a sorry sight of mourning humanity that left the cars. Death was strewn along the railroad from New Florence to Sang Hollow. Not less than a dozen bodies were picked up, while many others were seen in the wreckage strewn along the bank.

As the train reached Sang Hollow a huge black crow sailed out into the very middle of the boisterous stream and darting down pecked into the swift water. The crow then flew away and disappeared, but on the next wave the body of a small child appeared. A wild shriek went up from the horrified passengers, and fully 100 voices shouted to a number of men who were standing on the river bank, and before the dead body floated down 100 feet further it was overtaken and rescued. The people of Johnstown are actually starving. Men who were yesterday worth half a million dollars are to-day actually penniless, suffering for the necessities of life. A loud cry of distress is being sent up from the entire city and the wail should meet with a prompt response. The great Cambria Iron Works are entirely ruined. The tide is flowing through the great mills. All the banks are flooded out. The employes of the Cambria works would have been paid to-day.

SEEN FROM A SIGNAL TOWER.

Pitiful Incidents of the Calamity—Wee Babies Floating Down to Death.

NEW FLORENCE, June 1.—The men in the "S.O." signal tower over Sang Hollow to-day gave accounts of some pitiful scenes they witnessed last evening. A beautiful girl came down the river on the roof of a building, which was swung in near the tower. She screamed to the operators to save her and one big brawny fellow walked as far into the river as he could and shouted to her to guide herself in shore with a bit of plank. She was a plucky girl, full of nerve and energy, and stood upon her frail support in evident obedience to the command of the operator. She made two or three bold strokes and actually stopped the course of the craft for an instant. Then it swerved and went out from under her. She tried to swim ashore, but in a few seconds she was lost in the swirling water. Something hit her, for she lay quiet on her back and with a face pallid and expressionless.

Men and women in dozens, in pairs, and singly, children, boys big and little and wee babies were there in among the awful confusion of water, drowning, gasping, struggling and fighting desperately for life.

Two men on a tiny raft shot into the swiftest part of the current. They crouched stolidly, looking at the shores, while between them dressed in white and kneeling with her face turned heavenward was a girl 6 or 7 years old. She seemed stricken with paralysis until she came opposite the tower and then she turned her face to the operators. She was so close they could see big tears on her cheeks and her pallor was as of death. The helpless men on shore shouted to her to keep up her courage and she resumed her devout attitude and disappeared under the trees of a projecting point a short distance below. "We could not see her come out again," said the operator, "and that was all of it."

"Do you see that fringe of trees?" said the operator, pointing to the place where the little girl had gone out of sight. "Well, we saw scores of children swept in there. I believe that when the time comes they will find almost a hundred bodies of children in there among those bushes."

SWIFT VENGEANCE.

Despoilers of the Dead Driven Into the Water and Drowned.

JOHNSTOWN, June 2.—Each hour reveals some new and horrible story of suffering and outrage and brings news of merited punishment meted out to fiends who have dared to desecrate the corpses. Last evening thirteen Hungarians were noticed picking their way along the banks of the Conemaugh towards Sang Hollow. Several farmers armed themselves and started in pursuit. The Hungarians came upon the dead and mangled body of a woman, upon which there were a number of trinkets and two diamond rings. In their eagerness to secure the plunder the Hungarians squabbled and one of them severed the finger upon which were the rings and ran off with his prize. The farmers gave chase. Some of the Hungarians showed fight, but being outnumbered fled. Nine of the brutes escaped but four were driven into the surging river and to their death. The monster whose act has been described was among the drowned.

This morning an old railroader who had walked from Sang Hollow stepped up to a number of men on the platform station at Curwensville and said: "Gentlemen, had I had a shotgun half-an-hour ago I would now be a murderer, yet with no fear of ever having to suffer for my crime. Two miles below here I watched three men going along the banks stealing jewels from the bodies of dead wives and daughters of men who have been robbed of all they held dear on earth." He had no sooner finished than five burly men were on their way to the scene of plunder, one with a coil of rope and another with a revolver. In twenty minutes, so it is stated, they overtook two of the thieves in the act of cutting pieces from the ears and fingers from the hands of two women. The scoundrels were captured and searched. As their pockets were emptied of their ghastly finds the indignation of the crowd intensified, and when a bloody finger of an infant encircled with two tiny gold rings was found among the plunder a cry went up:

"Lynch them! Lynch them!"

Without a moment's delay ropes were thrown around the robbers' necks and they were soon dangling to the limbs of a tree, in the branches of which an hour before were entangled the bodies of a father and son. After half an hour the bodies were lowered and carried to a pile of rocks in the forest.

FRESH HORRORS EACH HOUR.

Johnstown's Isolation—Carloads of Coffins Ordered for the Dead.

PITTSBURG, June 2.—Adjt.-Gen. Hastings, who is in the vicinity of Johnstown, to-night states that the total number of dead in the Conemaugh disaster will not fall below 5000 and may reach 15,000 persons. Gen. Hastings has ordered 3000 coffins to be sent to Johnstown. Twenty-six undertakers are to go there at once from this city. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company are sending a carload of skiffs to Nineveh, hoping to get into Johnstown by this means. It is reliably stated to-night that not a living soul has entered or departed from Johnstown since the hour of the disaster, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Each hour adds new horrors to the story.

FOUR $1,000,000 STEAMSHIPS.

What the Andersons' Backers are Ready to Do—Success Anticipated.

OTTAWA, June 1.—Mr. M. R. Anderson, the English steamship owner, had an interview to-day with the Government respecting the proposed fast Atlantic steamship service. He says his backers are willing to build four steamers at a cost of $1,000,000 each. The steamers will be able to attain a speed of 20 knots an hour. The negotiations are likely to be brought to a successful termination.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau has returned to the city.

Sir Hector Langevin arrived in the city from Rimouski at noon to-day.

Drummond County will vote on the repeal of the Scott Act on June 27.

The Canada Gazette to-day proclaims the return of Rufus Henry Pope as M.P. for Compton, vice the late Hon. J. H. Pope.

The solicitors of the Northern Pacific and Manitoba Railway Co. give notice of deposit with Secretary of State of a mortgage made May 1, 1889, between said company and the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. of New York, for securing payment of an issue of bonds not exceeding $20,000 per mile of the main and branch lines.

Militia General Orders issued yesterday fix the following areas for district camps: No. 2, Niagara; Nos. 3 and 4, Gananoque; No. 6, Sorel; No. 7, Levis; No. 8, St. Andrew's, N.B.

A couple of small seizures were yesterday reported to the Customs Department. One by the collector at Halifax of a quantity of paper manufactures not entered for duty, and the other by Special Agent Wolff, at St. John, N.B., of a quantity of music sheets and small articles of other kinds coming through the mails from the United States and not entered for duty.

Nothing will be determined concerning the seizure of the Mattie Winship until the full particulars are in the hands of the Minister of Fisheries.

Tenders for the building of the foundation and basement of the postoffice at Vancouver will be received up to June 22. The contract for the superstructure will not be let this year.

The time for receiving tenders for the erection of the Brandon, Man., postoffice expired at midnight to-night.

ANTI-JESUITS AT SHELBURNE.

Inspector Hughes and Rev. G. M. Milligan Address a Rousing Meeting.

SHELBURNE, June 1.—A rousing anti-Jesuit meeting was held in the Town Hall here this afternoon. Dr. Barr presided and all the local clergymen were on the platform.

The speechifying was done by Inspector Hughes and Rev. G. M. Milligan of Toronto, both of whom were very severe in their denunciation not only of the Jesuits but of the 188 M.P.'s who voted against disallowance and also of the people who regarded the question with apathy.

Two resolutions were offered, one against clerical control of education and the other for the removal of every vestige of state churchism from the land. The audience was in thorough sympathy with the speakers, and the resolutions, which were seconded by Rev. Mr. McClelland and Dr. Ralston respectively, were carried amidst cheers. A collection was taken up to aid the Toronto Citizens' Committee in its work.

THE CRONIN CASE.

More Indictments Found Against Sullivan and Coughlin.

CHICAGO, June 1.—Before adjourning to-day the grand jury found additional indictments against P. O. Sullivan, ex-Detective Coughlin, Woodruff and others unknown for the murder of Dr. Cronin. This was done in order that legal ground might exist for the arrest of any of the suspects.

It is given out to-night upon authority that if Starkey is wanted as badly as is alleged by the States Attorney's office, he is ready to return to Chicago and risk a trial for jury bribing in order to demonstrate that he had no connection with the Toronto end of the conspiracy.

The story that J. F. Beggs, a well-known attorney, was the guardian of the North Side Camp in which Dr. Cronin's death was decreed, proved to be erroneous, but it is generally understood that the States Attorney has fathomed the identity of that official and that he has been shadowed for several days.

Woodruff endeavored to-day to secure the services of a lawyer, but, being without funds he was unsuccessful. It is still a question with the authorities whether he had any connection with the crime.

FIRE AT BOISSEVAIN.

Two Hotels, an Elevator and Several Business Places Burnt.

WINNIPEG, June 2.—Boissevain had a $50,000 fire Saturday. Two hotels, Ogilvie's elevator and several business places were destroyed. Ogilvie's loss is about $20,000, with $17,000 insurance.

A Buffalo Herd Discovered.

WINNIPEG, June 2.—The Northern Pacific and Manitoba Railway have sent a man out to look over the land from Birtle to Edmonton, the evident intention of the company being to extend out to Saskatchewan. Villard of the Northern Pacific arrived to-day.

A herd of thirty buffalo has been discovered near Moose Mountain.

An Icelander was run over by a passenger train at Medicine Hat yesterday and had both legs cut off. He died to-day.

The Pope's Illness.

BERLIN, June 2.—Advices have clandestinely reached the Italian embassy here and the leaders of the Centre party that the Pope's health is seriously affected. It is said that during the recent consistory he fainted, falling back in his chair, to the consternation of all present. Dr. Ceccarelli, the Pope's chief physician, is reported as saying he may die at any moment.

MR. MOWAT'S POSITION.

It is somewhat singular that while the Globe and those Liberals who follow it are anxious to have Sir John Macdonald condemned for not vetoing the Jesuits Estates act, they have entirely forgotten that Mr. Mowat had agreed with Mr. Mercier to demand the abolition of that power. The confederates planned their scheme at the renowned Quebec conference, at which Mr. Mowat was chairman and Mr. Mercier the other moving spirit. The proposal of the conference, embodied in one of the resolutions, was that the veto power should be taken entirely away from the Dominion Executive and transferred to the Imperial authorities in London. Even this proposal did not satisfy Mr. Mowat, and it was probably the presence of Liberals from other Provinces that prevented the Premiers of Ontario and Quebec from carrying out to the full extent their desires. Mr. Mowat declared in the Ontario Legislature that he would prefer to have the power of disallowance abolished altogether, and the Provinces left perfectly free, accept in so far as constitutional restraints exercised through the courts would circumscribe their powers. Now if, as the Globe asserts, the Jesuit Estates act is one that should be disallowed by the Dominion Government, a case has already arisen that shows that Mr. Mowat advised a dangerous policy, and, unless the Liberal organ is prepared to say that Mr. Mowat's confederate at Quebec has in this Act reached the climax of bad legislation and that no Act of so reprehensible a character can ever again pass a Legislature, it must, on its own showing, acknowledge that Mr. Mowat's policy is a wrong one and one that should be condemned as dangerous to the well-being of the country. Yet when the Quebec resolutions were brought before the Ontario Legislature the Liberal members voted for them and assisted Mr. Mowat and his colleagues in stifling discussion upon them, and the Globe supported Mr. Mowat's position regarding them. Last session the Ontario Premier declared that these resolutions had not been dropped and that they would be found to be very much alive, while at that time—or soon after, for it is difficult to remember the date of the Globe's changes of opinion—the Liberal organ was urging the exercise of the veto power upon the Dominion Government. If these resolution are to be resurrected and the changes they demand pressed for, as Mr. Mowat reaffirmed, and if he still believes that this power should be entirely abolished—a declaration he has not withdrawn—the Globe, in view of the new light it professes to have received, should regard his continuance in office with alarm.

Re the Collegiate Institute.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I observe by the proceedings of a late School Board meeting that it is the intention of the Board to submit again a by-law for the purpose of purchasing the Menzies property. This, I think, cannot be legally done this year. The ratepayers of Peterborough should speak out and that in an unmistakable manner in condemnation of such an act. We have a piece of property and in the most suitable place for the Institute that I consider available. I have reference to the north half of what is known as the Catholic portion of the old cemetery. The four acres of ground originally set apart for burial purposes was granted to Catholics and Protestants alike. When the mandate went forth from the council of the town to cease using it any longer for burial purposes, our Catholic fellow citizens took possession of their portion of the four acres as their property to the exclusion of all others. I would ask you, sir, (if they held the property on the same terms as the Protestants) by what right or authority they did so, and if they had a right, why had not the Protestant the right to have appropriated their portion for some purpose purely Protestant?

It seems the wish of many of the residents of the town that the east-half of these grounds should be kept as a public grounds by which the Catholics and Protestants will enjoy them in common. That being the case, would it not be an act of justice to demand from our Catholic friends that they surrender the north-half of that part unlawfully taken by them. The School Board is clothed with arbitrary power in respect to appropriating land for educational purposes. I think they should without delay take possession of this property for the Institute and in doing so, I am under the impression they would be doing no injustice to our Catholic friends. They will partake of the advantages of the Institute in common with the Protestants.

If I am right in my contention that the west-half of the old cemetery should be divided with the Protestants, then I can safely say we have a very eligable lot for the Institute, the most so in town. I would recommend that this lot be taken although the Board may have to pay every cent it is worth. By so doing it would in a measure set aside what many Protestants consider an act of injustice on the part of the Catholics doing as they did.

There never has been and there never will be a more opportune time to deal with this question than the present. This property is not required by the Catholic body; it is not occupied, and for those reasons I repeat now is the most fitting time we could possibly have to take action.

If I am wrong in my statements I should be most happy to be corrected. If not, then I hope there will be no delay in setting this matter right.

I should like to have an expression of opinion from any one who may take an interest in it, may he be Catholic or Protestant.

REVIEWS.

ST. NICHOLAS.—A delicate and charming interior infold between the covers of St. Nicholas for June. There are pictures by A. B. Davies, by Mary Hallock Foote, by Brenon, Birch Dorothy Tennant, Herford, and others. Rossiter Johnson's delightful sketch of child nature, called Little To-be will be found very amusing. Climbing the Pierced Rock off the coast of Quebec, describes the daring and foolhardy first ascent of the great isolated cliff near Perce. David Ker tells a thrilling experience of Stanley's almost as related by the great explorer. An appreciative story by Annie Howells Frechette deals with an episode in the life of the children's dog—Bingo Was His Name, and lovers of unforced humor will gladly read of Bingo. How I Saw Old Carillon, describes a visit by the artist, George Wharton Edwards, to Antwerp Cathedral, and has his sketches for illustrations. The Hemlock-Peelers, by Ernest Ingersoll, it is interesting also as reminding us of the necessity for the protection of the forests. There are several articles devoted to science—Hidden Homes, a clear, exact, and really moving story of the experiences of one of the Carpenter-bees: My Petrified Bird's-Nest, by H. H. Ballard, who also contributes a suggestive paper on Amateur Photography. Henry Bacon writes of the attempt by two French peasant girls to imitate an experience of Saint Elizabeth of Hungary, and illustrated the story. The verse ranges from Miss Hutcheson's two specimens of true poetic imagination, and Miss Thaxter's dainty characterization of Seaside Flowers, which will charm all lovers of natural beauty, to the broad farce of Mammy's Story by Susan Archer Weiss, and the amusing nonsense of Malcolm Douglas's Conceited Little Man, including poems and verse by Harriet Prescott Spofford, Hellen Gray Cone, and others. All departments are fully maintained.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Notes Gathered from the Services in the Different Churches.

A SERVICE OF PRAISE.

In the evening at the George-st. Church there was a service of praise. The congregation was a very large one, the draw seats being all used and the church filled to the doors. The organ voluntary was "Pleyel's Hymn," and was given with admirable execution by Mr. W. H. Dingle. After a hymn and prayer, the choir sang "The Heavens are Telling," a beautiful anthem which was sung with excellent effect. Mrs. Daly sang "Callest Thou Thus, O Master!" in her usual pleasing manner, followed by a chorus by the choir, "I am Alpha and Omega," Miss Butcher singing the soprano solo. Mr. C. E. Dingle, of Oshawa, sung a pleasing tenor solo, "If with All Your Hearts." After the reading of Scripture, Miss Mattie Gordon sang a solo and then delivered an earnest exhortation. The choir sang "Shall we Meet in Heaven," followed by a trio, "Saviour Breathe an Evening Blessing," by Misses Butcher, Glass and Turner. After a hymn and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Pearson. the choir sang the closing chorus, "God be with You till we Meet Again." The service was well conceived and was very interesting and pleasing.

THE YOUTHFUL PREACHER.

The pulpit of St. Paul's Church was occupied morning and evening yesterday by Mr. B. Canfield Jones, B. A., of Princeton Theological Seminary, N. J., who is at present in charge of the Presbyterian Church at Lindsay. Mr. Jones is a young man, only twenty years of age, and is possessed of unusual and attractive talents, his sermons yesterday being eloquent, and delivered with a clearness and beauty of language which held the attention of the large congregation which listened to him at both services. Such a young man in the pulpit preaching such excellent and eloquent discourses was an unusual sight.

DIVINE HEALING.

Now that the doctrine of Divine healing has become of considerable interest in Peterborough and so many of the citizens have expressed their belief in the healing, the opinion of any of the local clergy will be of interest. At the Charlotte-st. Church yesterday morning Rev. S. J. Shorey made reference to the doctrine in reading the morning lesson and in his sermon. The rev. gentleman read the morning lesson from the 103 Psalm, and in speaking of Divine healing he said it was his opinion that God's words in reference to healing infirmities should be interpreted just as they interpreted the words in the Psalm he was reading—"Who satisfieth thy mouth with good things, so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle's." He said he believed that just as they sowed and asked God to send the sunshine, so a man who was ill should make use of all the natural means to heal himself and God would bless these means as he saw fit. In his sermon he also made casual reference to the general principles laid down in the Bible in this respect, but did not express himself as antagonistic to the doctrine of divine healing, but as yet he had failed to be convinced of the truth of the belief.
